THE PHILIPPINE WAR.

Americans Killing and Capturing Insurgents—Many Rifles Seized.

Manila, May 28. — Scouting, small engagements and the capture of arms and prisoners continue daily in Northern Luzon. Last week's operations by the 9th, 12th, 33rd and 36th Regiments resulted in the killing of 46 of the enemy, the taking of 180 prisoners and the capture of 300 rifles and a quantity of ammunition.

Col. Edward E. Harding, with three companies of the 29th Regiments and blue jackets from the gunboat Helena, landed at Palonog, Masbate Island, under the enemy's fire, routed the insurgents and, after an engagement lasting half an hour, occupied the town without casualties. The insurgent commander, with 20 officers and 230 men, surrendered on May 20, giving up 100 rifles. An impressive scene occurred on the plaza when the prisoners were disarmed and liberated.

SERIOUS SITUATION IN CHINA.

Anxious Foreign Diplomats at Pekin—Foreign Troops Against Boxers.

Pekin, May 28. — The diplomatic corps have decided to ask the Tsung-li-Yamen (Chinese Foreign Office) to define explicitly the measures which the Government intends to take in dealing with "boxers."

Affairs Critical in Pekin.

Shanghai, May 28. — Reports received Saturday indicate that affairs around Pekin are extremely critical owing to the defeat of the Government troops by the Boxers. It is now regarded here as certain that foreign troops must be sent to Pekin to protect the legations, while the withdrawl of missionaries from the interior is considered imperative. Large portions of the Province of Pe-Chi-Li and Shan-Tung are in a state little better than absolute anarchy; and disorder is spreading in the Province of Shan-Si, in consequence of the encouragement received from the Empress-Dowager.

Refused to Sling Beer.

Kingston, Ont., May 28. — Corp. Courtney, a temperance soldier, is under arrest at A Battery for insubordination. He refused to obey his superior officer and serve a pint of beer to each soldier on May 24, in which to drink Her Majesty's health.

Ottawa, May 28. — A Conservative party caucus will be held this week.

DYNAMITERS NOW IN PEN.

The Three Fenians Were Taken to Kingston on Saturday.

They Were Under a Strong Guard, and Murderer Werke Was With Them—One of the Prisoners Threatened That More Successful Work Would Be Done by Others—Police Believe Walsh Will Suicide If Possible.

Toronto, May 28 — Sheriff James Smith, Turnkey James A. Gilchrist, High Constable J. R. Doward and Chief of Police A. D. White of Welland and Provincial Detective Murray brought four prisoners to the city on Saturday en route to Kingston. The prisoners were Karl Dullman, John Nolin and John Walsh, the dynamiters, who were sentenced on Friday evening to life imprisonment, and Francesco Werke or Orrco, who was sentenced to ten years' imprisonment for killing his wife. All four prisoners were shackled and created a great deal of curiosity about the Union Station. The party proceeded to the Daly House, where they partook of luncheon, and remained until 2 o'clock, when they departed for the east. The prisoners appeared quite indifferent about their future and were apparently in good spirits.

The impression in police circles, however, seems to be that John Walsh, one of the convicted dynamiters, who is of a very morose disposition, will suicide on the first opportunity that presents itself, to end his life.

All in Prison Now.

Kingston, Ont., May 28.—The Welland Canal dynamiters were locked behind prison bars at 8 o'clock Saturday night. They were not depressed on arrival. All agreed to make the best of the situation and conform to prison rules. The sheriff and officers had no trouble on the way down. Some 400 persons were at the outer station to see the men. They were driven to the penitentiary in cabs. Though after hours, Warden Platt received them. Though they had failed to blow up the canal, one of the men said more successful work would be done by others.

Electric Fish of the Nile.

Professor Francis Gotch describes the electric fish of the Nile, of which the Egyptians made pictures thousands of years ago and which still inhabits the waters of that river, as being provided with an electrical organ that incloses the whole body. It is situated in the skin, and when viewed with a microscope is seen to be composed of about 2,000,000 beautifully formed little disks superposed upon connected rows of minute compartments in which are the terminals of nerves. The shock is produced by an intense current which traverses the entire organ from the head to the tail of the fish, returning through the surroundings. It stuns small fish in the neighborhood. Professor Gotch likens its action to that of a self loading and self discharging gun. The electromotive force of the organ in a fish only eight inches long can, he asserts, attain the surprising maximum of 200 volts. A single giant nerve cell at the head of the spinal column is the source of the impulses which discharge the organ.—Youth's Companion.

Having a direct action on the liver, Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are invariably successful in curing liver complaint, torpid liver, and the headaches and stomach troubles resulting therefrom.

Mrs. Faulkner, 8 Gildersleeve place, Toronto, says:—"After doctoring without success for biliousness, liver complaint, and sick headache for over three years, I am glad to testify to my appreciation of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. At first they seemed a little strong, but being both searching and thorough in their action, amply repay any inconvenience by after results. THE IRISH INVINCIBLES.

James Fitzharris and Joseph Mullet Ordered Out of the U. S.

New York, May 28.—James Fitzharris, alias "Skin the Goat," and Joseph Mullet, the two surviving members of the Irish invincibles, who were recently released from prison in Ireland, where they were sentenced for complicity in the Phoenix Park murders of 1882, were yesterday ordered excluded by the Board of Special Inquiry at the immigration station and ordered deported.

The exclusion was made under the interpretation of the law which forbids any one being admitted to this country who has been adjudged guilty of a "Felony, crime, infamous crime, or misdemeanor involving moral turpitude." The two men were recently pardoned by Earl Cadogan, Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, from a sentence of life imprisonement, and reached this city among the steerage passengers on the Lucania on Saturday last.

The case will probably be appealed to the Washington authorities, and if not, Fitzharris and Mullet will leave this port on Saturday next on the Lucania.

A POPULAR MISTAKE

Regarding Remedies for Dyspepsia and Indigestion.

The national disease of Americans is indigestion or in its chronic form, dyspepsia, and for the very reason that it is so common many people neglect taking proper treatment for what they consider trifling stomach trouble, when as a matter of fact, indigestion lays the foundation for many incurable diseases. No person with a vigorous, healthy stomach will fall a victim to consumption. Many kidney diseases and heart troubles date their beginning from poor digestion; thin, nervous people are really so because their stomachs are out of gear; weary, languid, faded out women owe their condition to imperfect digestion.

When nearly every person you meet is afflicted with weak digestion it is not surprising that nearly every secret patent medicine on the market claims to be a cure for dyspepsia, as well as a score of other troubles, when in fact, as Dr. Werthier says, there is but one genuine dyspepsia cure which is perfectly safe and reliable, and moreover, this remedy is not a patent medicine, but it is a scientific combination of pure pepsin (free from animal matter), vegetable essences, fruit salts and bismuth. It is sold by druggists under name of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. No extravagant claims are made for them, but for indigestion or any stomach trouble, Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are far ahead of any remedy yet discovered. They act on the food eaten, no dieting is necessary, simply eat all the wholesome food you want and these tablets will digest it. A cure results, because all the stomach needs is a rest, which Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets give by doing the work of digestion.

Boss Croker Is for Bryan.

New York, May 28.—The Journal and Advertiser yesterday printed an exhaustive copyrighted interview with Richard Croker, obtained in London by William T. Stead. Speaking on the political situation in the United States. Mr. Croker declares emphatically that he is for William Jennings Bryan for President, and that he believes Mr. Bryan will beat Mr. McKinley on election day. He says also that he thinks Bryan is right in sticking to the 16 to 1 silver issue, but declares that, in his opinions, trusts and imperialism will be the principal issues of the campaign. He says Admiral Dewey is not in the running for the Presidency though he might do for a running mate.

The St. Louis Railway Strike.

St. Louis, May 28. — This is the 21st day of the street railway strike and the end seems as far away as ever, both the transit company and its employes standing firm. Not a car on the Transit Company's system has been run since the strike began without police protection. The list of casualties shows four persons shot and killed, 22 wounded by bullets and 50 or more injured in other ways.

THE CYNIC.

The trouble seems to be that most of us have $50 tastes and $25 salaries.

Every young man overestimates his popularity in the community in which he lives.

There is some wonder that a framed picture of the family cow is never seen on the parlor walls.

It is supposed that people like their own home because of the sentiment attached, but the real reason is that they do not have to move.

It is a question which takes longer—for a woman to get ready to go to her kind of entertainment or a man to get ready to come home from his.

When a room is too dark to be used for a nursery or to put plants in, the woman furnish it with any old things and call it their husband's "den."—Atchison Globe.

BRITISH CROSS VAAL RIVER.

Lord Roberts First Despatch in Transvaal Territory.

Situation at Pretoria Has Become Critical —Kruger Has Admitted for the First Time That Matters Are Very Grave—British Advancing Quickly—Few Casualties Owing to the Field Marshal's Fine Strategy—Canadian Casualties.

London, May 28.—(3.20 a. m.)—When Lord Roberts wrote his first despatch on Transvaal territory yesterday, shortly before 2 o'clock in the afternoon, he was 51 miles from Johannesburg and 77 from Pretoria. His immensely superior force had passed the Vaal River, their last great natural obstacle at three points.

Roberts' Fine Strategy.

The Vaal forms a curve of 80 miles from Parys on the west to Zand Drift on the east. The concave of the curve is toward the Free State. Thus Lord Roberts, advancing along the railway was in a position to strike any part of the crescent by shorter lines than those by which the Boers could reinforce the threatened points. The Boers retreated almost without a show of defence. Gen. French and Gen. Hamilton apparently did not fire a shot.

First to Ford the River.

Of Lord Roberts' immediate force, 11 men belonging to the Mounted Infantry, were the first to ford the river. They came upon a Boer patrol looting at Viljoen's Drift and a skirmish lasting 10 minutes followed. Two hundred Boers tried feebly to hold the Vereeniging Collier, but they were dislodged. The Boer rear guard is at Moyerton, 10 miles north of Vereeniging. Their main body is moving towards the Klip River hills that cover the south side of Johannesburg.

Situation at Pretoria.

While Lord Roberts' 30,000 infantry, 20,000 horse and 150 guns are moving on Johannesburg and Pretoria, through a parched and deserted country, the situation at the Transvaal capital, as it was last Friday, is thus described by an observer who sent his message by private hand to Lorenzo Marquez yesterday:

"The situation, both from a military and political point of view, has become very critical. President Kruger yesterday admitted for the first time that matters are very grave. The Boer determination is to trust everything to a last stand on the Gatarand Mountains, to the north of Potchefstroom, where 8,000 Kaffirs are digging trenches. To that point every available gun and man have been sent.

Baden-Powell Can March in.

The whole of the western border of the Transvaal from end to end is defenceless, and Gen. Baden-Powell can march in when he likes. Lord Roberts, on the other hand, will meet the greatest resistance. The Boer endeavor is to lure the British into appearing to threaten Johannesburg with attack, an excuse thus being given them for the destruction of property. The Transvaal Government will not dare destroy the mines or property without an excuse. Much dynamite has been sent down the line and 100,000 cases lie ready at Zuurfontein, near Johannesburg. Gen. Botha and Gen. Lucas Meyer have pleaded for the preservation of property. Both are large landed proprietors, and fear confiscation, but they have not received satisfactory replies from President Kruger.

French and German Schemers.

Meanwhile many French and German adventurers have come forward with schemes for blowing up the British troops. Some of these have received a tacit permission of experiment. One German invention is for use on a railway, where it lies perfectly concealed until the weight of a passenger train explodes the charge.

Ready to Surrender.

Gen. Lucas Meyer says surrender would be at once proposed by the Boers, but that everybody fears the ignominy of being the one to make the proposal. He declared that he is assured that his men will not stand. President Steyn and Mr. Reitz, the Transvaal State Secretary, are strongly opposed to peace, but Mr. Kruger is not so much against it.

BRITISH ACROSS THE VAAL.

Advance Portion Crossed on the Queen's Birthday Near Parys, Lord Roberts' Reports.

London, May 28.—The War Office has received the following despatches from Lord Roberts:

"Wolve Hoek (Orange Free State), May 26. — An advanced portion of this force crossed the Vaal River on the Queen's Birthday, near Parys. Hamilton's column is at Boschbank. Our scouts are now at Viljoen's Drift, on the frontier north of Wolve Hoek. The local mines are uninjured and work is going on as usual. There is no enemy this side of the river. Hunter reached Vryburg May 24."

Encamped on the North Bank.

Vereeniging, [illegible], May 27, 1.50 p.m.—[illegible] the Vaal this morning [illegible] on the north bank. The advance troops, which crossed yesterday, were only just in time to save the coal mines on both this and the other side of the river from being destroyed. Our casualties were four.

"Baden-Powell reports that the railway between Mafeking and Buluwayo has been restored and that supplies are being brought into Mafeking. He says the Canadian artillery joined Col. Plumer from Beira, with incredible rapidity.

"Lieut. Webber was taken prisoner at Heilbron a few days ago. He went there on telegraph duty. It was not known that our troops had been temporarily withdrawn."

Boers Before Buller.

Newcastle, May 26.—The Boers in this part of the theatre of war are very active, having been reinforced from various directions. Their front now extends from Laing's Nek to New Republic, where they are fortifying. Gen. Hildyard's division, which is entrusted primarily with attacking the Boer right at Elandslaagte, arrived to-day. The work of searching the district is progressing and many rebels have been sent to Ladysmith.

Kruger Wants to Know.

London, May 28. — President Kruger, according to a special despatch from Newcastle, has issued a proclamation asking the Transvaal burghers to notify him whether they desire to continue the fight or to sue for peace.

Hamilton Invades the Transvaal.

Kroonstad, Sunday, May 27.—Gen. Hamilton has invaded the Transvaal, having crossed the Wonderfontein Drift.

Eloff's Awful Wish.

Mafeking, May 21. — The Boers to the south retired from Kunana, 10 miles east of Maritana, and are falling back further on Barpilsoan. The Boers routed here a few miles east of Potfontein. A cornet who failed to support Commandant Eloff in the latter's attack on Mafeking, in which Eloff was captured, wrote a letter sympathizing with him. Eloff replied that he hoped the devil and all his angels would torment him, and that he and his would rot.

150 Boers Captured.

Maseru, Basutoland, Saturday, May 26.—Four squadrons of colonials captured 150 Boers with 10 wagons of grain near Ficksburg, where they also captured a Maxim constructed by a local inventor.

Boers Re-Occupy Kuruman.

Barkly West, May 26 — It is reported that the Boers have re-occupied Kuruman, and that large laagers are located at Rietfontein and Daniel's Kuil.

Julian Ralph in London.

London, May 28. — Julian Ralph, the well-known newspaper correspondent, arrived in London on Saturday invalided through injuries received in South Africa. He will probably lose one of his legs.

The Question of Surrender.

Cape Town, May 26. — A despatch to The Cape Argus from Lorenzo Marquez says that an influential delegation of burghers called on President Kruger and urged him to surrender. The President replied that that matter was now in the hands of the military commandants.

All the Accused Acquitted.

Pretoria, May 26. — The prosecution has withdrawn the charges of murder in connection with the explosion at the Begbie factory at Johannesburg against Messrs. Longville and Perrett, Belgians; William Begbie, and Thomas Richards, a colored American. All the accused were acquitted. An application was made that the men be rearrested and put over the border, but this was refused.

CANADIAN CASUALTIES.

Two of Our Gunners Wounded at Mafeking—Two More Canadians Succumb to Enteric Fever.

London, May 28. — The War Office has issued a list of casualties among the Cape Colony regiments during the relief of Mafeking. A lieutenant and seven men were killed and six officers and 25 men were wounded. Among others the wounded were W. Patton and W. McCallum of the Canadian Artillery.

The War Office also issues a list of 35 deaths of fever between May 23 and May 25. Among the numb[illegible] are J. Rasberry and H. Clements of the Canadian contingent.

Gunner William Patton was a member of the 45th Field Battery, Hamilton, and is a son of Mrs. A. J. Patton of that city. Gunner McCallum is a son of Mr. R. McCallum, Fort William, Ont. These men were wounded in the advance to the relief of Mafeking.

Pte. J. Rasberry, whose death is reported from fever, was a member of C Company of the first contingent and was formerly a member of the 77th Wentworth Battalion.

H. Clements, also reported dead from fever, is presumably Harry Hammond Clements of the Canadian Mounted Rifles, who was a member of the N.W.M.P. and whose father's address is Cecil House, Waltham, Herts, Eng.

A Toronto Telegram cable states that Pte. De Rochejoquelain of Cleveland, O., a member of A Squadron, Canadian Mounted Rifles, died at Springfontein of enteric fever. De Rochejoquelain came from Cleveland to join the Toronto Company of the Mounted Rifles. His relatives live at 88 Newell street, Cleveland.

Baden-Powell Grateful.

Ottawa, May 28. — Sir Wilfrid Laurier has received the following cable, which was delayed in transmission, from Major-General Baden-Powell:

"Mafeking, May 17. — (Delayed)—Mafeking relieved to-day, and most grateful for invaluable assistance by Canadian artillery, which made record march from Beira to help us. (Signed) Col. Baden-Powell."

That Canadian Battery.

Kingston, Ont., May 28. — Major Hudon, "C" Battery, at the relief of Mafeking, writing home from Cape Town, prior to sailing for Beira, says:

"My battery was chosen for this expedition by special request of Lord Roberts, who said he wanted this Canadian battery to go to the relief of Mafeking."

Mrs. Gladstone at Death's Door.

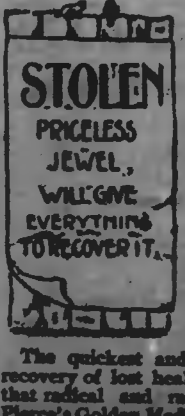
London, May 28. — The illness of Mrs. Gladstone is now reported to be more serious. Her strength is gradually failing and the members of the family have been summoned to Hawarden.

Crap Game and Shooting.

Niagara Falls, N.Y., May 28.—John Ridley and Archie Carter, both negroes, were shot down by a colored companion Saturday midnight, presumably because of a disagreement over a crap game. High words were heard as the men were leaving the game, and then three shots sounded. When the police arrived the man who did the shooting had escaped. Philip Patton was arrested later, on suspicion, and a revolver with three empty chambers was found in his possession. At the hospital it was found that Ridley had been shot through the mouth and Carter through the groin.

Germany Excludes Canada

Berlin, May 28. — The Tageblatt learns that as there is no prospect of the Anglo-German commercial treaty being concluded by July 30, the Government, before the end of the session, will introduce a bill in the Reichstag empowering the Federal Council to continue the grant of the most favored nation conditions to English goods and the goods of English colonies with the exception of Canada.



Health is a priceless jewel. Everybody admits that. Yet the people who protect their gold by burglar alarms, and lock their diamonds in a steel vault, make not the least effort to protect the jewel they declare to be priceless. Some day they find the jewel is gone, stolen by that thief Disease, and they are willing to give everything to get it back.

The quickest and surest way to the recovery of lost health, is by the use of that radical and rational remedy, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Diseases which originate in the stomach must be cured through the stomach. A host of chronic sufferers who had "doctored" for years for a diseased heart, liver or spleen, have at last used "Golden Medical Discovery" for the blood, stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition, and found a perfect cure of the hitherto incurable ailments. The most convincing argument for a trial of the "Golden Medical Discovery" is that it has cured so many people "given up" by the doctors.

There is no alcohol, cocaine, opium or other narcotic in "Golden Medical Discovery."

"I have long felt it my duty to acknowledge to you what your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Favorite Prescription' have done for me," writes Miss Alice [illegible], of [illegible] St., Lexington, Ky. "I had intermittent fever (or fever and ague) one year before taking your medicines, and was pronounced incurable. Had a very bad cough. My arms and shoulders would ache and sometimes I would feel so weak I thought I was dying. I had also a bad case of [illegible] from which I suffered great pain. Had it not been for Dr. Pierce's medicines I know I would have been in my grave. I have taken three bottles of each of your medicines."

For stomach, bowels and liver, when disordered, use Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets.

WARSHIP WAS SOON RIDDLED

Old British Cruiser Belle Isle Was Made a Target Of.

The First-Class Battleship Majestic Opened Fire With All Her Guns, and the Belle-Isle Was Set on Fire and Sunk—Result of Admiralty Experiment Likely to Banish Wood From All Future Vessels.

Portsmouth, England, May 28. — An interesting admiralty experiment was carried out on Saturday off Selsea-Bill, with the view of settling various naval gunnery questions. An old turret ship, the Belleisle, was selected. She is a well constructed iron coast defence vessel of 4,870 tons displacement, built 22 years ago at a cost of about $1,200,000. She has 12 inches of armor on her sides, nine inches over her bulkheads and gun positions, and from 9 to 16 inches of deck planking. Her armament consists of four 12-inch muzzle-loading guns, six6-pounders of the quick-firing type and 27 rapid-fire guns.

The Belleisle was moored, completely equipped with torpedo and splinter nets, etc., as she would be in action. Then the first-class battleship Majestic, of 14,900 tons displacement, carrying four 12-inch guns, 12 6-inch quick-firers, 18 12-pounders, 12 3-pounders and 8 smaller rapid-fire guns, steamed past the Belleisle at seven knots' speed within a mile distance, treated the Belleisle as an enemy, opening fire on her with all her guns. The 12-inch guns were aimed at the central battery of the Belleisle and her smaller guns at the other parts of the old turret ship, one object being to explode a live torpedo left in a torpedo tube of the Belleisle.

The firing lasted nine minutes. In six minutes the Belleisle was in flames, and many explosions had been heard. When the volume of smoke and yellow lights of the lyddite shells had cleared away it was seen that she had sunk in a mud bank and was burning fiercely. Tugs with working parties extenguished the flames, after which a number of officials, including George J. Goschen, First Lord of the Admiralty, and Admirals Sir Michael Culme-Seymour, commander-in-chief at Portsmouth, and Sir Henry Rawson boarded the vessel.

The experts' examination showed that the shots of the Majestic had riddled the Belleisle. She was a complete wreck inside, the shells having pierced her lightly armoured and unprotected portions, but not the thick armor with which she had been specially fitted for the experiment. It is understood that one result of the experiment will be to discontinue all employment of wood in the future construction of British war ships.

Watson Granger Is a Hero.

Hamilton, May 28.—Hamilton has a modest hero in Watson Granger, whose father runs a baggage express office here. While a 7-year-old girl by the name of Stewart was letting off fireworks her frock caught on fire and she ran into the street a mass of flames. Young Granger, who is 16 years old, was passing at the time and, seizing the child, he smothered the flames by throwing his arms about her, and so successfully that she only sustained a slight burn on the back. When Granger went home he said nothing about his exploit, and no one knew of it until the delighted Stewart family spread it abroad.

SLAUGHTER WAS GREAT.

Native Allies of the British in the Gold Coast Colony Failed to Break Ashantee Siege.

Accra, May 26. — It is reported that three European officers were killed and Captain Aplin and 100 Hussars were wounded in a recent effort by the Lagos Hussars to break the investing lines of tribesmen at Coomassie. The Ashantee loss is reported to have been great, as the Hussars had three Maxims engaged, although themselves greatly outnumbered. Three hundred Ashantees are said to have been killed in a previous action. The rising is still spreading.

THOSE BOER DELEGATES.

English Papers Are Taking Little Account of Their U. S. Reception.

New York, May 28. — Relative to the impression created in England by the reception of the Boer delegates and the attitude of President McKinley, Mr. Isaac N. Ford says, in his cable letter to yesterday morning's Tribune:

"The English press is discreet in its public references to American affairs. There have been few comments upon the reception of the Boer delegates in Washington, and neither President McKinley nor Secretary Hay has been singled out for commendation or compliments. What has been said is that the President acted with entire consistency as an honest neutral throughout the war, and that Englishmen are not under obligations to him in any respect. There are no illusions in England respecting President McKinley; he is associated with the protectionist tariff, which bore heavily against English industries in Bradford, Sheffield, Cardiff and elsewhere, and is identified with American policies of the most uncompromising character. He is respected here in consequence of the high character of his administration, but no well-informed Englishman ever speaks with any enthusiasm of him, as was the general habit respecting President Cleveland before the Venezuelan affair. Shopkeeping England will never be convinced that the author of the McKinley Act is anything but a downright and aggressive American, bent upon maintaining the economic independence of the United States, and indifferent to England's interests."

STRAWBERRY ICE CREAM.

Even in the Spring It Is Not Always a Treat.

It was while she yet knew little about the mysteries of the culinary department, says the Detroit Free Press. But she had all the ambition of a youthful bride, and when he said it would be nice to have some of the first strawberries of the season with ice cream she cheerfully acquiesced and prepared the dish herself.

The occasion was a small family party, with the rector and a vestryman thrown in. All went merrily till the ice cream and strawberries were served. Of course it was his little nephew that first tackled the toothsome mixture. A strawberry flew straight across the table from him and took the astonished vestryman in the eye.

"Leave the table," shouted the boy's father. "I'll tend to you when we get home," and the boy went tearfully to the back yard.

The father was so angry that he had made rather a vicious stab at his cream. A strawberry like a bullet hit the rector on the end of the nose and caromed to the ear of the hostess. The father was in the first sentence of an abject apology when the rector's spoon made a slip and a solidified strawberry whizzed on a bee line, hit grandma in the jugular and then slid down the wrong side of the neatly folded kerchief that made her look like a Quakeress.

There is no better behaved family in the city, but the host was getting very red, and his voice was not steady as he intimated a desire to call game and settle down to eating. He made a dive with his spoon. The rest followed his example, and the air was full of frozen strawberries. Everybody looked anxious to fight, when the bride diverted their wrath to laughter.

"My goodness," she exclaimed, "I see it all now! What a ninny! I put those strawberries in whole instead of crushing them, and they're as hard as hailstones."

Then the rector graciously explained what a large percentage of water there is in the strawberry and facetiously asked the vestryman if his eye was black. The vestryman responded that the rector's nose was red, grandma said that she was over her chill, and the small boy was called in to a double portion of the dessert.

A DISAPPOINTMENT.

An Old Lawyer Tells of the Greatest Setback In His Career.

The legal lights were discussing disappointments with which they had met, and this is the story that one of them told:

"The greatest disappointment that I ever met with happened at the beginning of my career. I was young at the time and inclined to hold my parents responsible for this handicap which was keeping me from the fame and glory that I thought were my due.

"My bright, new shingle was somewhat weather beaten, and my office desk had two holes worn in it by my heels before my first client came.

"But come he did one day, charging into my office like a mad bull. Glaring at me and throwing down a roll of bills as large as my fist, he shouted:

"'I want to see Mr. Blank!'

"'I am Mr. Blank,' I said, edging up to the roll.

"'Good Lord, sonny,' he roared. 'I want to see your father, the lawyer!'

"'I am Mr. Blank, the lawyer,' I answered, with all the dignity I could muster.

"'Oh, Christmas!' he yelled as he seized his roll and put it into his pocket.

"'What have I been retained on?' I asked, making a bluff at the roll.

"He stared at me for a moment and then said:

"'See here, sonny, I've got an important engagement to meet. I'll be back in an hour. Here's your retainer,' he added, throwing down a quarter.

"But he never came back. I was looking at my picture the other day taken about that time, and I cannot say that I blame him."

WE SELL PIANOS BY MAIL

The ever increasing business which we do through our mail order department is one of the mysteries of the trade, and yet their should be nothing mysterious about it. Our success is simply due to public confidence based upon experience. The public know that ours is a one-price house. All goods are ticketed in plain figures, cash and time prices and the prices WHICH WE ADVERTISE mean exactly what we say. We figure out the lowest price which we can afford to take and then advertise and ticket the price. No customer has any advantage over another. No asking $500.00 and obtaining anything between that price and $300.00, according to the bargaining ability of the customer. No! we reason that if we can afford to sell a given piano for $300.00 to one person we can afford to sell it to anyone at the same figure.

NOW AS TO ORDERING BY MAIL

The first point is that owing to our one price system the out-of-town purchaser has the same advantage as the city resident. All that is necessary is that we should get some idea of what style of piano or organ is wanted. Then we send you our catalogues and cash and time prices. In the case of used instruments we send a list of the stock on hand, and a careful description of each instrument and our prices and terms for each. The customer examines the catalogue or list and sends us his choice; then we ship. If the instrument is satisfactory the customer sends us the cash or the signed papers—if not, the instrument is reshipped and we pay the return freight.

We handle the product of the following eminent makers:—Knabe, Gerhard Heintzman, Whaley-Royce, Karn, Mendelssohn, Hardman, J. & C. Fischer, Estey & Co., Mason & Hamlin, Thomas.

HERE ARE SOME BARGAINS
about which we invite your Correspondence.

TERMS OF SALE:

THE ONLY SURE FOUNDATION

TRUE SAFETY FOR A NATION MUST BE FOUNDED ON THE SPIRITUAL

Enduring Power for a Nation as for an Individual Must Rest on a Moral Basis—Annual Church Service of the Sons of England at St. Luke's.

Last evening the anniversary church service of Lansdowne Lodge, Sons of England was held, the lodge attending St. Luke's church, where the sermon was preached by Rev. H. Symonds. There was a large attendance of the members, who marched over in column headed by their band.

The congregation taxed the seating capacity of St. Luke's to the utmost. The collection was in aid of the National Patriotic Fund. The sermon by Rev. Mr. Symonds was an eloquent discourse, thoughtful and interesting and marked by pure and polished diction. The music of the service was largely appropriate to the present time of war.

Rev. Mr. Symonds extended a hearty welcome to the Sons of England. He took the text of his address from Deuteronomy VIII., 11-17, "Beware that thou forget not the Lord thy God * * * * wealth."

These words contain a doctrine, namely that enduring power has its foundations not in number nor riches nor worldly wisdom but in fear and love of God. A lasting empire must rest upon spirit and not upon material foundations.

Rev. Mr. Symonds stated that he had not what could be called a popular sermon. But no subject could be of more importance than the spiritual foundations of empire.

The text is taken up with warnings to observe the word of God and with statement of the consequences of non-remembrance. The message of the book is to remember the word of God. Man is a spiritual creature. He does not live alone by what he eats and drinks. Man does not live by bread alone but by every word that proceedeth from the mouth of the Lord. The truth the preacher proclaimed is that every empire is founded on spiritual foundation. Let every one put to himself the question, "Do I believe that?" If any man does not believe that of both himself and his country then all professions, all his church attendance, all his orthodoxy are worthless, for that is the fundamental doctrine. Man cannot serve both God and gold. God is more than gold.

Most men do believe this doctrine but sometimes it is overlaid with other beliefs. Men ask themselves if the battle is not after all to the strong and success to the crafty. But this idea is but a cloud and does not prove that we do not believe in the supremacy of God. If we had no difficulties or doubts such as these we should not require churches and preachers. We need sometimes to have our faith revived that God is greater than Mammon.

God's ways are not man's ways. The mills of God grind slowly. A thousand years are to Him but as one day. Men run up bills with the Almighty and because they are not presented for a long time men think they are forgotten. So with nations. A nation may be sunk in luxury and sin and forget about its bills and when a great preacher like John the Baptist appears in its midst and cries out about its sin the people say "Tush, how does God know?" These people think the old truths are at last exploded and that they have been the first to discover it. But there have always been such who scoffed at God. Yet consider Sodom and Gomorrah and God's own people, who regretted His covenant and were scattered.

There is no truth that history has written more plainly than that the law of enduring society is the law of righteousness and the foundation of all strength is in things spiritual.

The difference between things spiritual and material may be defined as the difference between quality and quantity. It is the difference between goodness, mercy, charity, long suffering, joy, peace, gentleness, faith, meekness and sobriety on the one hand and wealth on the other. The one kind cannot be counted, the other can. It is the Lord our God that giveth the power to get armies and navies and riches and numbers. We must have these things but as superstructure, not as foundation. But which is best, richness or goodness, justice or the sword? On which are we to build? We should build our strength on the foundation of our justice. For each of us and for our country the best foundations are spiritual. He that heareth the word of God and doeth it is built upon a rock.

Our empire is a great empire. How is it built up? Even an eminent Russian has recognized the moral elements of the English character and states that from these moral elements have come the great forces which have built up the greatest empire of the world. Here is an acknowledgement that the British empire is founded on spiritual foundations. The great colonies of the empire are linked to her by moral ties. It was not for the money that is in it that we sent to South Africa our Canadian contingents. The spur that caused our volunteers to leap to the front was not a material sentiment; it was a spiritual incentive.

With so much to be thankful for in the past what about the future? Is there no dishonesty in Canada, is there no political jobbery? Let us frankly admit that we are not perfect and that thought will act as a stimulus to cause us to do what we can for our country. Let every man be sincere in his heart for his children, his family, his town, his country and we have the machinery of the spiritual. We have a noble country. Let us hearken to the voice of the man of God, "Beware when thou hast eaten and art full and all that thou hast has multiplied that thou forget not the Lord thy God, His commandments and His judgments and His statutes."

THIS MORNING'S ECLIPSE

The Sun's Disc Obscured by the Moon—Most Apparent About Nine O'clock.

Nearly everybody was sky gazing this morning taking observations of the much talked of eclipse of the sun. A partial eclipse was visible all over Canada, throughout Ontario four-fifths of the sun's disc being cut off by the moon at one time. In Ontario the eclipse commenced at 7.30 and ended at 10.17 a.m., the greatest obscuration occuring at 9 o'clock, when the blackened sky presented a highly interesting aspect. The eclipse was total over a long path of the southern states.

A PRESENTATION.

Miss Rubidge Receives a Handsome Gift from All Saints' Sunday School.

After Sunday School yesterday Miss Archer and Miss Rackham waited on Miss Rubidge, who has been treasurer of All Saints' Sunday School for some years, and presented her on behalf of the school with a beautiful toilet set of ebony and silver, suitably engraved. It was much appreciated by Miss Rubidge.

FRED SCOLLIE WRITES HOME

THE SOLDIERS THINK THE WAR CANNOT LAST MUCH LONGER.

The Canadian Artillery Had a Hard March and Were Then Sent to the Front—Jam and Butter Sell at War Prices.

Corp. Fred. Scollie, who is with the Canadian Artillery in South Africa, writing to Mrs. Scollie in a letter received on the 26th, and dated from Vittoria Road Station, Orange Free State, says:—"A few of us boys got a pot of jam and a pound of butter for breakfast this morning and paid 35c for the jam, and 90c for the butter, we had a very a very bad time here, having made a march of over 500 miles over a desert country under great difficulties. After marching away up country to Kentart, they made us return the way we came to here. We go from here to DeAar and from there right up to the front and into the fun. We expect to get things hot for a while, but no one expects the thing to last longer than the last of June. There is one thing makes us think the war will soon be over. Lord Roberts is a caterer to public opinion. He could have had Ladysmith relieved a week before he did but he held on to make it the anniversary of Majuba Hill, and then he soaked it to them hot. In this case, I think, he will mass his troops in front of Johannesburg and Pretoria and make his move on those points on either the Queen's Birthday or on Jubilee Day, and with Joubert dead and Cronje in prison another serious reverse will demoralize the Boers."

MINISTERIAL ASSOCIATION

THE LOCAL CLERGYMEN CONSIDER SEVERAL QUESTIONS

The Observance of the Sabbath—The Late Saturday Shopping Grievance—A Change in the Hour of the Sunday School.

The ministers met in the Y.M.C.A. parlor this morning at 10 o'clock. There were present Rev. H. Symonds, President; and Rev. Messrs. Bastow, Kilgour, Davidson, Moore, Torrance, Armitage and Potter.

A committee was appointed to confer with the officers of Sunday school with reference to change of hour from afternoon to morning for the months of July and August.

Consideration was given to a question that will become more public in coming months, namely, the observance of the Sunday following Thanksgiving Day, as a seasonable time for all the churches to recount the reasons for gratitude, and to lead entire congregations in the spirit of Thanksgiving, instead of having such exercises limited to a small fraction of the whole Christian community. The matter was left over for a future conference.

The attention of the association, having been called to the enormous evils arising from shopping late on Saturday and the very serious results to proprietors, clerks and expressmen it was felt that every means should be used to have the practice stopped, and that an effort might again be made to have all the stores closed not later than 10 p.m. on Saturday. The matter will be definitely arranged for at the near regular meeting.

A communication was read from the Rev. J. G. Shearer to the Rev. Mr. Symonds, calling attention to his proposed visits to Peterborough on June 19, in the interests of the Lord's Day Alliance. As this matter is officially in the hands of Mr. G. M. Roger, barrister, the members expressed their sympathy with the work, and will do all in their power to make the visit a success.

BIRTH.

MEIN.—On Sunday, May 27, the wife of Mr. Harry Mein, of a daughter.

THE TOWN AGAINST THE RAILWAYS

TWO SUITS AT THE SPRING SITTINGS OF THE HIGH COURT OF JUSTICE

Sittings for Non-Jury Cases in Progress To day—Only Two Cases, the Town Being Plaintiff in Both—Lawyers From Toronto.

At the Court House to-day the spring sittings of the High Court of Justice for non-jury cases were held, Mr. Justice Street presiding. There were only two cases on the docket, the corporation of the town of Peterborough being plaintiff in both, the Canadian Pacific railway defendant in one and the Grand Trunk railway defendant in the second.

Town Solicitor Edwards conducted the cases for the town. Messrs. E. Douglas Armour and J. A. MacMurchy, of Toronto, represented the C.P.R., and Mr. Wallace Nesbitt was present in the interest of the Grand Trunk.

The first case, that of the town against the C.P.R., was regarding the island in the Otonabee river over which the Dickson spur line runs. Its use was granted by the town in 1888 to the C.P.R. for a period of ten years and in order to keep it from passing into the possession of the C.P.R. the town seeks to have its right to the ownership of the island stated. Ex-Mayor Stevenson, Town Clerk Armstrong and an employee of the C.P.R. office were the chief witnesses. Judgment was reserved.

The case of the town vs. the Grand Trunk Railway Co., was being heard this afternoon. The suit arises from a difference over the erection of a bridge. In 1882 the Grand Trunk built the Missing Link branch and at Smith-st diverted the course of the creek which enters the northwest part of the town and discharges into Little Lake. They built a bridge over the creek at the diversion. This bridge is now dilapidated and the town seeks to have it reconstructed by the railway company. A great deal of correspondence has taken place over this matter during the past couple of years.

AMONG THE CHURCHES.

Items of Interest Gathered From the Different Congregations.

CHARLOTTE-ST.

Rev. Mr. Elliott occupied the pulpit at Charlotte-st church yesterday morning, and Rev. Mr. Dove in the evening. The morning anthem was "O Lord most holy" (J. L. Frank), with soprano solo by Miss Hall. The offertory hymn was "Gently Lord, Oh gently lead us" (C. B. Hawley). At the evening service the choir rendered the anthem "Sovereign ruler, Lord of all" in excellent style, Miss Hall taking the solo. The offertory selection was "Lord, remember me," which was also sweetly sung.

GEORGE-ST.

The morning anthem in George-st church was "Thy will be done." The solo was taken by Miss Clara Belleghem. During the offertory, Miss Pascoe sang a very sweet solo. The evening anthem was "Hark, Hark my soul," by Shelley. The contralto solo by Miss Pascoe and soprano obligato solos by Miss Clara Belleghem were well rendered. The choir rendered very harmoniously the selection "bow down thine ear," during the offertory. Rev. Thos. Manning, of Lindsay, preached excellent sermons morning and evening.

CHURCH OF CHRIST SCIENTIST.

The subject of the sermon yesterday was "God the only cause and Creator." The Pastor, the Bible and Science and Health, in substance said:—O Lord, how manifold are thy works, in wisdom hast thou made them all. The earth is full of thy riches. Spirit has created all in and of spirit. God never created matter for there is nothing in spirit out of which matter could be made, for, as the Bible declares, without the logos, the wisdom or word of God, "was not anything made that was made." Have we not all one father? Hath not one God created us? Why do we deal treacherously every man against his brother, by profaning the covenant of our fathers? God pronounced good all that He created; and the scriptures declare that He created all.

ST. ANDREW'S.

The Rev. W. M. Kannawin, M.A., B.D., occupied the pulpit in St. Andrew's church yesterday both morning and evening. Large congregations greeted the preacher, and all were deeply impressed with the very thoughtful, forceful and deeply spiritual as well as eloquent discourses delivered.

The Rev. J. G. Potter represented the Century Fund to Mr. Kannawin's congregations at Lakevale, Omemee and Mount Pleasant.

ST. PAUL'S.

The choir of St. Paul's church yesterday morning rendered the anthem "The eyes of all wait upon Thee" most acceptably, Misses A. Hall and M. Paterson taking a duet harmoniously. The evening anthem was "Hark the glad sound," Mrs. Mein taking the solo in sweet voice.

ALL SAINTS.

All Saints' choir rendered very nicely last evening the Ascensiontide anthem "Lift up your heads ye gates of brass."

ST. JOHN'S.

The morning congregation at St. John's heard and greatly enjoyed a solo, "Nazareth," sung in excellent voice by Mr. G. W. Mulligan.

ST. LUKE'S.

The Finance Committee of St. Luke's church will meet in the vestry tonight at 8.00 p.m.

The Women's Auxiliary of St. Luke's church will hold their last meeting for the season next Wednesday at 3.00 p.m. Members of the Sunnyside branch are invited to attend.

The annual flower service of St. Luke's church will be held next Sunday evening. The children of the Sunday school will meet at a quarter to seven in the school house. The flowers will be distributed on the following day amongst the hospitals of the town.

UNCLE ELI'S FABLES.

The Story of the Wise Man and the Peasant.

One day as the Sage was strolling about the country he met a Peasant who complained that his Ass was dead.

"Then you will no longer have to feed him," replied the Sage.

"But my wife is also ill," continued the Peasant.

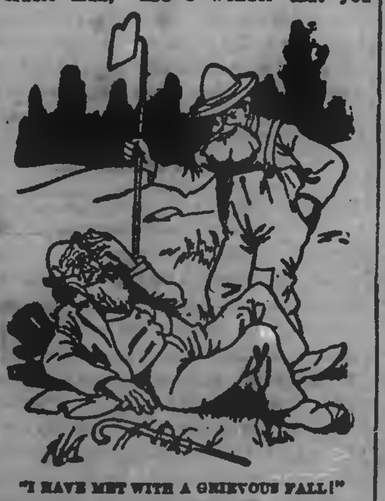
"If that is the case, then she will not wear out her shoes so fast."

"And but two nights ago a thief stole half my corn."

"That is also a blessing, as you will have less to carry on your back to market."

"Hear me, O Sage," said the Peasant as he wiped away his tears, "when I say that a Wolf has carried off my only Goat."

"I hear you," replied the wise and venerable man, "and I wonder that you complain. The Wolf could have taken your Calf instead of the Goat."



"I HAVE MET WITH A GRIEVOUS FALL!"

"And the blight has fallen upon my oats."

"I observed that, but your wheat never looked so well. As a matter of fact, my dear man, you have nothing whatever to complain of. On the contrary, you should rejoice that things are no worse."

The Sage was about to pass on when he struck his foot against a stone and fell heavily to earth.

"Alas," he cried, "but I have met with a grievous fall!"

"It was a fall certainly," said the Peasant, "but you might have been blown up on a steamboat, you know."

"I think I have sprained my ankle."

"But you might have broken your neck instead."

"Had you but warned me of the stone I could have passed it to the left."

"In which case you would have tumbled into the old well and been drowned."

"O Peasant," groaned the Sage, "hear me when I say that I am so badly shaken I may not get out of my hut for weeks!"

"I hear you," said the Peasant, "and I wonder that you lament. The less you get outdoors the fewer corns you will have on your toes. Taken all in all, you have nothing to complain of and much to rejoice over."

HE OBEYED THE RULE

WHICH WAS, STRANGERS MUST MAKE BUSINESS OR TRACKS.

The Story They Tell of the Very Lively Half Hour or So That Marked the First Visit of Buffalo Bill to the Little Town of Connor, Kan.

The little town of Connor, Kan., now known as Wolcott has many traditions which the change of name cannot wipe out. One is that of the visit of Colonel William F. Cody, "Buffalo Bill." Any winter day when there is a crowd in the country store a stranger who has not heard of it may learn the story by a simple question. One of the old timers will give it in about this language:

"It wuz in the early days when I wuz a young reckless cuss an didn't care for nothin. He—that is, Buffalo Bill, come to see John Keller an renew old acquaintance, as him an John wuz in the same regiment doin scout duty durin the war. Connor wuz a purty tough place them days, an on account of some chicken stealin an other little thievery that had been goin on there us fellers that lived in the town had made a rule that a stranger had to either make business or make tracks, an we ginerally give him about 15 minutes to do it in.

"The day that Bill come here old John Russell, Mack an Al Spainour, John Keller, Ed Divens an me an George Romanough, a brother to Bay, wuz all in the back room of Keller's store.

"George was one of them scienced fellers, an no common bruiser bad any bisness to monkey with him. We wuz all in the back room. You know, it is divided off from the front part by a archway door, with a bar in the back part an groceries in front. Well, sir, we wuz all settin there playin cards, when Bill walked up an set down on the porch an kinder lent his back up ag'in a post. As soon as we seed him with his long hair we course wondered who he wuz an told George to go out an see what he wanted. We always sent George, 'cause he wus so handy with his fists.

"Well, George he went out an ast Bill what he wanted, an Bill said he didn't want nothin. 'Well,' George says, 'I'm sorry, but our rule is that strangers must either make business or tracks, an I'll give you just 15 minutes to do one thing or t'other.' Bill he looked up an says:

" 'Well, I never ast you to come in this town, an I'm not goin to ast you to go out,' an by that he got up an come into the store. We wuz all gittin oneasy about George fer stayin so long, so we all started in from the back room jist as they come in the front door. Old man Keller seed him, but didn't know who he wuz, an Bill never made hisself known. When they had got in the store, Bill says:

" 'So I've got to leave town, have I? Well, if I don't go who is goin to make me?'

"George he kinder drawed hisself up an says, 'Here is 140 pounds as good as wuz ever sacked.'

" 'Well,' says Bill, 'there is about that much here an it ain't never went back on me yet.' By that George he shucked his coat an made for Bill, but I tell you, gentlemen, he never reached him, fer Bill he jist straightened out his right arm an downed him 'fore he knowed what happened, an he had him down three times in less time than it takes to tell it; then he ast George if he wanted any more, an George says, 'No, you're too much for me,' but he never ast any of the rest if they wanted any, but jist lit in right and left an had three of em down on the floor at once. Say, boys, I always thought Buffalo Bill wus right handed, but he used his left hand as well as his right. It looked like he just unfolded his arm, an at every unfold down went his man.

"By this time old Russell an me had business in the back room, but we could see what was goin on. Finally Russell says, 'Let's not be cowards; let's go out an he'p the boys.' So he gathered up a water pitcher that wus settin on the counter an made fer Bill, but he didn't git a good start 'fore Bill reached over an tuck the pitcher out of the old man's hand an set it down over his head. It 'peared like he didn't want to hit the old man. Then Bill went to the bar an said that everybody must come up an have a drink. Course I didn't wait fer a second invitation, cause I was awful dry jist then, an besides he had such a way of makin you do things you didn't want to do. Everybody seemed to be dry but George, 'cause they all went up but him. Then Bill told him he would give him another good lickin if he refused to drink. Well, George he come 'cause he hadn't got over the fust one yet.

"After we all drinked George says, 'Stranger, you've got to fight me a duel.' 'Well,' says Bill, 'all right. What kind of weepons do you want?' George said he would use pistols an started home after his, when Bill ketched him by the arm an says: 'Never mind. I have two as good guns as ever barked,' an by that he went down in the bosom of his old blue shirt and fetched out two of the prettiest little pistols you ever seen. The handles wuz pure elephant teeth an as smooth as a three card monte man's tongue. He laid them on the counter an told George to take his pick, but George he never tetched 'em.

"By this time I wus kinder on Bill's side an thought he wus all right, but John Keller he hadn't been paid for the drinks yet an was hoppin round like a hen in hot grease, 'cause he thought Bill was goin to come cowboy on him an not pay for the drinks, but purty soon Bill went down in his pocket an pulled out a minkskin pocketbook 'bout as long as your arm an emptied it out on the counter an picked round for some small change ter pay the bill. We all got kinder interested in Bill then, fer, gentlemen, I want to tell you he had money of every color, $50 goldpieces, $20 dollar goldpieces. I can't begin to tell you what he did have. After he paid the bill he said to Keller, 'You don't know me, do you?' Keller says: 'No, but your face is familiar. Think I have saw you somewhere 'efore.' Then Bill went on an told some incidents that happened when they wus together. Then Keller says:

" 'Oh, now I know you. You're Buffalo Bill.'

"Well, gentlemen, you ort to have saw us look. They wusn't no question 'bout whose side we wus on then. Well, Bill staid round Connor fer several days, an when he went away everybody wus his friend."

REVENGE OF A CAPTIVE BEAR.

Bruin Disliked the Man and Pursued Him to the Death.

Waboosa has never cared to hunt bears. When a boy in Marquette, Mich., he saw a tragedy wrought by a tame bear that made a lasting impression on his imagination, and though a skilled hunter and trapper of other wild game, he has always given the bear the go by.

A chained bear was kept in the yard back of a store, and in some way this bear conceived a grudge against a drayman who was in the habit of driving into the yard to deliver goods. Waboosa says the man "indignated" the bear. Things came to a climax one day when the man, as it chanced, was accompanied by his 3-year-old child. He delivered his goods and on his way back to the dray did something which roused the smoldering passion in the bear to white heat. The beast made a sudden leap at the man and caught his feet and would have ended the matter then and there if the drayman had not got a grasp on the spokes of one of his wagon wheels and left his boots with the bear. He had time to climb on his dray and start his horse out of the yard, but as he reached the street the bear broke loose, carrying his chain with him, and started in pursuit.

Directly across the street from the yard was the entrance to a livery stable, with an exit on another street at right angles to the first. The drayman lashed his horse and drove into the stable, turned the corner and came out on the main thoroughfare of Marquette, directly opposite the Tremont House. He saw that the bear followed, and thinking it might be after the horse he jumped from the dray with his child in his arms and ran into the hotel. The paneled doors closed after him, but the bear, hot on the scent, went through them as if there had been nothing in his way and followed the man down a flight of stairs to the barroom.

Here the man had doubled and gone out at another door and through a long passage back to the street.

The barroom was full of men. It was in the palmy boom days of the city, and the first great shipments of iron were being converted into cash. Miners and sailors and roustabouts thronged the streets and filled the drinking places. Unfortunately for the drayman, the men were not provided with firearms. The bear dashed through the bar and turned neither to right nor left. A second later the wooden door by which the drayman had left lay in splinters, and succeeding doors proved only a temporary check to the bear's progress. It gained on the man at every turn, and just before the poor fellow reached his wagon again it caught him.

The horrified spectators saw a vicious sweep of the paws which fell a trifle short of the man, but tore the child from its father's grasp and ended its young life instantly. A second later the bear and man had grappled and fallen, the bear on top.

The man tried to defend himself with his arms, and the bear chewed them indiscriminately, meanwhile tearing at his stomach with his claws, blind with passion and insensible to the shots which a policeman who had followed the chase was firing into its head and body. Not till the sixth and last shot from the policeman's revolver held against the base of its ear was fired did the bear succumb. The muscles relaxed, and the shaggy beast settled an inert mass. The drayman was pulled out from beneath. He was alive, but crippled for life.

There is a moral to this story, which is, "Don't aggravate a tame bear."—Forest and Stream.

"How do you like your new typewriter?" inquired the agent.

"It's grand!" was the immediate reply. "I wonder how I ever got along without it."

"Well, would you mind giving me a little testimonial to that effect?"

"Certainly not. Do it gladly." So he rolled up his sleeves and in an incredibly short time pounded out this:

WHEN MEN DOUBLE UP.

A Sure Place to Find an Exhibition of Meanness.

"There's one place above all others where a man exhibits his meanness," said the traveler, "and that's aboard an ocean liner and toward the man who is obliged to occupy the same stateroom with him. You are mad to begin with that you have to bunk in with somebody. If he gets the lower berth, he's done you a mortal injury. If he's seasick, you have a contempt for him; if he is not, you are a bit envious. I've crossed the Atlantic nine times and always shared a stateroom, and I was never more than on speaking terms with my roommate. You can be all right toward everybody else aboard, but he's your enemy. The case is worse when it's a pair of old travelers, as each is posted as to his rights and privileges and is zealous in enforcing them. When I crossed to London last year, I had a Chicago man for a chum. No doubt he was an all around good fellow, but it was his sixth or seventh trip, and he'd got posted as to when and how to exhibit his meanness. I found him in the stateroom when I came aboard. We recognized each other as veterans, but a few words must be uttered for decency's sake.

"'Name's Jones,' says I as I chucked away my steamer trunk.

"'Name's Brown,' says he as he banged on his hat.

"We didn't speak again for four days. Then we got a heavy gale and a big sea, and as I was lying in my bunk he came in for some cigars and growled:

"'Got it?'

"'No; have you?'

"'No. Hoped you had!'

"'Ditto!'

"An hour before we landed I handed him a paper on which I had written down my feelings concerning him. I called him a crank, a curmudgeon, a bear, a heathen and a lot of other things and expressed the fervent hope that it might never occur that the same hotel would give us both shelter in Europe. As I handed out my paper, he extended one. He had written down his feelings toward me, and I pledge you my word if the two papers weren't alike to a word! I met him in Paris six weeks later, and we rushed to greet each other like old friends, and for two weeks we walked about like two brothers and were grieved when the parting came. That was on land, you know, and we weren't bunkmates. I'm going over again next month, but I'm making no promises of better behavior. Whether my roommate is a minister from Boston or a cattle raiser from Arizona, I shall probably do all I can to make his position uncomfortable, and I am sure he will do as much for me." M. QUAD.

His Two Wishes.

"Did I understand you to say that you wished to marry my daughter?" inquired the fierce old man as he reached around into the corner for a thick cane.

"Y-yes," stammered the youth.

"Well," said the old man as he weighted the club in his hand and then half rose from his chair, "you are justly entitled to one more wish. Name it."

"I wish," said the youth despairingly, "that I might get out of this room alive."

"That's the one," cried the old man. "Skip!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Young Barbarian.

They don't have family prayers in the household circle of a certain 5-year-old. Thereby hangs a story of an embarrassing episode. The minister called the other day and at the close of his call offered prayer. The next day the 5-year-old aforesaid, the bright and shining light of the household where the prayers were offered, entertained her mother's callers with an account of the pastor's visit.

"And they did an awful queer thing," said the youngster. "They never did that at our house before."

"And what was that?" graciously asked one of the callers.

"Why, just before the minister got ready to go he read a little out of a book, and then they all got down and smelled of the chairs."—Lewiston Journal.

The Rise of the Cranberry.

The cranberry is a product of the country's development, coming forward in the last 50 years from a small, hard, bitter berry to a handsomely shaped and good sized fruit. As the quality has improved the berries have increased in popularity with consumers until supplies are hardly sufficient to satisfy normal demands.—National Fruit Grower.

The Barber Hit It.

On one of his visits to London, Joachim, the great violinist, entered a barber shop for a shave. The barber did not know him and eyed his flowing locks with the air of a man who knew just what he would do to them when he got his customer in the chair.

"Hair cut, sir?" he demanded with a tone that called for an affirmative answer.

The virtuoso signified his perfect satisfaction with the length of his hirsute adornment.

"Just a little long at the back," the barber insinuated as he adjusted the cloth.

Joachim explained that he liked it that way, and the tonsorial artist was silent for awhile.

"Rather thin on top, sir," he said, conveying his own idea that to sacrifice length to thickness was poor policy. But Joachim glared at the barber and tossed his lionlike mane. The barber scraped away for awhile in a moody, discontented fashion. But it was hard to discountenance him.

"Better let me trim the edges for you, sir. Just half an inch all around."

Joachim remained firm, however, and then the barber, losing what little tact and ingenuity he had, vented his feelings in the most scathing expression of contempt that suggested itself to his tonsorial mind with:

"Well, of course, if you want to look like a German musician, it's nobody's business but your own."

Nervous Debility.
A Sufferer From Weak Blood and Exhausted Nerves Tells of His Cure by Using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Mr. A. T. P. Lalame, railway agent at Clarenceville, Que., writes:—"For twelve years I have been run down with nervous debility. I suffered much, and consulted doctors and used medicines in vain. Some months ago I heard of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, used two boxes, and my health improved so rapidly that I ordered twelve more.

"I can say, frankly, that this treatment has no equal in the medical world. While using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I could feel my system being built up until now I am strong and healthy. I cannot recommend it too highly for weak, nervous people."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is a tonic and restorative of inestimable worth. It makes the blood rich, the nerves strong, increases the weight, and cures all weaknesses and diseases of the nerves and blood. In pill form, 50 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates and Co., Toronto.

TOO IMPORTANT TO MISS

Meetings to be Held Under the Auspices of the Sunday School Association.

The Town Sunday School rally, arranged for under the auspices of the County Sunday School Council, will be held to-morrow afternoon beginning at 2.30 in the Y. M. C. A. hall, when Rev. H. Symonds, M. A., Rev. J. C. Tibb, M.A., Toronto, Mrs. [illegible], primary worker, Toronto, and others will take part.

The evening session will also be very important and will be held in St. Andrew's church. At 7.45 the praise service will begin, and addresses will be given by the Rev. J. C. Tibb and Rev. J. Bastow. Mr. Bastow was in attendance at the Ecumenical Council on Foreign Missions, recently convened in New York city, and being naturally able to give inspiration to an assembly, his address will greatly enthuse all interested in the salvation and service of children, and the missionary side of Sunday school work. Let all parents, friends, and Sunday school workers rally to-morrow. There will be a collection at each service to defray expenses.

A SEVERE SHOCK

A Young Lady Who Fainted in Little Lake Cemetery Suffers a Severe Nervous Shock on Recovering.

Something of a sensation was caused on Saturday evening by the unfortunate experience of a young lady at Little Lake cemetery. The young lady had been ill for some little time, and was in a weak state of health, but on Saturday evening went to the cemetery with some flowers for her mother's grave. At the cemetery she was taken with a fainting spell, and being alone lay unconscious for some time. When she recovered darkness had fallen and her gruesome surroundings were such a shock to her in her dazed state that she became hysterical. Her screams were heard in Ashburnham and Messrs Peck and Trollope, thinking some one was in the lake, put out in a boat to the rescue. They discovered the young lady in the cemetery and took her to the superintendent's house, where Mr and Mrs Foord did all that could be done until medical aid arrived.

The young lady was taken to the hospital suffering from nervous prostration, but a couple of weeks will see her fully recovered. Her relatives are grateful to the gentlemen who went so readily to her assistance and also to Mr and Mrs Foord for their kindness.

The Wrong Bird.

One of the well known magicians not long ago had a queer experience, but the people in the theater had more fun out of it than he did. One of his tricks was to shake a sack to show that it was empty and then to draw out of it an egg, after which he would always reach in again and bring out the hen that laid the egg. Of course he had to have help in this, and one night he had a new man who did everything just as he had been told until it came to this act. Reaching into the bag, he drew forth the fowl at the usual time, but instead of the hen an old rooster hopped down on to the stage, ruffled its feathers and strutted around, crowing with all its might, while the audience laughed and the magician went out to hunt his new helper.—London Opinion.

FIELD OF GENERAL SPORT.

CRICKET

Mr. J. Alex. Culverwell has consented to act as manager and honorary coach for the Peterborough Cricket Club, Colts, for the season.

BASEBALL.

An exceedingly warm match of the City league took place at the P.A.A.A. grounds on Saturday afternoon, when the Electrics and the Coalheavers came together with a bang. There is great rivalry between the two teams for the leadership of the City league, so great that in their efforts to strengthen up they have coralled all the players of the senior Peterborough club and set such a hot pace that they practically have the fight all to themselves, the Crescents having dropped out, leaving only the Total Abstinence Society to take third place.

There was a good sized crowd present to witness the sport on Saturday afternoon. The most of it were Electric supporters and they cheered and hallooed lustily for their team and tried to roast the others away off the lot. But the Coalheavers knew a little in that line themselves and it was a very dull innings when they did not have three or four coachers along the line. The strong work of the rooters was the feature of the afternoon.

The Electrics led until the end of the sixth innings, when a big batting competition among the Coalheavers together with considerable bad play in the Electrics' infield gave the coal and wood men 7 runs. This put them in the lead and they kept it, just for satisfaction, winning by 18 runs to 15.

Both Connors and Earle pitched well and Parnell, who twirled the last innings for the Electrics, handled the ball in splendid style and might have saved the game for his team had he been put in the box earlier. Graham caught for the Coalheavers and D'Russia for the Electrics. D'Russia is coming along in fast time and is developing into a first class catcher. The batting was pretty heavy. A number of two baggers were slugged away out into the green. D'Russia made a home run and Connors also put it over the fence, though he was batting out of his order and the run did not count. The infielding was not of the best. There was too much dropping of the ball and too much fumbling of grounders. The base running was good. The teams were:—

"The Strength of Twenty Men."

When Shakespeare employed this phrase he referred, of course, to healthy, able-bodied men. If he had lived in these days he would have known that men and women who are not healthy may become so by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla. This medicine, by making the blood rich and pure and giving good appetite and perfect digestion, imparts vitality and strength to the system.

The non-irritating cathartic—Hood's Pills.

LOVE'S DUPLICATES.

I love you, love you, love you, dear,
 More than my tongue can tell!
In all the world, though far or near,
 There's none I love so well.
And though to others, now and then,
 I say these words, 'tis true,
How can a fellow help it when
 They so resemble you?

—Nixon Waterman in Woman's Home Companion.

TOO MUCH INTRODUCING.

What an Englishman Has to Say About Our Method.

"It took me some time to grasp the American point of view in regard to letters of introduction," said an English traveler, chatting over American characteristics. "When we give a man a letter of introduction at home, we consider that we are vouching for him socially, financially and every other way, so, needless to say, it is never done except among relatives or the closest friends. Here you don't seem to take the thing seriously.

"When I was in Washington last week, I was introduced to a very pleasant gentleman in the real estate business and chanced to mention that I was going to Nashville next day. 'Oh, indeed!' he said. 'Then I'll just give you a line to an old chum of mine there.' And immediately he took a pad of paper and began writing. 'By the way,' he remarked after jotting down a few words, 'I didn't catch your name exactly. What is the proper spelling?'

"The idea of a stranger giving me a letter of introduction to an intimate friend when he didn't even know my name struck me as very strange and amusing. However, I took it with thanks and later found the Nashville man a very charming fellow. When I left, he insisted on giving me a note to a friend in Memphis, who proved equally charming and who in turn supplied me with an introduction to a prominent clubman here in New Orleans.

"The last letter I haven't presented and don't intend to, because it contains a glaring though inadvertent misstatement in referring to me as an old and cherished friend of the good natured gentlemen of Nashville and Washington. The process, as you see, has built me up an entirely fictitious character, and, 'pon my word, I can't understand why such friendliness is not continually and outrageously abused by impostors. I'm sure it would be on our side of the water."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

"In the Hands of His Friends."

The farmer had just arrived in town.

"What," he asked of his new found friend, "is a bunko steerer anyway? I have seen a great deal about them in the papers."

"Of course," replied his friend, "you know what a bunk is?"

"Certainly," replied the farmer.

"Well, a bunko steerer is merely a man who steers another man to his bunk when he is unable to find it himself. He is a guide, a philosopher and a friend. And now, that question being disposed of, I would like to show you where you are sure of getting not less than $50 for $1 if you follow my advice."—Washington Star.

"THE POPULARITY OF

The Times.

"DRINK NOTHING but Natural Mineral Water, such as Apollinaris, free from all vegetable poisons."

Boston Journal.

"Anger," he said thoughtfully, "shortens life."

She looked at him sharply.

"It also," he went on, "spoils beauty. It has an exceptionally injurious effect on a pretty face."

"John Henry," she exclaimed, "what is it you want to say to me? What provoking suggestion have you to make now? For what offensive ruling in domestic economy are you paving the way?"

Then he knew that all his precautions were useless and that he might as well have told her in the first place that she would have to wait a month for that new bonnet.—Chicago Post.

The Latest War News.

The Review's Special Afternoon Despatches Giving the Latest Developments of the British-Boer Hostilitites.

NO NEWS FROM ROBERTS BUT ADVANCE GOES ON

The Next Despatch it is Expected Will be Dated From Johannesburg--The Annexation of the Free State to the British Empire Officially Proclaimed.

ORANGE FREE STATE NOW PART OF THE EMPIRE

Klip River, May 28—(Delayed)—Gen. Lord Roberts has announced the annexation of the Orange Free State to the empire under the title of the Orange River State.

NO NEWS FROM ROBERTS

London, May 29—No news has been received from Lord Roberts up to late this afternoon. The authorities here look for the next despatch to be dated from Johannesburg. The effectiveness of the British invasion of the Transvaal is emphasized by news from Pretoria of the occupation of Zerust and the advance on Lichtenburg. It is expected that the British dragnet will be drawn throughout the Transvaal as it was hauled through the Free State. Nothing further has been received regarding the fighting in which Generals French and Hamilton were engaged.

THE FISH IN HIS BED.

Funny Climax to an Angling Experience of General Gallifet.

Long ago, in the days of the second empire, General Gallifet was the aid-de-camp of Napoleon III. At St. Cloud his quarters were just over the imperial bedroom. Everything around him was very grand and very gloomy. The window of his room looked upon the pond that washed the walls of the chateau. The water was clear, and the surrounding scenery was beautiful, but the young lieutenant felt like a prisoner. Early one morning while seated at his window trying to drive away the blues with a cigar he espied below in the crystal water an enormous carp. The instinct of the angler, strong in Gallifet, made the young man's eyes snap and set his heart throbbing.

The big fish was the private property of the emperor. Consequently for Gallifet it was forbidden fish. But it was such a fine fellow! The resistance of the soldier's conscience was useless. It surrendered unconditionally. The remaining part of the campaign against the carp was simple enough. Gallifet went to his trunk, brought out his trusty line, to which he fastened a hook and an artificial bait. With his accustomed skill he cast his line. The carp was hooked and hauled in through the window.

Here the lieutenant's fun ended and his trouble began. The fish landed upon a table, overturned a large globe filled with water and caromed from that to a magnificent vase, which it also upset and smashed to pieces upon the floor. Then it began to execute a genuine pas de carpe among the smithereens.

The emperor, hearing the strange racket overhead and seeing the water trickling through the ceiling, was astonished. He rushed up stairs to find out what was the matter. Gallifet heard him coming and endeavored to grab the carp and throw it out of the window and thus destroy the evidence of his poaching in the imperial pond. But the slippery thing was hard to hold, so he tossed it into bed and covered it up with the bedclothes. When the emperor entered the room, he noticed immediately the quivering bedclothes. He pulled them down and uncovered the floundering fish. His majesty's face assumed an almost jimjamic expression, which gradually faded into a faint smile. He took in the entire situation, saluted and left the future war minister to meditate upon the mysteries of a fisherman's luck.

DISTANCE OF THE STARS.

Some Are Beyond All Present Power of Computation.

A problem in which astronomers are now much interested is that of the distances of the stars, especially how far out they extend. It was formerly thought that the brightest stars were the nearest and the faintest the most distant. But it is now found that this is not the whole truth and that some of the brightest stars are as far away as those which we cannot see without a telescope.

There are two remarkable cases of this kind. Canopus, in the constellation Argo, is, next to Sirius, the brightest star in the sky. But its distance is immeasurably great, so that astronomers have not been able to learn anything certain about it. The most interesting conclusion from this is that Canopus, although it is only a star in the sky, is really thousands of times brighter than the sun.

Canopus is not the only star of which this is true. Rigel, in the constellation Orion, is a star of the first magnitude, yet its distance is beyond all that the most powerful instruments of astronomy can fathom. There may be yet other stars 10,000 times as bright as the sun and yet so far away that we do not see them as very bright stars.

There are now about 60 stars of whose distance astronomers have been able to get some idea. The distances of a few of the nearest of these have been measured with some approach to exactness, but the farther a star is the harder it becomes to secure exactness in such measurements. But astronomers are always trying to improve their instruments, and every year they are finding out more and more about the arrangement of the stars.

Perhaps before the twentieth century shall be half gone they will know how far off the Milky Way is—something they have as yet no certain way of learning.—Professor Newcomb in Youth's Companion.

Montreal Star Gets Hold of Details About the Convicts.

They Were Clan-Na-Gael Men—Welland Canal Outrage Was Designed as a Reprisal Against Canada for Sending Troops to Africa—Plot Was Carried Out by Order of Executive of Clan-Na-Gael.

Montreal, May 29. — The Star publishes the following special:

New York, May 28.—It is reported here that the three men, Carl Dullman, J. Nolin and John Walsh, convicted at the Welland Assizes of having been guilty of the dynamite explosion on the Welland Canal on April 21 last, arrived at the Kingston Penitentiary on Saturday evening, and will there remain for the term of their natural lives. Two of them at least, if not the whole three, were agents of the Clan-na-Gael, the Fenian brotherhood. This statement has been made previously. It had been denied by those in the United States qualified to speak for the Clan-na-Gael. Despite that denial, the assertion is true in every respect. So soon as the news of the dastardly attempt to injure one of the most important links in Canada's system of inland waterways was reported, investigations were set on foot by The Star's representatives to endeavor to ascertain whether the dynamiters were the agents of any association or body of men hostile to Britain, or whether the deed was the result of the pro-Boer sympathies of the three individuals alone. As a result of those investigations, The Star is enabled to assert beyond possibility of contradiction:

1. The explosion was designed as a reprisal against Canada for having sent troops to South Africa.

2. The plot was conceived, instigated and carried through by orders of the Executive of the Clan-na-Gael.

3. It was set on foot at the very moment last autumn when all Canada was ringing with enthusiasm over the mobilization of the first contingent sent by the Dominion to participate in a war of the Empire.

4. The emissaries of the Clan-na-Gael were dispatched from Ireland to America, almost simultaneously with the departure of the Canadians from Quebec.

5. The cost of passage of the emissaries of the Clan-na-Gael was defrayed by a subscription, organized by Miss Maud Gonne, a young woman who has been designated "The Irish Joan of Arc," and who has made several visits to the United States in the interests of the "physical force" section of the Irish extremists.

6. Their tickets were purchased by one Fred. J. Allan, who is said to be the recognized head of the Clan-na-Gael in Dublin, and who has, within the past four months, been appointed private secretary to the present Lord Mayor of Dublin, Ald. Pile.

From the time of their landing in America to their arrival in Canada, a few days previous to the explosion, and possibly since, Walsh and Nolin, at least, have been in constant communication with the executive of the Clan-na-Gael, and have been in receipt of moneys from that body. John Nolin and John Mernagh were in October last, in the employ of the Dublin United Tramway Company. Nolin was a fitter and had charge of steam engines. Mernagh occupied a confidential position during the electric equipment of the tramways of the Irish Metropolis. Both left the company's employ on Oct. 14. Previous to his service with the Tramway Company, Nolin was in the employ of The Irish Daily Independent newspaper. He was known as an "extremist" of the most virulent character. He first came to America in November, 1878, but within a comparatively short time returned to Ireland. He is apparently a much more versatile character than one would judge from his pictures in the newspapers. In addition to being a good tradesman, he was known, both in Ireland and the United States, as a first-class boxer and an expert revolver shot. Together with Mernagh, Walsh and one John Rowan, Nolin was a member of the P. W. Nally Club of Dublin from its foundation, in 1887, and all four were well known to their friends as "secret society" men. They were active members of the Clan-na-Gael and open in their denunciation of British rule, and their advocacy of physical force as a means of "freeing Ireland." According to the information secured by The Star, this is by no means the first occasion upon which Nolin has used explosives against British property. He is strongly suspected of having been [illegible] by the dynamite explosion at the National Press in Abbey street, Dublin, on Oct. [illegible], [illegible] the [illegible]

Literary Consuls.

It is one of the curiosities of literature, says George F. Parker in The Atlantic, that, although the consular service has not produced reports of either economic or informing value, many writers have done conspicuous work before and during service and after retirement. W. D. Howells wrote some delightful books on Italy. Besides his "Life of Peter the Great," Eugene Schuyler wrote an acceptable short history of American diplomacy and translated some of Turgeneff's novels. Hawthorne, Elihu Burritt, Underwood, Bret Harte, Penfield, Richman—to mention only a few—have done notable work in literature, but not an official report of value. In the one case there was something to say, united with freedom of view and opinion; in the other there was nothing to say, and red tape was too strong for them. The fault is in the system, not in the men.

Ecezma in Its Worst Form.

Back Covered With Blisters—Terrible Itching—No Sleep Possible—Dr. Chase's Ointment Simply Marvellous in Its Curative Powers.

Mr. John Kelly, 79 Trinity street, Toronto, in an interview, made the following verbatim statement:—

"I have been troubled with eczema in almost its worst form for the past three years. At times my back and shoulder blades were literally covered with patches like water blisters, and these, accompanied with terrible itching on my legs, put sleep out of the question. I tried various well-known ointments (names mentioned), and did everything possible to obtain relief, but with little success. I had frequently heard of Dr. Chase's Ointment, but meeting with so many disappointments, I had not tried it. Seeing the advertisement one day I concluded to get a box. Since using Dr. Chase's Ointment I am like a new being. Its soothing and healing properties are simply marvellous, and I am honestly grateful to Dr. Chase's Ointment for the release from long suffering."

OUR SPECIAL OTTAWA LETTER

IT WAS A WEEK OF CALM AT THE DOMINION CAPITAL

Ballot Fraud Inquiry not yet Begun—Another set of Estimates Brings Expenditure up to Over Fifty-Five Millions.

Special Correspondence of the Review.

Ottawa, May 26.—Last week's debate about the machine has been followed by a period of comparative peace. Certain departmental bills and the Criminal Code have been before the House, and the rest of the time has been spent in supply. The Queen's birthday was duly observed by the suspension of business. But members did not all get a chance to rest. Sir Charles Tupper addressed the Toronto school children at Toronto on Empire Day. Mr. Foster delivered a patriotic address to students at Ottawa. Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper and Mr. Wallace spoke in Nova Scotia, and Dr. Montague was one of the orators in an Ontario celebration.

ANOTHER CALL FOR FUNDS.

We are now within five weeks of the end of the fiscal year. Yet after the House had been nearly four months in session Mr. Fielding has brought in a new set of supplementary estimates for the year just expiring. This is the fourth series of supplementaries for 1899-1900 and the total amount of money called for is over fifty-five millions. The following statement will be found instructive:—

Amount voted last year in the main estimates for 1900, $46,286,550.

Voted last year in the first supplementaries for 1900, $5,497,265.

Voted last year in the second supplementaries for 1900, $12,451.

Voted this year in the third supplementaries for 1900, $86,618.

Asked for this year by the fourth supplementaries for 1900, $3,496,247.

The total amount of these five sets of estimates for the current year is $55,-377,300.

Of this sum $47,222,339 is charged to current account and over eight millions to capital.

FOR PRESENT REQUIREMENTS.

The demand presented this week for money required to help the Government through the month of June, goes to show that our ministers in taking their votes last session for the current year's services made wonderfully wild estimates.

The Paris exhibition wants $20,000 more than was expected last year.

Mr. Sifton finds his immigration funds short $75,000.

Dr. Borden needs $126,135 more than he supposed to be sufficient to put him through the year.

The Yukon is running away with very much more than the Minister of the Interior dreamed of when he made his appropriation. For river improvements and telegraph lines in that district, $94,-000 is asked in addition to the original votes. Dr. Borden asks for another $50,-000 for militia in the Yukon and for expenses of Yukon government, $25,000 extra is demanded. The Postmaster General calls for $75,000 in addition to what he at first considered sufficient.

WHERE THE SENATOR COMES IN.

But the most mysterious Yukon bill is one for $96,581, which is to be passed to the Bank of Commerce for commissions on government business done at the Dawson agency. This claim covers two fiscal years, and the strange part of it is that while more than half the money is represented to have been due last year, no mention of the matter was made in the estimates of 1898 or 1899 in connection with the estimates of either year. The first [illegible] item of $31,-[illegible] for commissions on revenue collected by Government officers and placed in custody of the bank. A part of the revenue was paid out for government services in the Yukon district, and the bank is allowed [illegible] $27,[illegible] for paying [illegible] [illegible]. In this connection it may be remarked that [illegible] Chief President of the Bank of Commerce, who seems to have had great good fortune in this business, is the same gentleman who shared with the president of the Toronto Globe Company, the chief benefit of the Crows Nest Pass railway contract, which is said to have given these capitalists a clear million dollars.

MR. BLAIR'S MISCALCULATIONS.

Another item in this latest supplementary estimate is a sum of $900,000, which Mr. Blair wants to help him through with Intercolonial expenditure on current accounts, after he has consumed all that he had voted at the beginning of the fiscal year. In addition he asks the House to vote him $355,131 charged to capital. He has already secured a vote of $341,800 on capital account in the main vote, and $899,718 in his first supplementary estimate. It will be seen that the Minister is this year performing Intercolonial construction at a cost of $1,905,849. Opinions vary as to what part of this vote on capital account is actually expended on operating services. A large part is for rolling stock, for strengthening bridges, and other services which Mr. Blair's predecessors claim to have paid for out of income. It is expected that with the help of this outlay, which is not charged against the year's income, Mr. Blair may declare a handsome surplus for the year.

A FIELDING MYTH.

The Finance Minister has been exposing one of his own fallacies. When he made his budget speech Mr. Fielding claimed that Canada had secured a great concession by the admission of her securities on the British preferred list. Hitherto colonial securities were not among the funds in which a British trustee might invest trust funds. The bar is about to be removed, and Mr. Fielding in making the announcement connected the event with the Canadian preference tariff. Sir Richard Cartwright went farther and contended that the concession by England was in consequence of the preference Canada had given to the mother country. This was the claim. But before introducing the legislation required in connection with the arrangement Mr. Fielding brought down the papers connected with the negotiations. He also gave a history of the discussions, which was supplemented by Sir Charles Tupper. The statements of Sir Charles and Mr. Fielding agreed perfectly, and showed that the whole matter had been adjusted eleven years ago.

THE TRUE HISTORY.

Sir Charles was the High Commissioner in 1889. He called the representatives of the other colonies together and it was decided to press this matter of colonial stocks upon the treasury officers. So successful were the representations that the imperial government appointed a committee from the treasury board, the Colonial office, the Bank of England and representatives of the colonies of whom Sir Charles was one. A bill was prepared, and was approved by the Home Government.

Before it passed parliament the Australian colonies were in the midst of a sudden and alarming financial panic. The time was considered inopportune to proceed with the matter, and Sir Charles explains that he did not care to demand the concession for Canada alone, thus shutting out the Australian colonies, because for the time they were in sore trouble. The matter stood until the Australian crisis should pass, and until the credit of these colonies should be restored. Then came the change of Government in Canada, and four years more delay. Sir Charles congratulates Mr. Fielding on the successful issue of the event, and says that he still believes great good will come of it. When it came down to details, Mr. Fielding did not even hint that the tariff preference had anything to do with the matter.

NO COMMISSION YET.

It is now eight days since the Premier got the West Huron and Brockville enquiry away from the Committee of Privileges, with the promise that a commission of judges would be immediately appointed to take up this and other investigations. No appointments of judges have yet been made, but it is believed the Premier is in communication with some members of the Ontario bench. There is a suspicion that Sir Wilfrid will set his court to work hunting up old cases of Tory wrong-doing, and will postpone the Huron and Brockville inquiries until the elections are over. But these are Tory suspicions, and it must be remembered that the Huron and Brockville inquiries were the original cause of action.

NOTE.

Mr. W. B. McInnes, the member for Nanaimo, has resigned to go into British Columbia provincial politics. As he voted against the Yukon deal, and fought Mr. Blair with all his might on the Crows Nest contract, the young man takes with him some reputation as an independent Liberal. Mr. Richardson, who is still more independent, is still with us.

When it Hurts to Cough.

The cough that hurts, the cough that gets tight in the chest, is daily getting deeper and deeper into the bronchial tubes and is making directly for the lungs, to become pneumonia, inflammation of the lungs or consumption. Such coughs yield only to the wonderful efficiency of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine which loosens the tightness and cures cough and cold together. 25 cents a bottle. Family size 60 cents, sold everywhere.

DULLMAN, WALSH AND NOLIN

Dublin on Dec. 9, 1891; of having assisted Pat Reid and J. J. Boland in the explosion at Dublin Castle, on Dec. 31, 1891; and of complicity in the explosion at the Exchange Court Detective Office in Dublin, on Dec. 24, 1892. He left Ireland for America in March, 1893, but returned home on the following November. A few weeks after his return there was a shooting affray in Cardiff lane, Dublin, in which Pat Reid, mentioned above, was the victim and Nolin the assailant. The affair was treated as a drunken quarrel, and Nolin got off with the nominal sentence of three months. It was evidently a quarrel over some of their diabolical plotting.

Nolin appears to have returned to the States soon after this affray, for on March 27, 1894, when in Washington, D.C., he took out a declaration of intention to become a citizen of the United States.

Of Walsh not much information has been secured. There is no doubt, however, that he belonged to the same clique as Nolin, and that he was chosen by the Executive of the Clan-na-Gael to be one of his accomplices in the conspiracy against Canada.

THE SUN'S ECLIPSE.

In the Path of Totality in Both Europe and America the Conditions Were Perfect.

London, May 29. — The conditions in London for observations of the sun's eclipse yesterday were fair. The day was somewhat cloudy, but at 2.47 p.m. the sun shone out brightly, and the circular shadow over the disc was remarkably clear cut. The sun was intermittently obscured, but the observers have ample opportunities to obtain valuable results.

The Eclipse in Spain.

Madrid, May 29. — Intense interest was displayed in the solar eclipse here yesterday. Astronomers from all countries of Europe assembled at Placentia and other places. M. Flammarion represented France and Sir Joseph Norman Lockyer, Great Britain. Bright sunshine and a cloudless sky prevailed everywhere. The British astronomers arranged to take photographs every ten seconds.

A Satisfactory Observation.

Ovar, Portugal, May 29.—The weather was clear, and the English expedition observed the eclipse satisfactorily.

Good Results at Tripoli.

Tripoli, May 29.—The day was splendid. The eclipse expedition under Prof. Todd of Amherst College completed successful observations with 20 telescopes, including a 24-inch telescope. The corona was seen for 52 seconds, and was an exact duplicate of that of January, 1889, completely confirming the 11 years' period of the corona variation with the sun spots.

Gratifying Results at Washington.

Washington, Ga., May 29. — The success attending the eclipse observations here was highly gratifying. Prof. Alfred E. Burton, in charge of the expedition from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, gave out the following statement at 9 o'clock: "The weather here was perfect. The altitude 33 degrees 48 minutes, longitude 5 hours 30 minutes 56 2-10th seconds. G. D. Hormer, observer. The first contact was at 7 hours 2 minutes 15-6-10th secs., local mean time; second contact, 8 hours 9 minutes 52 5-10th seconds. The time of totality was 1 minute and 25 8-10th secs., A. G. Robbins, observer. The magnetometer showed no disturbance in magnetic declination. Seven sketches were made of the corona, and six photographs taken by Harrison W. Smith."

Not a Cloud to Mar It.

Wadesboro, N.C., May 29. — The eclipse was viewed here yesterday without a cloud to mar the spectacle. Observations were made by scientists from the Smithsonian institution at Washington, the English Astronomical Society of London, Yerkes Observatory, Princeton University, Charleston, S.C., Military Institute, and a representative from the Toronto, Canada, Astronomical Society was also at work.

Not a Drawback There.

Barnesville, Ga., May 29.—Amid perfect arrangement of detail, with good weather conditions, and with no hindrances or defects to prevent success, the varying phases of the solar eclipse yesterday were observed by the Government astronomers at the United States observing station here to-day. The photographic work was unusually successful. Five cameras made 20 exposures.

A Good View.

Fort Monroe, Va., May 29.—The sun was totally eclipsed at 8.53 o'clock yesterday in a cloudless sky. The period of totality was about 30 seconds, during which time a tiny star hung just below the magnificent corona, which glowed around the inky disc.

Prof. Campbell's Statement.

Thomaston, Ga., May 29. — Prof. Campbell of the Lick Observatory, who took observations here, gave out the following statement after the event: "The sky was clear, but not very blue. Rapidly approaching clouds from the southwest obscured the sun less than one minute after totality. The program, which was almost wholly photographic work, was fully carried out, except in the case of the spectroscope, whose clock refused to work.

"The coronal streamers were somewhat similar to those observed in India in 1898. There were two on the west of about equal intensity, out to a distance equal to five or six diameters of the sun. The upper one of the two to the east was much stronger than the lower one and was observed out to about four diameters. The streamers seemed to be near the solar equator than in 1898. The shadow bands were distinctly observed, inclining from about 38 degrees east of south, travelling northeast."

Saw the Eclipse in Georgia.

Toronto, May 29. — President Lumsden of the Astronomical Society was an interested spectator of the eclipse yesterday from a point in Georgia in the path of the total obscuration. He left the city two or three days ago to be in plenty of time to get a view, and will doubtless return with much interesting data. The other local observers made some good photographs and sketches.

THE HONEY MAKERS.

The first work young bees do is feeding the brood.

The first swarm is always the cream of the colony.

After the first swarms issue cut out all the queen cells but one.

Granulated sugar is said to be the most healthy diet for wintering bees—much better than any quality of honey.

Whenever bees are allowed to breed too early in the spring without having a good supply of pollen they soon dwindle away.

Spring dwindling is always the result of bad wintering. It is mostly produced by a continuance of a long spell of cold weather.

To make dividing a success, colonies should be very strong and almost ready to swarm. Care must be taken not to get the stock too weak.

On the approach of warm weather feed sirup made from a good quality of granulated sugar. This will stimulate brood rearing, and when the honey season opens you will have a large working force of bees.

The size of the cluster in the hive determines the space occupied by young brood. The queen, no matter how prolific a layer she is, must be confined to space occupied by the cluster of bees.—St. Louis Republic.

The life of the business woman is not easy. Usually it is a monotonous routine of work, often aggravated by the ill temper or stupidity of others. And when the physical condition of the woman keeps her in constant suffering, it makes her lot a hard one.

So many women have found entire relief from the ills peculiarly feminine, by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, that it seems almost criminal to neglect the opportunity of a complete cure offered by the use of this medicine.

You are invited to consult Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., either personally or by letter free of charge. If your case is severe or others have failed to reach it, do not hesitate to write to or go and see Dr. Pierce. Your letter will be read in private, its contents treated as a sacred confidence, and an answer promptly returned in a plain envelope bearing no printing upon it. Write without fear and without fee.

"I had been a great sufferer from female weakness for about two years," writes Mrs. [illegible] Richardson, of Cool, Wayne Co., Ky. "Could not do any work part of the time. I took four bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and felt as well as I ever did. I have also used Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for ulceration of the throat with good results and [illegible] of one bottle cured my throat when I could scarcely swallow."

The permanent benefit to health from the timely use of Dr. Pierce's Pellets is testified to by [illegible] [illegible]. They regulate the stomach, liver and bowels. Sold by all medicine dealers.

London, May 29.—(8 a.m.)—Gen. Roberts is now within a day's march of Johannesburg, and Gen. French and Gen. Ian Hamilton fought the Boers from noon until evening on Monday, with what result is not known there.

Panic in the Transvaal.

Mr. H. J. Whigham, in a despatch to The Daily Mail, dated May 28, says: The demoralization of the Transvaal is remarkable. Panic and confusion prevail everywhere. Every one is weary of the war and full of fear as to the coming of the British. Operations were being carried on for encircling Pretoria with telephonic communication. Fourteen points in the line of defences were connected with headquarters and with Statt's artillery; but this apparently was the only defensive measure adopted. There were no other visible preparations.

To Release Prisoners of War.

The Government is now endeavoring to reassure the public by telling them that the British will not outrage or plunder them, but it is too late. The previous statements are bringing their rewards. Food is very scarce and prices rule high.

The proposal to release the British prisoners of war is due to this cause. Members of the Government and of the Volksraad express approval of the proposition, but President Kruger is violently opposed to it.

More of Kruger's Bluff.

London, May 29.—(5 a.m.)—The Morning Post has the following despatch from Lorenzo Marquez, dated Monday: President Kruger has issued a public proclamation warning all people to leave Johannesburg or to remain there at the peril of their lives, as it might become necessary to destroy the town and the mines. Hundreds of cases of winter clothing for the prisoners at Pretoria have been sent by the Relief Association to U.S. Consul Hay, as well as £1,000 in cash.

18 MILES FROM JOHANNESBURG.

Lord Roberts So Wires the War Office From Klip River.

London, May 29.—The War Office just before midnight, published the following despatch from Lord Roberts:

"Klip River, Transvaal, May 28.—(5.25 p.m.)—We marched 20 miles to-day and are now 18 miles from Johannesburg. The enemy had prepared several positions where they intended to oppose us, but they abandoned one after the other as we neared them.

"We pressed them so hard that they had only just time to get their five guns into train and to leave this station, as some of the West Australian Mounted Infantry dashed into it.

"French's and Ian Hamilton's forces are apparently engaged with the enemy, about 10 miles to our left, as firing has been heard since noon.

"The farmers near our line of advance are surrendering with their arms and horses.

"Rundle occupied Senekal on May 24. No report of what took place has reached me yet.

"H. J. Whigham has just returned from Pretoria, where he went disguised. He wires that Kruger has all the arrangements made for flight, presumably to Holland. A special train, provisioned, is always ready with steam up. The train waits some distance from Pretoria."

BOTHA WANTS TO GIVE UP.

The Commandant-General of the Boers Says Struggle is Hopeless.

London, May 29. — The Lorenzo Marquez correspondent of The Times, telegraphing Monday, says:

"Commandant General Botha consulted the Transvaal Government a few days ago, and in the strongest terms urged capitulation, recognizing that the present struggle is utterly hopeless. Neither persuasion nor the liberal use of the Sjambok can induce the men to stand. Steyn is equally emphatic for peace, but Kruger is still obdurate. The strong feeling of the Pretoria peace party, however, may at any moment carry the point."

Government Has No Information.

London, May 29.—In the House of Commons yesterday, the Government leader, Mr. A. J. Balfour, said he had no information in regard to the reported negotiations for peace with the Transvaal.

Boers Are Advancing on Dundee.

London, May 29.—The Times publishes the following from Newcastle, dated Sunday: "Four hundred Boers are advancing toward Dundee. There is no fear that our communications will be cut."

Rundle Occupies Senekal.

Senekal, Sunday, May 27.—General Rundle, with artillery, the Yeomanry, and the Wilts, Middlesex and Leicester Regiments, under Major Dalbiac, has occupied Senekal, whence the Boers were driven by a few shells. A field cornet and a number of other Boers were killed. The British casualties numbered 11.

The Boers are believed to be concentrating near Bethlehem.

No Further Enlistments.

London, May 29. — The War Office announces that no further enlistments in the reserve regiments will be accepted after June 1.

Will Salisbury Retire?

London, May 29.—A rumor was current in the lobbies of the House of Parliament yesterday, and which was said to have originated at the Carlton Club, that the Marquis of Salisbury will retire from politics at the next general election.

CANADIANS IN AFRICA.

Two Privates Reported to the War Office as Being Dangerously Ill.

London, May 29. — It has been reported to the War Office that Private H. Hiam, of "A" Squadron, Canadian Mounted Rifles, is dangerously ill at De Aar. Before enlisting he was a member of the Duke of York's Hussars. His mother is Mrs. G. Hiam, 109 University street, Montreal. Private C. C. Thompson, of the Winnipeg Company, who was reported dangerously ill some time ago, is not improving. He is at Wynberg Hospital.

At the Siege of Kimberley.

Toronto, May 29.—Hector Robertson, a nephew of J. Ross Robertson, of this city, is a private in one of the colonial regiments which went through the siege of Kimberley. After the siege he was down with fever, and was sent to the Orange River Hospital, but has since rejoined his regiment.

DERAILED NEAR LABELLE.

A Washout on the C. P. R.—Damage Was Considerable, But There Was No Loss of Life.

Montreal, May 29. — The C. P. R. special train which left Labelle yesterday morning at 4.50 o'clock was derailed three miles south of the station. The accident was caused by the heavy run of water from the northwesterly lakes and rivers, which raised the water along the railway from 15 to 20 feet, and washed out a portion of the railway embankment. A very heavy rainfall occurred in that district Monday afternoon and evening, and the officials state that the trackmen patrolled the track until the rain subsided, which was about 9 o'clock in the evening. The following is the official statement from the C.P.R.: Passenger special, three cars, left track about three miles south of Labelle, 5 o'clock this a.m., on account of track sliding easterly on about 50-foot fill. Following passengers injured slightly: Henry Cardinal, typographer, Montreal, head cut; J. K. Kennedy, wrist cut; Philipe Lasande, Three Rivers, arm injured; Leo Demarias, Montreal, forehead bruised; George Perrault, Montreal, body bruised; W. S. Brown, Montreal, hands and legs injured; Dr. E. R. Brown, Montreal, cut about face and legs, arm hurt; Joseph Laforrest, la Minerve, face and hand cut; J. F. Grant, Montreal, cut about head and legs; C. Gauthier, Labelle, legs and head injured; J. Lalonde, Labelle, head injured; J. Carrey, brakeman, cut about head; M. Vallee, baggageman, arms and legs injured; W. Paxton, Montreal, injured about body; Adelard Belisle, Hawkesbury, leg injured; Alderman Gouin, slightly bruised.

No person was seriously injured, and all have had attendance and are now walking around. Baggage car 2,232, colonist 1,176 and first-class 508, turned over.

Paine's Celery Compound.

A HOME MEDICINE THAT MEETS THE MOST URGENT CASES.

Reliable! Prompt! Effective!

If up to the present you have failed to get rid of nervousness, sleeplessness, dyspepsia, heart palpitation and unsightly skin diseases that arise from impure blood, it is because you have not used Paine's Celery Compound.

What this greatest of all modern medicines has done for sufferers in your condition may be learned from your friends and neighbors who have been made well by it.

The discoverer of Paine's Celery Compound was no idle theorist. Professor Edward E. Phelps, M.D., LL.D., of Dartmouth Medical College, had positive proof of the great virtue of his wonderful discovery before he offered Paine's Celery Compound to his fellow practitioners and to the public.

For absolute reliability in banishing obstinate diseases from the system there is nothing that approaches Paine's Celery Compound. At this season of the year it should be used by everyone who is trying to get rid of nerve and blood diseases, dyspepsia, neuralgia, rheumatism, and liver and kidney troubles. If you desire a certain and rapid cure, take nothing less than Paine's Celery Compound.

The New Reporter.

"Here," said the city editor to the new reporter, "in describing this shooting affray you say 'the bullet entered Ferguson's body at corner of the courthouse, taking a downward course.' That's very bad. Take your copy and see if you can't do better with it."

"Oh, yes," replied the young man just out of college, "I see, now you mention it, that it might be done better."

So he wrote it as follows:

"The bullet struck Ferguson near the throat and glanced, taking a downward course and coming out just below the right shoulder blade at the courthouse corner."—Chicago Times-Herald.

AFTER DINNER.

A Long Felt Want Filled by Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

While Curing Advanced Stages of Dyspepsia a Tablet Taken after Dinner is Accepted Gratefully by even the Most Healthy Stomach.

We eat an awful lot of trash now-a-days—that is considering the use it is to our bodies when eaten.

Think what a mixture has been sent down our throats at the end of an average good dinner.

The stomach has to separate the grain from the chaff, the blood-building parts from the utterly useless.

And to its extreme vexation, no doubt, it finds after it has finished its work that the greater part of the material was utterly useless.

So the fact is that the stomach is greatly overworked.

Now whether it has broken-down yet or not Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets will help it.

They assist in the digesting process.

They help the stomach out with its work.

If you are troubled with the severe symptoms of Dyspepsia, viz., Indigestion, Sour Stomach, Foul Breath, Wind on the Stomach, Biliousness, Waterbrash, Heartburn, Catarrh of the Stomach, Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets will give your stomach a chance to take the time to rest itself.

That is the only way it can be done. If you starve yourself to rest your stomach you starve your stomach also, for it needs nourishment like the rest of you.

If your stomach is still "game," but you from experience to refrain from certain dainties, use Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets after every meal and eat anything you like.

Badly Expressed.

THE LAWYER'S SPEECH.

Its Effect on His Client and Afterward on the Jury.

"In the state from which I come," said a legal light of Boston, "aforetime an effort was made to have trials for murder by a jury of 11, the majority to decide. Controversy over this suggested change in the organic law ran high, and the discussion for and against waxed fierce, until so bitter had become the feeling of those favoring and opposing the innovation that in many cases it took on a personal complexion.

"A lawyer who had been a far famed judge was sounded by a friend who opposed the change and who asked of him, 'Judge, would you like to be tried for your life by a jury of 11 and convicted by a majority vote?'

"The judge solemnly wagged his head. 'No,' quoth he, 'I wouldn't like to be tried for my life by a jury of 11 and convicted by a majority vote. But then,' he went on, as his friend's face lighted up, 'I don't think I'd like to be tried for my life by a jury of any size, voting in any way.'

"At another time this judge had a client on trial for murder. To him he had gone with the speech he had prepared for the defense and which was an ingenious, pathetic and powerful appeal to the jury. The defendant read it over, and his countenance glowed with pleasure. 'It will surely acquit me. There can be no doubt of that. Judge, you will be my preserver,' he said. Then he read it again, and a shade of doubt crept in and began to counteract the hope that had sprung up in his breast. 'I am not so certain,' he murmured; 'here and there I detect statements that can be rejected, and there are other changes it would be well to make.' Then he went on to a third reading. Gloom and depression grew deeper on his face as he proceeded, and when he had come to the last word he tossed the manuscript aside, and, burying his face in his hands, burst into tears. 'It will convict me to a certainty,' he sobbed out, as he rocked to and fro upon his narrow couch, 'and I shall be hanged by the neck until dead.'

"'Nonsense!' remonstrated the judge. 'Brace up and be a man. No such thing is going to happen. Remember, the first time you read it you were sure of acquittal. Then you perused it a second time and [illegible] that a third reading [illegible] the proportions of defeat. You want to bear in mind that the jury will hear it only that first time!' and the result fully justified the judge's explanation."

ARRESTED FOR TREPASS

A Montreal Machinist Who Was Making His Way Back to Chicago.

This morning County Magistrate Edmison held court at which a man giving his name as Albert Chemell was charged by C.P.R. Inspector Ross with trespass. He was arrested at Havelock on Saturday night for stealing a ride in a car. The prisoner claimed that he has lived in Chicago for the last six years but that he went to his home in Montreal on account of the machinists' strike in Chicago and that he was now making his way back to Chicago. He was given 3 months in goal with the option of a $25 fine.

Chemell was not arrested for trespass at first but was mistaken for a man who was wanted for theft. Not being that man, however, the authorities evidently thought it would be more satisfactory to soak him for tramping than to let him go.

COLDSPRING'S ANNIVERSARY TEA

A Success in Every Way—The Sunday School Progressing.

The anniversary services in connection with Coldsprings Sunday school were concluded last evening with a tea and concert, which proved a great success.

Tea was served in a large tent in the school grounds, and many enjoyed the good things provided by the ladies connected with the Sunday school. A good programme was given during the evening, in which Mr. Steers, Miss Josie Kindred and Master Freddie Hooper took part. Rev. J. G. Potter and Rev. W. L. Armitage were present and gave short and interesting addresses.

Mr. H. P. Kennedy was in the chair and in a short speech gave a review of the history of the schools and congratulated the superintendent, Miss Bennett, on the good work being done.

A number drove down from town and enjoyed the evening.

CORP. PRICE FROM BLOEMFONTEIN

PREPARATIONS FOR THE ADVANCE THROUGH THE TRANSVAAL

Interesting Comments on the March—A Desolate Country—The Immense Army Convoys.

Mrs. S. R. Price, Otonabee, has received the following letter from her son, Percy R. Price, of the Canadian Mounted Rifles:—

Bloemfontein, April 28.

Dear Mother,—We have at last got started for the front and are now where we can hear the din of battle and hope to be in it in at least two days. We are now at Bloemfontain, having been two weeks on the trip from Stellenbosch, having left there on 16th, and taking the train as far as Bethulie, which is on the Orange River, where there is a big railroad bridge blown up. I tell you they made a job of it as there are five big spans blown clean out of place. On our way up we passed six bridges that had been blown up and also saw a few battle fields. This is without a doubt the worst country I ever saw. There is nothing here, and I do not know where all the Boers come from as you do not see one house in every ten miles. From Bethulie we escorted a convoy of remounts and wagons and it was a very tedious journey as we also had a battalion of infantry and could not make more than 10 miles a day. I was mounted orderly for the commanding officer, and as I was all over I saw some funny sights, particularly crossing a river. They never drive less than ten mules as a team and from sixteen to eighteen oxen. It is funny to see the nigger drivers. There are two to each wagon, one to whip and one to drive and the mules go pretty nearly where ever they like, but it is fine to see wagon after wagon of big oxen. The convoy in all was over three miles in length and in all was a fine sight. Our horses are doing very well out here and are far above anything I have seen here yet. We feed oats and wheat straw that has been cut green, and it makes fine feed. We had some good sport part of the way up when we formed the advance guard and had to cover a frontage of three miles and had to examine the farm houses that came in our way. It was funny to see me go up to a farm house with three men and demand a big Boer to present his passport. Some of the farmers used us fine and gave us stuff to eat and drink. Several nights we had to sleep with our arms on as an attack was expected on the convoy. The climate is peculiar here; it is very cold at nights and the dew will almost soak you, and in the day time it is very hot. The grub is getting worse every day as we have no chance to buy anything now, but it seems to agree with me as I never felt better in my life. Two of our fellows were hurt badly by horses stumbling and falling on them.

You should see some of the houses of the niggers and the families that live in them. Most of the families must have about twenty in little huts about twenty feet across built of stone and mud. Most of the smaller children go bare naked. I had quite a feather in my cap in being picked as mounted orderly for the commanding officers, who were Lord Albermarle and Colonel McKinnon. I saw Lord Kitchener on our way up. We are in General Hutton's division. He inspected us to-day and seemed very well pleased with us.

I guess this will be a funny letter to make out but as we are writing under a great disadvantage, I guess you will have more time to read it than I have to write it.

We received the first mail to-day we have gotten since we left Stellenbosch and all the boys are busy writing. Our writing accommodation is anything but good. I am writing this letter with my paper on a short piece of board with a candle on the end of it. I remain,

Your affectionate son,
PERCY R. PRICE.

Do You Fear Heart Failure?

No death comes so suddenly and unexpectedly as that caused by heart failure, but the trouble had its beginning; months or perhaps years before when the blood became thin and watery and the nerves exhausted. Gradually the waste has become more rapid than the process of repair, the tissues of the heart have become diseased and finally some over exertion or nervous shock has caused the heart to cease and life to depart. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food prevents heart failure and all similar diseases by creating new, rich blood and nerve force, and building up the system.

Horses and cattle have colic and cramps. Pain-Killer will cure them every time. Half a bottle in hot water repeated a few times. Avoid substitutes, there is but one Pain-Killer, Perry Davis'. 25c. and 50c.

The Bicyclists in the Regiment to Bring Their Wheels Along To-night.

The 57th will march out for drill to-night. The regiment will be practiced in the attack as laid down in General Hutton's pamphlet of instructions, issued from headquarters, to occupy the position indicated.

All members of the regiment who have bicycles are requested to bring them along and to be at the drill shed at 7:45 o'clock. Those bringing bicycles should also have a couple of straps for attaching their rifle to the wheel. This will be a test of the wheel in practical work on the field.

SUNDAY SCHOOL MEETINGS

Afternoon Session at the Y. M. C. A.—Gathering To-night at St. Andrew's.

The town Sunday School rally opened this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Y. M. C. A. hall, where there was a fair attendance of workers, the Sunday school teachers being especially interested. Rev. H. Symonds presided. Among those present were Rev. J. Campbell Tibb and Mrs. Duncan, of Toronto, both active provincial workers. Their addresses were of special interest.

The public are cordially invited to the rally to-night at St. Andrew's. It promises to be of deep and general interest. Addresses will be delivered by Rev. J. C. Tibb and Rev. Mr. Bastow.

Creditors and Fire Insurance.

Last week's Monitary Times says:—"We have already remarked the disastrous effect on weak traders of insuring their stocks for one-fourth or one-half value, or neglecting to insure at all. In such a case their creditors have to suffer by the fires which ruin retail customers. Instances are plentiful enough of this, but the Hull and Ottawa fire is a new and unpleasant reminder. Previous instances have been cited, of merchants asking compromises by reason of having lost their all by fire. Two more such cases are mentioned in our summary columns to-day. One firm, we perceive, asks a compromise at 40 cents, because, having lost $35,000 stock it had only $22,000 insurance. But this sum in fire insurance will suffice to pay 63 cents on the dollar. Why compromise at forty?"

BENSFORT BRIEFS

A Newsy Budget From South Monaghan —Crop Prospects.

The high-water men were viewing the Trent waters again on 24th and 25th.

The 24th was honored in the usual way, angling being one of the chief local attractions.

Messrs. D. Graham and H. Walker have joined the local cycling association.

Mr. Andrew Kent will build a new wharf soon on the north shore, about a mile west from Campbelltown for readier facilities in the disposal of passengers and freight from that part of Otonabee.

Mr. W. R. Morrison has recently erected in front of his residence a flag pole, tall, handsome and neatly painted. At the top is placed a miniature pony, elegant in appearance and continually exhibiting the finest qualities of a high stepper.

Messrs. Ross and Watson did a good season's work manufacturing shingles during the winter on the Walker farm, Otonabee, near Campbelltown. About seventy-five thousand of the cut will be used in Monaghan. Quite a number have already been used, and it is found they lay truly and make a handsome and durable roof.

The old traction engine which has been for a number of years in use near here in the manufacture of lumber, shingles, chopped grain, etc., will be removed by Mr. Oscar Craig, to Hiawatha, to be continued in use there making shingles.

Mr. Craig intended crossing the new bridge, but the caretakers have advised transportation by scow, owing to unevenness of the weight, when engine is travelling.

Mr. Smith has replaced the whole of the saw-mill outfit by another west of the bridge, and intends placing a new wharf there also for the convenience of steamers.

According to appearances there will be a vigorous growth of apples. There will also be a fine showing in cherries, but in plums nothing; most of the small fruits show at least prospects for an average. Clover and grasses grew very slowly during the first half of May, but are making good advancement since, showing a thrifty color. Fall wheat generally stood the slow growth of early spring very poorly, and many pieces show plain evidences of backward tendencies. The spring crops though a little late to begin are making rapid progress, and so far show unusually well. The weather being quite favorable, seeding was completed in good time.

A Coming Sunday School Event—The Queen's Birthday.

Miss Lydia Crowe, of Peterborough, spent the 24th in this place with her mother.

Mr. C. E. Shaw, who teaches school in this neighborhood, has just returned from a visit home in Otonabee.

At a meeting of the Glen Sabbath school executive on Tuesday evening last, it was decided that a grove social be held on Wednesday evening, June 6th, for the benefit of the school and more particularly for the entertainment of the children.

The Queen's Birthday was celebrated by a number of the young people of this neighborhood, at McGregor's landing, where they passed a very enjoyable day in boating and outdoor amusements.

Mr. F. Payne, while attending to his farm duties the other morning, in attempting to stop some colts as they approached him at full speed, was knocked down, and very seriously injured. It is expected he will recover, after perhaps some weeks of care.

POULTRY POINTERS.

Do not use a fat, clumsy male if you desire fertile eggs.

One-half of the failures with brooders is due to a lack of warmth.

Roosting in damp quarters is a fertile cause of roup among fowls.

If the eggshells are fed to poultry, care should always be taken to crush them well before feeding.

One can depend, with close, careful plucking, upon an average of one pound of feathers per bird from a flock of geese every year.

It pays to feed the young fowls liberally until full grown. As with all other young stock, once stunted they never regain their full vigor, no matter how well fed.

Care must be taken not to get the hens too fat. An overfat hen either will not lay at all or her eggs will be worthless for hatching on account of being double yolked or soft shelled or both.

When eggs are received from a distance, they should be carefully unpacked, laid in a tray and put in a dark, cool place for at least 24 hours before putting them under a hen.

RESTORED TO HEALTH.

One of the best known men in East Durham county is Steven O. Taylor, Charlecote, Ontario. His sufferings from rheumatism in the back (lumbago) for four years were known to everybody in the county. It was with the greatest difficulty, and only with agonizing pain that he sat down upon or arose from a chair, and walking was simply torture; neither the skill of physicians, nor the enormous quantities of patent medicines he took, gave him any relief until he tried Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure. After taking the first few doses of this wonderful medicine he obtained relief, and, continuing the treatment, a complete cure was effected. He has not been troubled with an ache or pain since and speaks in praiseworthy terms of the medicine which restored him to health—Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure.

PANICS IN BATTLES.

ODD EVENTS THAT AT TIMES DEMORALIZE VETERANS.

Two Terrifying Incidents That Occurred During the Franco-Prussian War—Madness May Seize Even the Most Hardened Troops.

It is a peculiar circumstance that hardened and trained troops will go through a long fight surrounded by all the horrors that are inseparable from war without flinching and with the utmost apparent callousness, and the same men will be struck terrified by a single trifling incident.

Every war of any importance, particularly wars between civilized nations, is prolific in incidents of trivial character in themselves, but so unusual and unnatural that they appeal to the natural instinctive horror of men more suddenly and intensely than perhaps the main terrors of days of carnage and surrounding seas of suffering. Such an incident is the one, for example, which occurred at the battle of Worth, in the early days of the Franco-Prussian war.

In the heat of the great battle a wing of the Prussian army was charged by the regiments of French cuirassiers in the hope of turning the wing and facilitating the falling back of the French infantry. But the cuirassiers were driven back by the unflinching Prussians. Again the cuirassiers charged, and again they were driven back by the withering fire of shot and shell.

For a third time they came down again, and as the enemy waited for them to draw nearer a horrible, blood freezing terror seized the Prussians, and for the moment it looked as if they would turn and fly or be cut down without defending themselves. But in a moment they had pulled themselves together and beaten back for the third and last time the gallant cuirassiers.

The sight that terrified the Prussians appears nothing very much in black and white. It was a regiment of cuirassiers led at a dashing rate toward them by a headless officer sitting upright in his saddle and apparently encouraging on his men. It was no less a person that Futsum de Lascarre of the Third regiment of cuirassiers, whose head had been carried completely off his shoulders as the troop broke into the third desperate charge by a cannon ball, which also took off another officer's hand and cut the bugler in two.

It is remarkable and singular that at the battle of Forbach, which took place the same day as Worth, a very similar incident occurred and did more to shake the nerves of the Germans than hours of roaring cannon and fighting had done.

While a regiment of Prussian infantry were standing in reserve watching the fight as well as they could from their position of shelter a charger belonging to a French dragoon regiment, one which was practically destroyed in the battle, galloped right into the midst of the men who rushed to arrest it and immediately fell back in alarm, for swinging to the bridle was the whole left arm of the charger's rider, the fingers of the hand firmly grasping the reins. The arm appeared to have been severed a few inches below the shoulder and was certainly that of an officer, but who the officer was has never been satisfactorily established.

So moved were the hardened men of battle at the horrible sight that no one would touch the horse, and the animal was allowed to gallop off, to be killed a few minutes later in crossing before some Prussian guns. Thrilling as the incident was, many of the brave fellows who witnessed it declared that their first, almost irresistible, impulse was to throw down their arms and bolt. Yet it was with the help of just such men that General von Goben routed the French that memorable day in August, 1870.

It is a well known fact that the finest and bravest troops the world can produce have no immunity from that strange and mysterious madness known to military history as "war panic." A heavy war, frequent sanguinary engagements, night marches and surprises sometimes play havoc with soldiers' nervous systems and render them more like high spirited colts than men who have taken the field prepared to suffer immeasurable horrors and take death cheerfully.

During the peninsular war two British regiments, the very pick of the army and seasoned veterans, were marching along in good order when a rumor ran down the lines that the enemy was at hand. The next moment the line of orderly soldiers was changed into an elongated mob of armed men throwing away arms, baggage and all they carried, running away in every direction, blind terror in their hearts, their faces blanched and their ears deaf to the thundered commands of their officers.

For the moment they knew but one sentiment, one emotion, a sudden, passionate, blind terror, and they fled without thinking whether they were running into the arms of the thing they dreaded or not. It was a terror that was madness, and only its madness redeems it from dishonor. If anything were necessary to demonstrate the unnaturalness of the panic it would be done by the grand fact that the moment it became known that the enemy was really at hand the men instantly fell in and showed the utmost eagerness to attack.

Such "war panics" are mysteries. Even the most experienced military officer cannot satisfactorily explain them. There is something so unnaturally—almost uncannily—unreasonable about them which eliminates any dishonor, and it is particularly remarkable that "war panics" have mostly occurred among regiments whose fearlessness and prowess have made the hearts of their countrymen heave with pride.

Remember

that you cannot possibly be happy or successful unless you sleep soundly, eat heartily, and digest what you eat.

Remember

that if your nervous system needs toning you will be miserable yourself and make those you come in contact with miserable.

Remember

that in Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills you have a remedy that has never yet failed to cure any disease caused by impoverished blood, such as Pale Greenish or Sallow Complexion, Nervous Prostration, Weakness, Loss of Appetite, Dyspepsia and Stomach Disorders, Headache, Depression of Spirits, Lack of Energy, Puffiness and Dark Circles under the Eyes, Pain in the Back, Kidney and Liver Disorders, and Catarrh.

Paradoxical.

"Mr. Upham," said one of the young women, "our club is going to give a measuring social this week, and we want you to come."

"A measuring social?" he asked. "What is that?"

"You pay 25 cents for every foot of your height and 10 cents for each extra inch."

"I wish I could go to oblige you," said Mr. Upham, who measured 6 feet 8, "but I am a little too long and a great deal too short."—Chicago Tribune.

Great Bodily Strength and Vigor Required of All Applicants.

In New York applicants for appointment as firemen must be recommended by four citizens well acquainted with the applicant before they are admitted to their examinations. These consist of several severe tests and require great bodily strength and vigor. Those who pass them merely become eligible for possible requisition in case of a vacancy. When a candidate is called to fill a vacancy, he must first serve a probationary period of one month, during which he is assigned to a company for work. In addition to that he must attend daily at the Firemen's School of Instruction, where candidates are put through a course of special athletics, such as climbing ladders, handling scaling hooks, sliding down hose pipes, jumping into life nets and the like. If by the end of the month the chief instructor and the foreman of their company report the candidates fit for fire duty, they are appointed as privates, or firemen of the fourth grade, with a salary of $800. In the third grade the salary is $1,000, in the next $1,200 and in the first $1,400.

One year at least must be spent in each grade. Removal can only be for cause, subject to review by the courts. All members of the New York fire department are beneficiaries of a relief fund, which now amounts to nearly $1,500,000. In case of disability a fireman receives half his pay. One-half of his yearly pay likewise goes as a pension to his wife or children in case of death. In addition to this there is a life insurance fund yielding an immediate amount of $1,000 to the widow or children of any deceased fireman.

In spite of the uncommon risks run by all firemen, the mortality among them is exceedingly low. The dangers of their calling seem to be more than compensated by their rugged health and hardihood. As a rule, they are able to endure without serious consequences pain and exposure that would kill an ordinary business man or at least ruin his health for life.—Collier's Weekly.

The Point of View.

The Bird in the Hand assumed his most winning aspect and addressed the Bird in the Bush.

"It is conceded," said he, "that my position renders me worth twice as much as you are, but I will trade places with you, even up, asking nothing to boot!"

But the Bird in the Bush thought he could detect something of disingenuousness in this seemingly magnanimous offer and flew away.—Detroit Journal.

The Real Thing.

Evelyn (who enjoys teasing)—Why, no, Johnny. Of course she loves Betty and me best! Just think, she was our mother long before she was yours!

Johnny (scornfully)—Hoh! What of that? You are nothing but a sample copy, anyway! And Betty's only a trial subscription! But I am the real thing! —Life.

THE SAILOR AS A POLICEMAN.

He Has a Hard Time Trying to Drop His Nautical Lingo.

The pole of an express wagon made a wreck of the side of a car, and one of the wheels of the wagon broke, and another truck hauled it off to the junk shop. The sergeant at a down town police station was figuring up his life insurance policies when a tall, lank policeman who was originally a sailor walked in and handed him this slip:

"Shortly after 8 bells this morning a serious collision occurred on Broadway north of Rector street. A traction car with a full cargo of passengers bound south was run into by an express wagon, light, bound north. The wagon struck the car on the port side forward, the jibboom of the truck going through the side of the car. The upper works of the car were carried away for a distance of several feet, and the wagon, rebounding, the jibboom raked the car clear fore and aft. Some of the passengers were thrown to the deck, and a panic was narrowly averted by the crew of the car. The forward propeller of the truck on the port side was carried away, and she careened by the head, throwing the pilot to the icy pavement. The truck was subsequently taken in tow by a passing vehicle under a verbal agreement as to salvage. There were no other casualties."

They were discussing the fitness of this report at police headquarters some weeks later, when an east side assemblyman who was present hauled a letter from his pocket and said:

"Well, I have a report that beats that all over. You remember McCann, who opened a saloon up town after he came from sea? He couldn't keep things going, so he went out with a western railroad. He married recently, and this is what he wrote me of the affair:

"My wife is just as handsome a craft as ever left a millinery drydock, is clipper built and with a figurehead not often seen on small craft. At the time we were spliced she was newly rigged fore and aft, with standing rigging of lace and flowers; mainsail part silk and forestaysail of valenciennes. Her frame was of the best steel covered with silk, with whalebone stanchions. This rigging is intended for fair weather cruising. She answers the helm beautifully and can turn around in her own length if handsomer craft passes her."

"Well, it may be another story," remarked one of the inspectors, "but that craft is likely to run up against a pretty bad squall in marrying McCann. But, seriously, I know hundreds of members of the police force who were originally at sea and who have a most trying time dropping their nautical lingo when discussing a subject. Easier for them to stop breathing than to drop their belays and avasts."—New York Mail and Express.

Where Bulk Was an Advantage.

William M. Evarts, with all his wit and brilliancy, was once outwitted by Senator David Davis, who weighed over 300 pounds and whose figure was nearly the same circumference as it was in the perpendicular. He and Evarts were twitting each other about personal size at a dinner one evening, and finally Davis said:

"If you will let me choose the course, I will bet you $100 that with three yards' start I can beat you in a race of 100 feet."

Every one at the table laughed and said:

"Take him up, Mr. Evarts."

The wager was laid, and Mr. Davis was asked when he would race, to which he replied that he was ready at once. The whole party then adjourned to the course chosen by Senator Davis. This proved to be an alley between two houses just three feet in width and 100 feet deep. He stepped into the mouth three yards, and said "Go!" and walked through quite leisurely.

Mr. Evarts could get neither past him nor under him, and he called Davis back to the street and paid the bet.—Harper's Weekly.

Theorist's Idea of Punishment.

"In punishing children I adopt the system of like cures like," said the theorist, leaning over the garden wall. "If my little boy pulled my little girl's hair, I should tug his in just the same way, and if he willfully trod on the dog's foot I should tread on his toe. Whatsoever pain he inflicted on others I would make him feel himself."

"It sounds all right," commented the neighbor, "but I guess it wouldn't work with my son Tom. He's the very soul of natural cruelty. The other morning he put out a sparrow's eyes with his catapult and let the poor beggar fly away again. What would you have done in that case—put his eyes out too?"

"No, sir," answered the theorist promptly. "I should have tied a black handkerchief over his eyes and kept it there until he'd learned to see without 'em!"—Scraps.

The Boy Was Benefited.

"The other afternoon," said the man in the box office of a theater, "a boy came to me and said, 'Are these any good?' and I took from him two front row seats for that night which had been torn into a hundred pieces or so and then cleverly pasted together again. 'Oh, yes, my child. But how did this strange accident happen to the tickets?'

"The boy replied: 'Why, papa came home with them last night and showed them to mamma, and he seemed to be in such good humor somehow that mamma thought it would be a good time then to tell him how she owed over $100 for provisions. She told him of it, but he got so mad that he said that every night now he wouldn't come home till after 12 o'clock, and he told me for heaven's sake when I got married to look out for a sensible woman. All the time mamma laughed, and he was getting madder, and so he said she wouldn't go to the theater with him after that, and he tore the tickets up and rushed out somewhere alone. He ain't back yet either, but mamma don't care. I picked up the pieces off the carpet and pasted them together, and if you'll exchange the tickets for matinee ones I guess I'll come down on Saturday with some other fellow and take in the show.'

"I gave other tickets to the candid kid, and he walked away very well pleased with himself."—Philadelphia Record.

Nerves and Hair Picking.

"Persons whose nerves are in any way out of gear should not pick hair," observed a well known specialist in nervous diseases to a reporter, "and indeed I am almost willing to go further and to say that they should not handle mattresses or pillows stuffed with hair. The tactile nerves, the nerves that are located in the ends of the fingers, seem to be specially affected by handling of hair or animal wools of any kind.

"Many good housewives do themselves great injury in picking hair in the repair or alteration of mattresses, and, while they think they will save money by doing such work themselves, they often find out that, besides the personal suffering in consequence, they pay out many times in doctors' and medicine bills what they save from mattress makers.

"I know of some persons, men more frequently than women, however, who would be thrown into nervous spasms if they were compelled to handle velvet for 15 minutes—that is, to handle it on the fuzzy or velvety side. Those who are unpleasantly affected by velvet know it and therefore avoid it as much as possible."—Washington Star.

The Spider and the Tuning Fork.

A gentleman was recently watching some spiders, when it occurred to him to try what effect the sound of a tuning fork would have upon them. He suspected that they would take it for the buzzing of a fly. He selected a large, ugly spider that had been feasting on flies for about two months. The spider was at one edge of its web. Sounding the fork, the man touched a thread at the other side and watched the result.

Mr. Spider had the buzzing sound conveyed to him over his telephone wires, but how was he to know on which particular wire it was traveling? He ran to the center of the web very quickly and felt around until he touched the thread against the other end of which the fork was sounding; then, taking another thread along, just as a man would take an extra piece of rope, he ran out to the fork and sprang upon it. Then he retreated a little way and looked at the fork. He was puzzled. He had expected to find a buzzing fly. Then, strange to say, he got on the fork again and danced with delight. Evidently the sound was music to him.

Poor Quality of Blood

A Frequent Cause of Consumption, Heart Failure and Other Constitutional Diseases—Dr. Chase's Nerve Food as a Blood Builder.

The heart, the lungs, the stomach, the liver, the kidneys, and bowels cannot perform their functions and repair wasted tissue when supplied with blood that is deficient in nutritive qualities, and sooner or later the weakest organ succumbs to the attacks of disease.

The indications of thin, watery blood are paleness of the lips, gums, and eyelids, shortness of breath, weakness of heart action, and languid, despondent feelings. These symptoms are usually accompanied by nervousness, sleeplessness, and general weakness of the body.

It is positively useless to doctor the symptoms, and injurious to use opiates or stimulants. Cure can be brought about gradually and certainly by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, which contains in condensed pill form all the elements required for strengthening and revitalizing the blood. As a blood builder and nerve restorative, Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is of inestimable value. In pill form, 50 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Sentenced to Death.

"You are in the last stages of Consumption and cannot live more than a month," were the words of doom heard by Mrs. Rosa Richardson, of Laurel Springs, N.C., from her doctors, "but she began to use Dr. King's New Discovery" writes R. L. Daughton, of that place, "and was wholly cured by it. She is now a stout, well woman." It's the supreme cure for desperate diseases of throat and lungs. Infallible for Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma, Croup, Whooping Cough. Guaranteed bottles 50c. and $1.00. Trial bottles free at J. Lynch's drug store.

The Provincial Committee of the Y.M.C.A., will establish association tents at all the volunteer camps this year.

DECEASED WIFE'S SISTER BILL.

Lord Strathcona's Measures Has Passed the Second Reading.

London, May 29.—In the House of Lords yesterday Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal moved the second reading of the Colonial marriage to a deceased's wife's sister bill. The Lord High Chancellor, Earl Halsbury, opposed the bill, which he said would alter the law of inheritance of real property in Great Britain. The difficulty, he pointed out, rested in the fact that the colonial law was different from the British law. Finally the bill passed its second reading, amid cheers, by a vote of 116 to 31. The minority against the marriage bill included the Marquis of Salisbury and the Duke of Abercorn. The majority included the Prince of Wales, the Duke of Connaught, the Duke of York, Duke of Devonshire and the Marquis of Lansdowne.

BELGIANS CUT OFF.

Defending Themselves Against the Chinese Boxers on a Hill.

Tien-Tsin, May 28.—Via Shanghai, May 29.—It is reported that, while retreating several Belgians and their families were cut off at Chang-Hsin-Tsin, 10 kilometres from Feng-Tai. They are now defending themselves on a hill. No Pekin trains are running. The Boxers are now burning Feng-Tai. It is reported that the safety of Belgian engineers is doubtful. Several missionaries have been cut off at Pao-Ting-Fu.

MATTERS IN THE COMMONS

Sir Charles Tupper Prods the Premier to His Duty.

Leader of the Opposition Wants to Know the Composition of the Election Commission—Payment of Salaries Delayed—Sessional Clerks Have Not Received Their Pay on Time—Customs and Post-office Estimates in Committee.

Ottawa, May 29. — In the House this afternoon, Sir Charles Tupper called Sir Wilfrid Laurier's attention to his promise to appoint a royal commission to investigate election charges immediately. The House had waited long and patiently. It was time some information was given. When would the commission be appointed? When would the judges begin work? What would be the scope of the commission?

The Personnel Settled.

Sir Wilfrid replied that the personnel of the commission had been settled and its scope nearly defined, but its completion had been delayed owing to the illness of the Minister of Justice. Full information would be given by the middle of the week.

The Yukon Question.

The old story of dilatory action on the part of the Ministers was brought up by Sir Hibbert Tupper, when he complained that William Ogilvie's report on the administration of the Yukon had not been received.

Mr. Sutherland replied that he had wired for it.

Why Don't They Pay?

Mr. Casgrain informed the House that the sessional clerks and messengers had received no salary since April 25, and as a result their families were suffering want. A bill relating to this matter had passed the House on Wednesday, and the Senate had been paid by order of their speaker. Why were not the Commons' officials paid?

Mr. Fielding acknowledged the lack and blamed the Auditor-General. He hoped, however, that that official's heart would be softened now that the necessary bill had passed Commons.

The Criminal Code was looked at for a few minutes, and now, with amendments, stands for a third reading.

The Customs Estimates.

Mr. Paterson asked for $322,590 for Ontario, an increase of $9,350 over last year, and the estimates were discussed in Committee in detail.

Messrs. Cargill and McNeil urged the claims of Collector McNamara of Walkerton.

Mr. Paterson promised to continue thinking on the matter. Mr. Wallace added his voice on the matter........ added his voice to the others, and pointed out that the collector at Bowmanville got $1,000 from the beginning, while the collector at Walkerton got but $600 after 20 years' faithful service. The ports of Bowmanville and Walkerton were equal in collections. Why was there this discrimination? The only answer was that Liberal appointees got the higher rate.

Items totalling over a million dollars were passed in the Customs estimates. Sir Wilfrid Laurier asked for $353,750 for the Northwest Mounted Police. This is the same as last year. He said that the force now numbered 547 men. Of these 175 were in the Yukon; 75 more would be sent there from Regina.

Davin Finds Fault.

Mr. Davin took occasion to find fault with the management of the police. No tenders were called upon for supplies, and the officers were not recruited from the ranks.

Sir Wilfrid replied that the supplies were such that tenders could not be called for 80 per cent. of them. For the rest, tenders were always asked. The bulk of the supplies had to be bought from local dealers, for the squads of police were scattered over a wide territory. As to the management of the force, Sir Wilfrid declared the officers had been supplied from the R.M.C., the militia and the force.

After discussion the item went through.

Postoffice Estimates.

The post office estimate came next. Six hundred dollars less than last year was asked. The total item was $202,455. Sir Adolphe Caron intimated that the decrease was due to the withholding of the statutory increase of inside clerks. The Postmaster-General declared that the increases were not statutory, as he viewed the law. He said, however, that in the supplementary estimates there would be provisions for the statutory increases.

Sir Adolphe Caron pointed out that the Act provided for these statutory increases, yet the grant asked now did not include them. To his mind it was a peculiar method of saving money, and an equally peculiar method of viewing law.

Yukon Mail Service.

In reply to Mr. Wallace, Mr. Mulock said that everything in connection with the Yukon mail service was charged to the Interior Department. This was censured by the Opposition.

The committee reported progress and got leave to sit again at 12.45. The House then adjourned.

AROUND THE CORRIDORS.

Ottawa, May 29. — Comptroller White of the N.W.M.P., says that the recruiting officers are finding no difficulty in filling the ranks made vacant by the departure of the S. A. contingents. Already 275 recruits have been secured.

Closed on Sundays.

Ontario Commissioner Jardine, at Paris, wired Hon. Mr. Fisher yesterday morning: "Colonial Building, including Canadian, Australian and Mauritian, also Vincenne's Canadian exhibit, closed Sundays."

No Mausers for Canada.

The Militia Department some time ago asked the Imperial War Office to send Mauser rifles captured from Boers to Canada to arm the militia. Lord Lansdowne has refused to accede to the request, because their introduction would necessitate a change in Canadian ammunition factories.

The Lawry Strike in Hamilton.

At the request of T. Wood M.P., Sir Wilfrid Laurier is using the telegraph wires to ascertain the truth of the statement that Lawry & Cox of Hamilton are engaging men in Detroit to take the place of their striking workmen.

The Election Commissioners.

Mr. Fitzpatrick said last night that Chancellor Boyd would be the chairman of the Royal Commission to investigate election charges. The other two judges will be County Court judges. The official list will be handed out this morning.

What is Dr. Chase's Nerve Food?

In appearance Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is an oval, chocolate coated pill. In this condensed form it contains all of nature's most strengthening and invigorating tonics and restoratives and for this reason it is unapproached as a blood builder and nerve restorative. It cures all diseases caused by thin blood and exhausted nerves and makes pale, weak nervous men, women and children strong and healthy. 50 cents a box.

Cooking and Eating.

If we ate properly, the physician would lose his occupation. And we can eat for whatever we want—to get fat, to get lean, to be nervous or phlegmatic or to stop or encourage the ravages of disease. An "open door" awaits them all. Is it too much to hope that the twentieth century will see a law compelling cooks to take a medical course?

Almost There Already.

Miss Fortee—Yes, dear, we have been engaged for a long time, but what has prevented me from taking the irrevocable step has always been the fateful question, "Will he love me when I grow old?"

Miss Tenny—Don't worry, darling; you'll soon know now.—Stray Stories.

May Be Made Useful.

McJigger—Krusty is suffering from dyspepsia now.

Thingumbob—Ah, that's a blessing in disguise!

McJigger—A blessing?

Thingumbob—Sure. He can blame that hereafter for his horrible disposition.—Philadelphia Press.

More Than He Could Stand.

"What's this?" demanded the police, hurrying to the scene. "A hold up?"

A pale, scholarly looking man in spectacles was standing over a burly ruffian and shaking his slender fist at the prostrate form

"I presume that is what you would term it," he replied. "This fellow stopped me just now and ordered me to hold up my hands. I complied, and he began to search my pockets. 'I will put a bullet through you,' he said, 'if you take them down all during the time I am'— And then I knocked him down. 'All during' is an abominable perversion of correct English that no man can utter in my presence unrebuked."

The unlucky footpad had tackled a professor of rhetoric.—Chicago Tribune.

And He Knew.

"Algernon is very interesting," said the stockbroker's daughter.

"What does he talk about?" inquired her father.

"Why, he's ever so well posted in Shakespearean quotations."

"Young woman," said the financier sternly, "don't you let him deceive you. Don't you let him make sport of your ignorance. There ain't no such stock on the market."—London Standard.

How Dan Rice "Fixed It."

To Dan Rice the people of Lewiston are indebted for their town clock. He exhibited his circus in this town in the fifties without a license and the next day was arrested at McVeytown. So that his show might not be delayed he promised to give a clock to the town if he was permitted to go on, and he kept his promise faithfully—Lewiston (Me.) Free Press.

Chinese Dinner Invitations.

"When a Chinaman issues invitations to dinner," writes Dr. Sven Hedin, the traveler, "he sends out, one or two days beforehand, a tiny card of invitation, contained in a huge envelope. If you accept the invitation, you are supposed to keep the card. If you have not time—that is, if you decline—you are expected to send it back. If the banquet is appointed for 12 o'clock, you need not go before 2 p. m."

Lifelike.

Sir Robert Peel was once going through a picture collection with a friend where there was a portrait of a prominent Englishman who was famous for saying sharp things.

"How wonderfully like," said the friend. "You can see the quiver on his lips."

"Yes," replied Sir Robert, "and the arrows coming out of it."—Youth's Companion.

"That boy," she said when her husband reached home, "is just like you."

"Been naughty again, has he?" he returned.

Long experience had taught him the circumstances in which she noted the resemblance between father and son, and years ago the remark had ceased to flatter him.—Chicago Post.

THE MASTER'S FRIEND.

The master went to a distant land,
  With a foreign foe to fight,
And the master's wife was glad of it,
  But she hid her false delight
And came to him with a tearful face
  And begged of him to stay.
But the master's hound was sorry,
  And it went and hid it away.

The master's ship, from the harbor's mouth,
  Beat out to the stormy sea,
And his wife staid late at my lady's ball,
  Rejoicing to be free.
They said she shone like a jewel there,
  And she heard it with delight,
But she could not sleep for the master's hound,
  For it howled through the livelong night.

The master died—he was shot to death
  In that land beyond the sea—
And they brought his body home to lie
  In a grave by the cypress tree,
And the master's widow hid her face
  And made believe she cried,
But the master's hound staid by his grave
  Till it starved to death—and died.

HOW MONTANA WAS NAMED.

Governor Denver Suggested the Title to Stephen A. Douglas.

F. M. Clevenger, a lawyer of Wilmington, O., in an interesting letter tells how Montana was named. He says:

"In the year 1888 I was a law student in the law office of the late General J. D. Denver in Washington and also occupied the position of confidential clerk to him. During a conversation between us about Montana territory the general asked me if I knew how the territory got its name. I answered in the negative, and he remarked. 'I am the only person living who knows,' and proceeded in his modest way to relate the incident to me.

"Denver had been the much loved territorial governor of Kansas, which at that time included the greater part, if not all, of the present state of Colorado. He was very intimate with Stephen A. Douglas. I cannot remember the exact time of this incident as given me by General Denver, but it was after Denver had been governor of Kansas territory and before Douglas ceased to be a senator. Douglas sent for Denver to come to his house, which was in Washington, both being there at the time. During the evening's conversation Douglas said that he was going to introduce a bill to form some new territories and wanted Denver to give him an appropriate name. He had a map of the country before him. Colorado was the first name suggested, but Douglas replied, 'I have suggested that name for this one,' pointing on the map to what is now the state of Colorado. 'I want a name for a territory I am going to mark out up here in the mountains.'

"Denver's life in the west and service in the Mexican war made him familiar with many Spanish words, and he remarked, 'Why not call it Montana?'

"Douglas immediately said, 'What does it mean?' Denver replied, 'It is a Spanish word and means a mountainous country.'

"Douglas' wife was one of the most noted linguists of the capital, and he, doubting Denver's knowledge of Spanish, walked out into the hall and called to his wife, who was up stairs, and said, 'My dear, do you know any such word as "Montana?"' to which she readily replied, 'It is a Spanish word and means a mountainous country.'

"Douglas returned and said, 'Governor, it's just the word, and I will adopt it.' A bill followed in a few days in which 'Montana' appeared. The bill did not pass at that time and if I correctly remember the story not in the lifetime of Douglas, but the name stuck, and from that incident Montana got its name.

"General Denver was a very modest man and rarely even to intimate friends spoke of events with which he was connected, and as he is now dead I may be the only person who knows of the incident. I have given it to you as related to me by the general, and I thought your people might be interested not only in knowing the story, but in preserving it."—Chicago Inter Ocean.

A Kansas Blizzard.

"When a real Kansas blizzard starts," said a native of the state, "the snow at first is usually soft and fine and comes down with an ominous quiet. Then it increases in volume, and a wild wind hurls it along. It is blinding and enveloping, and, aside from being freezing cold, one cannot but lose his way. The storm sometimes lasts two or three days. When one of these blizzards comes up, the farmer who wants to get from his farmhouse to the stable or milkhouse takes a cord and starts for the stable or milkhouse, as it may be, even if it is only 50 yards off. He seldom makes it the first time, and the cord is to keep him from getting lost and wandering in the snow. Sometimes the people stand in the door and beat a tin can for a signal to any one who may be out in the storm, but this is of little use, as the noise of the wind is so great that it drowns almost every other sound.

"I know of a case of a man who got lost going from his stable to the house, so swiftly and blindingly did the storm whirl down upon him. He stumbled over the entrance to a cyclone cellar and crawled in there and dropped the door after him to keep out the snow. The snow fell faster and faster and buried the door so deeply that when it was all ended and he tried to open it he found it impossible. His family searched the country around for him, and it was not until the snow had melted and gone and some one happened to go into the cyclone cellar that he was found there."—New York Tribune.

Vest Was Committed.

"I remember well once when Joe Blackburn and I were on the same committee," said a senator. "It was during a Democratic administration, and there had been a good deal of bother trying to get the secretary of agriculture to agree to a certain thing, and Blackburn had been sent to talk him over to the committee's plan. In fact, the whole cabinet had been difficult to deal with. When Joe came back, several of us were assembled in the committee room, among us Senator Vest, who was sunk dejectedly in the depths of an armchair. Some one asked:

" 'Well, Joe, did you succeed?'

" 'Succeed?' he echoed. Then he began to tramp up and down, fuming and fussing. Finally he broke out:

" 'Of all the obstinate things in the shape of a cabinet officer I ever encountered, commend me to J. Sterling Morton! Don't you agree with me, Vest?'

"Vest roused up slowly and answered:

" 'I'm sorry, Joe, but I am committed to Hoke Smith.'

"It was the funniest thing I ever heard," continued the senator, "and our bill was never even reported."—Saturday Evening Post.

What He Would Have Said.

In a complicated criminal case an old land surveyor was subpœnaed to give his professional opinion in the matter. As the proceedings were about to begin he asked permission to say a few words, but was called to order sternly by the judge, who told him to wait till he was questioned. The case then proceeded. A host of witnesses were examined, and even the prisoner frequently was called upon to make a statement.

After a couple of hours the judge said to the old surveyor, "Now, sir, we shall be glad to hear what you have to say on the whole case."

The witness stood up and replied: "I only wished to remark awhile ago that I am quite deaf in my left ear and rather hard of hearing in the right. I was merely going to ask if I might be allowed to sit immediately in front of the witnesses and the prisoner. Up to now I have not heard a single word of the proceedings."—London Telegraph.

Foote Could Be Caustic.

One of the best repartees on record is that of Foote, the actor. Dining with some friends, a heated dispute arose between himself and a young nobleman. The latter sought to disparage Foote by asking him what his father was.

"A tradesman," said Foote.

"Then, sir, it is a pity he did not make you one."

"And pray, let me ask, what was your father, my lord?"

"My father, Mr. Foote, was a gentleman."

"Then, my lord, it's a pity he did not make you one."—Collier's Weekly.

WITH IMPOSING CEREMONY

Bloemfontein, Monday, May 28.—Amid salutes and cheers and the singing of "God Save the Queen" the military governor, Major-General George Pretyman at noon formally proclaimed the annexation of the Free State under the designation of the Orange River Colony. The ceremony was somewhat imposing and the scene in the market square inspiring. A great concourse had gathered and the town was gay with bunting. The balconies and windows surrounding the square were crowded with ladies, among them Lady Roberts.

THE CAVALRY AT JOHANNESBURG

Germiston, May 29.—To-day's progress has been a grand triumphal march, and we are now in sight of the golden city. Generals French and Hutton cleared the left flank, smashing back the demoralized Boers, while Tucker's Division, forming in the centre, met no opposition. Our progress was steady. Boer prisoners say that all guns have been taken out of Johannesburg ahd removed to Pretoria. There will be no defence therefore when Lord Roberts marches in to-morrow. The Free Staters got behind us and are going south to surrender. The main body of the Boers retired to Oliphant's Fontein. After Johannesburg a two days' march will bring us to Pretoria. The men are elated at this success and spoiling for a fight. Lord Roberts is the most energetic man in the whole army.

BADEN-POWELL NOT LONG IDLE

NOT HEAD OF DISCONTENTS.

Sir Charles Tupper Denies Mr. Smalley's Assertions.

Opposition Leader Protests at the Kind of Stuff That Was Sent to the London Times About His Attitude Regarding Sending the Contingents—How the Farmers Are Robbed for Binder Twine.

Ottawa, May 30.—When the House opened yesterday afternoon Sir Charles Tupper took exception to correspondent Smalley's correspondence in the London Times, in which he stated that he (Sir Charles) was the mouthpiece of the Canadian discontent in sending the contingents. Nothing was further from the truth; indeed, the discontent was exhibited by Messrs. Tarte, Bourassa and Monet, three Liberals, one of them a Minister of the Crown.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said that he was at a loss to discover Sir Charles Tupper's motive in bringing up this matter, unless it was to prevent public opinion from dwelling too severely on certain dissentions said to exist in the Conservative party. He hinted that perhaps Mr. Smalley had formed his opinions by reading Sir Charles speeches at Quebec and Montreal. He closed by accusing Sir Charles of wobbling.

Sir Charles Tupper made a vigorous reply, reminding the House that the Premier had not yet taken the strong stand which he (the Speaker) had done regarding purity of elections. The incident then closed.

How the Farmer Is Robbed.

The next matter was binder twine. Mr. Taylor said there were numerous broken pledges to the credit of the Government in this connection, and he held that the blue book issued under the hand and seal of Hon. David Mills was a fulsome defence of the Government's action in respect to the manufacture and sale of binder twine product by convict labor. The fact was that the Government did not do business on business principles. A combine, aided and abetted by the Government, for the control of the binder twine to the disadvantage of the farmers, was the charge made by Mr. Taylor in his speech. Mr. Taylor insinuated that the selling of the Government binder twine to Bate & Sons, Ottawa, was in the nature of a favor extended by the Government for a favor received. The favor secured was in connection with Sir Wilfrid Laurier's purchase of a house. Sir Wilfrid has said in the House that he had paid $5,000 down and had given a mortgage for the balance of the purchase money, $4,500. Mr. Taylor read an abstract from the registry office, in which it was stated that the purchase price had been $9,500. The mortgage was for $5,500 and had been paid off by H. M. Bate, Robert MacKay and F. C. Edwards. Sir Wilfrid had told "a falsehood of a $1,000." In the opinion of Mr. Taylor it was disgraceful that the Prime Minister had to give favors to H. M. Bate & Sons, in order to get a favor in return. Mr. Taylor read a bewildering mass of figures, showing that in 1894-5 the farmers got the twine at 6¼c. The cost of production was 4½c, but the farmers paid from 12c to 15c a pound for it. In 1897 the fibre cost 8½c a pound, the twine was sold to Bate & Sons for 4½c, and then to the farmers at 10c a pound. In 1899 and in 1900 the twine that cost the Government 6c to make, cost the farmers from 12c to 14c a pound. In conclusion, he moved:

"That in the opinion of the House the system adopted by the Government for the past three years was unjust to the farmers, for they were charged from 100 to 200 per cent. more than the cost of production." Twine, he said, should be sold at 7c a pound, for the cost was only about 6c. These high prices were due to the action of a combine aided by the Government.

Hon. Mr. Fitzpatrick replied to Mr. Taylor and said his speech was simply an exhibition of slang-whanging. He said that twine was sold to dealers this year at 7c per pound. It was impossible for the Government to control the price of binder twine because the amount used yearly in Canada was 8,000 tons, while the amount made at Kingston never exceeded 500 tons. How could 500 tons control the price of 8,000 tons? The high price in 1899 and 1900 was due to the war in the Philippines. He said that the combine was aided more by the late Government than by the present one. He declared he would have all matters pertaining to binder twine referred to the Public Accounts Committee and have the question thoroughly threshed out.

Mr. Clancy replied to the Solicitor-General, and iterated and reiterated the fact that a combine did exist, aided by the Government. He claimed that the contracts given by the

He Obeyed the Judge.

Over a score of years ago Judge Fitzgerald was appointed to the bench of the district that includes Pima and Cochise counties, in Arizona. He found on coming to Tucson that formality was almost unknown in the courtroom. If the days were warm, the attorneys and attendants dispensed with coats. This to him appeared particularly disrespectful. He announced that smoking in the courtroom would not be tolerated and that coats must be worn under pain of the court's displeasure. The grand jury was called. Among the jurors summoned was a brawny miner, who appeared in his usual costume, a dark blue shirt and overalls.

"What do you mean," thundered the magistrate, "by appearing in this courtroom in your shirt sleeves? Where is your coat?"

"At home, judge," mildly returned the juror.

"Then go and get it! No, not a word, sir!" glaring down upon the man as he attempted to speak. "Go home and get your coat, sir, or I'll commit you for contempt!"

The miner went silently out. He didn't return that day nor the next, and the judge, after issuing a bench warrant for him, swore in another juror. About two weeks thereafter the original miner, dressed as the court demanded, again stepped within Judge Fitzgerald's range of vision. To the irate magistrate he tendered the explanation that his home and coat were both in Harshaw mountains, near the Mexican border, over 100 miles away, and that he had but obeyed the orders of his honor in going home after his coat.

A Good Stomach

Is essential to health and happiness, but don't blame the stomach for biliousness. It is the liver that is deranged, and causes poisonous bile to remain in the blood causing indigestion, headache and irregular action of the bowels. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills regulate the liver, kidneys and bowels and by their direct action on these organs effect prompt and lasting cures of biliousness, dyspepsia, headache and all kidney ailments. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers.

A question of great interest for intending insurers is which Canadian Life Company is in highest favor with the insuring Canadian public? The following table is a good indicator:

The Dish She Missed.

A story is told of an English woman who visited Washington and was taken to luncheon in the capitol restaurant by a senator whom she knew. When her friends afterward asked her how she enjoyed the luncheon, she said: "I enjoyed everything, but I was disappointed because there was no terrapin. I have heard so much of your American terrapin, and I really wanted to try it. I think I ate a little of everything they brought on except one thing. It was something dark and fat looking, served in a small dish. It looked rather dreadful, so I didn't try it. I was waiting for the terrapin, but there was none."

"Why," said one of the American friends, "that dark, fat looking stuff was terrapin!"

The English woman looked very much disappointed.

"Really?" she said. "Was it really? Was that terrapin? I'm so sorry I didn't try it. I fancied they'd bring it on whole, roasted, like goose."

Had Piles For 9 Years

Dominion Inspector of Steamboats Cured by Dr. Chase's Ointment.

False modesty and fear of the surgeon's knife prevent most people from appealing to their physicians for a cure for piles.

Many people suffer on year after year, robbed of their rest and sleep by the terrible itching, when they could be entirely cured by a single box of Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Mr. O. P. St. John, Dominion inspector of steamboats, living at 346 Shaw street, Toronto, states:—"I suffered for nine years from itching piles, at times being unable to rest on account of the annoyance caused by them. After trying almost all remedies in vain I began the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment, which entirely cured me. I cannot speak too highly of it. I have recommended it to several friends, all of whom have been cured by its use."

Dr. Chase's Ointment is recognized by physicians, druggists and the public in general as the only absolute cure for piles. 60 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates and Co., Toronto.

WEDNESDAY, MAY 30, 1900.

THE HOPES OF THE GUILTY ONES.

What do the Grits see in the Birmingham incident to cause them such anxiety to give it publicity. Our evening contemporary even gave up three or four columns of valuable space to the Toronto Star's story of the case. But what does it all amount too? Simply that Mr. Birmingham, who is well known as Conservative organizer in Ontario, claims that there is something due him from the party and that if the leader, Sir Charles Tupper, does not see his claim settled he is going to tell what he knows about some elections in 1896. Sir Charles Tupper immediately told Mr. Birmingham to go ahead with his programme, for he would not get a dollar from him. That is the whole story, and the Conservative press has endorsed Sir Charles Tupper's course, and demand that if Mr. Birmingham or any one else has been running a machine for election purposes that his record be investigated and exposed. There is no room in the Conservative party for men who live politically by a corrupt election machine. The Grit machine has been exposed, and condemned. But the Liberal Government at Toronto has not been equal to the task of disowning and punishing the machine that by crookedness, stealing and corruption kept them in power. They dare not deal with their corrupt election campaigners, but, on the contrary, gave them fat offices. Men who could tell of deeds that were dark or might be witnesses against the machine were sent to the States on salary. But the Conservative party can deal and will deal with machine politicians in a different way, and, if any have been guilty, punish them.

Of course there is nothing as yet to show that there is any machine work on behalf of the Conservative party. In fact, it is certain that there was no such organized criminal work as that practised by the Liberal machine in West Elgin, West Huron or Brockville. But, the fact that crookedness is hinted at in Mr. Birmingham's threat is enough to make the Liberals rejoice. What a fine thing for the Ontario Government with its machine record is the anticipation of any exposure of their opponents. Their only defence has been "the other fellows do it." They have passed the point when they can deny their own guilt, for the exposures have been made. Hence they are hoping that this Birmingham threat and Sir Charles' prompt refusal to deal with such an offer gives them pleasure. But they are laughing early.

NO "FIGHT" HERE.

The Fight of the Factions" is the heading the Provincial Secretary's organ put on the Toronto Star's extended account of the Birmingham incident. The Ontario Government was not strong enough and dare not "fight" with its machine "faction," but delivered up to it fat offices and holiday excursions to the States. The Conservative party is not ruled by such men, but there is no "fight" in the Conservative party over this Birmingham incident. All are unanimous that Sir Charles Tupper did right in refusing to deal with anyone who said he could make revelations. He did right in telling him to go ahead. In doing this he stands forth in strong contrast to the men at the head of the Liberal party in Ontario, who dare not lay one finger on the machine managers, the ballot stealers, the impersonators, whose guilt was exposed. A newspaper and the Liberal Government and leaders in Ontario if they were not in a serious condition as regards their political morality, would recognize their own position and the sad spectacle they present in their failure to deal with the men of their party who were exposed when compared with Sir Charles' straight stand in dealing with this threat, and be ashamed to attempt to manufacture Political capital out of it, by making a mountain out of a mole hill. But the men who hold office by virtue of the notorious machine look at these things from a different standpoint to the men who desire to see the crooked men, no matter what is their party, exposed and punished.

I tell you a fellow can get his nose a long ways in to the mud when the bullets are flying over his head and when you hear those ones that crack like a fire cracker. These are the ones! They use every kind of explosive bullet."

MARCHING ON HALF RATIONS.

Of the experiences he says:—"I tell you Capt. this marching and living on half rations isn't the thing for me. We were on the march for five weeks on half rations, and scraping some of the time. The scraping isn't so bad, but the marching is a hard one. We have to march 22 or 23 miles and run up against a lot of fat burghers who have been sitting at ease—they making the niggers do all the work—and then they get behind a big rock and plug us poor beggars when we are marched out in the open like the 24th of May. But we did not do it long, for we used our head when to go and when to stay, and where to go. That is how we got so close to the trenches without losing many men. We laid within five hundred yards from their trenches (at Paardeburg) from eight o'clock in the morning until dark at night, and you couldn't stick your head up long enough to fire. This was on Sunday, the first time we got a good dose of bullets. We got some at Sunnyside, but that was not in it. They came like hail stones. You could hardly believe how a man ever got through such a place. I guess God spared us that day. We were wet, too, for we waded the river in the morning, and it rained all the afternoon. It got very cold at night, so you can guess what the poor wounded fellows were like that had to stay out all night. They could not be found, for it was long after dark when the fire stopped. We had to lie out all night without a blanket or overcoat, for they had not been brought over the river. We had to walk around to keep from freezing to death."

A THIN MAN.

"Oh, we had a great time on that march across country. I was so thin that I had to stand twice in the same place to make a shadow. I guess that is why we missed getting hit, and if we did get hit it went right through and never touched us. It is raining to-night, and has been raining for some time. You would think that someone was throwing it on the tent with a pail. Oh it rains when it starts here! We have a trench dug around our tent about a foot deep, and it is full now, so I guess we will be on the float before morning, but it won't be the first time I have wakened up and found myself lying in about six inches of mud and water. The way we used to do was to get on an ant hill. There are lots of these here. You could see a man on every ant hill for a mile around sitting like monkeys, and then you would see one of them drop off into the mud.

POOR DOCTOR'S CARE FOR SICK.

"There are a lot of our lads dying off. Five or six have gone since Saturday. Poor Bert Beattie is gone, and Peter Blight went today—two from "C" Co., and we had to take one man to the hospital to-night, and there is another sick in the tent. Yes, if we don't get better doctor's care the whole regiment wil be down.

The writer says the boys are sick of the campaign, and the time to come home cannot come too quickly. He says it is an awful country, nothing but rock and sand. "Bloemfontein," he says, "is a very nice town. It is laid out well and there are lots of people here. You can't get anything for it has been all bought up. We have to pay a "bob" (a shilling) for a loaf of bread, and we only get one and three a day, and we eat three loaves a day, so you can guess how we get enough money. You pay a "tanner" (sixpence) for a drink of ginger beer. But we will soon be back again where we can get what we want.

THE BOER HE KILLED.

"I got a letter from Bob Layfield last week, and was glad to hear that all the boys in the old town were well, and that the old regiment is growing and that the mess was going again. I will have to pay a visit to Peterborough when we get back, and I will tell you about the country they have fetched us to.

"I will be telling all the boys about how many Boers I have killed. I can tell you now that I only hit one that I am any way sure of, and I can't swear to it, but he went down like a log. He was up getting some cartridges out of his saddle bag on his horse. When I was aiming at him I was wishing the ball was as big as a tub so that I would not miss him. But he went down a good deal faster than he ever got up. I was wishing that some more would get up the same way, but he was the only fool in the trenches, so I had to plug away any place where we saw a puff of smoke. That is all you can see of them." He closes with regards to all friends.

Government showed that they went by political favor rather than by the lowest tender.

Messrs. Frost, Davin, Rogers and Roche continued the debate till after 12.

Then Sir Wilfrid spoke and said that he had received no contribution directly or indirectly from the Standard Oil Company previous to 1896, as Mr. Taylar had insinuated.

Mr. Taylor replied that he was creditably informed that an arrangement had been entered into between the party and the Standard Oil Company by which in consideration of certain legislation re tank steamers, the company promised to give the Government $250,000.

Hon. Mr. Fielding said Mr. Taylor's remarks were "an infamous slander." He demanded that proof should be produced.

Mr. Puttee spoke a few words on binder twine, to the effect that the blue book had usurped the province of the House. This was not right.

Mr. Taylor's motion was put and the members called in.

A Straight Party Vote.

The result of the vote was 38 yeas, 71 nays; majority against, 33. It was a straight party vote.

At 12.50 o'clock, Mr. Paterson presented an item of his estimates. It was $2,000 for statistical collection, and would require a supplementary vote of $20,000. The item carried.

The House adjourned at 12.55.

Rev. Wm. Patterson Wept.

Toronto, May 30.—Sobbing as if his heart would break and with tears rolling down his face, Rev. William Patterson, for 14 years pastor of Cooke's Presbyterian Church, left the special meeting of the Presbytery in Knox School House yesterday afternoon after announcing his intention to accept the call to Bethany Church, Philadelphia. There was hardly a dry eye among the large number of those present.

Mr. Patterson leaves at the end of this week for his new charge, and preaches there next Sunday, and instead of preaching a farewell sermon he will have it printed and sent to his congregation.

Young Beverley's Body Found.

Toronto, May 30. — The body of Richard Beverley, the young man who was drowned in the lake on April 21 last, was taken from the water last night by W. H. Hicks of Humber Bay. The body was found floating close to the cribbing underneath his boathouse, and was in a very decomposed condition. The deceased was 18 years of age and was the son of the late George P. Beverley, caretaker of Prospect Rink. The boy's father only died last Sunday in the General Hospital, and was buried yesterday in Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

Methodist Conference Over.

Chicago, May 30. — At 12 o'clock yesterday all business of the Methodist General Conference was laid on the table, and the usual complimentary resolutions attendant upon closing sessions were adopted. The Venerable Bishop Bowman, now superannuated, then made a brief address of parting to the delegates. The minutes of yesterday's business was read and the roll was then called. A brief prayer by Bishop Warren followed and shortly before 1 o'clock the General Conference passed into history.

Shut Off by the Michigan Central.

Niagara Falls, Ont., May 30.—The Niagara, St. Catharines and Toronto Railway Company have been notified by the Michigan Central officials that after June 1, the business connections which the two roads have enjoyed for the past few years will cease. The Niagara, St. Catharines and Toronto Railway Company have made arrangements with the Wabash to handle all freight for them, and it is expected that in a very few days the electric line between this town and St. Catharines will be in operation.

Rev. Dr. Rand Drops Dead.

Fredericton, N.B., May 30. — Dr. Theo H. Rand of McMaster University, Toronto, dropped dead in the Parliament Buildings yesterday afternoon, while taking part in the university centennial celebration. He was seized with a fainting spell and died four minutes later without uttering a word. Deceased was born in Nova Scotia and was 65 years of age. He received his education in his native province and at one time was superintendent of education there.

To Stimulate Rifle Shooting.

Ottawa, May 30.—According to a Militia Order, issued last night, 540 rounds of ammunition will be issued to the artillery camps at Deseronto, and 280 rounds to other camps. To stimulate interest in rifle shooting, free ammunition for Lee-Enfield will be issued to the different Provincial rifle associations for their matches this year.

A Quebec Railway Deal.

Montreal, May 30. — An important railway deal has just been put through, the East Richelieu Valley Railway, 22 miles long, running from Iberville to Noyan Junction, Missisquoi County, having been sold to the Rutland Railway Company for $125,000. The road forms the connecting link between the United Counties Railway.

Another Fight in St. Louis.

St. Louis, May 30. — Three persons were seriously injured in a fight here yesterday afternoon. Shots were fired from a moving car into a crowd assembled on South Broadway. Herman Tealhke, George Lacasten and Albert Wackwitz were wounded. Tealhke will probably die.

Mill Burned at Vanessa.

Vanessa, Ont., May 30. — H. Bartholomew's Vanessa saw and hoop mill was burned to the ground at noon yesterday. Loss, $5,000. No insurance.

Prohibition Bill Introduced.

Winnipeg, May 30. — Premier Macdonald introduced the prohibition bill in the House yesterday, but did not explain the measure.

Men do not like to go to doctors. Nine times out of ten they wait until they are laid flat on their backs before they will consult a physician. There is some reason in this, for when a business man feels out of sorts and goes to a physician, he is often given violent drugs that make him, for a time, unfit for business and really sick.

There is a way of avoiding both extremes—that of neglecting the health and that of taking violent drugs that rack the entire system—it is always to keep on hand a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. If a man will resort to this great medicine whenever he finds that he is out of sorts and threatened with illness, he may keep in good health. It is the great appetite sharpener, blood-maker and flesh-builder. It fills the arteries with the rich, red, tissue-building blood of health. It does not make flabby fat like cod liver oil, but the solid, muscular and nerve tissues of health. It does not make corpulent people more corpulent.

"I want to inform you of a case affected by Dr. Pierce's medicines," [illegible]

JOHANNESBURG OCCUPIED.

British Field Marshal Will Make Victorious Entry at Noon.

Lord Roberts' Cavalry Is Now Said to Be Within Twenty Miles of Pretoria—Considered Possible for the British to Reach Pretoria by Friday—French's Cavalry Had Hard Fighting—Kruger's Personal Fear.

London, May 30.—(3.30 a. m.)—Lord Roberts is bivouacking in the suburbs of Johannesburg, and intends to make a victorious entry at noon to-day.

Judging from his despatch he must have private information regarding the disposition of the garrison on the fort, as he does not seem to expect opposition.

Cavalry Beyond the Town.

Lord Roberts' cavalry have flowed on beyond Johannesburg. A portion is understood to be at Zurufontein, seven miles north of Johannesburg, and within 20 miles of Pretoria. Lord Roberts, although with a broken bridge at Vereenniging and a wrecked railway behind him, has somehow managed to get forward sufficient supplies for his large force.

In Pretoria on Friday.

As he has been able to do so much, it is considered possible that he will be at Pretoria on Friday. The rapidity of his advance is thought an extraordinary achievement even by grudging continental critics.

French Fought All Day.

The Boers, who were expected to fight along the line of hills known as Klip Riversberg, abandoned the eastern end of the range, near Lord Roberts' advance line, but they stood their ground on the extreme right near Van Wyckarust, where they met Gen. French's turning movement. The fight continued all day, and the result is as yet mere conjecture. Probably the Boer rear guard succeeded in keeping Gen. French off, and is now in the hills northwest of Johannesburg.

IN JOHANNESBURG.

Lord Roberts Reports That He Will Be in the Home of the Uitlanders To-day (May 30.)

London, May 30. — The following despatch has been received from Lord Roberts:

"Germiston, May 29. — (6.30 p. m.) — We arrived here this afternoon without being seriously opposed. No casualties, so far as I am aware, in the main column and not many, I trust, in the cavalry and mounted infantry. The enemy did not expect us till to-morrow and had not therefore carried off all their rolling stock. We have possession of the junction connecting Johannesburg with Natal, Pretoria and Klerksdorp by railroads.

"Johannesburg is reported quiet and no mines, I understand, have been injured.

"I shall summon the commandant in the morning and if, as I expect, there is no opposition I propose to enter the town with all the troops at noon."

Germiston is a suburb to the southeast of the Johannesburg railway junction, and Gen. Roberts mentions it in his message to the War Office, probably because Blandsfontein station is further eastward. Additional evidence that the mines are intact comes in a message received by a mining company here yesterday from its Johannesburg representative, dated May 28, via Delagoa Bay, saying: "All right."

Has the Town Been Mined?

London, May 30.—Lord Roberts' despatch is regarded as announcing the virtual occupation of Johannesburg, and apparently the Boers have again effected a retreat, as there is no mention of any prisoners or captures, except of rolling stock. There will be some little anxiety pending the actual occupation of Johannesburg, as there are rumors that the town has been mined with the intention of blowing up Lord Robects and his staff on their entry into the place.

Orange River State.

Cape Town, Monday, May 28. — Lord Roberts yesterday announced to his troops the annexation of the Free State, which hereafter will be called the Orange River State. The Free State was formally annexed to-day.

British Guns Working.

Newcastle, Natal, May 29.—The British guns at Ingogo have been heavily bombarding the Boer positions since daylight. The Boer guns have replied intermittently.

Boers Fled Early.

Klip River, Transvaal, Monday, May 28. — The Boers, after preparing a good position, fled early. The train bearing their last detachment was nearly captured by Pilkington's West Australians. Prisoners taken state that there was no intention of blowing up the mines, declaring that the threat was made simply with the intention of frightening away the burghers.

STORIES FROM PRETORIA.

Kruger Decreed May 27, 28 and 29 as Days of Prayer and Humiliation.

Pretoria, Monday, May 28. — The British occupied Zeerust this morning, and a large force is marching on to Lichtenburg.

An official bulletin states that the British crossed the Vaal River Saturday. Gen. Lemmer had a severe fight at Klip River. Five of the burghers were wounded and two were captured. The British were 5,000 strong.

By an order recently issued the President decreed that May 27 and the two following days be observed by the whole country as days of prayer, humiliation and the confession of sins, and that petitions should be offered for relief from oppression.

French Is Sharp Again.

Cape Town, Monday, May 28. — It is rumored here that Gen. French has cut the Boer communications between Veidelberg and Boksburg, within a few miles of Johannesburg.

DEMONSTRATION IN LONDON.

People Cheered for Bobs—German Sailors Cheered for Kruger.

London, May 30. — The news that Lord Roberts was practically master of Johannesburg was received in London with noisy enthusiasm. A procession of students marched through the West End, cheering and singing. The announcement at the various places of amusement was followed by singing of the National Anthem and cheers for "Bobs."

Germans Cheered for Kruger.

While the townspeople at Fleetwood were cheering the announcement that Lord Roberts had occupied Johannesburg, the German crew of the Henrietta, an English vessel that was sold to a German firm, cheered President Kruger. Several conflicts occurred between the Germans and the English and the chief officer of the Henrietta was mobbed. Ultimately the police force was doubled.

Kruger After His Own Safety.

London, May 30. — Without doubt the presence of Lord Roberts with 40,000 men at Johannesburg, will hasten the Transvaal decision to sue for peace. Despatches from Lorenzo Marquez yesterday describes President Kruger "Wavering, but demanding a guarantee that he will not be exported to St. Helena."

The fighting burghers still continue to desert and the total collapse of the Boer military organization is not far off.

SOUTH AFRICA POLICY.

Premier Lord Salisbury Says That the Boer Republics Will Be Made British Territory.

London, May 30.—Lord Salisbury, who was entertained at dinner last night by the city of London Conservative Association, made an important announcement regarding the Government's South African policy. He said:

"The stop-the-war party have used my name," said the Premier, "in support of their ideas by stating that I promised there should be no annexation of territory, no annexation of gold fields. I never gave the pledge. I never meant to give a pledge. [Loud cheers.]

A Simple Historical Fact.

"I stated a simple historical fact. We were accused of going to war for lust of gold and territory. It was one of those atrocious calumnies which, under the favoring influence of Dr. Leyds, spread itself over the press of Europe. Nothing could be more untrue. We went to war to abate oppression of the Queen's subjects in the Transvaal, and because our remonstrances were met by an insulting ultimatum, to which, if the Queen's Government had submitted, her power, not only in South Africa, but over her colonies and dependencies, would have been at an end. We were forced into war by the action of our opponents.

A Ridiculous Misconstruction.

"To say that because we repudiated the greed of territory, we therefore bound ourselves never to annex any territory, is a most ridiculous misconstruction. I dwell on this point, because this matter of annexation is about to become a burning question.

"We have made a tremendous sacrifice of blood and treasure in this conflict. There are misleading prophets, whose action bulks as large in the columns of the newspapers as the action of more influential and powerful people, who mislead the unlucky rulers of the Transvaal to continue resistance far beyond the time when all resistance has ceased to be even possibly successful.

No Boer Independence.

"These men are perpetually pressing us to make some conditions, to offer some arranged stipulation that shall leave a shred of independence to the two republics. Our only certainty of preventing a recurrence of this fearful war is to insure that never again shall such vast accumulations of armaments occur, and that not a shred of the former independences of the republics remain.

Never Again Such a War.

"We are not at the end of the war, but I shall venture to lay it down as a primary condition of any future settlement, that precautions will be taken of such a character that such a war will never occur again. Of course, what measures will be necessary it is impossible at any moment to determine, because that depends largely upon the action and temper of those with whom we have to deal.

The Useless Resistance.

"I have already intimated that their resistance has gone beyond the limit to which resistance could wisely go. It is not for us to criticise their actions in what they are pleased to call self-defence, but they have acted so that every bitterness created by the war and very severance of class or of races have been stimulated by every measure they have taken; and so they go on.

"It also will be our duty to protect those native races who have been so sorely afflicted, and at the same time so to conduct their policy that, so far as possible, there shall be a reconciliation and that every one shall be a happy member of the British Empire."

The Gold Coast Outbreak.

London, May 30. — The British Colonial Office yesterday received advices from Col. Wilcocks, in command of the relief force which recently started for Coomassie, saying that a small force of Hussars from Prahsu, commanded by Lieut. Slater, had been attacked, and that Slater and several of his men had been killed.

Two Boys Drowned.

Winnipeg, May 30. — Two boys named John Black and Bernard Gilbertson, both aged 12, sons of J. J. Black and Byron Gilbertson, were drowned yesterday while bathing in the Assiniboine River. The bodies have not yet been recovered.

Reduced to the Ranks.

Kingston, May 30. — Corp. Courtenay, "A" Field Battery, charged with insubordination, declining to parade his men at the canteen for drinks on May 24th, was tried before Major Fages yesterday afternoon and reduced to the ranks.

Farmer Fell Dead.

St. Thomas, Ont., May 30.—Josiah Long, farmer of Union, one of the most respected residents of this district, fell dead while doing chores in his barn yesterday morning. Deceased was a native of Burford.

A POPULAR MISTAKE

Regarding Remedies for Dyspepsia and Indigestion.

The national disease of Americans is indigestion or in its chronic form, dyspepsia, and for the very reason that it is so common many people neglect taking proper treatment for what they consider trifling stomach trouble, when as a matter of fact, indigestion lays the foundation for many incurable diseases. No person with a vigorous, healthy stomach will fall a victim to consumption. Many kidney diseases and heart troubles date their beginning from poor digestion; thin, nervous people are really so because their stomachs are out of gear; weary, languid, faded out women owe their condition to imperfect digestion.

When nearly every person you meet is afflicted with weak digestion it is not surprising that nearly every secret patent medicine on the market claims to be a cure for dyspepsia, as well as a score of other troubles, when in fact, as Dr. Werthier says, there is but one genuine dyspepsia cure which is perfectly safe and reliable, and moreover, this remedy is not a patent medicine, but it is a scientific combination of pure pepsin (free from animal matter), vegetable essences, fruit salts and bismuth. It is sold by druggists under name of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. No extravagant claims are made for them, but for indigestion or any stomach trouble, Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are far ahead of any remedy yet discovered. They act on the food eaten, no dieting is necessary, simply eat all the wholesome food you want and these tablets will digest it. A cure results, because all the stomach needs is a rest, which Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets give by doing the work of digestion.

MOORE AND CIGARETTES.

After abolishing cigarettes the weather man should also make his underlings quit "hitting the pipe."—Chicago Record.

With the cigarette prohibited in the signal service offices there will be less danger of cloudy weather predictions.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Does the chief attribute the weather predictions of the last month to cigarettes? Up this way it has looked more as if they might have been dreamed out by opium fiends.—Buffalo Express.

The cigarette habit is by no means the only one that is unbusinesslike, but in abolishing it, so far as he is able, Chief Moore has set a worthy example to other superintendents of Uncle Sam's immense army of hired men.—Pittsburg Commercial Gazette.

Now that cigarette smoking has been prohibited in the weather service, may we not look for an improvement in predictions? Who can say that the cigarette has not been the cause of the nonarrival of rains, waves and other seasonable phenomena prophesied by the government?

What is Dr. Chase's Nerve Food?

In appearance Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is an oval, chocolate coated pill. In this condensed form it contains all of nature's most strengthening and invigorating tonics and restoratives and for this reason it is unapproached as a blood builder and nerve restorative. It cures all diseases caused by thin blood and exhausted nerves and makes pale, weak nervous men, women and children strong and healthy. 50 cents a box.

Reckless Rider Killed Lady.

Buffalo, N.Y., May 30.—Mrs. Lydia C. Nelson, a widow, 66 years old, was run down and killed by a fast-riding, careless bicyclist, here yesterday. Mrs. Nelson was a native of Port Colborne, but came here about 20 years ago. Later in the morning the police arrested Henry Thendner on the charge of being responsible for the death.

WE SELL PIANOS BY MAIL

The ever increasing business which we do through our mail order department is one of the mysteries of the trade, and yet their should be nothing mysterious about it. Our success is simply due to public confidence based upon experience. The public know that ours is a one-price house. All goods are ticketed in plain figures, cash and time prices and the prices WHICH WE ADVERTISE mean exactly what we say. We figure out the lowest price which we can afford to take and then advertise and ticket the price. No customer has any advantage over another. No asking $500.00 and obtaining anything between that price and $300.00, according to the bargaining ability of the customer. No! we reason that if we can afford to sell a given piano for $300.00 to one person we can afford to sell it to anyone at the same figure.

NOW AS TO ORDERING BY MAIL

The first point is that owing to our one price system the out-of-town purchaser has the same advantage as the city resident. All that is necessary is that we should get some idea of what style of piano or organ is wanted. Then we send you our catalogues and cash and time prices. In the case of used instruments we send a list of the stock on hand, and a careful description of each instrument and our prices and terms for each. The customer examines the catalogue or list and sends us his choice; then we ship. If the instrument is satisfactory the customer sends us the cash or the signed papers—if not, the instrument is reshipped and we pay the return freight.

We handle the product of the following eminent makers:— Knabe, Gerhard Heintzman, Whaley-Royce, Karn, Mendelssohn, Hardman, J. & C. Fischer, Estey & Co., Mason & Hamlin, Thomas.

HERE ARE SOME BARGAINS

about which we invite your Correspondence.

A STREET FAIR FOR PETERBORO'

A GEORGE-ST MERCHANT SUGGESTS THAT PETERBOROUGH HOLD A STREET FAIR.

He Explains What It Is, What Its Objects are, What It Costs and Discusses the Question of Success.

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir.—Among the most popular and unique forms of local enterprise in the American towns for the purpose of bringing trade to the business centres what is known as the "Street Fair" is probably the first in favor wherever it and other business-bringing methods have been tried. Peterborough is particularly well situated for the successful holding of such an enterprise and the object of this letter is to try and interest the citizens in the scheme, hoping that either the Board of Trade or Retail Merchants' Association may undertake the carrying out of the idea.

WHAT IT IS.

The "Street Fair" consists of a series of temporary booths erected on both sides of the main street of a town. These booths are built at the outer edge of the sidewalk upon the roadway, leaving the passageway of the sidewalk at one side and the road on the other, each merchant builds his booth before his own store making a display of merchandise in the booth but selling goods only from his regular stock. At the street corners and interspersed among the booths of the merchants are raised platforms upon which free entertainments are given at stated intervals for the amusement of the visitors, and in connection with the street fair various special attractions are arranged, a baloon ascension one day, a procession of floats another, and so on, according to the fancy or enterprise of the committee.

THE OBJECT.

The free street fair is intended not only to attract temporary crowds to a town but to make that place popular to the farming and outlaying community tributary to it. Many farmers live within reach of two and sometimes three towns but the enterprising town, the one which entertains the farmer with the free street fairs, is supposed to be favored thereafter with the largest share of trade. Moreover, the street fair gives merchants an excellent opportunity to make the acquaintance of the neighboring farmers and residents of smaller adjacent towns. This acquaintance leads to business transactions which are repeated throughout the year.

SUCCESS OF STREET FAIR.

How successful the scheme of free street fairs has been, is evinced by the fact that towns which have held this sort of entertainment are eager to repeat them the next year and the next, and are still holding street fairs. It is stated that no street fair has been a failure since the idea was first conceived, although, of course, the measure of its success depends greatly upon the ability of the committee and the enterprise of the merchants in making attractive displays.

ADVANTAGE OVER COUNTY FAIRS.

The street fair has proved itself much superior to the old style county fair. The people are held day and night at the door of the merchants instead of a mile or so away leaving the business centre of the town dull and forlorn. The street fair week is a period of business and bustle and constant dates for every merchant. The people are forced to remain where there is a constant temptation to spend their spare cash and of course they do spend it in this way, the immediate result is satisfactory but the great advantage is reaped during the next few months when the larger needs are made manifest and your visitor remembers the bargains he saw in your store during "the street fair."

THE COST.

The cost of a street fair is from $2,500 upwards, depending on the size of the town and the prize-list and amount of advertising done. And in nearly every instance they have been self supporting. There is needed a large number of committees to properly handle a street fair, and to make it entirely successful every interest in the town should be represented and in no half-hearted manner either. If the project were undertaken by Peterborough whatever amusements are arranged for should be of a high order which will suitably entertain our visitors, and not disgust them, as it would be quite easy to do our town more harm than good by the wrong kind of amusements. The question, however, is a large one and I would suggest that the Retail Merchants Association take the matter up for discussion as it seems more in their province than in that of the Board of Trade. Appended are a few quotations bearing upon this subject.

"Some towns fall asleep before they know it. The street fair will wake them up as nothing else can."

"Nothing advertises a town so well as a street fair, and no form of advertising is so inexpensive."

"The way to a man's purse is by making him happy, good natured, and contented. The street fair does this."

Let Peterborough have a street fair and a good one.

Yours, etc.,
MACFARLANE WILSON.

The regular meeting of the Cheese Board was held this morning. There was a large attendance. The buyers present were:—Messrs. Bailey, Cook, Wrighton, Rollins, Whitton, Watkins, Fitzgerald, Hodgson, Kerr, Moore, Jones and Squires. A number of dealers were present from London, Eng., and several of them addressed the Board briefly.

The bidding was brisk and almost the entire Board went at 9 3-8 cents. Mr. Squires opened at 9 cents, Mr. Fitzgerald bid 9 1-16c; Mr. Wrighton 9 1-8; Mr. Bailey 9 3-16c; Mr. Rollins 9 1-4c; Mr. Fitzgerald 9 5-16c; Mr. Whitton 9 3-8c. This bid was not beaten and Mr. Whitton took Keene, Villiers, Westwood, Melrose Abbey, Ormonde and Lang. Mr. Rollins called 9 3-8 cents for second selections and took Warminster, North Smith, Oakdale, Pine Grove, Maple Leaf, North Dummer and Daisy D. Mr. Cook made the same bid, 9 3-8 cents, and bought Shearer, Central Smith, Peterborough, Fraserville, Bensfort, Otonabee Union. Mr. Whitton again bid 9 3-8 cents and called Cavanville, Darlington Union and Fleetwood. At the same figure Mr. Rollins took a second lot composed of Warsaw, Trewern, Cedardale and Stony Lake. Mr. Hodgson offered 9 5-16c, and Mr. Wrighton kept the price up to 9 3-8c, taking Lakefield, Mount Pleasant, Missing Link, Indian River and Young's Point. Mr. Fitzgerald got Myrtle, East Emily, Hope and Crown at 9 5-16c. Oak Leaf sold to Mr. Squires at 9 1-4c, and Ballyduff to Mr. Whitton at the same figure. This cleared the Board.

SERGT. TRUSLER AND "MAJOR" SMITH

WRITE IN INTERESTING STYLE FROM SOUTH AFRICA

One is With the Peterborough Boys in the Mounted Rifles and Reports All Well—The Other is With the First Contingent and Tells of the Marches, the Fights and Their Incidents.

Major Miller has received a couple of letters from South Africa, one from Sergt. Trusler, with the Mounted Rifles, and the other from "Major" Jack Smith, who is with the Toronto Company of the first contingent. With the letters came copies of the Bloemfontein Friend, and some trophies of interest were enclosed in the papers. These included a dum-dum bullet, the soft headed cartridge used in the Boer Mausers, and a steel bullet also used by them.

SERGT. TRUSLER'S LETTER.

Sergt. Trusler writes as follows:—

Bloemfontein, South Africa,
April 20th, 1900.

Dear Friend,—Just a line to let you know how we are getting along. Well we are all O. K., and having quite a time of it. We had a lovely trip across the Atlantic and reached Africa after sailing 30 days. We were in camp at Cape Town for a week, getting our horses in shape and giving them a rest, for you must know that they had to stand up in stalls 5 1-2 feet long, by 2 feet 6 inches wide, and it used quite a lot of them up. We lost 37 horses by distemper. After staying at Cape Town for a week, we started for Stellenbosch, 30 miles away, and took on horses to replace those that we lost. We then took train and made a run of 90 miles, after which we had to take the road for it. After marching nearly 300 miles we are at last at Bloemfontein, 400 miles from Cape Town, our landing place. We have had

SOME PRETTY HARD WORK,

as this is the rainy season and the roads are very bad, and for two nights we had to stand up all night for our camp ground was flooded and several times we only got two meals per day, which consisted of hard-tack and coffee. But we took it and were glad to get it for such is life on active service. Bloemfontein where we are at present is, or was, the capital of the Orange Free State and is a very pretty town of about 5,000 inhabitants. It is Lord Roberts' headquarters. At present there are 120,000 troops here, and as I am writing we can hear the boom of cannon twelve miles north of us where our supply of water comes from. The enemy are

TRYING HARD TO DESTROY,

the waterworks which would be a very serious matter at present, for fever is raging and good pure water is hard to get. Quite a lot of our soldiers are dying of enteric fever, but our Canadians have escaped thus far. When not raining it is very hot by day and very cool at night, and we sleep soundly and you bet we take all the sleep we can get for we need it. We have passed over quite a number of battle fields, where many a soldier has died for his country. Such as Colesbery, Orange River, Springfontein and Wauwfraunt. We are resting here for a few days and expect to make a general advance on the first of May with Lord Roberts towards Kronstadt, 75 miles from here. We expect of it, as the Boers are preparing for us. We expect they will make a very stubborn resistance, but of course we are going to win, and I think after a couple of good fights the war will be about over, but the treachery of the Boers is something awful. After surrendering their arms, they have been caught on the following day fighting for and carrying information to the enemy; so you see they cannot expect, nor will they get much mercy from our Lord Roberts and Kitchener. Spence and Hall and Price and Johnston, as well as Captain Greenwood, are all well. Also Chil. Turner. I heard last night that "Doc" Brennan was in Johannesburg but had been ordered out. I have not seen any of the first contingent and do not know where they are, for we outside of our own camp. You will get more news at home probably than we do, for we hear nothing of Buller or Kitchener or what they are doing.

Well, Dear Major, I hope you are well and that the 57th is coming up all right. I was just thinking of your remark last winter that the N. C. O's were the backbone of a regiment, and right you are, for we can see it here every day. Remember me to all the boys and when you cut a melon at the war office, don't forget to keep a slice for your boy at the front. So wishing you every success,

I remain, faithfully,
A. TRUSLER,
171, 3rd Troop, A Squadron,
Canadian Mounted Rifles,
Field Service, S. A.

FROM "MAJOR" JACK SMITH.

Major Miller's letter from Pte. Jack Smith is not all given, but some extracts are made from it. He makes reference to some new things in his own style. The letter is dated "Bloemfontein, April 16th."

"Well Capt." he begins, "I have been going to write to you, but thought I would wait until I could tell you what powder smelt like. But I got my nose full the first time, and I have just got it cleaned out. I often heard you speak of what it was like to be under fire, but, by the powers, I never thought it would make a fellow have to move so quick to keep things in shape. I tell you if you heard the pom-pom you would crawl into the hole of a corn. We dug our nose in to the sand like an ostrich does when he gets frightened.

Chinese Arithmetic.

The Chinese rejoice in a wonderful talent for inaccuracy in every detail. For instance, a pound or a pint varies as it suits the merchant's fancy. In some part you get half or a quarter as much as you do in others for the same price and measure.

Then, again, their way of calculating distance does not at all tally with Euclid. For instance, you are told from A to B is four miles, but from B to A is eight miles. If you ask how this is possible, you are told it depends from which end you start; if you start from A, it is down hill, so much easier to walk; whereas, starting from B, you have to walk up hill, which is much more exerting and fatiguing—in fact, it is the same as walking a longer distance on even ground.

This form of argument always amused me nearly as much as the way the Chinese have of counting a person's age by tens. "My mother," they will tell you, "is 30" (or 40). When she leaves 30, she is getting near 40. Should we all like to be told that, I wonder?—Leslie's Weekly.

LIVERY UP-TO-DATE

A SINGULAR COINCIDENCE.

The Wife Felt the Shock Experienced by Her Husband.

"I have heard several times of telepathic communication," said a gentleman well known in the hotels of Washington to a Star reporter, "but I never had it brought home so closely to me as it was the other day. I was visiting at the house of a friend who is a practical electrician and who has charge of a dynamo in one of the department buildings. He happened to be absent at the time, although it was past his usual time for getting home, and his wife and I were sitting in the parlor commenting upon his tardiness, for he was usually the most punctual of men.

"Just as I looked at the clock for perhaps the sixth or seventh time and had noted that it lacked 15 minutes of being 5 o'clock my hostess gave a slight gasp and sat rigid in her chair. Every muscle seemed to be tense, and she gave the appearance of one laboring under the strongest shock. For the space of perhaps a second she remained in this condition and then suddenly grew limp and helpless as if some strain under which she had been laboring had been removed. Almost immediately she revived and looked around with a questioning air. When I say that all this occupied not more than two or three seconds at the most, you will realize how queer it all was.

"'Isn't it funny?' she said on coming to. 'I feel exactly as though I had received a terrible electric shock. I knew the sensation because my husband has a small battery in the house and often gives me electricity for nervousness.'

"At that moment the telephone bell rang, and I answered it. The message was that my friend had taken hold of the wrong lever at the switchboard that distributed the current from his dynamo and that the surgeons at a nearby hospital hoped to save his life. I asked when it occurred, and the reply came, 'About a quarter to 5.'

"I can't explain it, and I don't intend to try. I have trouble enough of my own of a very material nature without going into the supernatural to hunt for more problems to figure out. I am happy to say that my friend entirely recovered, but both he and his estimable spouse are as much at a loss as I am in reasoning out the strange occurrence."—Washington Star.

A BOTTOMLESS PIT:

One of the Curiosities of the Majestic Palisades.

Hundreds of thousands of New Yorkers gaze at the Palisades, on the New Jersey side of the Hudson, every day, but not one in 10,000 knows there is over there a bottomless pit, as great a curiosity in its way as is the caldron in the Devil's lake region of California. It is situated in West New York, about three miles north of Hoboken, on the summit of the Palisades. At this point the top of the ridge is 227 feet above the level of the Hudson river at its base.

This pit apparently ends in water which rises and falls with the tides in the Hudson, but the attempts of the authorities as well as of private individuals to fill it up have proved futile. It is still there, and the trees, rock and earth that have been dumped into it have disappeared as if into the bowels of the earth. Soundings have been made, but no stable bottom has been found.

The West New York authorities several years ago thought they had succeeded in finding a bottom. They had thrown into the water a large quantity of tree tops and upon these had heaped a pile of stone. This sank to a certain depth and then appeared to be stationary. On top of this were deposited hundreds of cartloads of earth, with logs crosswise, thus making a roadway over which trucks and vehicles passed.

The next morning, however, there wasn't a trace of the filling. The water at the bottom of the pit was as clear as before. The surface of the lake covers about half an acre, but there has never been a fish hauled from its depths.

It stood in the way of the West Shore railroad when it was about to be built in 1880. The road intended to run its tunnel from the Weehawken terminal to the opposite side of the Palisades at New Durham, directly over this pit, but after the right of way had been bought the company had to abandon the route and go about 1,000 feet to the south.—New York Herald.

A Stomach Agitator.

"All that has been written of the physical beauty of Japan," said a traveler, "is really inadequate. Language simply fails to tell you what really is there in the way of scenery. You must actually visit the country to appreciate it. But while Japanese life, Japanese houses and Japanese scenery are replete with interest and beauty Japanese food is an abomination to the civilized stomach and as such to be absolutely eschewed.

"Take the raw fish, for instance, they serve. The first time I tasted it I was forcibly reminded of the man who invented the 'flapjack' which when cooked on one side automatically turned over and cooked the other side as well. The scheme worked out to perfection, and fortune seemed to loom large in the near future for the inventor, when a drawback to the scheme was discovered. The 'flapjack' once swallowed kept on turning. That's what happens when you eat the raw fish of Japan."

Decorating the Teeth.

"It's a curious thing," said the dentist as he caught the end of a nerve on a crochet needle and knotted up a few inches of it in chain stitch, "that, while some people consider gold fillings very disfiguring, more people look upon them as desirable decorations. I have had a great many people come in here and ask me to put gold fillings in perfectly sound front teeth. Of course I wouldn't do it; it wouldn't be professional. A great many colored people want solid gold teeth where there isn't the slightest necessity of having them.

"But the oddest request I've had yet was from a variety actress—vaudeville, I believe you say nowadays—who played here a short time ago. She came in to have a front tooth filled. When I told her that the gold would show a great deal, what on earth do you suppose she asked me? Why, she wanted to know if I couldn't drill the cavity larger and make the filling look not like a mere gold edge, but like the letter 'J.' She told me she was going to marry a man named John, and she thought it would be lovely to have a gold 'J' in her tooth.

"Of course I couldn't do that either. It would not be according to professional ethics. It would be malpractice. But that woman offered me the price of a dozen gold fillings if I'd only make the filling in her tooth look like a 'J.'"—Washington Post.

A Floral Miracle.

"The most magnificent floral effect I ever saw in my life," said Robert N. Wilson of the Morgan line, "was in Texas. They have a flower there called the rainflower, the botanical name of which is the cooperia. It usually blooms three or four days after a rain. I was through the country to look after some land for a friend, and the thing that struck me in that particular locality was the utter barrenness of the whole landscape. There was a low piece of land of ten acres or more that was covered with low, black vines that were decidedly uninviting. Four hours later, after a heavy thunder shower, I passed this piece of land, and it was absolutely covered with what seemed to be the prettiest flowers I had ever seen. It was one enormous bouquet, and the fragrance from it was almost intoxicating.

"I could scarcely believe the evidence of my own eyes, but there it was, what seemed to be an unsightly waste transformed as if by magic into a bower of bloom.

"I made inquiry of the natives and learned that once in a long time the rainflower bloomed in a few hours after a rain, though ordinarily the blossoms did not appear for three or four days and then usually came in the night."—New York Commercial Advertiser.

She Didn't Pay.

Not all car conductors are merely hardened ringers in of fares. A poor woman got on a Twenty-third street crosstown car at Fourth avenue, and as it was well under way and she was about to hand her fare to the conductor she asked him if he transferred to Sixth avenue. On being told no, she drew back her 5 cents and asked to be let off.

"I've a long ways to go on Sixth avenue," she said, "and I'd better walk to there and then ride."

The car then had reached Madison avenue.

"Wait till we get across the street," answered the conductor. She waited, and instead of stopping there he let the car go on, past the transfer station and across Broadway to Sixth avenue. There he pulled the bell and looked at her.

"Thank you," she said gratefully.

He had carried her within a block of where she wanted to go and had taken no fare.—New York Telegram.

THE SAVING OF LIFE

BE PATIENT IN CASES OF DROWNING OR ASPHYXIATION.

It May Be Necessary to Keep Up Tongue Traction For Three Hours to Revive the Spark of Latent Life That Still Exists In the Victim.

It is difficult to form a correct idea of the persistence of latent life in the case of the asphyxiated. It is popularly believed that if the subject cannot be brought back to life after ten minutes' application of the usual methods all further efforts are useless. That is a most unfortunate error, and it should be guarded against. It is an ignorant prejudice that has sent many people to their graves who might have been saved by the exercise of a little patience.

Some years ago a coast guard named Agnel was on duty at a point called l'Anse du Prophete, on the southern coast of France. He heard cries of distress. A cabin boy of one of the vessels at anchor was drowning. The master of the craft plunged into the water to save the boy. The effort was too much for him. He became exhausted, and both were about to sink when the coast guard came to their assistance. With difficulty he managed to bring the man ashore, but the boy disappeared under the water. Agnel swam out again to the place where the boy sank and after repeated dives at last succeeded in bringing the little fellow to the surface. The boy had been under the water for more than ten minutes. He gave no sign of life. Respiration was suspended completely. But Agnel, remembering the instructions in the circular given by Dr. Laborde of the Academy of Medicine, tried regular tractions of the tongue and continued them for three hours. His praiseworthy perseverance was crowned with success. Respiration was at last re-established, and the boy recovered. The case is mentioned in the official report of M. Vautier, chief of the customs service of Marseilles, to the directeur generale.

Until 1896 no physiologist and no medical man would dare to assert that in such a case latent life could subsist for hours. But three hours does not mark the extreme limit. As a matter of fact, we do not yet know the length of time that separates apparent death from real death. It varies according to the subjects. But nevertheless it is certain that the survie, or latent life, always exists in the case of a subject whose organs are sound. Exterior or apparent death revealed by the suspension of the functional manifestations, especially by the suppression of the cardio-respiratory function, is not the final and real death. "While the organism ceases to live on the surface," says Dr. Laborde of the academy, "it lives inside." That is to say, life continues in a latent state by the persistence of the functional properties of the organic elements and tissues. The sensitive properties are the first to disappear, then follow the motor-nerve functions and finally muscular contractility. Complete death demands time.

In short, the general mechanism may be stopped by the cessation of a primordial function, like that of respiration, but if the organs are not injured they can be started again and be made to resume their normal action. While latent life exists one should never despair of saving a drowned or asphyxiated person. The most indispensable function to arouse is that of respiration, the primordial function of life. It is necessary to excite the respiratory reflex, which, according to Dr. Laborde, possesses extraordinary vital power and endurance.

Now, what is the duration of the latent life of the respiratory reflex? The above mentioned case shows that it can last for three hours. Dr. Laborde reports a length of from two to three hours in his experiments on dogs. He selected in one case a strong bull terrier and chloroformed the animal until respiration was completely stopped. The dog was apparently dead. Fifteen minutes' traction revived him. Then the experiment with chloroform was renewed and continued until all the evidence of complete asphyxia was established. The tractions were begun five minutes later. The dog was called Lazarus, a singularly appropriate name. This time he appeared to be sure enough dead. After two hours of tractions he gave no sign of life. Dr. Laborde gave the case up, but an employee of the laboratory named Leon Jandon who was very fond of poor Lazarus continued the tractions. He noticed that the tongue began to redden, which is the sure sign of the return of the first respiratory movements. After 2½ hours of tractions a respiratory hiccough was established, followed by gasps, and at last regular breathing began. Lazarus opened his eyes and looked around in astonishment. He recovered completely.

It may be asserted with confidence that the respiratory reflex subsists, ready to go into action again, for at least three hours after the condition of apparent death. That is an important fact which should not be forgotten. Some people may be astonished at the idea of lingual tractions continued for three hours. Such treatment requires great patience. Dr. Laborde uses, instead of his fingers and a piece of linen, a machine which grips the tongue and makes 20 tractions a minute.

This important method discovered by M. Laborde for reviving subjects apparently dead has also the advantage of being able to establish real death with absolute certainty. Death is clearly proved when the respiratory reflex is abolished after five or six hours.

Formerly all hope of saving a drowned person was given up when, after half an hour, all the ordinary old means of restoration were exhausted. But now when a bather is taken out of the water apparently dead, or a fireman is asphyxiated by mephitic gas, regular tongue tractions must be resorted to, not for half an hour only, but for hours, and in most cases the unfortunate victims will be restored. To save a life is the noblest action that one can perform.—Courrier des Etats Unis.

STAGE GLINTS.

Jerome K. Jerome is at work on a new comedy for Annie Russell.

A play based on "Peg Woffington" is being written for Maude Adams.

James T. Powers and his wife, Rachel Booth, will star together next season in a new musical play.

Sol Smith Russell has been restored to health, it is said, and will resume his professional work next season.

There is a rumor to the effect that Francis Wilson and Jessie Bartlett Davis will star together next season in a new opera.

August van Viene's play, "The Broken Melody," which was a failure in this country, recently passed its two thousandth performance in England.

Martin Harvey, called "the English Booth" and said to be the most promising actor in Great Britain, will make a starring tour of America next season.

"Bootles' Baby" is to be revived at the Garrick theater, London, with C. W. Garthorne, a brother of Mr. Kendal, who originated the character of Captain Lucy in 1888, in the leading role.

Louis Mann and Clara Lipman have presented "The Girl In the Barracks" at six different theaters in New York this season. This has partly contributed to the impression that it is played out.

Another Johann Strauss has made his appearance. The new scion of this famous family is a son of Eduard Strauss and consequently a nephew of Johann Strauss the second. He has already composed an operetta, and it is announced that he is going to start this year on a tour around the world with a "Johann Strauss Vienna orchestra."

THE WELL DRESSED WOMAN.

One of the newest things for the neck is the Ellen Terry batwing tie made of silk in pastel colorings.

Surplice bodice fronts with long scarf ends and fichus, boleros and countless guises of the fancy waist are among the attractions for the summer season.

The newest French boas lie flat around the neck, the under side being formed merely of net, which on the outside is completely covered with coquilles or cascades of lace or chiffon edged with a tiny frill of chantilly.

Finely shirred skirt tops with matching bodice yokes are features of some of the French gowns of batiste, Belfast dimity, India mull, organdie and China silk. The long sleeves or portions of the sleeve are similarly shirred.

The Empire, Gainsborough and Maintenon hats appear among exclusive styles in high priced French millinery. The shapes are unusually large and show the eccentricity of crown and brim characteristic of these historic models.

Mammoth hydrangeas, poppies and chrysanthemums, huge carnations, cabbage roses and azaleas made of gauze, chiffon or rumpled crepe lisse appear as the most fashionable of trimmings on French hats of zephyr straw made really for Easter wear.

Maple, ivy and bronze and yellow oak leaves are used on leghorn hats trimmed with crepe lisse and wide velvet ribbon. Not only is the foliage artistically intermingled with the decoration on the hat, but separate leaves are laid flat upon the outside of the brim around its entire circumference.

THE PEDAGOGUE.

Professor S. W. Shattuck of the University of Illinois was seriously injured by a gasoline explosion the other day.

Professor A. N. Wells, who was offered the position of professor of art at the Emmons Blaine institute, has decided to decline the offer and will remain with the University of Illinois.

In Englewood, a Chicago suburb, the board of education compels pupils who have been absent from school four days or more to submit to a medical examination by a physician appointed by the board before being readmitted to school.

H. F. Marks, a delegate from the British educational department and a lecturer on education at Owens college, Manchester, England, is spending two weeks at Teachers college, Columbia university, examining its methods and equipment.

SERIOUS SITUATION IN CHINA

Boxers Confident of Support From Dowager Empress.

Russia Believed to be About to Land Troops at Taku—The Chinese Also Massing Troops—Armed French and German Rescuing Party Start to Relieve the Belgians—U.S. Minister Conger Asks for Protection.

London, May 30.—A special despatch from Shanghai, says:

"It is believed that Russia is about to land troops at Taku from Port Arthur, where 20,000 are in readiness. The Chinese are reported to be sending large masses of troops overland from Hu-Nan and Kiang, but the generalissimo refuses to assume command on the plea of sickness.

"The 'Boxers' assert that they are confident of receiving support from the Dowager Empress, Princes Kang Yi and Ching-Tuan, and the entire Manchu army. Throughout the north the Boxers are enlisting hordes of desperadoes. They are intent upon expelling everything foreign."

Call for Gunboats.

Shanghai, May 30.—The Russian Minister at Pekin has telegraphed, asking that all the available gunboats be sent to Taku.

American Marines to Land.

Tien-Tsin, May 30. — A hundred American marines from the United States cruiser Newark were expected here at 11 o'clock last night.

An armed rescuing party of Frenchmen and Germans started yesterday afternoon to try to relieve the besieged Belgians. The Viceroy, under the pressure of the French Consul, has permitted the rescuers to travel by railroad to Feng Tei, where Chinese protection ends.

Belgians Besieged.

The Belgians are besieged at Chang-Tsin-Tein, near Feng Tai.

Conger Asks for Protection.

Washington, May 30. — Minister Conger has appealed to the State Department for the protection of a marine guard for his legation. The department has promptly cabled him an authorization to call upon the nearest United States naval vessels for assistance. It is not known yet whether he has availed himself of the permission. The embarrassing feature of the situation is the cutting of the communication by rail between Taku and Tsin Tien and the capitol, for the Boxers have burned the railroad bridges, and there are probably only two courses open to the marines who wish to reach Pekin; a long overland march through a hostile country away from supports, or a tedious voyage upon the swift and shallow Pei-Ho in shore boats, in tow of the steam launches.

REBELLION KEEPS GROWING.

The Boxers Are Backed by the Empress Dowager and the Manchus.

London, May 30. — The Daily Express gas the following from Shanghai, dated Tuesday: The rebellion continues to grow, and the gravest fears are entertained of its ultimate extent. The foreign envoys at Pekin, fearing a massacre within the capital, have decided to bring up the guards of the Legation.

The rebels are now massing outside of Pekin, and their numbers are reported to be constantly augmenting. Fresh contingents of armed malcontents are coming up almost hourly from the north.

Rebels Captured All the Troops.

The Imperial troops who were sent to disperse the rebels found themselves hopelessly outnumbered. Several hundred were killed and two guns and many rifles were captured, after which the most of the remaining troops went over to the rebels. They are now marching side by side.

It is believed that the Boxers have the sympathy of the entire Manchu army in the anti-foreign crusade, and there is no doubt that they have the countenance of the Empress-Dowager and of Prince Ching.

Belgian Minister Moving.

The Belgian Minister, escorted by a strong body guard, has gone to obtain an audience of the Tsung-Li-Yamen, a number of his countrymen with their families, having been cut off by the rebels at Chang Hsin Tien.

The Irish Invincibles.

New York, May 30. — The re-hearing of the case of James Fitzharris and Joseph Mullet, the two Irish ex-convicts, who were excluded by the Board of Special Enquiry of the Barge Office last Sunday on their arrival from Ireland, was had yesterday. Judge Curtis' motion for the admission of the men was denied. Judge Curtis then gave notice that he would appeal against the decision of the board to the Secretary of the Treasury.

Fell 70 Feet and Died.

Ottawa, May 30.—Michael Lambert, an employe of the Dominion Bridge Company, who is engaged on the Inter-provincial bridge, fell a distance of 70 feet from one of the piers to a scow and was killed. Lambert came from Perth.

Galliffet Has Resigned.

Paris, May 30. — (1 a.m.)—Gen. the Marquis de Galliffet, Minister of War, has resigned. It is officially announced that his successor is Gen. Andre.

Nod and Drop Asleep.

Dr. Pardini of Turin claims that he has discovered that the best method of treating obstinate insomnia is to make his patients imitate the drowsy noddings of a tired man while sitting in a chair.

Every one who has ever watched a sleepy man in a train has probably been amused by the neck distorting nods which herald the approach of sleep. If the observer has given any thought to the subject at all, he has probably decided that the contortions are due to the sleeper's unconscious efforts to preserve his balance. Dr. Pardini says that the balance has nothing to do with it. He declares that nodding is pathologic; that it is nature's own method of inducing sleep.

This, if properly carried out, brings the head of the patient almost upon his right shoulder. The body is then to be inclined to the left and the head allowed to roll in that direction, still uncontrolled by the muscles. As soon as the head has reached the left shoulder muscular control is to be resumed and the head raised slowly until it is in the same position as at the beginning of the exercise. Then the whole method is to be repeated as long as needful.

Mr. Richards, of London, Eng., was called upon for a few words. He characterised the Peterborough Board as the most business like Board he had attended. What they wanted was a close, clean cheese. He was very glad to be present, having dealt considerably in Peterborough cheese. He hoped to be present again. The boxes are broken often when they reach the other side. The factories should give strong boxes and not make them too large.

Mr. Brimton also expressed pleasure at being present. His dealings with the Board last year were very pleasant indeed.

Mr. Robson stated that he had been in Canada only 10 or 11 days. He was much pleased with Canada and found Peterborough as fine a town as any. Makers should mark the weight on the boxes very plainly. When the boxes get over to the other side the marks are often very hard to decipher.

Mr. Hodgson, of Montreal, spoke a few words. He also impressed the necessity of the makers marking the weights plainly in stencil.

The Board adjourned for two weeks.

When it Hurts to Cough.

The cough that hurts, the cough that gets tight in the chest, is daily getting deeper and deeper into the bronchial tubes and is making directly for the lungs to become pneumonia, inflammation of the lungs or consumption. Such coughs yield only to the wonderful efficiency of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine which loosens the tightness and cures cough and cold together. 25 cents a bottle. Family size 60 cents, sold everywhere.

CONFERENCE ON SUNDAY SCHOOLS

THE QUALIFICATIONS NECESSARY TO MAKE A GOOD TEACHER

Well Attended Meeting at St. Andrew's —Mrs. Duncan Describes the Essentials of Good Sunday School Teaching

The convention of the Sunday School workers under the auspices of the County Association, which opened yesterday afternoon, concluded with a grand rally in St. Andrew's church last evening. Rev J G Potter presided as chairman, and splendid address were given by Mrs. Duncan, of Toronto, on primary work, and Rev J Campbell Tibb, who spoke on four schools—the home, the day school, the Sabbath school and the world—and Rev Mr Bastow, who told of the Ecumenical conference at New York.

A vote of thanks was moved by Rev H Symonds and Dr Harrison.

At this meeting the new president, Mr M W Matchett, was also introduced and spoke briefly.

AFTERNOON MEETING.

The afternoon meeting in the Y.M.C.A. hall was presided over by Rev. H. Symonds. The first business of importance was the re-organization of the Town S. S. Union. The following officers and Executive Committee were appointed, most of these have accepted the position:—

President. — Mr. M. W. Matchett, Mark-st.

Vice-President. — Mr. D. Spence, St. Luke's.

Vice-President.—Miss Mann, Park-st.

Sec.-Treas.—Mr. A. J. Johnston, St. Paul's.

Executive Committee.—Mrs. Stubbs, George-st; Miss Hamilton, Mark-st; Mr. J. Kidd, Charlotte-st; Mrs. Garvin, St. Paul's; Miss Forsythe, St. Andrew's; Mr. William Might, Grace Church, Methodist; Mr. J. C. Turnbull, Bethany; Miss Aldridge, Murray-st; Mr Thos G Gillespie, Park-st; Mr T H Adams, St Luke's; Mr W H Walkey, St John's; (to be appointed), All Saints'; Mr Geo Prassey, Auburn; Mr R C Breund, Salvation Army; Mr Williamson, Y M C A; Miss L Adams, Riverdale.

After the appointment of the Executive Committee was completed two excellent addresses for Sunday School workers were given by Rev J C Tibb, Prov. S. S. Sec'y, and Mrs Duncan, of Toronto, prominent primary class worker.

For Over Fifty Years.

An Old and Well-tried Remedy.—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used for over fifty years by millions of mothers for their children while teething, with perfect success. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for diarrhoea. Is pleasant to the taste. Sold by druggists in every part of the world. Twenty-five cents. Its value is incalculable. Be sure and ask for Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup and take no other kind.

REPAIRING SEVERED ARTERIES.

A Surgical Feat That Was Long Thought to Be an Impossibility.

In the medical archives in the library of St. Petersburg is an account of a most wonderful operation performed by Kamtsky, one of the greatest surgeons of his time, an operation like which no other is recorded. Poitinkosh, a rich farmer, cattle raiser and reindeer farmer, residing north of St. Petersburg, suffered an injury to the upper end of the right thigh, caused by being violently hurled from his sleigh, the latter having struck a stump. The farmer in falling was jagged by a snag which struck about two inches below the fold of the flank, causing a torn, bleeding, gaping wound of about four inches in length, directly downward and in a line over the femoral artery (the large artery which supplies the entire leg with blood), the latter vessel having been laid bare and severely bruised in the wreck, no large vessels having been torn.

Kamtsky, with the great wisdom of a world of experience, wisely apprehended the possible results of this peculiar wound, and for the next 24 hours he spent every minute of his time, valuable as it was, working with chemical fire, molten substances and apparatus of divers kinds until finally the object of his efforts was finished, a small, hollow, elastic, colorless tube about five inches long, the composition of which is not recorded, consequently not known. In 12 hours after his task was finished careful scrutiny of the injured limb revealed a slightly bluish tint, scarcely noticeable, on the end of the great toe. This was the signal for operation to the surgeon, and the stockman was immediately taken to the operating room, where in order to arrest oncoming gangrene he was subjected to an odd and experimental operation.

After the patient was anæsthetized the wound was uncovered, carefully cleaned and the tissue carefully pushed and dissected away from the large artery, exposing about 3½ inches of bruised vessel ready to disintegrate. A clamp was placed on the artery an inch above where normal sound tissue began. Then he cut the artery at the junction of the bruised and sound tissue, and, carefully drawing the mysterious tube from its aseptic hiding place, he slipped the cut, round end of the vessel into it about an inch, being exceedingly careful while so doing to keep the hollow tube collapsed and empty so as to avoid all danger produced by the entrance of air.

Repeating the same process at the lower end of the artery, he inserted the tube into the end of the vessel about the same distance as the upper end lay in the tube. Then gently releasing the lower clamp, he allowed the tube to fill with blood from the portion of the vessels below. Then the final test came when he gently and steadily moved the clamp above the tube, thus establishing an unbroken channel which would carry the blood to its normal distribution. A slight pouching of the tube at first caused some fear as to whether it were strong enough to stand the pressure of the heart wave of blood as the latter pulsated through its new channel. This latter defect was overcome, however, when the tube was laid in the bed of the bruised exsected portion and the external support of the muscles and tissues gave it sufficient strength to overcome the pressure of the blood stream. The wound was carefully closed, the parts set at rest and results awaited. In 36 hours the blue tint had disappeared from the toe, and the color of the skin of the leg changed from a pale ashy to a pink.

Two months afterward the patient was attending his everyday duties as formerly, suffering no inconvenience whatever from his wound. Five years afterward the patient died of acute pneumonia, and a post mortem examination of the seat of the wound revealed a strong, firm plastic composition tube immediately in the "situ" of the composition tube, the latter having been absorbed by the blood, not, however, before the lymphatics had so encysted it, just as a bullet becomes encysted in the body after months of time, to the extent that when the tube was eaten away by the blood this fibrous coat answered the original plan of circulation. —Philadelphia Inquirer.

Milton and "Paradise Regained."

After some common discourses had passed between us he (Milton) called for a manuscript of his, which, being brought, he delivered to me, bidding me take it home with me and read it at my leisure and, when I had done so, return it to him with my judgment. When I came home and had set myself to read it, I found it was that excellent poem which he entitled "Paradise Lost."

After I had, with the best attention, read it through I made him another visit and returned to him his book. He asked me how I liked it and what I thought of it, which I modestly but freely told him, and after some further discourse about it I pleasantly said to him, "Thou hast said much here of paradise lost, but what hast thou to say of paradise found?"

He made no answer, but sat some time in a muse, then broke off that discourse and fell upon another subject. So when "Paradise Regained" was written Milton said in a pleasant tone, "That is owing to you, for you put it into my head by the question you put to me at Chalfont, which before I had not thought of."—"History of Thomas Ellwood."

Little Teasers.

Here is a little exercise in punctuation that a normal school young woman recently brought home to puzzle her father:

It is not and I said but or.

Looks a little confused, doesn't it?

Simple though.

A few quotation marks and two commas will fix it all right. For instance:

"It is not 'and,'" I said, "but 'or.'"

Here is a still simpler catch that may bother you some:

"All 0."

Not much in it, perhaps, but enough to make it troublesome.

Too hard?

And yet it's "Nothing after all."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

MATRON AND MAID.

The Baroness de Rothschild has given during the past month 20,000 francs to Parisian hospitals.

Mrs. Semple, the daughter of President Tyler, is dictating for publication her recollections of Webster and other famous American statesmen.

Mme. Ristori, who is now 79 years old and who was a rival of Rachel's nearly half a century ago, is still vigorous. She delivered an address at the recent dramatic congress in Rome.

Lady Meux, who made a present to Lord Roberts of a battery of six guns which cost about $30,000, is now sending out clothing, tobacco and other comforts to the British soldiers.

A young woman named Jessica Bromberg is a volunteer private in the famous Kimberley rifles and is one of the crack shots of the regiment. She has been a member for some time and two years ago marched with her regiment against a savage tribe that was making trouble.

Miss McCaul, a volunteer nurse in South Africa, gave up a large private hospital in England to work gratuitously for the sick and wounded soldiers of her country. She is the only purely civilian nurse at the front and was the first woman to enter Ladysmith after the siege.

Miss Annie C. Emery has been elected dean of Pembroke college, the woman's annex to Brown university. She is a graduate of Bryn Mawr and has more recently been assistant professor of classical philology at the University of Wisconsin.

Miss Pauline H. Lyon of Chicago is becoming conspicuous as a promoter of moneyed enterprises. Her latest project is to promote an athletic club in New York for both men and women. It is said that $100,000 will go into this scheme. Miss Lyon is a cousin of John Borroughs, the famous naturalist and writer.

Miss Kitty Wilkins is known as the "horse queen" of Idaho and is said to be a goddess of the saddle, with muscles trained since childhood to outdoor life and sports. She rides astride in leather breeches and counts her horses by the thousands. She is a dead rifle shot and is decidedly mannish in her appearance, affecting vests, collars and four-in-hands as well as topcoats.

The late Lady John Scott Spottiswoode, the author of "Annie Laurie," was often called the "Sappho of the North Country." She was an ardent Conservative. She opposed the substitution of coal for heat and slates for thatch on her Berwickshire estate and made her coachman ride postilion, regarding a box driver as an odious innovation derogatory to the dignity of a Scottish gentlewoman.

SOME HARD FIGHTING HAD TO BE DONE

Before French Reached Pretoria and the Canadians Were in it--The Good News is Not Officially Confirmed, But its Correctness is not Doubted--- Roberts Despatches do not Account for the Calvary.

Report Says Kruger has Been Captured Six Miles From Pretoria --The Splendid Fighting of the Gordons When the Boers Made Their Stand Against Hamilton's Division--- Roberts' Entry Into Johannesburg Was Delayed to Avoid Bloodshed.

KRUGER IS CAPTURED

London, May 31.—It is rumored that President Kruger has been captured by the British, six miles from Pretoria.

ALL BRITAIN IS CELEBRATING

London May 31—Up to a late hour this afternoon there is no official news confirmatory of the report published this morning that the Boers had evacuated Pretoria and that the surrender of the city was only a matter of hours. Little doubt is felt as to the correctness of the report, however, and all Britain is celebrating with might and main. The fact that no news of Roberts' entry into Johannesburg has been received is taken to mean that he pushed right ahead to Pretoria.

BOER REAR GUARD FOUGHT IN JOHANNESBURG

Germiston, Transvaal, Wednesday, May 30, 3.25 p.m.—Johannesburg is practically in British possession. The mines are uninjured- Nine engines, a coal train and great quantity of rolling stock were captured. The remnants of Boer's rear guard remained and fought in streets of Germiston, but they were easily cleared by Grenadiers. Troops have not yet occupied Johannesburg. Gen. French now at Elandslaagate. Guards hold Elandsfontein and Germiston. State entry into Johannesburg will take place to-morrow. Boers have gone to Pretoria. Railroad from here to Vaal River is uninjured.

ROBERTS' REPORT OF OPERATIONS

London, May 31—War Office has received the following despatch from Lord Roberts under date Germiston, May 30—"In answer to a flag of truce I sent to Johannesburg this morning commandant came to see me· He begged me to defer entering town for 24 hours as there were many armed burghers still inside. I agreed to this as I am most anxious to avoid possibility of anything like disturbance inside town and as bodies of enemy are still holding hills in the immediate neighborhood from which they will have to be cleared off beforehand. Rundle reports that he attacked a large party of Boers near Senekel on May 23. He said his casualties were not heavy. Brabant reports that on May 28 two of his patrols consisting of two officers and 40 men were cut off by the enemy and taken prisoners."

HAMILTON'S BRIGADE DOES SOME FIGHTING

London, May 31.—11.02 a.m.—The War Office has received from Lord Roberts a despatch dated Germiston, May 30, 9 p.m., saying: "The brunt of fighting yesterday fell upon Ian Hamilton's column. I have sent him as already mentioned to work around to the west of Johannesburg in support of French's cavalry which was directed to go north near the road leading to Pretoria. I have not heard from French yet, but Hamilton in a report which has just reached me states that at about one o'clock in the afternoon he found his way blocked by the enemy strongly posted on some kopjes and ridges three miles south of the rand. They had two heavy guns and several field guns and pom-poms, Hamilton forthwith attacked. The right was led by the Gordons who after capturing one extremity of the ridge wheeled round and worked along it until after dark, clearing it of the enemy who fought most obstinately. The 104th led on the other flank and would not be denied, but the chief share in the action as in the casualties fell to the Gordons whose gallant advance excited the admiration of all. Hamilton is now at Florida, due west of Johannesburg, and French is 11 miles further to the northeast. The Gordons, the cavalry, the mounted infantry and the 7th Division are holding the heights of the town. The 11th Division with Batteries H and G and the heavy artillery are south of Johannesburg. Hamilton speaks in highest terms of praise of the manner in which Bruce Hamilton and Col. Spens, of the Shropshire light infantry, handled their men under Smith-Dorrien's direction.

DICTATING TERMS TO THE BOERS

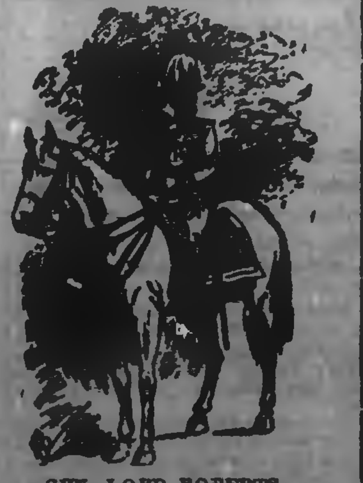
Earl of Rosslyn's Message Was Backed Up by a Reuter Despatch—Both Were Accepted as True in London—Johannesburg Handed Over to Lord Roberts—Mad Rush for the Coast From Pretoria.

London, May 31. — (3.12 a.m.) — Daily Mail publishes the following despatch from the Earl of Rosslyn, who was a prisoner at Pretoria, and who, as a civilian, appears to have been released:

"Pretoria, Wednesday, May 30. — (11.40 a.m.) — Pretoria will be occupied in about two hours without resistance.

"The President has gone to Watervalboven.

"The burgomaster, DeSousa, is authorized to receive the British. He with an influential committee of citizens, including Chief Justice Gregorowski, has been appointed to preserve life and property during the interregnum.



GEN. LORD ROBERTS.

"Everything is quiet, but crowds are waiting expectantly in Church Square for the arrival of the British.

Feared the British Prisoners.

"Fearing a possible disturbance and bloodshed among the prisoners of war at Waterval, United States Consul Hay and Mr. Leigh Wood insisted upon 20 officers being liberated on parole to go to the men. Their action cannot be too highly praised.

"I was permitted to accompany the officers. Everything was quiet."

Dictating Terms to Boers.

Pretoria, Wednesday, May 30. — British officers are now at Johannesburg dictating terms of surrender.

The British advance guard is half way between Johannesburg and Pretoria. It is reported that there is a force also at Hatherly.

All the forces have been dismissed from the forts around Pretoria.

President Kruger is now at Watervalboven.

KING QUALITY

We name them thus

Because we believe they are King of all shoes. We don't believe there is a woman's shoe sold for $3 in this whole world which is as good as our King Quality. That is a broad statement, but try the shoe and you will agree that we have reason for boasting.

It is simply perfection.
It has all that a shoe ought to have—ease, durability, style—and it costs but $3 while it looks like a $5 shoe.
Try and judge for yourself.

A Twelve Hour Dinner.

They dined well, if not wisely, in the old days described by Sir Algernon West in his "Recollections." He says:

"Thanks to the introduction of smoking after dinner, wine drinking is now over. What it was in old days appears most incredible. The late Lord Clanwilliam told me of one occasion when he had dined at a friend's villa near Putney. The dinner was extraordinarily late for those days—at 8 o'clock.

"When they at last rose from the table and went up to their rooms, Lord Clanwilliam flung open his window and saw the haymakers coming into the field.

"'I wonder,' he thought, 'what hour they begin work.' And on consulting his watch he found it was 8:30—the haymakers were returning to work from their breakfast."—New York World.

So Weak she Couldn't Sleep or Work—Hands Trembled—Could Scarcely Walk—Restored by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Mrs. Margaret Iron, Tower Hill, N. B., writes:—"Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has done me a world of good. I was so weak that I could not walk twice the length of the house. My hands trembled so that I could not carry a pint of water. I was too nervous to sleep, and unable to do work of any kind.

"Since using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I have been completely restored. I can walk a mile without any inconvenience. Though 76 years old, and quite fleshy, I do my own housework, and considerable sewing, knitting, and reading besides. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has proved of inestimable value to me."

AN ACTIVE INVALID.

Hon. Mr. Tarte, who had to borrow money with which to run his election campaign when he was taken into the Laurier Cabinet, has indeed "lived high," as the saying goes, since he secured a place in the Cabinet. His course has been one of remarkable prosperity, and of him it can truly be said that he and his family and friends are "doing well."

But later developments are still more striking, and will, no doubt, cause the Canadian people to feel still greater pride in this distinguished son who has won for himself the title of "the master of the administration."

It is not necessary to refer to his departmental record or his stand against a Canadian contingent being sent to assist the Empire in South Africa. Sufficient it is to say that just when the session of Parliament was about to be held and enquires were to be made regarding many matters and questions under his control, Hon. Mr. Tarte'e health was so impaired that he had to leave for Europe to seek advice and treatment.

But the cable keeps the Canadian people informed of Mr. Tarte's whereabouts, and immediate anxiety for his health are somewhat allayed by his wonderful activity. Speeches at banquets one day in London and the next day in Paris show that he is still able to talk, and later reports indicate that he is also fit for travel, and is everywhere receiving public banquets and receptions. What a rest this travelling and speaking and banquetting must be to the invalid? What source of satisfaction and, at the same time, food for thought to the Canadian people there is in this activity of Mr. Tarte, the invalid. His triumphal journeying through France is to be followed, the cable now states, by a trip through Belgium, where the people will be able to view and banquet a real live Canadian Cabinet Minister—not one in vigorous health, to be sure, but active and talkative, with all the dignity and magnificence which goes with such a distinguished son. What a change a few short years have made.

But it is not charitable, nay, it is unkind, for any one to suggest that Mr. Tarte might have faced Parliament and attended to his duties during the session and not taxed his physical or mental powers to any greater extent than he does by his journeyings, his speeches and his banquets in dear old France. No, no, he required the rest and all will hope that he will soon be so completely rested as to be able to return to Canada and, Parliament being adjourned, give his time to managing the Grit campaign in Quebec.

Hon. Mr. Sifton, who also was wanted in Parliament to answer charges and explains shortcomings, is also in "gay Paree." This is the Government without any "faction fights." "Faction" rules in this case.

According to Liberal party management Mr. Birmingham, if he as Conservative organizer ran an election machine, is entitled to be sent on a trip to Europe with a $5,000 salary to keep up his spirits.

The machine-made Government at Toronto will try to make the most of Mr. Birmingham and his threat. Anything to draw attention from the exposure of the Liberal ballot stealers, impersonators and corrupt campaign officials.

GREAT NEWS TO-DAY.

"Pretoria Surrenders" was the good tidings this morning, and a feeling of great relief and thankfulness came over all who had feared a determined fight before Pretoria was occupied. The news made all hearts beat with gladness for it meant victory, the end or beginning of the end of the war which has cost so many lives and in which the whole Empire was so directly interested. The surrender of Pretoria gives the assurance that Kruger is unable to rally his misguided Boers for another stand, and that the reports of preparations for a great and final struggle were unfounded. And the Boers have been wise in deciding to make no stand at the Transvaal capital. It could only have one result, and would have entailed loss of life and property.

The march of Lord Roberts and his army has been a great achievement and a grand triumph. Since the capture of Cronje there has been no organized resistance to the British progress. And Lord Roberts handled his superior numbers in such a manner and the officers and men were equal to such grand work in marching and enduring that the further the forces of the Empire advanced the more it became apparent that successful resistance on the part of the Boers was impossible and an attempt to make a final stand worse than useless. But at the Vaal there was to be a fight made; then the stand was to be at Johannesburg, and last there was to be bitter and determined opposition met at Pretoria. But one after the other these places were reached and the Boers continued to retreat, and now Pretoria is under the Union Jack and Kruger and his advisers are in flight. That there will be any more organized fighting does not seem probable, and the war may be said to be over. And what a war it has been! British reverses at the beginning, but never any lack of British courage or British pluck. Then the campaign was organized under Roberts and the sweep of victory began and continued until it has reached the Transvaal capital. Once the men were in the country and a plan of campaign properly inaugurated, it has not taken long to reach Kruger's headquarters. Now we may confidently expect peace, and peace with honor. The war heroes will return and rejoicing and gladness will take the place of sorrow and anxiety. What follows in South Africa is a large question of serious importance, but it can be trusted to the British Government to administer the new colony with wisdom and justice, giving liberty and freedom and equal rights to all residents, something that could not be secured under the millionaire and hypocritical tyrant who held the Presidency. But to-day let us rejoice over the success of British arms. Pretoria's surrender is enough for one day.

Hang out the flags and let loose the sounds of victory and rejoicing. It is a great day for the army! It is a great day for the Empire! Britons can celebrate to-day, and they will all round the globe.

Victory!

Celebrate!

Peace with honor.

Kruger is on the run.

Roberts painted it red.

is Rheumatism of the back. The cause is Uric Acid in the blood. If the kidneys did their work there would be no Uric Acid and no Lumbago. Make the kidneys do their work. The sure, positive and only cure for Lumbago is

Dodd's Kidney Pills

The Boers will soon know what good government and freedom and liberty means.

The Boers could not get settled for that "final stand." Bobs kept them running.

While rejoicing over victory and success, the Empire will never forget the heroes who gave their lives in the cause.

Here's to the Generals and the officers and the brave men who fought the battles of the Empire so bravely and so successfully.

Let no one say the British solider is not as good a man as ever he was. He is and better, for he now has the sturdy, brave colonials to keep the pace warm for him when trouble comes.

The Boer delegates in the United States may settle there. The South African Republics will have peace now without their assistance. And it will be peace without tyrany or a hyprocritical task master.

The Toronto Star and some other Grit newspapers are trying hard to make a sensation out of the Birmingham incident, but the "faction fight" does not appear any place but in these newspapers. Sir Charles Tupper speaking to the Mail and Empire's Ottawa correspondent says:—

"Any statement that I have promised portfolios to any person, or that there is any difference of opinion in the party in regard to Birmingham, is entirely without foundation."

This does not look like any "faction fight." Mr. Birmingham has been told to go ahead and tell what he knows, and all Conservatives agree with these orders. The Conservatives have no intention to "hug the machine."

GRAND ORANGE LODGE.

The Opening of the 71st Annual Session at London, Ont.

London, Ont., May 31. — The seventy-first annual session of the Grand Orange Lodge of British America opened in the City Hall here yesterday afternoon, with a good attendance. Grand Master N. Clark Wallace, M.P., delivered his annual address, after which the report of the Grand Secretary was read. Thirty-nine new primary lodge warrants had been issued during the past year, four county lodge warrants, four district lodge warrants and 13 Orange Young Briton warrants. One ladies' lodge has been organized in Nova Scotia. Following is the summary of statistical report. Initiated 3,452, joined by certificate 1,209, reinstated 964, withdrawn by certificate 1,616, suspended 2,670, expelled 108, died 388.

In the evening a public meeting was held in the City Hall.

C. P. R. Employes Give $12,033.64.

Montreal, May 31.—The Canadian Pacific employes' patriotic relief fund was closed to-day, and a cheque for $12,033.64 expressed to Treasurer Courtney at Ottawa this afternoon. This amount was subscribed as follows:

Lines east of Fort William, $6,829.55; lines west of Fort William, $5,204. It is estimated that this amount represents 100 per cent. of one-half day's pay for the entire system at the present season.

Boers Are Leaving Natal.

London, May 31. — It is officially announced that the Boers are leaving Natal.

Gen. Hildyard has occupied Utrecht, in the southwestern portion of the Transvaal.

Johannesburg Excited.

Pretoria, Tuesday, May 29.—A despatch sent from Johannesburg last night describes the town as intensely excited throughout the day on reports that the British were approaching; but says the excitement subsided in the evening owing to rumors that the British had been driven back. There are large numbers of burghers at Johannesburg, but remarkably good order prevails there.

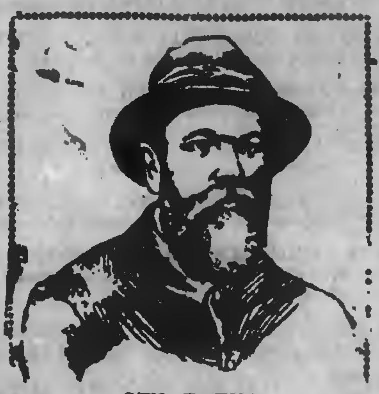
THE FINAL KICK.

The Boers Died Hard and Persisted in Sending Out Fake News Till the End.

Pretoria, May 29.—(Tuesday.) — An official war bulletin just issued is as follows:

"On Sunday a fight occurred close to Van Wyck's Rust, in Gatsrand. The Federals fought well and the British seemed tired out. When dark the Federals were forced to retire in the direction of Van Wyck's Rust on account of the overwhelming force of the British.

"The British attacked Witwatersrand yesterday and were in contact with the Federals at Gatsrand. But they were beaten back with good results by the Federals under Commandant Louis Botha. The Federals were heavily bombarded all day long, but kept their positions. The British loss is reported to be considerable.



GEN. BOTHA.

"The British are near Utrecht and they are also marching on Laing's Nek."

Transvaal Traffic Closed.

Lorenzo Marquez, Wednesday, May 30. — Good traffic between here and the Transvaal was officially closed to-day, the cause apparently being the military movements in progress. A Boer commando has arrived at Komatipoort. All the Portuguese troops have been ordered to be in readiness to proceed to the frontier, and the Portuguese fleet along the coast has received orders to concentrate here.

No Use For Him.

"No," said the practical politician, "we don't want him figuring in the campaign."

"But he is exceedingly well informed."

"I doubt it. He has put in all his time studying the tariff and finance and the United States constitution. He doesn't know anything about politics."—Washington Star.

The baby's coming is often looked forward to as a time of dread and danger. Many women are physically unfit to become mothers. They are sick and weak in a womanly way and may well look with fear toward the time of maternity. Intelligent preparation for this time is most essential. An athlete "trains" for months before his trial. Most women do not "train" at all and yet their trial is to be fifty times as severe as the athlete's.

During the period of gestation every woman should use every means to strengthen the organs that are to be tried. They should be kept in perfect health. The faintest symptom of disorder or disease should be promptly eliminated.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is designed to do this very thing—has been doing it for over thirty years. It is the one sure medicine for all female complaints. It is the only medicine that may be absolutely depended upon to practically abolish the pain and danger of childbirth. It is the only preparation of its kind that is the invention of a regularly graduated physician—a skilled and experienced specialist in the care of diseases of women.

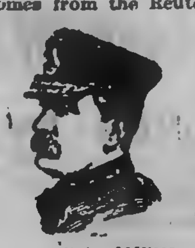
THE NEWS IN LONDON.

Earl of Rosslyn's Despatch, Backed by a Reuter Message, Accepted As True.

London, May 31.—(3 a.m.)—Yesterday at noon the British were only about two hours' march from Pretoria, and the Boer military forces had abandoned the city. This intelligence comes from the Reuter agent at the Transvaal capital and from the Earl of Rosslyn, in a press despatch. The two messages left about the same time.



GEN. FRENCH.

Press Advices Are Correct.

At 2 o'clock this morning the War Office had received no news from Lord Roberts which the officials would make public, but it is assumed that the press advices are correct. Most of the London morning papers, through the courtesy of The Daily Mail, print Lord Rosslyn's despatch and comment upon it, treating the war as ended. Some of the more cautious critics think that guerilla warfare is likely to be carried on for some time in various parts of the conquered territory.

Boers Abroad Yet.

Although the Boer forces are dissolving, Lord Roberts apparently has not yet taken any considerable quantities of artillery arms or stores. Large bodies of Boers must still be somewhere in the field.

Where Kruger Is.

Watervalhoven, or Waterfallboven, is 180 miles due east of Pretoria on the Delagoa Bay Railway. It should not be confused with Waterval, 10 miles north of Pretoria, where the British prisoners are. Watervalboven is a small place in a mountainous country. The seat of the Boer Government—what there is left of it—will probably be Lydenburg to the north.

EX-PRESIDENT KRUGER.

Krans Surrendered Johannesburg.

A despatch from Lorenzo Marquez dated Wednesday, says: "Commandand Krans has surrendered Johannesburg to Lord Roberts. By to-night's train from Pretoria, arrived a few Greeks, who say they were told to leave Pretoria Tuesday. They affirm that the train in which they left was shelled by the British and that half of the train was cut off, the remainder steaming away. The incident probably occurred at Elangsfontein Junction.

Rush for the Coast.

"Passengers from Pretoria assert that the town is utterly demoralized and there is a mad rush for the coast. Five train loads of fugitives are expected here to-night."

Times Says War Is Over.

London, May 31. — The Times says this morning: "The war is practically over. By this time the British flag is flying in Pretoria. Mr. Kruger has fled and is ere this half way to Delagoa Bay. Mr. Hay, son of the United States Secretary of State, who holds the office of American Consul at Pretoria, and, who in that capacity took charge of our interests, thoughtfully insisted on a special step for safeguarding the large number of British prisoners."

It is reported that a special train from Pretoria with fugitives was derailed on the Transvaal side of Komatipoort, a number of passengers being killed or injured. The British authorities at Bulawayo think the Boers will retire into Southern Rhodesia.

Brigade of Prisoners Released.

By the release of the British prisoners at Waterval, a full brigade will be added to the army of Lord Roberts, as there were 177 officers and 4,188 privates among them.

Events elsewhere in the field of war seem to dwindle in comparison.

Gen. Hunter re-entered the Transvaal at Maribogopan Thursday. The advance was made off the railway. Water is scarce and all the farms are deserted. Yesterday Gen. Hunter re-entered Grisdorp with 10 days' supplies.

Diamond Jubilee's Derby.

London, May 31. — At the second day's racing of the Epsom summer meeting yesterday the race for the Derby Stakes of 6,000 sovereigns was won by the Prince of Wales Diamond Jubilee. Simondale was second and Disguise II. third.

Bet and Wager.

"What's the difference between a bet and a wager?" asked the man who thinks there are too many words in the English language.

"A bet," said the friend who always wears a dress coat after 6 o'clock, "is something you make with a man, which has to be paid, no matter who loses. A wager is something more refined. It's made with a woman and is not considered collectable unless she wins."—Washington Star.

Peculiar.

Professor Simon J. Brown, the astronomical director of the naval observatory at Washington, occasionally indulges in a bit of humor. On one occasion a colleague came into his office and, finding the professor standing, said: "Is it possible you work that way? I cannot stand standing."

"That's peculiar," replied Professor Brown quickly. "Now, do you know, I cannot stand sitting."

Beware of using the personal pronoun "I" too freely in your talk when you are talking in a room full of people. Egotists are often amusing and entertaining, but as often they are very much out of order.—Ladies' Home Journal.

The History of Grip.

The history of "grip," or influenza, can only be traced back, with any certainty, for 300 years. Perhaps its home is in Russia. It retains certain broad characteristics which make it recognizable even under such odd names as the "gentle correction" and the "new delight." A curious description of it under the name of "coqueluche" is found in the diary of Pierre de L'Estoile in the time of Henry III of France, as follows:

"The coqueluche at Paris, year 1580.—From the 2d day to the 8th day of June there fell sick at Paris 10,000 persons of an illness having the form of a rheum or catarrh, which they call the 'coqueluche.' This illness seizes you with a pain in the head, stomach and loins and a lassitude throughout the body, and it persecuted the whole kingdom of France while the year lasted, so that once having come hardly anybody in a town or village or house escaped.

"The best remedy the doctors found was to make the sick abstain from wine. To some they ordered bleeding and rhubarb, for others cassia, and finally they found it best to keep the sick in bed and allow them little to eat and drink. They say at Paris that of this 'coqueluche' there were dead at Rome, in less than three months, more than 10,000 persons."

Gargling the Throat.

If one is to really do good by gargling—that is, if one is to insure that the fluid shall reach the posterior wall of the pharynx—the nose must be held and the head must be well thrown back while performing the gargling process. By gargling in the usual way only the anterior surface of the uvula and soft palate and the base of the tongue are reached. But by holding the nose and throwing the head well back when gargling the medicament reaches every surface of the pharynx very effectively.

The comparative value of the two methods can be tested by painting the posterior surface of the pharynx carefully with a strong solution of methylene blue and then letting the patient gargle with water in the usual way, when it will be found that the water ejected will be clear and unstained; then let him gargle again, holding the nose and throwing his head well back, when the ejected fluid will be found stained, and an inspection of the pharynx will show that the blue has been washed away.

This is a thing worth remembering, for many observers have maintained that gargling is not only useless as a method of medication, but is quite ineffectual even as a means of cleansing the pharynx.—Charlotte Medical Journal.

A Famous Kentucky Hotel.

The Phœnix hotel is in one sense the oldest hotel in the whole western country, for it has, with varying changes, continued to exist ever since the year 1800. It was here that Aaron Burr lodged in 1806 while engaged in his daring conspiracy to make himself the head of a new empire and was here met and welcomed by Herman Blennerhassett, the cultured but unfortunate Irishman he had so completely fascinated. Here, as far back as Jefferson's administration, Democrats and Federalists, in knee buckled breeches, ruffled shirts and dangling cues, talked redhot politics. It was the scene of a sumptuous dinner to Lafayette, and later was the stopping place of the wily Mexican chieftain General Santa Anna. During the civil war, while Lexington was held by the Confederates, it was the headquarters of Generals Bragg and Kirby Smith and before the struggle ended sheltered General Grant. President Arthur has also been its guest.

"Is that clock right?" he asked after it had struck 11.

"Why?" she answered.

"Because if it is I shall have plenty of time to catch the 11:30 car."

"I remember now," she said, "that the clock is about 20 minutes slow. If you hurry, you will just catch the car."

During the 20 minutes that he stood on the corner he arrived at the painful conclusion that she didn't really love him as he longed to be loved.—Chicago Times-Herald.

Hawaiian Pronunciations.

Hawaiians call their chief islands Hah-vwy-ee; we say Hah-wy-ee. Other proper ways of giving well known Hawaiian names are: O-ah-hu, Ho-nolulu, Mow-ee (Maui), Kow-aye (Kauai), Ne-e-how (Niihau), Hee-lo (Hilo), Lahy-na (Lahaina), Ko-hah-la (Kohala). Vowels are as in Italian and deserve much care. Hawaiians pay little attention to consonants. — Baltimore News.

The body needs internal as well as external baths to keep it healthy. To give the body an internal bath drink plenty of water. Two quarts should be taken each day, beginning with a glass just after rising and ending with a glass just before retiring. If you are inclined to stoutness, do not drink during meals or within a half hour before or after them. If your complexion is bad, nothing is more conducive to a cure than drinking water either hot or cold, but preferably the latter.—New York Press.

Kingsley's Way.

I go at what I am about as if there were nothing else in the world for the time being. That's the secret of all hardworking men, but most of them can't carry it into their amusements. Luckily for me, I can stop from all work at short notice and turn head over heels in the sight of all creation and say, "I won't be good or bad or wise or anything till 2 o'clock tomorrow."—Charles Kingsley.

What is Dr. Chase's Nerve Food?

In appearance Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is an oval, chocolate coated pill. In this condensed form it contains all of nature's most strengthening and invigorating tonics and restoratives and for this reason it is unapproached as a blood builder and nerve restorative. It cures all diseases caused by thin blood and exhausted nerves and makes pale, weak nervous men, women and children strong and healthy. 50 cents a box.

GREAT REJOICING AT PRETORIA'S SURRENDER

The News Was Received With Great Demonstrations by the Loyal Citizens of Peterborough

A Half Holiday was Proclaimed and Factories and Business Places Closed---A Big Demonstration To-night---The Rejoicing in Other Places Was Enthusiastic.

Triumphs for British arms come thick and fast. Celebration follows jubilation and jubilation follows celebration. Within the past few months numerous have been the causes of joy in the victories of British and Canadian soldiers but the climax has come in the triumphant entry of Lord Roberts and his gallant army into Pretoria after one of the most brilliant marches in history. The fall of Pretoria signifies peace, honorable and glorious, a victory for freedom, enlightenment and the privileges of civilization which make life worth living.

Throughout this vast empire sincere and jubilant will be the demonstrations of joy to-day. Every city and every hamlet has its share in the rejoicing. None can celebrate too much the notable occasion. Nowhere can the crowds be too great or the cheers too loud.

The good news was received in Peterborough this morning with many expressions of joy and gladness. Citizens went about congratulating each other on the event and the prospect of a speedy close to the war. The air was full of stir. There was an exhilaration that promised a big celebration to-night, an excitement that could hardly keep itself within bounds. Peterborough royally celebrated the victories at Ladysmith, Kimberly and, only a few days ago, Mafeking and it would be strange indeed if the greatest triumph of them all were not honored by the most enthusiastic demonstration of all.

Early in the day one by one the flags began to float out on the breeze until nearly every store and public building was flying its gay red bunting. Before noon the main streets presented their gayest holiday appearance in their bright and loyal attire.

There was a short emergency meeting of the Council this morning when the afternoon was proclaimed a half holiday that all might take part in the rejoicing. The news was spread as quickly as possible and was bulletined in front of the newspaper offices and it was very gratifying to see how generally the holiday was observed both by stores and factories, considering the very short notice on which it was ordered. The people needed no urging. They were all ready to give up the day to the best use to which it could be put.

When the notice of the holiday was sent down to the Canadian General Electric works, Mr. Barton, the superintendent, responded immediately that they would be glad to observe it and celebrate and would contribute 500 men to the festivities to-night. And every man's pay went on this afternoon just as if he were at his work. When the men quit work at noon they all assembled at the works' gate and gave three rousing cheers for the Queen, for General Roberts and for the Company's General Manager and the local Superintendent. This afternoon the men were on parade with the bugle band and a suitable banner.

At 11.30 all the whistles of the manufacturing institutions boomed out their greeting, the church bells and the bells of the town clocks rung it out through the air and all the railway engines in the yards sent out prolonged blasts to join the chorus.

The fire teams, spick and span, with brightly shining waggons, handsomely adorned, were got out and the townspeople had the pleasure of seeing them do their best gallop with big Union Jacks streaming high.

The pupils of the Public and Separate schools and Collegiate Institute tripped to their homes at noon with lighter step than usual for they were to have the afternoon for enjoyment.

The cannon of the 14th Field Battery fired a grand salute at noon.

A volunteer band marched up George-st this afternoon and made a prodigious amount of music for such a small band. It was small but its enthusiasm was large.

The baseball boys had a game at the P.A.A.A. grounds this afternoon.

The streets and park were busy this afternoon with pleasure seekers. It was an ideal day for a holiday.

But the real festivities, the grand jubilation, the biggest demonstration that ever has been is promised for to-night. Don't wait for an invitation. It is as free as the air.. The 57th regiment and both bands will march out. There will be a grand fireworks procession. Everybody is expected to provide himself with a few rockets and get into line. It will be a hot time in the old town. There have been quite a few lately but this will likely be the last of this war and should be the greatest, a night that will live long in the memory.

The Sons of England band is not behind. It will turn out in uniform to-night and Lansdowne Lodge will also parade.

The bugle band and drum corps and a squad of the non-coms, with a Union Jack and a big Canadian General Electric works sign turned out this afternoon at 3.30 o'clock, and stirred up the town with a lively procession.

A short service of thanksgiving will

BROUGHT TO THE HOSPITAL.

A Lindsay Man Struck by a Train and Painfully Injured.

Yesterday morning Thos. McMurdie, of Lindsay, was brought, under care of Dr. Jeffries, down to the Nicholls hospital, suffering from severe injuries received in the G. T. R. yard at Lindsay. Early yesterday morning, about daybreak, the fireman of a shunting engine noticed a man lying beside the track. The engine was stopped and it was found to be McMurdie with his left leg badly mangled, the flesh having been stripped from the bone almost from the thigh to the ankle. The painful wounds were dressed at the hospital.

The man is a well known character in his his town. He was intoxicated on Tuesday and was found in a ditch on Tuesday night. It is supposed he went down to the railway yard to sleep and while walking across the tracks was struck by one of the trains moving out or shunting in the yard.

REGARDING TYPHOID PATENTS

The Medical Health Officer on the Subject of Pure Water.

The necessity of pure water for domestic use cannot be too frequently urged. The cause of typhoid fever is especially found in bad water. In a town or neighborhood where the water is pure, typhoid fever is unknown, and as it is the duty of the Medical Health Officer to find out definitely, whether a typhoid patient had been using town supply, or well supply of water, it is respectfully requested that any physician having a typhoid case in town would report the same at the Health Office.

Medical Health Officer.

BASEBALL.

When it Hurts to Cough.

The cough that hurts, the cough that gets tight in the chest, is daily getting deeper and deeper into the bronchial tubes and is making directly for the lungs, to become pneumonia, inflammation of the lungs or consumption. Such coughs yield only to the wonderful efficiency of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine which loosens the tightness and cures cough and cold together. 25 cents a bottle. Family size 60 cents, sold everywhere.

THE COSTS CAME HIGH

A Rag and Bone Man Went Out on a Little Sunday Trip.

At the police court this morning a youth named John Davy, whose occupation is the gathering of rags, bones and other indestructibles, was charged with cruelty to animals. He hired a horse at Wolstenholme's livery a week ago last Sunday for a little drive around town and with a companion and a couple of lady friends of the street variety drove about 20 miles in the direction of Stony lake. The horse did not stand the trip very well and on the return was abandoned at Lakefield. This morning Davy was fined $2 and costs amounting to the trivial figure of $12.85, with one hour for settlement, otherwise one month in gaol at hard labor. The Magistrate gave him a pointed lecture.

The Old and Reliable.

The annual excursion on the Civic Holiday of the Forester's Court Littlejohn is again on the surface. This annual success is achieved by getting to work early and hustling the details and arousing general interest in the trip. The excursion is the same old reliable, where the excursionist gets the worth of his money—to Toronto, Niagara Falls, and Buffalo. At a meeting held last night committees were appointed to go ahead with all arrangements. The route will be as before by C.P.R. to Toronto, lake boats, and by electric road to Niagara Falls, and regular trains to Buffalo. Those who propose taking a trip on the Civic Holiday, cannot do better than arrange to take in this excursion. Full particulars later on.

Blown to Atoms.

A SUGGESTION OF DYNAMITERS

AN INTERESTING LETTER FOUND AT THE C. P. R. WAITING ROOM.

Apparently an Epistle from Some Conspirator in Buffalo to Friends who were Stopping at or Passing Through Peterborough.

On Tuesday a piece of letter paper, rather soiled and dirty, was picked up in the waiting room of the C. P. R. station. The finder sent it into Chief Rozzel with the remark that he did so because of a reference to the police which it contains. The letter was badly written and worse spelled and when deciphered and translated would read as below, a few words of the brimstone kind being omitted. The letter is apparently genuine and makes it appear that conspirators like those that attempted to wreck the Welland Canal were in this part of the province :—

Buffalo, 25th May.

Dear Jim,—We expected to hear from you before this. We read the papers every day to see if you had let 'er go. Don't scare about N. and W. They made a botch of their job at Thorold, all them drunk. We sent you 20 pounds d——— by express on 3rd in top box. You must have got it. Now you fellows keep straight and do your work like men. Lots of time for lush after work. The cops is n. g. Write soon ; will wait at P. H. for letter. Yours,

DAVE.

PASSING OF THE MOUSTACHE.

A Change of Countenance That is Causing Friends to Pass on the Street.

The REVIEW regrets to chronicle the fact that a serious and sinister effort is being made to deface many of the well known landmarks of the town, and create a spirit of consternation and unrest. No one knows where the blow may fall, or which family may number among its members one of the mutilated hundred. A rash has broken out—in spots—in the shape of an effort to suppress the moustache, and many of our best known and heretofore easily recognized business men have lost their hair. The results are simply appalling. Citizens are almost unrecognizable. A man comes to anchor alongside of you and mentions the weather and you greet him as a stranger and find that it is only Murphy with his whisker taken off. Leading citizens bereft of their moustaches have been pointed out across the street as likely to be of the political machine and in town on a mission. Several have been refused admission to their homes on the ground that they were not themselves but some other fellows with designs on the forks. It is rumored that members of the popular golf club have appeared on the links without moustaches and have been scoffed at and told to go and shinny on their own side on the Queen's highway. Two or three, filled with remorse and a keen contrition, have sought to cover up the rash act by donning new hats. It is to be hoped that the epidemic may be checked before the mortality becomes increasingly serious. Enough has been done to damage the good looks of a not very good looking portion of our inhabitants. No man who wears a moustache may afford to recklessly cut it off, even if incited to do so by his barber or any other intimate friend. These, if any, should stand between him and mutilation. It has been suggested that the Board of Trade should take the matter up and throw its commercial influence against this fad, and that the Town Council should pass a by-law prohibiting the despoiling of the moustache, except for sanitary reasons. Possibly the police could be instructed to make an example of flagrant offenders—say those who have cut off a moustache of twenty years growth and over.

Brevities

—St. Paul's choir will not practice to-night.

—The Sunday school entertainment that was to have been held in St. John's school house this evening is postponed until to-morrow night.

—Chinese lanterns will be supplied to bicyclists taking part in the cycle parade to-night upon application at the Y.M.C.A.

—Members of St. John's choir are requested to be in attendance at the thanksgiving service to be held in the church at 7.30 o'clock this evening.

—All loyal citizens, irrespective of creeds, are invited to the short service of thanksgiving which has been arranged for this evening at 7.30 o'clock, at St. John's church. This service will be concluded before the procession starts.

—The Chief of Police desires to warn all citizens against using the dynamite bombs, the large firecrackers, on the streets during the celebration to-night. They are dangerous to life and limbs and the police will prosecute anyone found using them on the streets to-night.

—Mr. Lionel King has received a letter from Mr. Hugh McConaghy, of the Crescent lacrosse club, New York city, inviting the Peterborough team to play there on June 16th. They offer fair inducements and it would be a splendid advertisement for the town to have the team play in New York. If they decide to go they should be liberally assisted.

THE COOKBOOK.

Honey is food in one of its most concentrated forms. Nothing is more delicious or more beneficial to the human system.

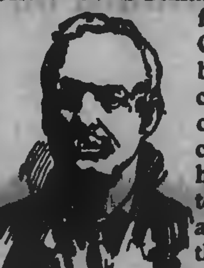
A stale angel cake makes a dainty dessert if served with a soft custard, or it may be steamed and served with a sugar or marshmallows sauce.

A cup of grated maple sugar stirred into an ordinary quick biscuit dough will give a novel sweet cake. Cut in biscuits and bake quickly. The sugar melts in the baking and glazes the outside.

An excellent molasses cake is made with the addition of a cup of cold coffee. To one cup of molasses add one egg, one cup of sugar, three-quarters of a cup of shortening and butter, a teaspoonful of soda dissolved in a little hot water and three and one half cupfuls of sifted flour, spices and salt to taste and the coffee. Bake in a moderate oven.

Could not Pull the Throttle

When a reliable gentleman like Mr. Thomas Simmons, of Chaffey's Locks, Ont., steamboat engineer, comes forward on his own account and adds his testimony to the value of a medical cure, the public has assurance that there is something deserving attention. Off and on, for the past two years, he experienced intense pain down the sciatic nerve. So severe was it at times that he was unable to handle the throttle of the engine, and would be obliged to lay off for days. "Before the first bottle of Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure had been drained," said Mr. Simmons, "I could feel the beneficial effects; and by the time I had used four I was completely cured. Since last spring I have been entirely free from pain. Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure did it."



MR. THOS. SIMMONS.

Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure is put up in 50 cent bottles, containing ten days' treatment. For sale by all druggists and dealers in medicine. The Dr. Hall Medicine Co., Kingston, Ont.

Teaching a Horse Tricks.

You can, with patience, teach your horse politeness—to bow to an audience, to say "No" with more or less decision, to kiss you or even laugh. The animal may be taught to bow by tapping him on the back with a whip. He bends his head in trying to avoid the annoyance. The trainer ceases the tapping, caresses him, then resumes it till he repeats the bow. He is again caressed and presented with a carrot or something of which he is particularly fond. At last it comes about that he "bows" upon any movement of the whip toward his back.

To teach a horse to say "No" a pin is fastened to the butt of the whip. A slight scratch is given to the horse's withers, about where the collar would be. At this he shakes his head and soon learns to shake it whenever he sees the butt of the whip coming near his withers.

The trainer teaches the animal "to kiss" by feeding him with apples from his mouth, gradually lessening the size of the apples till the horse does the trick without any, or he puts salt, of which horses are very fond, on his cheek, and the animal naturally licks it off.

He is taught to laugh by gently forcing the butt of the whip in at the side of his mouth, then prying his mouth open with it. Caresses and carrots follow, till at last the slightest motion of the butt toward his mouth makes him open it. He does not really laugh; he grins.—Good Words.

A Chicago Street Car Episode.

Passengers on an east bound Archer avenue car were thrown into a panic one night by the prospect of a holdup. At the sight of a wild eyed man jerking the bell rope and flourishing a huge revolver timid women sought shelter behind brave men.

Quiet was restored when the real cause of the disturbance was learned. Car 1811 had been about to cross the switch tracks at Ashland avenue when the conductor asked the man for his fare. He took a $5 bill and was about to make change when he saw the warning lights ahead.

"Wait a moment," he said and darted ahead with his lantern.

"Stop the car!" roared the excitable passenger, who saw the conductor and his $5 disappearing down the track. "He's got my money!"

The would be "holdup" man had reached the front door when the car flashed past the conductor, who was waiting for the rear platform. The passenger tried to jump from the car, but found it impossible because of the Archer avenue bridge structure. Then he made a mad dash for the rear door, where the conductor met him with a polite "Don't forget your change, sir."—Chicago Record.

The Nature of Ether.

If any reader is disposed to object to the assumption of a medium behaving in such very different ways with regard to motions of different speeds, it may assist in convincing him that the objection is not a valid one to direct his attention to the similar behavior of such a familiar substance as pitch. In moderately cold weather this material has all the appearance of a solid and will resist a blow or momentary heavy pressure. If, however, a denser body than the pitch, such as a bullet, for example, be laid upon its surface, it will gradually sink until it rests upon whatever is supporting the pitch. If, on the other hand, the pitch is placed upon a less dense body, such as cork, the latter will float up through it in the course of time. The pitch, therefore, exposes great resistance to rapid motion, but the smallest pressure causes it to give way if sufficient time is allowed.—Knowledge.

Mr. Bickerley's Method.

"Exactly, exactly," hurriedly interrupted Mr. Bickerley. "Just what I have been looking for. What a beautiful edition! By the way, don't forget to go around and see my wife. She wishes one, you know. Never mind the price. Here's $10, and you can keep the change."

The book agent had fallen helpless against the desk. The surprise was too much.

"Here, boy!" called Mr. Bickerley. "Help me carry this fellow out. That's the way to fix 'em."—Indianapolis Sun.

The Polite Professor.

The palm for absentmindedness should be accorded to a learned German professor. One day he noticed his wife placing a bunch of flowers on his desk. "What do they mean?" he asked.

"Why," she exclaimed, "don't you know that this is the anniversary of your marriage?"

"Ah, indeed, is it?" said the professor politely. "Kindly let me know when yours comes around, and I will return your attention in kind."—Collier's Weekly.

Upsetting Arithmetical Tradition.

Jack—How did you come out on that bulldog pup you bought?

Dick—Lost over 100 per cent on the transaction.

Jack—Oh, I guess not! A hundred per cent is all you can possibly lose.

Dick—Think so, do you? Well, I paid $10 for the pup, and then I had to give a boy $1 to take him out and drown him. If that isn't 110 per cent loss, I'd like to know what you call it. —New York Sun.

The Best and Most Honey.

The finest honey in this country is gathered from hives where white clover and basswood are accessible. In quantity, however, it falls behind that made from the goldenrod and buckwheat blossom. From New York, Pennsylvania and Vermont comes the most of the comb honey and from Arizona and California the largest amount of extracted or liquid honey.

Lawton's Rubber Bathtub.

General Lawton made it a habit of his life to take a cold water bath every morning before breakfast, and while campaigning he carried with him a rubber tub. It made no difference where he was, he always ordered the tubful of cold water to his quarters every morning.

In following the Apaches he reached a mountain. He knew that the Indians had fled there, and before pursuing them farther he left his rubber tub and other tent equipments at the base of the mountains in charge of an old and faithful sergeant to guard carefully until he returned. It was an old trick with that tribe of Indians when being pursued to circle around and return to the exact point whence they started.

The general left the tub and started out after the Indians. They circled around, covering a wide territory, and beat General Lawton back to the base of the mountain. When he got there, he found that the old sergeant and his six men had been killed and that his tub had been carried off by the Indians. The Apaches evidently learned how highly the general prized the rubber tub, for they placed great store by it after they had captured it and guarded it as closely as they did their own lives.

Memories of a Waltz.

"Did you ever try to dance with a foreigner?" asked a Louisville gentleman who had been traveling abroad. "I did once," he continued, "and that experience was more than enough for me. It happened at a ball at Mustapha, at the Hotel St. Georges. I asked an Austrian countess to waltz, and when we started I supposed we would dance in the leisurely American fashion. The countess had a different idea in her head. She preferred to whirl madly like a dervish on a space that could be covered with a parasol, and on account of her superior strength I clung to her, and we began to spin.

"Finally, when it seemed to me that we were performing our antics on the ceiling with our heads hanging down, I could stand it no longer and, gasping for breath, suggested that we sit down. I saw two chairs galloping around the room and prepared to catch them on the next lap. We steered for them, I clinging helplessly to the athletic lady, and then we sank down. I sat dazed and almost insensible until I was aroused by the countess saying:

"'Excuse me, but we are sitting on the same chair.'"

Man can run about ten miles an hour and jump about 23 feet at his best. The horse can trot a mile in two minutes and gallop one in one, while the greyhound, hare and ostrich are all faster even than this.

The sword blades forged at Toledo by the Saracens could be coiled up like a clock spring and would resume perfect straightness as soon as released.

THE ROYAL BOX.

The queen of Roumania, "Carmen Sylva," has again shown her sympathy with England by writing a poem praising the attitude of Great Britain in South Africa.

There are compensations for being an absolute monarch. The kaiser's play, "Der Eisenzahn," though an utter failure in Berlin, is still performed at the Royal theater "by all highest command."

Queen Margherita of Italy, who takes a keen interest in all subjects connected with education, was recently presented with a handsome couch cover by the pupils of the College of Anagni, a school for the daughters of elementary schoolmasters.

Queen Natalie of Servia has canceled her will drawn in favor of her son, King Alexander, through disgust at his acquiescence in the virtual dictatorship of his father, Milan, and has drawn a new one, leaving her estate to the poor of Servia and France.

Russia will be the first European country visited by the shah of Persia next summer. He will proceed by way of Tiflis in the Caucasus to Moscow and St. Petersburg. About the middle of June he will go to Berlin and thence to Paris and England. His return will be by way of Paris, Vienna, Constantinople and Batum. His tour will last six months.

Wonderful Fish.

Assuming that we are walking on the ocean bottom at the depth of over a mile, we move cautiously along in water icy cold and suddenly are confronted with a blaze of light and find ourselves in a field of light givers. Imagine a cornfield with stalks from two to four feet in height, the tips gleaming with light and waving gently to and fro. Such an appearance the fields of umbellularia present.

Above this forest of living lights strange and weird fish are passing which we recognize as forms that have been dredged from great depths by the Albatross, the Challenger and others. One, the chiasmodon, dashes by emitting light from its own body, and, wonder of wonders! we see it seize a fish five times its own bulk and draw itself over it like a glove. Its jaws by a special arrangement separate, and the mouth is a cavern of india rubber-like possibilities. A similar fish, malacosteus, is of a rich black velvet hue, and as it poises we see upon its head two large lights. One emits a golden light, the other throws out fitful green rays which have some hidden meaning in the economy of nature. Some of the fish seem to be literal mouths. Such is the eurypharnyx, or pelican fish. The mouth is enormous, the bones of the jaw being attached to the skull by movable joints, so that it has enormous powers of distension.—Professor Charles F. Holder.

The "Needle's Eye."

A lady writes to me and asks what is really meant by the "needle's eye" in the parable of the rich man. I remember reading somewhere that it was the smallest gate that gave entrance to the walled city of Jerusalem and that a loaded camel had to be stripped of its burden and bend its knees to squeeze through. And so a rich man had to give up his riches and come to his knees before he could enter heaven. It was just one of the thousand proverbs that adorned the moral teachings of the Jews and the eastern nations. The writings of Job and Solomon and Confucius and Mohammed abound in them.

In the Koran is found this proverb, "The impious man will find the gates of heaven shut, and he can no more enter than a camel can pass through a needle's eye." There is another in the Koran which says, "You will never see a palm tree of gold nor an elephant pass through a needle's eye." These proverbs simply meant that it was impossible. Strange to say, the world has long since quit making proverbs.

All proverbs have come down to us, even such as "A rolling stone gathers no moss." "Poor Richard" left us a few, such as "A penny saved is twopence gained."—Bill Arp in Atlanta Constitution.

Like the Rest of Us.

"George, dear," she said a night or two before the wedding, "do you think it possible that our love and our married life can become the commonplace, coldly practical love and life of the married people we see around us? Oh, George, my heart would break if I thought so!"

"But it will not be so," said George passionately. "We love each other too tenderly, too fondly for that. Our love is not of the ordinary kind, my darling, and our lives will not be so. Ah, no, no, my angel; that can never be!"

And the other day she said: "I say, George, how would you like pork for dinner with apple sauce? You would? All right, then, and don't you forget that feeding bottle for the baby or I'll send you back after it, and mind that you don't keep dinner waiting."

And he, with a falling off of the passion of ten years ago, replied: "All right, Lou, and I wish you'd sew a button on the back part of those striped trousers of mine. You'll find them hanging over a chair in our room. Don't have the pork as dry as last time, and you watch the baby's cold. That watering of the eyes looks like measles to me. Goodby."—Pearson's Magazine.

A Loud Whistle.

A clergyman in Scotland desired his hearers never to call one another "liars," but when any one said "the thing that was not" they ought to whistle.

One Sunday he preached a sermon on the parable of the loaves and fishes, and being at a loss to explain it said the loaves were not like those nowadays—they were as big as some of the hills of Scotland.

He had scarcely pronounced these words when he heard a loud whistle.

"Wha's that ca's me a liar?"

"It is I, Willy Macdonald, the baker."

"Well, Willy, what objection ha' ye to what I ha' told you?"

"None, sir, only I want to know what sort of ovens they had to bake those loaves in?"

Tools and Progress.

Despite all the attacks upon machinery, an age without tools is an age of drudgery and degradation. If once men toiled 16 hours a day, with a single stroke Watt's engine cut off two hours in the morning for rest and two hours at night for reading. The modern home, with a thousand and one comforts, is the gift of tools. We now compel steel fingers, steel knives, steel wheels and steel wires to do our work. Take away our tools and civilization would go back 100 years.—Newell Dwight Hillis in Woman's Home Companion.

Water In Porto Rico.

The water supply of Porto Rico, because of its abundance and freshness from the mountain streams, ought to be pure and good for use. But it is far otherwise. A thick bed of rank vegetation is ever decaying beneath the new growth rising above it, and the water filtering through the rotten mass becomes not only steeped with the lye of decaying roots, leaves and grasses, but is full of insects and worms.

Our First Postal Rates.

The first law of congress fixing rates of postage went into effect on June 1, 1792, with rates as follows:

Not exceeding 30 miles, 6 cents.

Over 30 and not exceeding 60 miles, 8 cents.

Over 60 and not exceeding 100 miles, 10 cents.

Over 100 and not exceeding 150 miles, 12½ cents.

Over 150 and not exceeding 200 miles, 15 cents.

Over 200 and not exceeding 250 miles, 17 cents.

Over 250 and not exceeding 350 miles, 20 cents.

Over 350 and not exceeding 450 miles, 22 cents.

Over 450 miles, 25 cents.

It would seem that postmasters of that day must have been greatly perplexed in adjusting the rates on each letter under such a diversified schedule as the above. The weight limit was one ounce (single), but a single letter was a single sheet, two sheets double, three sheets triple, four sheets a quadruple letter, even if the whole four did not exceed an ounce.

A Shock For Carlyle.

Thackeray once told Sir John Millais this amusing story of Carlyle:

He had spent a day in the reading room of the British museum and had given a great deal of trouble to one of the officials, sending him up and down ladders in search of books to satisfy his literary tastes, and on leaving the room he had gone up to the man and told him that it might be some satisfaction to him to know that he had obliged Thomas Carlyle. The official hesitatingly answered him, with a bland smile and the usual washing of hands in the air, that the gentleman had the advantage of him, but that probably they might have met at some mutual friend's house. He had never heard of Thomas Carlyle.

Not Tactful.

Lord John Russell was not tactful. On one occasion he took the Duchess of Inverness down to dinner, and after he had sat down for a minute he jumped up and went to the opposite side of the table and sat by the Duchess of St. Albans.

His wife asked him afterward why he had done it. He said, "I should have been ill if I had sat with my back to that great fire."

"I hope," said Lady John, "you gave your reason to the Duchess of Inverness."

"No," he said, "I didn't, but I told the Duchess of St. Albans!"

Domestic Infelicity.

Husband—What's worrying you now?

Wife—Oh, I was thinking about the lace curtains you said I might buy for the parlor. If I don't get them, the neighbors will think I can't afford them, and if I do, they'll hide the view of our handsome new furniture which the neighbors might have through the windows.

Trouble in The Stomach

Which Doctors Failed to Remove, Cured by Less Than Two Boxes of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

The experience of Mr. Blackwell is similar to that of many sufferers with chronic indigestion. Stomach medicines will seldom really cure indigestion. The kidneys and liver must be set right, and the bowels made regular and active.

Mr. Joseph Blackwell, Holmesville, Ont., says:—"I derived more benefit from the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-[illegible] from any other medi[illegible], and can highly re[illegible] for stomach troubles. EMPIRE DAY

The Schools in Otonabee Have a Successful Celebration.

Never before did the pupils of the Otonabee schools assemble in such numbers and accompanied by so many parents as on the 23rd of May, when they strove to do honor to their country and empire. Dinsdale's grove, a very beautiful spot adjoining the Keene station, was selected and artistically decorated with flags and bunting. A platform surmounted by the pictures of the Queen, and Lords Roberts and Kitchener, was erected for the speakers.

The morning was spent in introductory games. After dinner was over a long list of sports was enjoyed by all, a special feature of which was a contest in archery, in which a handsome volume of "A Half-hour with Best Authors" presented by A. H. Stratton, was won be Agnes Campbell, while Irene Shaw won a paper knife, presented by Mr. T. J. Wallace. The obstacle race was enjoyed by all, as was the married men's race won by Mr. John Lancashire.

The sports being over, all assembled to the platform, where Dr. Shaw, who occupied the chair, very fittingly in a stirring speech introduced the speakers, Rev. Mr. Cornish, Mr. Thos. Blezard, M. P.P., and Mr. J. C. Brown, P.S.I. The speaking was interspersed with singing of patriotic songs by the children. It was an occasion to infuse into the coming generation a strong spirit of patriotism and devoted loyalty.

Again the inner man was refreshed by an excellent tea and all went home exceedingly pleased with the profitable and enjoyable day.

The teachers wish to cordially thank Mr. Dinsdale for the generous use of his very pretty grove, also Mr. and Mrs. Parks and Mr. and Mrs. Noyes for their manifold favors in furnishing hot water.

Sentenced to Death.

"You are in the last stages of Consumption and cannot live more than a month," were the words of doom heard by Mrs. Rosa Richardson, of Laurel Springs, N.C., from her doctors, "but she began to use Dr. King's New Discovery" writes R. L. Daughton, of that place, "and was wholly cured by it. She is now a stout, well woman." It's the supreme cure for desperate diseases of throat and lungs. Infallible for Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma, Croup, Whooping Cough. Guaranteed bottles 50c. and $1.00. Trial bottles free at J. Lynch's drug store.

He Couldn't Solve It.

As a train was approaching a town on the Great Northern railway in Ireland an intelligent looking young Irishman observed a lady standing up searching her pocket. She commenced to weep. "Have you been robbed?" he asked.

"Oh, no," she replied; "I've lost my ticket, and they will accuse me of fraud."

Seeing her distressed state of mind, he said:

"Oh, don't mind. Here, take my ticket, and I will give the guard a problem," while their fellow passengers awaited the scene at the station with interest.

When the train stopped, the guard collected all the tickets but one. "Where is your ticket?" he asked the young man.

"You have got my ticket," he replied.

"No, I have not got it. I'll call the station master and see about it."

"Where is your ticket?" asked the station master when he appeared.

"He has my ticket. See if he has a ticket in his hand with a small piece off the corner."

"Yes, you have, Dave. There it is."

"Well, see will that fit it?" said Pat, handing him the small piece, and it did. A look of surprise crept over the guard's face as he left the carriage, while Pat caused much amusement by exclaiming, "Begorra, I knew he could not solve it!"—London Tit-Bits.

BILL OF FARE WAS MEAGRE

The Senate Bar Was Discussed in Secret by the Commons.

Grain Inspection in Manitoba Was Discussed and the Bill Passed Its Third Reading—Criminal Code Bill Also Passed—The Agricultural Estimates Were Then Taken Up and Discussed Till 2 o'Clock in the Morning.

Ottawa, May 31. — An hour was spent in the House immediately after prayers in discussing behind closed doors the management of the Senate bar, the parliamentary restaurant. The quality of liquor supplied, the double menu, are for the Senate good; the other for the Commons—any old thing; the apology for tea served up and various other cuisine details, possibly beyond the ken of members, yet within their reach for the purpose of debate, were discussed pro and con. The old system used to be to let the restaurant privileges to the highest tenderer. The present system is to give the caterer a salary for managing the matter, besides providing him gratis with utensils, dishes, linen, etc. At present the privileges thus accorded are in the nature of a small gold mine for the caterer. Mr. Barnett, the genial caterer, was not without friends in the House, was defended him ardently against all censure.

The Speaker will look into the kick.

G. T. R. Legislation.

When the House was publicly opened the bill of fare was found to be meagre.

The G. T. R. has obtained control of the interests of the Central Vermont Railway, and permission was given Dr. Landerkin to introduce a bill to enable the G. T. R. to get a charter taking in all the varied lines of this railway running through Canada.

There was some slight opposition.

Paris Fair on Sunday.

Hon. John Charlton wanted to know if it was true that the Canadian exhibit at the Paris Exposition would be closed on Sunday. He was asked to wait till to-morrow, when the Minister of Agriculture would tell him all about it.

Manitoba School Case.

Mr. Dugas read a despatch from Winnipeg stating that the Roman Catholics there intended to appeal the Manitoba school case to the Dominion Government. He asked: "Is the school question settled?"

Sir Wilfrid replied that the despatch read was a resolution against the settlement of the question as effected. He could produce resolutions favoring the settlement. The question was settled, though not perfectly, yet satisfactorily.

The Dominion Government could bear an appeal only after the Roman Catholics of the west made representations to the Manitoba Government and got no satisfaction.

Sessional Clerk's Pay.

In answer to a question, Mr. Fielding said that he felt he could prevail upon the Auditor-General to allow $94,000 to be paid to the sessional clerks, though it was not regular. He was to see that official to-day.

Grain Inspection in Montreal.

Sir Henri Joly then introduced his amendment to the act relating to grain inspection in Manitoba. The amendment was to the effect that if an additional warehouse was built at a station the land would have to be provided by the person owning the building. The western members, Messrs. Richardson, Douglas and Olivier urged that the railway should provide the land. This point was being argued at 6 o'clock, Sir Henri Joly declaring that the westerners were trying to gain some cheap popularity.

After dinner Rev. Mr. Douglas continued the opposition to Sir Henri's proposed amendment, claiming that its intent was to turn the grain trade into the hands of the C. P. R. elevator monopoly.

Sir Charles Tupper held that there was a common interest between the railway companies and the grain producers of the North-West, and the bill should be framed so as to please both parties. The bill had been drafted on the lines proposed by the Royal Commission, and should have weight with the House. The amendment was a reasonable one in the interests of all classes in the west. He would support Sir Henri's amendment.

A division was then taken.

The vote was: Yeas, 93; nays, 10; majority for 83. Those who voted against the amendment were: Richardson, Rutherford, Olivier, Douglas, Stubbs, Puttee, Pallet, Davin, Roche, Gulllet.

Mr. Davis was paired. He said he would have voted against the amendment.

On a motion for a third reading of the bill in the House several amendments were suggested by Messrs. Davin and Richardson, but they were voted down. The bill was given a third reading.

Criminal Code Bill.

Then the criminal code was taken up in committee. The bill was reported with its amendments, and read a third time, and passed. The bill will come into force on Jan. 1, 1901.

Agricultural Estimates.

At 1 o'clock the agricultural estimates were begun. Items amounting to half a million dollars were passed. The House adjourned shortly after 2.

Mr. Garrow's Appeal.

Toronto, May 31. — Hon. J. T. Garrow, Liberal, M.P.P. for West Huron, who was unseated by Justices Osler and Rose in December last on account of corrupt practices on the part of his agents, has filed his reasons why his appeal should be allowed and asked to be confirmed in his seat.

A Qualified Decision.

"In the early days of Cœur d'Alene," said an old miner, "I was working with my partners on a claim when we were suddenly startled by pistol shots and, looking up, discovered a man lying prostrate on an adjoining claim, while his assailant was trying to escape by legging it to the best of his ability. Without stopping to pick up the injured man we gave hot chase to the one trying to escape, whom we finally overhauled, captured and haled before a justice of the peace at Mission, Ida., the nearby town.

"There, as I remember it, it developed that it was an attempt at claim jumping and that the man who had done the shooting was the would be jumper. The evidence was all against him, and word came that the man who had been shot lay all but within the portals of death, the physician giving it as his opinion that he could last only a few hours longer, and thereupon the famed justice of the peace rendered his decision.

"'I find you guilty of murder in the first degree,' said he severely as he turned toward the prisoner at the bar—'that is, provided the victim dies,' and so that decision stands to this day."

A Newspaper Wonder.

When you open up your newspaper, it may cause you to feel some wonder if you know that in all probability yours are the first hands that have ever touched its inside pages. The reason for this is that the paper is made from wood pulp. The woodman cuts down a spruce tree. It is hauled to the mill. There machinery strips off the bark, reduces the wood to pulp and makes it into paper.

At every turn cranes, derricks, chains, cogs, rollers, steel teeth and other mechanical contrivances keep the material out of human hands. The immense rolls are wound by machines, loaded into car and wagon by machinery, put into pressroom and on presses by other machinery and finally printed and folded without having been directly touched by any human hand.

This is a mechanical marvel of today which is no doubt duplicated in other branches of industry. It is very striking in the newspaper industry, which stands in the very front rank of mechanical perfection.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

No Use For Toes.

If shoes go on forever, why should not our toes grow together? We have no use for them. We can't manage them. About one man in 1,000 can pull on his interossei muscles and spread out his toes. In the remaining 999 these muscles are as dead as fiber. They haven't been used since the infant stuck his toes in his mouth and crooned a baby song without words. If we wore mittens all the time, the individual control of our fingers would be lost. We eat so much soft food that we have scarcely any need of teeth. Gums would answer every purpose, as mastication is performed by machinery before we begin a meal. There are over 200 distinct muscles in the human body, of which the best of us keep about 100 in prime condition by proper use.

THE "ORANGE RIVER COLONY"

erts, the Countess of Airlie and Ladies Henry Bentick and Seterington.

Troops Were Drawn Up.

The troops were drawn up under command of Gen. Knox, and entertained the spectators. The Governor, accompanied by Gen. Kelly-Kenny and their staffs, escorted by the Welsh Yeomanry, was greeted with a general salute, after which, amid an impressive silence and in a clear voice, heard in every part of the square, Gen. Pretyman read Lord Roberts' proclamation annexing the Orange Free State as conquered by Her Majesty's forces to the Queen's dominions, and proclaiming that the State shall henceforth be known as the Orange River Colony.

Greeted by Cheers.

Lusty cheers greeted the concluding words of the proclamation, and these were renewed with ever increasing volume as Lord Acheson unfurled the Royal Standard, and the bands struck up "God Save the Queen," all present joining in singing the national hymn.

The ceremony concluded with cheers for the Queen, Lord Roberts and the army, and a salute of 21 guns.

BULLER'S STAR GENERALS.

Hildyard Is at Utrecht Which Has Surrendered and Clery Is Bombarding Laing's Nek.

London, May 31. — The following despatch has been received at the War Office from Gen. Buller:

"Newcastle, May 30. — The enemy having formed a laager east of the town at Dornberg, pressed my right rear annoyingly. On May 27 I directed a force under Hildyard, by [illegible] and Utrecht, and another under Lyttleton, by [illegible], on

"Hildyard is at Utrecht and the town has surrendered. Clery is bombarding Laing's Nek. The enemy are much disheartened, and were they not in such very strong positions, I doubt if they would show fight.

"The railway was opened to Newcastle on May 28."

BULLER'S PROCLAMATION

States That Britain Is Not Warring Upon Individuals Who Must Remain Neutral.

Newcastle, May 30.—The following proclamation has been issued by the general-in-command:

The troops of the Queen are now passing through the Transvaal. Her Majesty does not wage war upon individuals, but, on the contrary, she is anxious to spare them, so far as possible, the horrors of war.

The quarrel which England has is with the Government and not the people of the Transvaal. Provided they remain neutral, no attempt will be made to interfere with persons living near the line of march. Every possible protection will be given them. Any of their property which it may be necessary to take will be paid for.

But, on the other hand, those thus allowed to remain near the line of march, must respect and maintain neutrality. The residents of any locality will be held responsible, in both their persons and property, for any damage done to the railway or telegraph, or for violence done to any member of the British forces in the vicinity of their homes.

Fake Story for [illegible]

London, May [illegible] — The officials of the British War Office deny in unqualified terms the statement cabled to a New York newspaper that the War Office had asked Lord Roberts if he believed he could land 100,000 of his troops in England before Oct. 1, the paper intimating that this was a step towards preparing for "any eventualities arising from a crisis in France." According to the British War Office the New York story is "ridiculous nonsense."

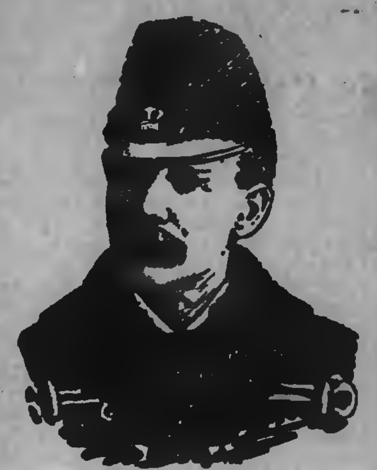
TORONTO WENT WILD.

Thousands of People Came Down Town to Cheer and Sing "God Save the Queen."

Toronto, May 31.—The city simply went wild. Nobody stopped to ask questions, as to whether the news was correct or not. In ten minutes after the bulletins were out, the crowd parading down Yonge street was numbered by thousands. Most of the citizens had retired for the night or at least gone home, and countless numbers who had actually gone to bed, were awakened by the roar of the Street Railway power-house whistle, and hastily dressed.



COL. OTTER.

They came down town on bicycles almost to a man and never was such a parade of wheels seen in this city. Hundreds caught the late cars and hastened to the scene.

Some Great Processions.

Processions of yelling citizens were organized every few minutes and paraded the principal thoroughfares, with the most terrific din. Every now and then some one would call for cheers for the Queen or Roberts and the roar that followed was earsplitting. This was varied by the singing of "The National Anthem," "Soldiers of the Queen," "The Maple Leaf," and other national and patriotic airs. Even the ladies were out on foot or riding around in carriages and they cheered and waved flags with the rest.

Nobody waited for introductions. Conversation was only carried on in shouts and was frequently interrupted by cannon crackers exploding with violence which rent the air.

[illegible] Startled All.

[illegible] was when the power-house whistle well into blowing and the bells were pealing out their joy[illegible]ngs that the citizens who have to be at work at 7 a.m. awoke and wondered what it was. Then they heard the blare of the bugle, and the crazy crack of the fire-cracker. They heard the clang of the hose-reel bell along the streets, and they pulled their trousers on over their night-shirts, and they got down town to join with the rest of the people.

Every trolley car that came down town after the first intimation of the practical end of the war was crowded. Intuitively people brought out flags, and many a storekeeper, who sells firecrackers and other instruments of celebration was aroused from his slumber to satisfy the demands of enthusiastic celebrators.

Toronto has had a thousand and one chances to show its loyalty within the past few months, but when the good news was received, it would almost seem as if Bedlam had been let loose. Thousands eagerly scanned the bulletins. For a moment the crowd stood spellbound, as if offering up a silent prayer, and then a cheer went up that rent the air. The crowd went wild; they cried themselves hoarse, hats were waved in the air, giant firecrackers were shot off, tin horns were blown and a brass band although they played for all they were worth, could scarcely be heard above the joyful, thankful cheers of the people.

The One Sentiment.

"Thank God!" was the sentiment honestly expressed in the innermost recesses of every man's heart in that mad, yelling crowd. Canada, in fact the world, has never known anything like it. Imagine thousands of maniacs let loose, and yelling in their paroxysm, and one can gain a fair idea of the enthusiasm, the wild enthusiasm that was rampant on this memorable and glorious occasion. The idea that there was a shadow of a doubt about the truth of the report was not even mooted; it would have been laughed at if it had. The crowd were only too willing to accept the good news as authentic, and, although they had expected great things, they were unprepared for any such surprise as this. It came rather in the form of a shock, and on top of the feverish anxiety that has prevailed for the last day or so, the effect may be far better imagined than described.

The Flag Went Up.

The grand old flag was raised, and this was the signal for another outburst of enthusiasm, and the cheers were punctuated in an emphatic manner with frenzied, rousing yells — yells such as only good loyal Britishers can give.

They were not the yells of a conqueror over the vanquished, but the yells of a people that were thankful that the terrible war was practically ended. The war that had been fought in the interests of justice and good government, the war that had been waged by the mightiest nation on earth against a brave, once honored foe, although a misguided and misinformed one.

God be thanked was on everyone's lips, and God bless "Bobs" and all the rest of them — the brave Tommies that have endured unknown hardships for a shilling a day, the nurses, the generals, the officers, everyone. God save the Queen.

OTTAWA REJOICED.

The Capital Proved That Its Heart Was in the Right Place.

Ottawa, May 31. — (2 a.m.) — "Roberts at Pretoria," was the news that last night caused Ottawa to go wild. The news came late, but there were still many persons awake. The Russell House rotunda was a scene of the greatest excitement. Mayor Payment came down town and eloquently testified to his happiness over the event. Bells were rung, and an impromptu parade was formed along Sparks street. Fireworks left over from the 24th were set off in profusion, and for several hours the city was given over to celebration. "Soldiers of the Queen," and like patriatic airs turned night into day. The parade came up on the Parliament lawn and shot off firecrackers and rockets till past 2 a.m.

Canadians Dangerously Ill.

Ottawa, May 31. — Lord Minto has received the following cable from Lord Milner:

Canadian Officers Promoted.

London, May 31. — In The Gazette yesterday Her Majesty the Queen officially approved of Lord Roberts' recommendation of the promotion of Pte. Murray Hendrie of Hamilton, Ont., and now serving with the Royal Canadian Regiment of Infantry in South Africa, to the position of second lieutenant in the Second Dragoon Guards by augmentation. Lieut. E. A. Pelletier, formerly of the 55th Battalion, Quebec, but now lieutenant in the Quebec Company of the Canadian Regiment, is promoted to the Sixth Dragoons, vice Dent, deceased.

Col. J. B. MacLean to Marry.

Boston, Mass., May 31. — The engagement is announced of Anna P. Slade of Chestnut Hill, Boston, to Lieut.-Col. John Bayne MacLean of Montreal.

Jack Was Glad Too.

A Salt Lake City paper reports that a tall, gaunt woman, with ginger hair and a somewhat fierce expression of countenance, lately came to the county clerk of Boxelder county, Utah.

"You're the man that keeps the marriage books, ain't you?" she asked.

"Yes, ma'am," he answered. "What book do you wish to see?"

"Kin you find out if Jack Peters was married?"

Search developed the name of John Peters, for whose marriage a license had been issued two years before.

"I thought so," said the woman. "Married Lize Waters, didn't he?"

"The license is issued for a marriage with Eliza Waters."

"Yep. Well, I'm Lize. I thought I'd ought to come in and tell you that Jack Peters has escaped."

A Torturing Suggestion.

The doomed man shuddered. "There will be no music when I march to the scaffold?" he asked anxiously.

They reassured him.

"There was a march played when I was married," he muttered. "I—I could not bear to be reminded of that!"—New York Press.

It is the liver that is deranged, and causes poisonous bile to remain in the blood causing indigestion, headache and irregular action of the bowels. Poor Consolation.

The following story is told in "The Recollections of Sir Algernon West:"

One pouring wet night Lowe missed his umbrella from the cloakroom in the house of commons, where he had carefully put it away under the letter "L." He interrogated the custodian, Mr. Coe, who told him Sir E. Lytton had taken it. "I told him it was yours," he said, "and Sir Edward said that if he found that it was when he got home he would send it back in the morning."

The Latest War News.

The Review's Special Afternoon Despatches Giving the Latest Developments of the British-Boer Hostilitites.

WAR NEWS IS SCARCE THIS AFTERNOON

No News From the Front, but a British Force at Douglas, Cape Colony, Was Surprised and Suffered Severely--Kruger is Now Reported Dead.

SURPRISED THE BRITISH AT DOUGLAS

Cape Town, June 1.—Rebel colonists at Douglas in northern Cape Colony surprised a body of British on Wednesday, killing sixteen, including Col. Spence, who was in command of the British force.

KRUGER NOW REPORTED DEAD

London, June 1.—A delayed despatch from Kroonstadt, dated May 20, states that President Kruger is very ill and adds that the stationmaster says that he is dead. The report is not credited.

SERGT. M'CREA ON "BOBS."

The Omemee Boy at the Front Writes Again From Bloemfontein.

Bloemfontein, April 8.

My Dear Arthur,—I received yours, Ella's and Anna's of 5th and 6th March, on April 15th, and some papers by the same mail. Socks have not arrived but likely will later on. I do not need them but will be sorry if I do not get them. There is nothing I can think of for you to send. There were car loads of presents for the men lately. I was treated to some maple sugar.

Sergt. Beatty, who acted Sergt.-Major for the 45th Battalion, was buried last Sunday. He was a victim of enteric, which is quite prevalent here. Quite a few of the R.C.R. are down and there are a number of deaths. It is very sad that fellows who have earned their medals and bars should not live to wear them.

There is a concert in town to-night. It is, and has been, raining, but if it clears I will go to it. I was in town Saturday and had tea at Mr. Peterson's. He is a Canadian, wife ditto, and has a family of 6 or 7. He is Sanitary Inspector for the O.V.S. Railway. He has been in our neighborhood, having had a contract of some kind at Dunsford, where he stayed with Rev. Moses Metherall. He remembered there was one predominant name, yes, yes, Thurston.

Bobs may not advertise, but don't you think he has gall to come into a strange land, chase all the best people out, live in the house himself, give the next best to his friends, turn their public buildings into hospitals, etc., and go right on putting guns into the forts the people had built and, to cap all, tells the people who stayed to receive him that they must not be out after 8 p.m. without his permission. I suppose when he gets tired living here he will do the same thing at Pretoria.

April 20th, 1900.—The draft of recruits have not arrived yet. One of the 2nd contingent is being buried to-day. Capt. Sutton visited the camp last p.m.

9 p.m.—We got orders to move at 8 a.m., to-morrow. We go for a couple of days to Springfield. It is out toward the waterworks. We expect to return here. Will leave this to be posted.

A GALT BOY DROWNED.

Frederick Hall Comes to His Death in the Grand River.

Galt, Ont., June 1. — Frederick Hall, 17 years of age, son of W. E. Hall, furniture manufacturer, was drowned in the Grand River yesterday afternoon. Young Hall, who was a student at the Collegiate Institute, was taking a holiday yesterday on account of the general rejoicing in town over the good news received from Pretoria in the morning. He, accompanied by other young men, went to a point in the river called "The Rocks" for a swim. After Hall had swam into deep water he called out twice that he was drowning. Some of his companions on the shore tried to rescue him in a row boat, but failed.

Clifford Baskell Drowned.

Cobourg, Ont., June 1. — Clifford Baskell, a lad of 7 years of age, was drowned here yesterday. No one appears to have seen the accident, but it is supposed he was fishing along the pier and accidentally fell in. The body was noticed in the water about 4 o'clock.

JEWELRY JOTTINGS.

Rarely beautiful are two and three stone rings in pink pearls and diamonds.

Cabochon setting of the ruby, sapphire and emerald is the latest departure in fine rings.

The jewelers are providing some exquisite parasol handles in silver, gold and rock crystal. Silver handles are most chic in style, as is seen in a ball of dull gray with raised fleur-de-lis dotted over it.

Society is showing its superiority to superstition by transforming the uncanny number 13 into a symbol of good luck. From one's charm ring should dangle, each on its own little chain, 13 separate objects, all supposed to be hostages to some variety of prosperity.

A unique conception in chains for watch or lorgnette is the pleasing use of the scarab. To a chain of the usual length is attached, by a few links, a triangular pendant in the new and fashionable green gold, and in this is set the sacred beetle carved from chrysoprase, opal or other appropriate stone.—Jewelers' Circular-Weekly.

FOREIGN FORCES AT PEKIN.

They Are There for the Protection of Subjects.

British, American, Italian, French, Russian and Japanese Troops Comprise the Combined Forces—It is Said They Will be Ordered to the First Gates Outside the Great Walls—Germans Are Anxious.

Tien Tsin, June 1. — A special train started for Pekin yesterday afternoon with the following forces: Americans, 7 officers and 56 men; British, 3 officers and 72 men; Italians, 3 officers and 39 men; French, 3 officers and 72 men; Russians, 4 officers and 71 men; Japanese, 2 officers and 24 men.

The foreign contingent also took with them five quick-firing guns.

It is rumored that foreign troops will be ordered to the first gate of the Chinese capital, outside the wall.

Murders Go Right On.

London, June 1. — The Pekin correspondent of The Times, telegraphing Wednesday, says:

The damage to the railroad is estimated at £80,000. The Government supports rather than condemns the Boxers. Not one has been arrested yet. No foreigner has been seriously injured, though the murders of native Christians are reported daily from the country.

American Marines Landed.

Washington, June 1. — The following cablegram has been received at the State Department from the senior commander of the squadron, Admiral Kempff:

"Tong Ku (Taku), May 30.—Secretary Navy, Washington: "One hundred men landed and sent Tien-Tsin yesterday. Fifty of these go to Pekin to-day. Other nations landed men. (Signed) Kempff."

Anxiety in Berlin.

Berlin, June 1.—The latest news from China has given rise to much anxiety here. An official of the German Foreign Office made the following statement regarding the matter yesterday:

The German naval commander at Tsing Tau has orders to act in conjunction with the naval authorities of the other powers as circumstances may require. The landing of marines at Taku to go to Pekin was ordered. The report from the United States, that 20,000 Russians are advancing to help the Chinese is baseless. No power is sustaining China. We know that Russia will not separate herself from the others."

A cable arrived to-day from Tsing Tau, saying that the German cruiser Kaiserin Augusta having on board an additional officer and 50 marines, sailed for Taku, the German gunboat Iltis following.

Paper Carpets in Korea.

"Carpets in Korea are not of as little moment as are carpets here. They are handed down in families as heirlooms from generation to generation to become darkened and subdued with age. They are rugs always and are made of paper by a peculiar process. In appearance they are much like the lacquered boxes which come from Japan and which are so much used as handkerchief boxes," said the old time American consul in Korea. "The natives always take off their sandals when they enter the house, and that fact accounts largely for the long life of the rugs. When I was there, however, I shocked the feelings of every one by wearing my shoes, carpets or no carpets, and during my stay I completely wore out some of those beautiful dark colored carpets. They are about a quarter of an inch in thickness and very effective."

Every Kind of Backache

Yields to Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, Because They Act Directly on the Liver as Well as the Kidneys.

Pains in the small of the back, over the kidneys, are usually due to derangements of the kidneys, and disappear when the kidneys are set right.

But there are other kinds of backache, by far the greater proportion, that can never be reached by treating the kidneys. Pains in the shoulders, through the centre of the back, and in the sides are caused by a torpid action of the liver, and can only be driven out when the liver is made healthy and active.

To reach the liver, as well as the kidneys, to set the filtering organs in working order and to cure every kind of backache, there is but one unfailing remedy, and that is Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. It is the only treatment that has this direct and combined action on both liver and kidneys, and the only one that positively and permanently cures backache, whether caused by liver or kidneys.

The Daily Review.

FRIDAY, JUNE 1, 1900.

PETERBOROUGH can celebrate when its a matter of patriotism.

WHEN it came to Oom Paul, he moved out like the rest, notwithstanding all he had said he could do and the British could not do.

How pleased the Grits would be if they could rouse a "faction fight" among the Tories. But their efforts are not bringing forth much result.

THESE war celebrations are educating a patriotic sentiment in the Canadian youth that will bear good fruit. There isn't a boy or girl in Canada to-day that does not know what it means to be a Briton and why it is something to be proud of.

THE Grit newspapers that defended and did all they could to conceal the corrupt work of the machine that kept the Ontario Government in office are giving great space to the Birmingham bluff, but no one else is worrying over it.

THE Montreal Gazette says:—"Some journals are trying to get comfort for the Ross Government in Ontario because it has as large a majority as the Macdonald ministry in Manitoba—seven. A majority of seven in a Legislature of forty is quite a different thing, though, from a majority of seven in a house of ninety. The Ontario hope developers lose sight of the proportion of things." Yes, and they lose sight in more than the question of proportion of membership when looking at their own case.

THE Examiner had not much space for the exposures of the Grit machine by virtue of whose corrupt work the Ontario Government holds office, but it can give up three or four columns a day to Toronto Star's labored efforts to make a sensation out of the Birmingham bluff. The one case was corruption exposed and proven. But our contemporary did not condemn it. It was in the Liberal cause. The other is corruption hinted at, but not even stated, let alone proven. But the hint is at the Conservatives. That's the difference. Great moral force in such a quarter.

Sentenced to Death.

"You are in the last stages of Consumption and cannot live more than a month," were the words of doom heard by Mrs. Rosa Richardson, of Laurel Springs, N.C., from her doctors, "but she began to use Dr. King's New Discovery" writes R. L. Daughton, of that place, "and was wholly cured by it. She is now a stout, well woman." It's the supreme cure for desperate diseases of throat and lungs. Infallible for Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma, Croup, Whooping Cough. Guaranteed bottles 50c. and $1.00. Trial bottles free at J. Lynch's drug store.

Sweet Revenge!

She sat in a car with a little smile of satisfaction on her face, for she was well and tastefully dressed, and that means a great deal to a woman. As she moved up to make room for a newcomer a man entered, and as he sat down he said to the comfortable one:

"Why, Jane, this isn't your afternoon off! How did they come to let you out today?"

The young woman grew very red in the face, for all the occupants of the car were looking and listening, and stammered out as she half rose and then fell back in her seat:

"Now look here"—

"How well you're dressed, too!" continued her tormentor. "They must give you $20 a month. Eh? Is your mistress about your size?"

"Now, do be quiet!" cried the uncomfortable one. "If you think"—

"Diamonds, too," went on the miserable man as he caught a flash from her waving fingers. "Or are they artificial?"

The tormented one sprang up, stopped the car and made a rapid exit, followed by the cause of the trouble, whose farewell remark to the inmates of the car was:

"Well, well, but some people are too sensitive!"

They were husband and wife, and this was his weird idea of taking his revenge for a certain lecture.—Philadelphia Times.

BRITISH FLAG IS OVER JOHANNESBURG.

Lord Roberts Has Officially Made Known This Fact.

The Fall of Pretoria Confirmed by Further Despatches From Correspondent But There Has as Yet Been No Official News Received of the Event—Leader Has No Doubt That Roberts Has Pretoria—Further Resistance Futile.

London, June 1.—(3.35 a.m.)—Belated messages from Pretoria confirm the reports of the departure of President Kruger with his Cabinet and staff officials Tuesday night and the selection at a meeting of citizens of a committee to administer the city provisionally.

Have the Wires Been Cut?

Since these telegrams left on Wednesday, nothing apparently has reached Lorenzo Marquez by telegraph from Pretoria. Possibly the wires have been cut. Possibly the Boer censorship at some intermediate point intercepts telegrams.

Johannesburg Is Safe.

Although the War Office has not received a word about it, no one in London harbors the idea that the Boer capital is not already in the hands of the British, or about to be there. The possession of Johannesburg at all events, as Lord Roberts has telegraphed, is a fact. States Attorney Smuts did not depart with President Kruger, but remained in Pretoria.

Boer Seat at Middleburg.

The present seat of the Boer Government, according to a despatch from Lorenzo Marquez, dated yesterday, is Middleburg, but it will probably be shifted further east.

Where Boers May Hold Out.

The Boers lately confronting Lord Roberts appear to have gone eastward towards the Lydenburg regions. The defenders at Laing's Nek, when their position becomes too perilous, will probably trek straight northwards towards Lydenburg, When this concentration takes place, there will possibly be 20,000 men who may hold out for a time, with scattered bands of guerillas elsewhere.

The Boers Retired.

The press despatches from the headquarters of Lord Roberts give no estimate as to the number of Boers who were fighting. General French and Gen. Ian Hamilton Monday and Tuesday, but they all agree that the Boers retired and that the British casualties were slight.

Casualties Are Trifling.

Mr. Bennett Burleigh, wiring to The Daily Telegraph from Elandsfontein, Tuesday, says: "Much rolling stock and seven engines have been captured by Lord Roberts' column, The principal losses in the fighting have been sustained by the Mounted Infantry, but the casualties are trifling. Gen. French and Gen. Hamilton were engaged to the west of Johannesburg.

"Since Sunday the western columns have been fighting, but although guns were used, the actions were never serious; in fact, they were only big skirmishes. The Boers are retreating to Pretoria."

Rear Guard Action.

Mr. Prevost Battersby, in a despatch to The Morning Post from Germiston, May 30, says: "The enemy fought a rear guard action, retiring from the south to the north of the town with their pom-poms and with their artillery in the morning, withdrawing their riflemen through the town in the afternoon. We captured engines and over a hundred wagons. Two trains are leaving to-night for the Vaal.

"We succeeded in cutting the line in three directions, and imprisoning all the rolling stock in Johannesburg. It was a splendid piece of work. The enemy was astounded at the rapidity of our advance."

Forty-Five Were Killed.

Cape Town, May 31.—Gen. Rundle has defeated a Boer commando at Senekal. His casualties were 45 killed and many wounded.

PRETORIA HAS FALLEN.

Correspondents at Pretoria Confirm Earl Rosslyn's Story of the Fall of the Transvaal Capital.

London, May 31.—The Daily Mail says it has received cable despatches this afternoon from correspondents at Pretoria, completely confirming Lord Rosslyn's despatch of yesterday, announcing the fall of the capital of the Transvaal.

TO PREVENT DISTURBANCE.

Roberts Agreed to Delay His Entry Into Johannesburg 24 Hours.

London, June 1. — The War Office has received the following despatch from Lord Roberts, under date of Germiston, May 30:

"In answer to a flag of truce, I sent to Johannesburg this morning the commandant came to see me. He begged me to defer entering the town for 24 hours, as there were many armed burghers still inside. I agreed to this, as I am most anxious to avert the possibility of anything like disturbance inside the town and as bodies of the enemy are still holding the hills in the immediate neighborhood, from which they will have to be cleared off beforehand.

Boers Attacked Rundle.

"Rundle reports that he attacked a large party of Boers near Senekel on May 28. He said his casualties were not heavy.

Brabant Lost 42 Men.

"Brabant reports that on May 28 two of his patrols, consisting of two officers and 40 men, were cut off by the enemy and taken prisoners."

British Occupy Heidelburg.

Cape Town, May 31.—The British have occupied Heidelburg, on the railroad connecting Johannesburg with the Transvaal frontier town of Volksrust on the Natal frontier near Laing's Nek.

JOHANNESBURG OCCUPIED.

The British Flag Now Floats Over the Government Buildings.

London, June 1. — The following despatch from Lord Roberts, the British Commander-in-Chief in South Africa, has been received at the War Office here:

"Johannesburg, May 31.—(2 p.m.) —Her Majesty's forces are now in possession of Johannesburg, and the British flag floats over the Government buildings."

Hundreds of Boers Captured.

A special despatch from Germiston, a suburb of Johannesburg, occupied by Lord Roberts, says several hundred Boers have sought refuge in a mine, where the British Grenadiers have cornered them, and barred all escape."

Lord Cecil Manners Captured.

Lord Cecil Manners, who is acting as a newspaper correspondent, was among the prisoners captured by the Boers during Lord Roberts' advance on May 20.

THE MINES ARE UNINJURED.

Nine Engines, a Coal Train and Much Rolling Stock Was Captured, Germiston, Transvaal, May 30. — Wednesday, 3.25 p.m.)—Johannesburg is practically in British possession.

The mines are uninjured.

Nine engines, a coal train and a great quantity of rolling stock was captured.

The remnants of the Boer rear guard remained behind and fought in the streets of Germiston, but they were easily cleared by the Grenadiers.

Gen. French is now at Landlagte. The Guards hold Elandsfontein and Germiston. The state entry into Johannesburg will take place to-morrow. The Boers have gone to Pretoria. The railroad from here to the Vaal River is uninjured.

IAN HAMILTON'S COLUMN.

Devoted Brigade, Which Contains the Canadians, Bore Brunt of the Fighting on Wednesday Last.

London, June 1. — The War Office has received from Lord Roberts a despatch dated Germiston, May 30, 9 p.m., saying:

"The brunt of the fighting yesterday fell upon Ian Hamilton's column. I have sent him, as already mentioned, to work around to the west of Johannesburg, in support of French's Cavalry, which was directed to go north near the road leading to Pretoria. I have not heard from French yet, but Hamilton, in a report, which has just reached me, states that at about 1 o'clock in the afternoon he found his way blocked by the enemy strongly posted on some kopjes and ridges three miles south of the Rand. They had two heavy guns and several field guns and pompons. Hamilton forthwith attacked.

Enemy Fought Obstinately.

"The right was led by the Gordons, who, after capturing one extremity of the ridge, wheeled around and worked along it until after dark, clearing it of the enemy, who fought most obstinately. The One Hundred and Fourth led on the other flank and would not be denied, but the chief share in the action, as in the casualties, fell to the Gordons, whose gallant advance excited the admiration of all.

Johannesburg Surrounded.

"Hamilton is now at Florida, due west of Johannesburg, and French is a few miles further to the northeast. The Gordons, the cavalry, the mounted infantry, and the seventh division are holding the heights of the town. The eleventh division went with batteries H and G and the heavy artillery are south of Johannesburg.

"Hamilton speaks in high terms of praise of the manner in which Bruce Hamilton and Colonel Spens of the Shropshire Light Infantry, handled their men, under Smith-Dorrien's direction."

Boers Are Massing.

Another correspondent telegraphing Germiston the same day says: "I learn that the Boers are massing six miles south of Pretoria for a new and desperate stand with a front of 12 miles."

Other rumors in the camp of Lord Roberts are that President Kruger is still at Lydenburg and that the ammunition of the Boers is running short.

Mr. M. Donohue, a correspondent of The Daily Chronicle, was captured yesterday.

Further Resistance Futile.

The Times says any further resistance the Boers may offer will be futile. The collapse of the Transvaal as a militant state may be regarded as complete. Threats of obstinate guerilla warfare need not be taken more seriously than the exploded mine menace of resistance at Johannesburg and Pretoria. The formal annexation of the Transvaal will speedily follow. The war is rapidly approaching its close."

Five thousand fresh troops will embark for South Africa within the next few days.

Was Leyds Sat Upon?

London, June 1. — A despatch from Brussels says: Consignments of gold continue to come to the Netherlands Bank regularly from the Transvaal Government, but these have not been so large as formerly. It is understood that Dr. Leyds has not had power at will since the arrival here of the Boer peace delegates.

KRUGER CAPTURED.

An Unconfirmed Story Published in the Westminster Gazette.

London, June 1. — The Westminster Gazette says it was rumored last night in a quarter likely to be well informed, that President Kruger had been captured by the British six miles beyond Pretoria.

Appropriate.

At Chalfont, St. Giles, England, stands a remarkable monument, erected by Sir Hugh Palliser to his friend, Captain Cook, the celebrated navigator. One of the most singular visits to this monument occurred in 1865 when Queen Emma of the Sndwich Islands went in company with Bishop Wilberforce. People in the district still recall, with amusement, how the village band, wishing to greet her majesty with an appropriate tune and not knowing the Sandwich Islands national anthem, tootled forth "The King of the Cannibal Islands."

The First Umbrella.

To prove at what date the first umbrella was made is a seemingly hopeless task, but we find records of their use among the Greeks and Romans not alone as a protection from sun or rain, but as a distinguishing mark of royalty. By the time of Queen Anne's reign they had become quite common simply as a protection, but they were all imported until about 1802, when the manufacture of them was begun in England.

There is no more trying work than the weaver's. Added to the confinement, the heat and the impure air, there is often an amount of physical exertion which seems incredible. In the manufacture of plush, for example, those who cut the pile have to walk about thirty miles a day. And with every step of that thirty miles they breathe in vitiated air filled with particles of dust, poisonous coloring matter and other substances, irritating to the throat and lungs. It is no wonder that so many mill hands have an obstinate cough or that so many of them die of "lung trouble."

It is to operatives whose work makes them peculiarly liable to lung disease that Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery comes as a priceless boon. It positively cures deep seated and obstinate coughs, bronchial affections, bleeding of the lungs, and other diseases which if neglected lead to consumption.

"When I commenced taking your medicines, eighteen months ago, my health was completely broken down," writes Mrs. Cora L. Sunderland, of Chaneyville, Calvert Co., Md. "At times I could not even walk across the room, without pains in my chest. The doctor who attended me said I had lung trouble and that I would never be well again. At last I concluded to try Dr. Pierce's medicines. I bought a bottle of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' took it, and soon commenced to feel a little better, then you directed me to take both the 'Golden Medical Discovery' and the 'Favorite Prescription,' which I did. Altogether I have taken eighteen bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' twelve of the 'Favorite Prescription,' and five vials of 'Pellets.' I am now almost entirely well, and do all my work without any pain whatever, and can run with more ease than I could formerly walk."

You can consult Dr. Pierce by letter absolutely without charge. He will carefully consider your condition, and write you fully, giving you familiar, fatherly advice as well as medical direction. Your letter will be held as strictly private and sacredly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

CELEBRATIONS IN CANADA.

"The Greatest Day We Ever Had," the Universal Refrain.

Ottawa and Toronto Demonstrations Were Repeated in Kind, So Far as Description Is Concerned, in Almost Every Town in the Country—Troops Paraded, Whistles Blew, School Children Painted the Map of Africa Red, and Sang "God Save the Queen."

London, Eng., June 1. — London was dazed yesterday by the suddenness of the collapse of the Boer defences, and the quietness and precision with which Lord Roberts had worked out his purpose. Flags were fluttering from the housetops, but there was no revel of public rejoicing in the streets. Popular enthusiasm was smothered by the anti-climax of a tame ending after eight months of a campaign filled with startling surprises and dramatic incidents.

HOW OTTAWA DID IT.

Wholesouled Loyalty Finds Vent in Approved British Methods.

Ottawa, June 1. — Ottawa is jubilant. The jubilation began Wednesday night and was continued yesterday. Flags in countless numbers decorated houses and stores; bunting, red, white and blue, draped the public and larger buildings. Huge flags floated from all public and Government edifices. The people paraded their patriotic fervor. The celebration proper took place at 9 o'clock, when the 43rd Regiment, headed by their band, marched up to Parliament Hill. The 43rd Band played numerous tunes, ending with "God Save the Queen," sung by the whole gathering. Many prominent members of Parliament were among the spectators and singers. Three cheers were given for the Queen and "Bobs" and the whole throng surged down town to Sparks street. A jostling, merry, laughing crowd paraded the streets till long into the night. In the House of Commons flags were fixed in nearly every members buttonhole.

Holiday in Winnipeg.

Winnipeg, June 1. — Mayor Wilson, at once, on hearing the news from Pretoria, summoned a meeting of the City Council. There was general handshaking as the Mayor and aldermen met each other. A half holiday was unanimously agreed to without discussion. It was also resolved that all military bodies in the city and all societies be requested to meet for a parade on Main street, in order to fittingly celebrate the occasion. In less than three hours the city was attired in a great mass of bunting. Everybody decorated. Twenty thousand people were on the streets last night, and the biggest celebration in the history of the city took place. After dark fireworks illuminated the town. The Legisla adjourned for the day.

Hamilton Was Dubious.

Hamilton, June 1. — The news that Pretoria had surrendered reached Hamilton shortly after 11 o'clock Wednesday night, but not bearing "Bobs'" signature, the city was too sceptical to demonstrate. The arrival of the Toronto papers yesterday morning with the news of Toronto's wild demonstration was contagious enough to set flags flying all over the city and the Mayor proclaimed a public holiday. The city, remembering how they were fooled once before, still wouldn't celebrate, but the schools let the children out and they paraded the streets with the S. O. E. band. "Soldiers of the Queen" and other rousing pieces were sung, but there was no cheering or shouting anywhere.

TORONTO'S SECOND DAY.

Grand Demonstration, Officially Organized, in the Queen City.

Toronto, June 1. — The Mayor never did a wiser act than to proclaim yesterday a public holiday. The little taste the people had of a real good old time on Wednesday night only whetted their appetite for a continuance of the jollification, and they kept it up with vim and vigor until 3 o'clock this morning. About noon the festivities got into full swing again, but with redoubled force. Each man came with a new pair of lungs, and about every third man had a horn, a trumpet or a whistle, while megaphones, cymbals and bones were to be seen and heard helping the good thing along. If scenes such as were to be witnessed down town yesterday afternoon and evening were universal throughout the Empire, then the aggregate good time that rolled around the globe must have been unparalleled in the history of the world and better imagined than described. Just think of what it must be in Old London, if Toronto could put up such a wild time.

At Osgoode Hall.

Even Osgoode Hall forsook its usually sombre appearance yesterday, and British flags were everywhere, while a large British flag hung over the Chancellor's chair when Chancellor Boyd entered. The Chancellor looked at it, and said it was an occasion on which the law should not be silent. With eloquence he referred to the great success which had attended the British arms in South Africa, and he rejoiced with the others in being a part of that Greater Britain and the triumphs it was now so loyally celebrating. The Chancellor referred to the sons of Canada now fighting in South Africa, and remarked how the war had welded together more closely the Empire.

On behalf of the bar, Mr. Hoskins, Q.C., replied, as senior member. He said there would be equal rights in South Africa, now.

The Street Parade.

And the procession! Was ever there such a one ever held in Canada before. Order why there was no pretence made at any such a thing.

There was just a mad, surging crowd of thousands, delirious with joy and yelling like maniacs. The military organizations were the only ones that marched to the line. In the latter part of the night the monster parade began to break up into smaller ones and while one marched down one side of the street, the other marched up the opposite one. Each one had its leader, some moving spirit who was a little more hilarious than his fellows and before each crowd he would march, his antics creating merriment. For hours and hours the fun waxed furious, but gradually nature began to assert itself and gradually the tired, happy mob began getting smaller and smaller, and, although a respectable sized one remained walking up and down nearly all night, the noise was on the wane and the vast army of spectators, and they were not silent ones either, betook themselves to their homes, dead tired, but happy.

"Will the procession and demonstration ever be forgotten?" "Never," was the emphatic opinion of all, never as long as ever our children live to remember it.

The day was marred somewhat by several serious accidents, which occurred during the progress of the big demonstration. One young lady received probably fatal injuries and a young man also sustained severe injuries, resulting in concussion of the brain. Two of the accidents were runaways, and there were several bicycle mishaps.

Bermuda Was Jubilant.

Hamilton, Bermuda, May 31. — To-day has been observed as a general holiday. Scenes of unbounded enthusiasm have followed the receipt of the news from South Africa. Bands of music are parading the streets, and the National Anthem is being sung by whites and negroes alike. Cheers for the Queen and Lord Roberts resound on all sides.

Kaiser Congratulates the Queen.

London, June 1. — Emperor William, according to a Berlin correspondent of The Daily Telegraph, has sent a telegram to the Queen congratulating her upon the success of Lord Roberts.

ELSEWHERE.

The towns mentioned herein proclaimed a holiday for the due celebration of the finish of Paul Kruger and the end of the war. They also celebrated appropriately with bunting and flags and noise, and where possible with military parades and band music. Despatches show that in no single case did the celebrations fail to outdo in magnificent enthusiasm anything ever held in that town before. The villages, too, did likewise, for many of them had sent their best to South Africa, and their blood throbbed with the Empire beat that rang round the world so continuously for the past two days. These cities, towns and villages varied their modes of celebrating, but they were one in heart and feeling:

Aurora, Niagara-on-the-Lake, Whitby, Lambton Mills, Niagara Falls, (Ont.) Thorold, Oakville, Elora, Orangeville, Locust Hill, Milton, Port Hope, St. Catharines, Stouffville, Peterboro, Galt, Cobourg, Midland, Brockville, Grand Forks, Whilevale, Milton, Markham, Toronto Junction, Weston, Newmarket, Bowmanville, Quebec, Guelph, Lindsay.

MAJOR WALSH CHARGED.

Sir Hibbert Tupper Keeps the Scope of His Yukon Resolution to One Charge This Year.

Ottawa, June 1. — Hon. David Mills, Minister of Justice, is ill in London, and the Government is awaiting his return to Ottawa before issuing the royal commission to enquire into election scandals. So said Sir Wilfrid yesterday in the House.

But whether Mr. Mills comes or not on Monday the commission will issue and the House will be told all about it. Meanwhile it is said that Chancellor Boyd, Justice Falconbridge, Toronto, and Judge McTavish, Ottawa, and High Court judges and one County Court judge, will compose the commission. The official announcement is yet to be made.

Elder Charlton asked about the closing of Canadian Buildings at Paris Exposition.

Mr. Fisher replied that the efforts of Mr. Tarte in the line of the Government request has been successful. The Canadian exhibits would be closed to the public on Sundays.

Sir Hibbert Tupper moved his Yukon resolution. It was the longest one ever presented to Parliament. His speech was short. Centering his remarks upon a single charge, he declared that Major Walsh had prostituted his official position to exploit the valuable mineral claims on Dominion Creek for the benefit of himself and his family. The resolution, which took Speaker Bain half an hour to read, and its conclusion was that "The failure of the Government to take any action in reference to the conduct of Major Walsh under the foregoing circumstances merits the censure of the House."

Hon. Mr. Fitzpatrick replied to Sir Hibbert, and denied the charge that Walsh has prostituted his position. As a proof of this he cited Walsh's high reputation among his fellows.

Messrs. McInerny, Britton, Borden, Sutherland and Davin continued the debate, after which the vote was taken. Yeas, 38; nays, 74. Majority against 36. Messrs. Davis and MacDonald (West Huron) did not vote.

Before the House adjourned, Mr. Fielding read a letter from the Auditor-General, stating that he had not warranted the paying of the sessional officials of the Senate. That had been done by the Clerk of the Senate from credit given to him by the Auditor-General. The latter considered the action irregular and warned the clerk that if this is done again his credit would be withheld. The sessional clerks of the House will not be paid until the Senate passes the supplementary bill of $96,000.

The House adjourned at 12.

A POPULAR MISTAKE

Regarding Remedies for Dyspepsia and Indigestion.

The national disease of Americans is indigestion or in its chronic form, dyspepsia, and for the very reason that it is so common many people neglect taking proper treatment for what they consider trifling stomach trouble, when as a matter of fact, indigestion lays the foundation for many incurable diseases. No person with a vigorous, healthy stomach will fall a victim to consumption. Many kidney diseases and heart troubles date their beginning from poor digestion; thin, nervous people are really so because their stomachs are out of gear; weary, languid, faded out women owe their condition to imperfect digestion.

When nearly every person you meet is afflicted with weak digestion it is not surprising that nearly every secret patent medicine on the market claims to be a cure for dyspepsia, as well as a score of other troubles, when in fact, as Dr. Werthier says, there is but one genuine dyspepsia cure which is perfectly safe and reliable, and moreover, this remedy is not a patent medicine, but it is a scientific combination of pure pepsin (free from animal matter), vegetable essences, fruit salts and bismuth. It is sold by druggists under name of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. No extravagant claims are made for them, but for indigestion or any stomach trouble, Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are far ahead of any remedy yet discovered. They act on the food eaten, no dieting is necessary, simply eat all the wholesome food you want and these tablets will digest it. A cure results, because all the stomach needs is a rest, which Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets give by doing the work of digestion.

WE SELL PIANOS BY MAIL

The ever increasing business which we do through our mail order department is one of the mysteries of the trade, and yet their should be nothing mysterious about it. Our success is simply due to public confidence based upon experience. The public know that ours is a one-price house. All goods are ticketed in plain figures, cash and time prices and the prices WHICH WE ADVERTISE mean exactly what we say. We figure out the lowest price which we can afford to take and then advertise and ticket the price. No customer has any advantage over another. No asking $500.00 and obtaining anything between that price and $300.00, according to the bargaining ability of the customer. No! we reason that if we can afford to sell a given piano for $300.00 to one person we can afford to sell it to anyone at the same figure.

NOW AS TO ORDERING BY MAIL

The first point is that owing to our one price system the out-of-town purchaser has the same advantage as the city resident. All that is necessary is that we should get some idea of what style of piano or organ is wanted. Then we send you our catalogues and cash and time prices. In the case of used instruments we send a list of the stock on hand, and a careful description of each instrument and our prices and terms for each. The customer examines the catalogue or list and sends us his choice; then we ship. If the instrument is satisfactory the customer sends us the cash or the signed papers—if not, the instrument is reshipped and we pay the return freight.

We handle the product of the following eminent makers:— Knabe, Gerhard Heintzman, Whaley-Royce, Karn, Mendelssohn, Hardman, J. & C. Fischer, Estey & Co., Mason & Hamlin, Thomas.

NIGHT CELEBRATION ON PRETORIA DAY

Peterborough's Patriotic Outburst Witnessed in the Afternoon was Followed by a Grand Demonstration at Night When all Classes Turned Out to Swell the Loyal Jubilation.

The whole town turned out en masse last night to assist in and enjoy the celebration of the triumphant approach of the British troops to Pretoria. The most notable feature of the evening was the immense crowd. Men, women and children, old and young, rich and poor, all kinds of conditions, flocked to the centre of the town to see the parade and enjoy the sport and cheer for the soldiers at every opportunity. The streets were thronged from seven o'clock to eleven. The sidewalks did not afford the jubilant and enthusiastic people sufficient room and they swarmed over the roadway on George-st until the whole street was alive and in motion. The crowd began to gather early and lingered late on the scene of festivities. It was too gay a night to go home and it was midnight before the last bugle was blown and the last cheer given and an occasional rocket still shot up to show that the enthusiasts were still making merry.

While the demonstration was big and successful, hearty and enthusiastic, it was orderly and quiet as compared with the outburst over the relief of Mafeking a few days ago. Though the crowd was much larger and the event more generally observed the excitement was kept within bounds and there were none of the excesses such as aroused comment at the last demonstration. The jubilation last evening was quite as genuine, as deep and true and the display was in many ways more pleasing.

The drill shed was the starting place of the procession. Before the parade was started the battalion led by the band sang "God Save the Queen" and other loyal and appropriate songs.

About dark the procession wheeled out and began to move down the street between the crowds of people. The 57th regiment headed by the pioneers and two bands took the lead. The band never played better and the boys never marched better. They were out in full strength and as the companies swung by the crowded corners they were heartily cheered.

Next came the illuminated bicycle parade with Mr. J. S. Knapman's handsome prize winning float in the van. There were over thirty riders with Chinese lanterns in the parade and they made a pretty and charming addition to the procession. There was a host of other riders in line and the bicycle corps was a most successful and pleasing feature of the evening. The lanterns were distributed by Mr. Jim English from his stores and supplies to the riders at the Y.M.C.A.

Next in line came the Sons of England band and the members of Lansdowne Lodge, two hundred strong, marching two abreast. The band and lodge made a fine appearance and the Sons of England are to be complimented on their enterprise and loyalty.

What was perhaps the most spectacular feature in the procession was the Fire Brigade with the hose and hook and ladder waggons. The whole outfit was spic and span and the waggons and horses were gayly decorated. In their progress along the streets the members of the brigade from their high seats discharged showers of rockets that lit up the whole parade. Their part of the procession was most brilliant and gorgeous.

The rear guard was composed of the "Young Canada" torchlight brigade, a big company of boys of all kinds, sizes and ages bearing torches. Mr. Jim English was leader and as he marched at the head of his braves he smiled a smile serene and high. He glanced back with pride every little while and the boys were always in line and marching like men headed straight for Pretoria. His first lieutenant was a boy in a khaki suit. "Young Canada" was a great feature and evoked the most cheers of the evening.

Calcutt's convey made a strong showing and a number of outfits like it would have added much to the procession.

At the end came a motley band of boys, men, wheelmen, drivers and pleasure seekers and of all kinds. There were a few merry parties in hacks well supplied with fireworks and they made lots of entertainment for themselves and the crowd.

The procession paraded the principal streets and returned to the drill shed. In the meantime the gun of the right wing of the Durham Field Battery was brought into service and a royal salute of 21 guns were fired. The booming of the cannon at short intervals gave the people more idea of war than they would get by looking at the manoeuvres of the red coats for any length of time.

On the return of the regiment to the drill shed a feu-de-joie was fired to wind up the formal proceedings and the volunteers were then supplied with rockets. They formed fours and marched down the street and their display of fireworks was the best thing of the evening in that line.

The fun kept up late. The most enthusiastic crowd was the bugle and drum band. They headed every little procession and gathered all people around themselves. At the corner of George and Simcoe-sts, a lot of volunteers formed into a big circle and had a right royal time with music by the buglers and drummers, dances and songs. After that they made frequent excursions in all directions up and down the streets and everywhere they went there was the most sport.

Altogether it was a grand demonstration and one worthy of the memorable event which it was intended to celebrate.

NOTES.

It was propably as big a crowd of townspeople as ever gathered on the streets of Peterborough.

There was no trouble from the cannon crackers last evening. The ladies enjoyed the sport with more of a feeling of security than on Mafeking night.

The bugle and drum band are about as enthusiastic a band of workers as

HOLIDAY DISTURBANCES

Drunk and Disorderly Cases Last Night—Interference With Police.

In the holiday celebration last evening there were a few incidents that called for police intervention. One man stood at Tully's drug store and aimed rockets in the window of Mr. Hatton's office opposite. He was ordered by the Chief to desist but replied that he would shoot as much as he pleased. He was thereupon lugged off to the police station but was allowed to go home on condition of appearing this morning at 9. He did not present himself at 9 but called around at 10 o'clock. He comes up this afternoon to answer a charge of being drunk and disorderly.

After 11 o'clock two men got into a fight near Chambers-st and shed much blood and churned one another into gore. P. C. Stewart arrested one; the other got off. They come up Monday on a charge of disorderly conduct.

Another case was more serious. After the fight a man in the crowd tried to incite others to release the man who had been arrested. He was charged in police court this morning with attempting to incite. Such an offendor is liable to a year's imprisonment. The Magistrate showed him the very serious nature of his offence, pointing out that if the law were not upheld in the country we could not live in it. He found the accused guilty but allowed him to go on payment of costs.

ODDFELLOWS' VISIT.

Pontypool Oddfellows Pay a Fraternal Visit to Peterborough Lodge.

There was a pleasant gathering at Oddfellows' hall last evening at the regular meeting of Peterborough Lodge, No. 111. A large delegation from Pontypool lodge was present, and the three degrees were conferred on five candidates by the Peterborough Lodge degree team. Otonabee lodge team was to have exemplified the first degree, but the military celebration made too heavy a draft on its members, many of whom are in the 57th, and Peterborough Lodge did the work in fine style in the three degrees.

After work the visiting brethren were entertained at supper, and a social time was spent, the spirit of patriotic rejoicing that was so enthusiastically demonstrated on the streets not being absent.

A Plea for the Lost Moustaches.

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—I read with some feelings of humility and deep repentance the timely reference made in last evening's REVIEW to the disappearance of several well-known facial decorations in the form of moustaches, and I am in earnest in an effort to get mine back. Mine is lost. It was not exactly of the baseball variety—nine hairs on one side and nine on the other—nor was it of the golf variety, where numbers run high but the predominating color is red. It was just a quiet and harmless bunch of down of no particular color, and not very much in the way at any time. But, as great men say, in "a moment of weakness" I lost it. I now seek it, and any information regarding its whereabouts will be received with deepest gratitude and profound thanks. Also any pointers as to the most effective restoratives will be acceptable.

I am now convinced that the moustache is all right in its place, and it's place is on a man's upper lip. This statement is made not only on the strength of my own opinion, but also on that of my sister—and another fellow's sister, too, for that matter.

In the meantime the Board of Trade need not take action. All the sufferers will recover in time. Some for the better and some for the worse. But keep off the Board of Trade, the Town Council and the police and give us a chance,

A SUFFERER.

That "Faction Fight" Sensation

To the Editor of the Review.

DEAR SIR—You have heard of "Satan reproving sin," "the pot calling the kettle black," or of a street walker giving a lecture on virtue. These are "not a circumstance" to the man at the head of the Examiner. What kind of a man is he—mentally? Is he morally dense or does he imagine that his readers have no brains! Picture to yourself an editor "setting tight" and holding his tongue while there was being unfolded to the gaze of all Canada a panorama of election crookedness, a veritable saturnalia of the worst kind of thieving—ballot stealing, ballot switching, ballot exchanging, ballot spoiling and all the other devices so well known to the practised gang under the leadership of the paid organizers of the Grit party.

But a drowning man will catch at straws, so when the Birmingham episode turned up, column after column could be used up describing the imaginary details of a so called faction fight—details which have as much truth in them as your contemperoray has virtue in its political matters. The principal witness himself denies all knowledge of any wrong doing and the letter referred to by himself explicitly gives the lie to the insinuations of the Examiner as to crooked work in elections.

The other phase of the situation is the independance of the different members of the Conservative party. There is some faith in that allegation. Good Conservatives are independent to a degree unlooked for and unthought of by the editors of petty Grit sheets throughout Canada, but is it not better to have men of independent minds at the head of a great party than to have hypocrites of the Cartwright stamp, a man who, according to the premier, placed his principles in his pocket for the sake of office, thundering against protection while all the time believing in it—that is, of course, if we believe that Mr Laurier spoke the truth the other night in Ottawa. The Examiner does not seem to see any virtue in this independence, and it is trying its little best to draw a herring across the track left by the perpetations of the election outrages in Huron Elgin and Brockville.

Yours,

VICTOR

When the Puss Gets Her Back Up.

It is not anger alone that makes cats arch their backs. Indeed, when two cats are preparing to fight they do not assume this attitude, but crouch low, just as they do when about to spring on their prey, the body being extended and the hair not in the least erect. But when, on meeting a dog suddenly, fear is combined with anger then the cat, standing at its full height, at once arches its back, with an instinctive effort to appear as formidable as possible.

Darwin compares it to the similar attitude of the lynx when attacked and to that of birds which ruffle their feathers and spread out their wings and tail when alarmed. It is noticeable that a cat will also arch its back when in an effectionate frame of mind, rubbing itself against its master's leg. At the same time it slightly raises its fur and holds its tail erect. Its whole attitude is just the reverse of that which it assumes when savage.

Darwin accounts for this in the following words: "Certain states of mind lead to certain habitual actions which are of no service. Now, when a directly opposite state of mind is induced, there is a strong and involuntary tendency to the performance of a movement of a directly opposite nature, though it may be of no service."

A Bride's Clever Idea.

Out in a big apartment house on Columbia heights there dwells a young married woman who is as naive as the bride in the comic weeklies. The housekeepers who live in the same house with her have been somewhat annoyed of late by mice. The young woman met one of them in the hall the other day, and the conversation naturally turned on their common pests.

"The mice have been so bad lately," said the elder woman, "that I keep everything locked up and all my eatables in the boxes."

The younger woman's eyes sparkled with eagerness.

"My!" she said. "I wouldn't dare do that. I wouldn't want to run such a risk. I leave crackers and cheese lying about every night when I go to bed so that when the mice become hungry they'll find something to eat and not gnaw things. I'm always afraid they'll bite holes in my new tablecloths and my nice centerpieces if I don't leave the cheese right where they can find it easily. I feel perfectly safe when I know there's plenty for them to eat right where they can get at it."

There's nothing after all like having a clever idea like that now and then.—Washington Post.

Nicknames of British Regiments.

The grenadier guards were nicknamed "The Coalheavers" because they were at one time allowed to work in plain clothes at odd jobs for private employers. The Seventh foot were "The Elegant Extracts" because at one time all their officers "had been chosen from other corps." The Forty-sixth owed their name of "The Lacedemonians" to their colonel's stirring speech on the ancient Spartans. Like many other regiments, "The Gallant Fiftieth" received several nicknames—"The Blind Half Hundred," from their ophthalmic troubles in Egypt, and "The Dirty Half Hundred" because in their peninsular fights they wiped themselves with their black facings. The One Hundredth regiment are "The Old Hundred" and "The Centipedes." The Twenty-eighth were called "The Fore and Afts" because, standing back to back, they repelled a front and rear attack before Alexandria in 1801. The Cheshire regiment has been christened "The Lightning Conductors" because "in the Irish maneuvers of 1899 several men were struck by lightning during a night march."—London News.

The Ring-hals.

The ring-hal does not disdain an insect diet. Beetles, grasshoppers, locusts and termites are all readily devoured, as well as ticks and bots picked from the hides of cattle. I have sometimes amused myself by watching the bold yet cautious and gentle manner in which one of these ravens will approach a reclining ox and, after a preliminary course of soothing caresses, accompanied by a soft "cawing" note, insert his head into the ear and dexterously extract the ticks. These birds always seem to have a good understanding with the older and more experienced oxen, who will, at a hint from one of them, lie down and place themselves in the most favorable position for the extraction of their parasites.—Stark's Birds of South Africa.

Easy.

"Excuse me," said the shabby looking young man. "But would you be so kind as to cash this check for me?"

"Why don't yew git somebody thet knows yew to cash it?" asked the old countryman, picking up his carpet sack from the curb.

"The people that know me won't do it," bitterly exclaimed the young man, turning away to hide a tear.

"Poor fellow!" sympathetically answered the farmer as he took out his wallet. "How much is it fer?"

The Toothbrush Plant.

One of the most curious plants in the world is what is called the toothbrush plant of Jamaica. It is a species of creeper and has nothing particularly striking about its appearance. By cutting pieces of it to a suitable length and fraying the ends the natives convert it into a toothbrush, and a tooth powder to accompany the use of the brush is also prepared by pulverizing the dead stems.

Asia Minor was the chief opium market until the twelfth century, and from then on it was gradually distributed all over the globe. The Chinese obtained the drug in the thirteenth century.

Two of Nast's Faces.

William M. Tweed was a portly man of medium size, with a long, pendulous nose, little porcine eyes, fat, drooping cheeks and a straight, firm mouth that was decidedly his best feature. The outlines of his face were those of a Bartlett pear, little end upward, and I never saw craft so palpably written upon a human countenance. Nast used to be fond of drawing Tweed's face, by the way, as a sack of money. The general contour of his head lent itself to the outlines of the sack, and he used $ marks for the nose and eyes. Strange to say, it was a capital portrait.

Another of Nast's trick pictures was one of Roscoe Conkling. He would draw a large letter V, with a smaller v inside it and surmount the pair with an interrogation mark upside down. The big V represented Conkling's pointed beard, the smaller one his sharp nose and the interrogation point the Hyperion curl which he always allowed to fall negligently upon his forehead. That caricature made the haughty senator wild and exasperated him more than any bit of fun that was ever poked in his direction.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

A Story of Amos Cummings.

One summer a number of years ago Amos Cummings passed two weeks on a pilot boat and took Ernest Jarrold, the author of "Mickey Finn Idylls," with him for company. One day a great storm arose, and the pilot boat was tossed about on the waves like a chip. Every minute a wave would dash over the deck and threaten to carry everything away and swamp the boat. Cummings and Jarrold were in the little cabin, the former lying in a bunk intently reading a book on the French revolution. Jarrold poked his head out to look at the storm, when a mountain of sea water fell with a boom on the deck and filled his eyes with spray. The boat gave a fearful lurch and careened until it seemed that she must turn completely over.

"This is awful, Amos," said Jarrold. "I'm going to put on a life preserver, for I don't think the boat can stand it many minutes longer."

"Oh, keep quiet, and let me read, Mickey," said Cummings, never lifting his eyes from the page. "The men on this boat draw a regular salary to keep her afloat."—Saturday Evening Post.

Knew His Pop.

"A little fellow," says the Kennebec Journal, "the oldest in a family of little ones, whose father worked away from home winters, had occasion to visit his grandparents for a few days. On his return he found another little member. His remarks will show that he was both surprised and indignant: 'Well, if you haven't gone and got another gosh darned kid! Won't my father be mad when he hears of it!'"

THE SUICIDE.

Toil worn, but trusting Zeno's mad belief,
A soul went wailing from the world of grief;
A wild hope led the way.
Then suddenly—dismay!
Lo, the old load was there—
The duty, the despair!
Nothing had changed; still only one escape
From its old self into the angel shape.
—Edwin Markham in Scribner's Magazine.

JUST LIKE HER FATHER.

She Got In a Stipulation Protecting Her Own Interests.

The wooing had progressed splendidly. It had even progressed to a point where she had been won—that is, ostensibly won. If she proved to be a truthful girl, she would in time be his wife. If she were not truthful—well, no man wants a wife who is not truthful. That's the way some men console themselves when they fail to marry.

But she seemed to be truthful. As he drew her closer to him he whispered:

"And when we are married, dearest, we will have the happiest home in all the wide, wide world!"

"Yes, George," she replied.

"There can never be a harsh word in our home."

"No, George."

"And when I come home tired and worn out with work at the office and the worries of business you'll be kind to me?"

"Y-e-s, George."

"I knew you would. You'll soothe me and put me in better humor?"

"Ye-e-s; but I say, George!"

"Yes, dearest."

"Why shouldn't you do a little of this yourself?"

"Why, darling"—

"Yes, that's all right. But to come right down to business, as papa says, why shouldn't you also be kind to me when things go wrong? I don't want to do it all, you know. You're not looking for a private nurse, are you?"

"Why, Mabel!"

"When the cook leaves unexpectedly to go to the bedside of her second cousin, you might be just a trifle considerate, you know."

"How strangely you talk, pet!"

"Well, they say I'm papa's girl, you know, and I notice when any one tries to make a bargain with him he generally gets some stipulations to his own interest put in just as a precaution."

George and Mabel have now been married exactly 5 years and 3 months and at the moment of going to press have never had a single quarrel.—Pearson's.

He Had His Reasons.

A scholar on coming into a parlor where the doctor had laid a fine bunch of grapes for his own eating took it up and said:

"I publish the banns between these grapes and my mouth. If any one knows any just cause or impediment why these two should not be joined together, let them declare it."

The doctor, being but in the next room, overheard all that was said, and, coming into the school, ordered the boy who had eaten his grapes to be taken up, or, as they called it, horsed on another boy's back. But before he proceeded to the usual discipline he cried out aloud, as the delinquent had done:

"I publish the banns between my rod and this boy's breech. If any one knows any just cause and impediment why these two should not be joined together, let them declare it."

"I forbid the banns!" cried the boy.

"Why?" asked the doctor.

"Because the parties are not agreed," replied the boy.

Which answer so pleased the doctor, who loved to find any readiness of wit in his scholars, that he ordered the boy to be set down.—London Tit-Bits.

Another Kind.

When Johnny Hobbs left his home up among the New Hampshire hills to visit his grandmother in Worcester, Mass., he was cautioned by his mother that he would find things in the city strangely different from those at home.

Johnny arrived in the early afternoon, and long before tea time his grandmother, who lived most simply, told him to run out to the pantry and get a bowl of milk which she had left there "for a hungry boy."

A moment later she followed him and, to her amazement, beheld her grandson bravely at work on a bowl of spearmint tea, which she had forgetfully put in the place where she had told him to find the milk.

"Why, child," she cried, seizing the bowl from poor Johnny, "don't you know this isn't milk?"

"I—I knew it wasn't like Hillbury milk," stammered Johnny, with a final gulp, "but I thought maybe it was the kind folks had in Worcester!"—Youth's Companion.

Seeking a Separation.

"Do you give gas here?" asked a wild looking man who rushed into a dentist's office.

"We do," replied the dentist.

"Does it put a fellow to sleep?"

"It does."

"You could break his jaw, and he wouldn't feel it?"

"He would know nothing of it."

"Well, that'll do. Got it all ready for a fellow to take?"

"Yes. Take a seat in this chair and show me your tooth."

"Tooth be hanged!" said the excited caller, beginning rapidly to remove his coat and vest. "I want you to pull a porous plaster off my back."

Where Amber Is Found.

Gold of the Baltic sea, as amber is often called, is found in various places on the globe, but nowhere in such abundance as on the shores of the Baltic from Memel to Dantzic, and there principally on the coast of the oblong piece of land jutting out into the sea between the Kurische and the Frische Haff. It is, in fact, a vegetable product, a fossil gum of a coniferous tree, and from time immemorial it has been used as a jewel by many a fair lady.

One or the Other.

"Before I answer that question let me ask if you have reason to think she has had a love disappointment of any kind?"

"I know she has not."

A Wonderful Geological Freak.

Among the many wonderful freaks in nature there can be none in the geological line that can possibly excel that known as "The Giant's Head." It stands, or, rather, reclines, against the face of the cliff at Point Pinos, in Monterey county, Cal., and all who have viewed the wonder declare it to be the most colossal as well as the most marvelous freak in natural sculpture in existence.

All portions of the "head" except the back, which appears to be "blocked" into the metamorphic rocks against which it seems to be so naturally reclining, are as perfect as though fresh from the hands of some giant sculptor. The chin, mouth, nose, eyes and brow are all perfect, as is also the hair, which appears to be gracefully drawn back from the forehead.

The ears are not so "true to life" as the other features are, but even in this respect no stretch of the imagination is required in order to see tolerably perfect auricular appendages. The bold features, backward wave of the hair, massive forehead, mustache, finely chiseled nostrils and deep set eyes are all reproduced on a natural yet gigantic scale and with wonderful exactness.

The Typewriter and the Eye.

There is the general opinion among oculists that the eye is much relieved by the general introduction of typewritten matter. A recent medical work upon diseases of the eye gives a great many proofs in substantiation of this opinion.

The characters are so large on the keys that there is no appreciable strain on the vision, and when dexterity is attained the eyes can scarcely be said to be used at all. A vast strain is taken off the eye by writing with the typewriter instead of the pen, but the advantages of reading the typewritten matter are even more important from a medical point of view, and the strain upon the hands is also slight.

It is said that a person can work for eight consecutive hours, with slight interruptions, without the hands being conscious of fatigue. In using the typewriter the additional labor of focusing the eyes calls the muscles into undue use, and the result is that many defects of vision which would not probably be discovered under normal conditions are brought to the front.—Scientific American.

THE MARKET REPORTS.

Peterborough Markets

Friday, June 1.

Mr. W. J. English reports the local market as follows:—

The market for the last week of the month has been a very fair one. Quite a few loads of grain were offered and disposed off at the usual quotations. The general market has remained at its normal standard and the prices have not varied since last week.

The following are the prices current for the week:—

Wheat.—There were quite a few loads offered and sold at 65c, with a little better in some instances. The market remains unchanged with no prospect of betterment.

Oats.—There was a good demand for oats all week, but owing to the low price which was offered there were but a few loads sold. Prices, 26 and 27c.

Peas.—Only a few loads of peas came in, as many farmers are holding them for feeding purposes. They claim there is more money in them for feeding hogs.

Barley.—None offered, but quotations were the same as last week, 40 to 42c.

Rye.—Two loads were offered and sold at 48c.

Hay.—The market for hay has been a little steadier this week, as there were not as many loads in as last week. Quotations given as $7.00 to $8.00.

A Victim of Piles

For 20 Years—A Constant Sufferer From Bleeding and Protruding Piles—Cured by Dr. Chase's Ointment.

In vain did Mrs. Jas. Brown, of Hintonburgh, near Ottawa, search for a cure for piles. In Europe and America she tried every remedy available, but it remained for Dr. Chase's Ointment to effect a cure.

Mrs. Brown writes:—"I have been a constant sufferer from nearly every form of piles for the last twenty years, and during that time both here and in the Old Country have tried most every remedy.

"I am only doing justice to Dr. Chase's Ointment when I say that I believe it to be the best remedy obtainable for bleeding and protruding piles. I strongly recommend Dr. Chase's Ointment to mothers, or indeed to any person suffering from that dread torment—piles."

Physicians and druggists recommend Dr. Chase's Ointment as the one preparation that will never fail to cure piles. It is guaranteed to positively cure piles, whether itching, bleeding, or protruding. 60 cents a box, at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates and Co., Toronto.

Straw.—There were quite a few loads of straw offered and sold at steady prices, $2.50 to $3.00.

Eggs and Butter.—There is no change in the egg and butter market this week. The supply is about the same, and prices unchanged. Butter 15 to 18c; Eggs 9 to 10c.

Live Stock.—There has been quite a heavy movement in live stock during the past week, owing to the quotations for cattle all around being a little firmer. Mr. Geo. Webber sold J. Thompson, of Cobourg, 18 very heavy export bulls and steers, while Mr. J. Harrison sold H. P. Kennedy 5 exceptionally fine steers, which averaged nearly 1400 apiece. These steers realized Mr. Harrison a good price, $4.90 being paid for them.

The price of hogs has given gone up 25c. on the Toronto market. According to Tuesday's quotations select hogs are worth $6.62 1-2, heavy fats, $6.00, and light fats $5.75.

On the local market the quotations were $6.00 for select hogs, $5.50 for heavy fats and $5.25 for light fats.

The local quotations for next week are $6.12 1-2 for selects, $5.50 for heavy fats and $5.25 for light hogs.

The price for sheep and lambs is very firm.

It will be of great satisfaction to the farmers to know that an inspection by the Government Inspector shows that the market live stock scales were correct, even up to the capacity of the scale. It therefore settles the question as to the difference between the market scales and other scales where live stock is weighed around town. The market clerk's ticket is absolutely correct. It is out of reason to suppose that either three of five steers will weigh 100 to 120 lbs. less within half an hour after being weighed on the market scales. Some of the drovers claim that there should be a 20 pound up-beam allowed on cattle. It would be well for the farmers to understand how their stock is to be paid for before being sold.

Methodist Conference at Hamilton.

Hamilton, June 1. — The regular meeting of the Hamilton Conference of the Methodist Church began yesterday for both ministerial and lay delegates. Rev. Thomas W. Jackson of Elora was elected president on the second ballot. A proposal to consider the question of co-operation with other denominations to secure religious instruction in the Public schools was referred to the Memorial Committee. The evening's meeting took the form of a reception to the General Conference officers.

Hernandez Captured.

Caracas, Venezuela, via Haytien cable, June 1. — Gen. Davili, commander of the Government troops in the victorious engagement last Sunday with Gen. Hernandez, which resulted in the capture of the latter at Tiera Ñegra, has brought the insurgent leader to Caracas, and will exhibit him in the streets of the Capitol.

Earth Fortifications.

Military engineers are practically agreed that no material for fortifications is superior to earth. When clay is not obtainable, as on the seashore, sand is collected into bags, and these are laid in regular heaps along the line of the proposed fortification. In such a fortification the balls from the enemy's guns sink without doing damage, and shells explode harmlessly.

Fine Writing.

"By the way, Naggus," asked Borus, who was lounging in the office of the literary editor, "what do you consider the finest piece of writing in existence?"

"Well," answered the literary editor, with a yawn, "the Ten Commandments written in a circle of the size of a silver quarter is about as fine as any I have ever seen."—Chicago Tribune.

A Perilous Profession.

"My son is learning to be an electrician."

"Well, I suppose he knows pretty well what to do by this time."

"Oh, no; he isn't half through yet learning the things he mustn't do."—Chicago Record.

Identified.

A richly dressed woman entered the office of a trust company in Philadelphia the other day to rent a box. "Have you any one to identify you?" asked the attendant.

"Certainly not," said the woman indignantly. "Everybody knows who I am."

"That may be," was the reply, "but I don't know that you are the woman of that name."

Just then another woman, who had been transacting some business, raised her head, and a frigid nod passed between them.

"Do you know this woman?" asked the bank official.

"I don't want to know her," snapped the woman. "She lives next door to me, and instructed her footman to kick my dog, just because it chanced to be on her step. You needn't ask me to identify her, for I won't."

"I wouldn't let you identify me," retorted the applicant for a box. "I think you have acted horridly about your old dog, and you left the Dorcas society, telling everybody you wouldn't belong as long as I was a member. A nice Christian spirit!"

In the meantime the bank official, entirely satisfied that the identification was complete, handed over the key to the box, to the ill concealed chagrin of the other woman, who had identified her against her will.—New York Tribune.

Thought They Were Dogs.

Summer in Dawson City is delightful, and even the winters, say those who have staid there in that season, are glorious. Many are the stories told about the wondrous beauties of the trail over the ice and the White pass, where even women have gone, handling their dogs from day to day as the men handled theirs. Every man and woman there has a story, all interesting and some thrilling.

"I used to like to start out first in the morning," said a Detroit woman. "Once, as I hurried my dogs down the trail in the gray dawn, I saw three stray animals romping on the way. Now, if you catch up with a stray dog on the trail, he is yours; so, my heart fluttering with joy, I began whistling to the half wild creatures.

"At first they paid no attention to me, but kept romping and leap frogging up and down the train. I slowed up my team and put myself in front, the better to make my peace with the renegades.

"When we had come within 100 yards of them, they stopped playing, sat down and stared at us. I whistled again, and they all ran. How foolish I felt when it suddenly dawned on me that I had been trying to harness three wild wolves!"

They Hadn't Met.

A correspondent of the Hartford Courant tells of a news clipping bureau which sent a letter to John Bunyan, author of a work entitled "The Life of Mr. Badman," in care of a publisher, urging Mr. Bunyan to subscribe to the bureau.

"After the decease of the late P. T. Barnum," continues the correspondent, "the 'Greatest Show on Earth' continued for awhile to use the magic of his name. It was coming to Hartford, and it sent free tickets to clergymen here. Among the letters containing said tickets was one addressed to the Rev. Dr. Joel Hawes, who had died some years before. The letter was sent to Dr. George L. Walker, then the active pastor of the First church.

"On reading and pondering it Dr. Walker is credibly reported to have said: 'A letter from P. T. Barnum to Dr. Hawes! Mr. Barnum is dead and Dr. Hawes is dead. It is evident that they have not met yonder.'"

His One Suggestion.

"Furthermore, John Henry Meeker," said Mrs. Meeker, who was standing in front of the mirror and putting the finishing touches to her toilet, "I want you to take notice that I am perfectly capable of getting ready for church without any prompting from you, and you can cough and look at your watch as much as you please—it won't hurry me a single second. Do you clearly understand that?"

"Yes, my dear," mildly replied Mr. Meeker, "though I think I could understand it a little better if you didn't have your mouth quite so full of hairpins."

A Probable Result.

"If people were only compelled to practice what they preach!" sighed the theorist.

"What good would that do?" demanded the practical man.

"It would make the world better, wouldn't it?"

"Oh, I don't know. I'm inclined to think that whatever changes we noticed would be in the preaching rather than in the practice."—Chicago Post.

NEWSY NOTES FROM NORWOOD

BUDGET OF NEWS FROM THE EAST RIDING CAPITAL.

An Exciting Runaway—Getting Ready for the Season at Stony Lake—Presbyterial Missionary Society Meeting.

Norwood, May 31.

The Till Family are giving a rock concert to-night in the palace skating rink.

Mrs McLeary is out of town this week visiting friends at Wingham.

Mr Long has leased the Duffield residence and store on Peterborough-st., and will move his laundry there some time in July.

Mr and Mrs Carman Waters were at Stony Lake last Tuesday, getting their cottage ready for the summer.

Dr and Mrs Ford are in Detroit this week attending the International Association of Railway Surgeons. Dr Ford is C P R surgeon for this district.

The tent caterpillar has not turned up yet this year and it is to be hoped they have bidden us a long farewell.

Farmers are done seeding and planting is being pushed.

Quite a serious and what might have easily proved fatal runaway occurred on Monday morning while people were watching the eclipse, which resulted in Mr Robt Scott's dray team receiving some scratches and distributing some new furniture along the street and nearly killing Billie McMaster, who was on the rig, only saving himself by dragging by the whiffletrees.

The annual meeting of the W F M S, of Peterborough Presbytery, will be held here next week.

What is Dr. Chase's Nerve Food?

In appearance Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is an oval, chocolate coated pill. In this condensed form it contains all of nature's most strengthening and invigorating tonics and restoratives and for this reason it is unapproached as a blood builder and nerve restorative. It cures all diseases caused by thin blood and exhausted nerves and makes pale, weak nervous men, women and children strong and healthy. 50 cents a box.

You Can't Always Drink.

Bye and bye the time will come when you will not only stop drinking, but stop living. Well, you can't avoid this. But, there's no reason why you should hasten this time by the careless use of the notoriously painted and adulterated Teas of Japan, especially when you get for the asking the new rival of Japan Tea, "Salada," Natural Leaf Uncolored Ceylon Green Tea. Same pale color in infusion as Japan, similar in flavor, only more delicious and of double strength, therefore very economical in use. But, better than all, it is Pure and Healthful. To preserve it's good qualities, and ensure you against imposition it is sold in Sealed Lead Packets, name, "Salada," on each. Get it from your grocer, or send direct to us for a two ounce sample packet, free by mail for five cents in stamps. "Salada" Tea Co., Toronto.

anyone could wish to see. They kept the sport up all yesterday afternoon and were the chief inspiration last night.

Gough Bros. gave away souvenir fans last night. There was a great rush for them and about ten o'clock their store was the storm centre.

Before the regimental procession started down last night from the drill shed a prayer of thanksgiving was offered by the Chaplain and, led by the band, the men sang the Doxology and the National Anthem.

The ice cream stores did a big trade last night especially after the excitement began to abate. Some of the hotels also did a thriving trade quenching thirsts.

Many of the stores on George-st were brightly lit up and this with the flags gave it a very pretty appearance.

A great many people spent the holiday yesterday afternoon in the parks. The crowd of picnickers at Jackson park was especially large. The park is looking very beautiful.

Quite a number enjoyed the holiday at the P.A.A.A. grounds, where the baseball boys put up a practice match. A team of which Earle and Craig formed the battery defeated one with McCabe, Parnell and Graham as battery by 14 runs to 12. It was a good workout. The double umpire system was used. Mr. Kenner on bases and Mr. Riley on balls and strikes.

Some damage was done to Metheral's terrace at the corner of George and Murray-sts by the firing off of the cannon last night. The shock put a crack in the foundation. Three windows were broken and some windows were also broken on McDonnel-st.

Every window facing on George-st was occupied last night and every position of advantage was utilized by sightseers. There was an immense crowd congregated around the Y.M.C.A. building.

The Canadian General Electric works was well advertised by the boys from the shop yesterday.

After the parade the Sons of England formed up in line in front of their hall and gave cheers for the Queen and the generals and the band played "God Save the Queen" before dispersing.

The religious element was appropriately blended with the celebration by a union Thanksgiving service in St. John's church, when there were special thanksgivings offered for the victory, appropriate hymns of praise sung and prayers offered for the future direction of affairs. The service was evidently appreciated, being participated in by representative people including Rev. J. G. Potter and Rev. J. E. Moore.

The bugle band and the red coat contingent from the Canadian General Electric works seranaded the Review yesterday afternoon, and gave the office three rousing cheers and a tiger. Thanks, boys, and may we all be able to cheer at the proclamation of peace before many days.

Jim English is an enthusiastic celebrater when patriotism is aroused, and he was bound the boys should have a place in the demonstration. He was right and his boys brigade with torches was great.

A delegation, or more military speaking, a squad from "D" Co., made a hit about 10.30 when they came down George-st headed by a three-piece band and carrying long wooden swords. Everybody who saw them coming said "Here comes Ritchie's dandies," and sure enough it was. They are up to the top notch when there is a celebration on.

The men of the 57th never marched better than they did last night. There was evidence of spirit and a swing that made the regiment look soldierly from front to rear, from the commanding officer to the smallest man in the rearest rear rank.

A noticeable feature of the parade last night was the cheering of the crowds all along the line and especially at several points on the route where it was redoubled. This expression of interest was greatly appreciated by the members of the 57th Batt., and several of the officers have spoken of it as a help and stimulus to the regiment. Great efforts have been made of late to bring our battalion up to a better condition and these efforts will be forwarded by the interest of citizens generally. Peterborough used to be spoken of as lacking in enthusiasm, but there has been a steady improvement noticeable in this direction, helped forward, no doubt, by the war; and we yet may surprise ourselves as well as others in this matter. In the meanwhile don't be afraid to cheer when there is any reason for it.

KAWARTHA BOAT SERVICE.

Excellent Arrangements for Summer Travel by the Trent Valley Navigation Co.

Commencing June 1st, the Trent Valley Navigation Co'y's steamer Esturion will run her double trips between Bobcaygeon and Lindsay, calling at Sturgeon Point, leaving Bobcaygeon at 6.15 and 3.10, and Lindsay at 11.30 and 5.45. On and after the 14th, she will await the arrival of the evening train from Port Hope, which gives the connection with Buffalo via, the G.T. R. main line from Toronto at 3 p.m., and the Rochester connection via, the North King. Every Saturday night she will await the arrival of the train leaving Toronto at 5.

On the 14th the Company will place their two new boats on their regular runs, and for the first time in the history of our Lakes a service comfortable and reliable will be given from Coboconk to Lakefield. The names selected for the new boats are O-ge-mah and Ma-ni-ta, both admirable selections, being distinctive, correctly suggestive, and legendarily connected with local associations. A young Iroquois chief named Ogemah, so the legend goes, wooed the only daughter of a Huron chief. Her name was Manita, and when the Iroquois brave visited the camp of his love at Sturgeon Point, he was treacherously slain by a rival member of the maiden's tribe. This legend was beautifully woven into a poem by the distinguished author, Mr. Wm. McDonnell, of Lindsay.

The Manita will leave Coboconk every morning at 6.15, and Lindsay at 3.30 calling each way at Rosedale, Fenelon Falls and Sturgeon Point, connecting at the point with the Esturion, in the afternoon, and at Lindsay in the morning.

The Ogemah will leave Bobcaygeon daily at 7.30 and Burleigh Falls at 2, passing through Buckhorn each way. Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays she will go to Chemong in the morning and on her way home return direct from Buckhorn. Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays she will take the direct course to Buckhorn and Burleigh, return via, Chemong, from which point she will leave at 5.30. This will give Peterborough an opportunity of reaching cottages and camps Saturday evening, and getting back Monday. It will also give the round trip from Peterborough via Chemong and Lakefield, and vice versa on alternate days.

At Burleigh Falls connection will be made with the Lakefield boats, and this season the many visitors to our Lakes will be able to cover the whole seventy miles of delightful and varied scenery, in itself an outing refreshing and charming.

When Not to Keep Books.

She decided that the only way to run a house economically was to keep a set of books, so she made all necessary purchases, including a bottle of red ink, and started in.

It was a month later when her husband asked her how she was getting along.

"Splendidly," she replied.

"The system is a success, then?"

"Yes, indeed. Why, I'm $60 ahead already!"

"Sixty dollars!" he exclaimed. "Heavens! You'll be rich before long. Have you started a bank account?"

"No-o, not yet."

"What have you done with the money?"

"Oh, I haven't got the money, you know! That's only what the books show. But just think of being $60 ahead!"

"Um, yes! But I don't exactly see"—

"And all in one month too!"

"Of course. But the money? What has become of that?"

"I don't exactly know," she said doubtfully. "I've been thinking of that, and I think we must have been robbed. What do you think we had better do about it?"

He puffed his pipe in solemn silence for a moment and then suggested:

"We might stop keeping books. That's easier than complaining to the police."

The Lecturer's Blunder.

One of the institutions of New York that are praised by all the public without reserve is the course of free lectures in the public schools. These lectures are given before splendid audiences and, as a rule, by persons of veracity and intelligence. Occasionally, however, in order to get a lecture on a rare subject great risks are run.

Recently a lecture was given by a person who had been on an excursion to the North cape. Among other wonderful things he saw there was the eclipse of the sun. He gasped for breath as he told of the weirdly grand sight. He told of the streamers of fire that blazed from the obscured orb to all quarters of the heavens. But his frenzy carried him too far for a public school audience, for he declared that among the stars made visible in the midst of day he saw the planets circling in their courses. He even called the planets that he saw by name, but he made a fatal mistake. He said he saw Neptune.

This statement called for a round of sarcastic applause that he mistook for commendation, for he smiled in a happy way as it echoed through the halls. Evidently he did not know that Neptune is invisible except with the most powerful telescope.—New York Mail and Express.

Comprehensive.

On a tombstone in an old New England churchyard there is an epitaph which never fails to bring a smile to the face of the reader:

"To the memory of Ann Sophia and Julia Hattie, his two wives, this stone is erected by their grateful widower, James B. Rollins. They made home pleasant."—Woman's Journal.

His Shots.

"Charley, dear," said young Mrs. Torkins, "I want you to be more careful about the use of firearms."

"Why, I haven't"—

"Charley, dear," she proceeded, with sweet severity, "you mustn't try to deceive me. I heard you telling yesterday about how you fell down on a long shot. If you must go in for such things, please get a gun that won't kick."—Washington Star.

Due to Ignorance.

"He thinks he's famous."

"Well, he never was much of a man for acquiring knowledge."

"What has that to do with it?"

"Why, he probably never has consulted the dictionary and learned the difference between fame and notoriety."—Chicago Post.

FRENCH'S WHEREABOUTS REPORTED BY ROBERTS

He is Occupying a Position North of Johannesberg to which he was Sent by Roberts—He had to Fight to Reach it — Colville's Highland Brigade Arrived at Heilborn but Suffered Losses.

"E" Battery, Canadiau Contingent, was in the Night Surprise at Douglas and Lost One Killed and Eight Wounded—Rundle's Loss was 32 Killed and 150 Wounded.

FRENCH DID HIS WORK

London, June 2.—10.30 a.m.—Lord Roberts reports to the Secretary of State for War as follows, "Johannesburg, May 31. 9.40 a.m.—French's report of operations during May 28 and 29 reached me at 3 a.m. to-day. He was opposed throughout his march, but managed to drive off the enemy from the strong positions they successively held with very little loss, and is now holding the place which I directed him to do, north of Johannesburg. Two officers were wounded and two men were killed and 27 wounded.

COLVILLE MET OPPOSITION

London, June 2.—3.02 p.m.—It is officially announced that Gen. Colville has arrived at Heilbron, north-east of Kroonstadt in the Orange River Colony, after meeting with great opposition.

CANADIANS KILLED IN THE DOUGLAS SURPRISE

Ottawa, June 2.—A cable from Major Ogilvie, commanding "E" special service battery, dated Douglas, June 2, was received to day reporting the following as killed and wounded in a night attack on Faber's Farm: Killed, Bombardier W. ROBERTS REPORTS ON COLVILLE

London, June 2.—2.15 p.m.—The War Office has received the following despatch from Roberts: Johannesburg, June 1.—1.25 p.m.—Sir Henry Colville in reporting the arrival of the Highland Brigade at Heilbron, May 30, states that he was opposed more or less the whole way from Venterburg. Eight men were killed and four officers and thirty-two men were wounded. Col. Colville says the Lancashire Battery of Field Artillery did excellent work, Grant's naval guns were most valuable and the troops behaved in a most soldierly manner throughout the trying march. Rundle telegraphs that his casualties were 32 killed and 150 wounded.

St. Luke's Church, Ashburnham.

To-morrow being the festival of Whit Sunday, special services will be held in St. Luke's. The Holy Communion will be celebrated at 8 a.m. and 11 a.m. In the evening the annual flower service will be held, and the choir will render Costa's anthem, "March, March Onward Christian Soldiers."

The Boy's "Friend."

A boy having been taken to task for violation of school rules, the principal, a woman, told him to ask his father to call at the school. Next day the boy appeared with a rather seedy looking man whom he introduced as his father. The head of the school and visitor had a talk, and the latter promised to do all in his power to make the boy see the error of his ways. Some days later the boy was overheard saying to some of his companions: "I played a good joke on Miss Blank. I introduced a bum as me father, and she never caught on."

"Wasn't that man your father?" asked one of the listeners.

"Nope," was the answer. "He was me friend."—Brooklyn Eagle.

SILENCE ABOUT PRETORIA.

No Message of Any Kind From Gen. Lord Roberts.

All Communication With Transvaal Capital Has Been Suspended—Did Pretoria Peace Committee's Plan End in Failure?—Did British Meet Boer Force on Way to Pretoria?—May Yet Be Some Hard Fighting.

London, June 2. — (2.45 a.m.)—Lord Roberts continues silent regarding Pretoria, probably because he cannot wire of his events. Lorenzo Marquez, where all the news from the Boer side is rehandled, cables that communication with Pretoria is now suspended.

Message by Courier.

Some messages by courier have reached Lorenzo Marquez, but none of later date than Wednesday. These assert that the burghers are in a state of panic, and that Pretoria is being controlled by a vigilance committee. Lorenzo Marquez again sends the report that President Kruger has been captured. This news blank gives rise to a sudden suspicion that the citizens' committee at Pretoria may not have been able to carry out their plan for securing the peaceful entry of Lord Roberts and sparing the city the horrors of a siege.

Is There a Boer Force There?

The peace party appeared to be in the ascendant; and, as soon as President Kruger and his Cabinet left Pretoria to organize a new capital, the Citizens' Committee persuaded the commandants of the forts to withdraw some of the troops from the defences, perhaps with the view of keeping order in the town. If messengers were sent to the British, or if the British being two hours' march from Pretoria on Wednesday, entered it then or at any time prior to Friday noon, Lord Roberts would certainly have telegraphed this fact. Hence, it looks as though there was a Boer force between Pretoria and Johannesburg.

These soldiers falling back toward Pretoria, some of them fresh from the fight with Gen. Ian Hamilton, would have brought a new element into the situation, and would probably overrule the Peace Committee, taking the direction of affairs out of their hands. If this has happened, the British may, as The Daily Chronicle says, "see some hard fighting before the British flag flies over Pretoria, for even if the Boers held only three forts, standing close together on the hills south of the town, they would be in a position to stand a siege."

WARREN ATTACKED.

A Thousand Rebels Come Upon His Little Detachment of 700 and Killed Fifteen British.

London, June 2.—The Boers, according to a special despatch from Lorenzo Marquez, have re-entered the northeastern territory of the Free State, and are engaged with the British near Ventersburg and Harrismith.

It is reported from Amsterdam that the best rooms at Net Hassie, one of the principal hotels there, have been engaged for President Kruger's occupancy from June 25.

Gen. Buller is moving slowly against the Boer flanks.

Warren Attacked by Rebels.

Cape Town, May 31.—Gen. Warren, with 700 men, occupied a strong defensive position at Faberspat on May 29. At dawn he found that he was surrounded, and was fiercely attacked by 1000 rebels.

The horses were stampeded, but the British concentrated, and the Boers were repulsed. A small party in a garden continued the fight tenaciously, but evacuated as the charge began, leaving a number of wounded.

The British lost 15 killed, including Col. Spence, and 20 wounded.

ROSSLYN'S DESPATCH CORRECT.

Message From U. S. Consul Hay Looked Upon as Semi-Official.

London, June 2. — In reply to an inquiry, the United States Consul, Mr. Adelbert S. Hay, has cabled to the United States Embassy that Lord Rosslyn was liberated on Wednesday, but was allowed to remain in Pretoria. Lord Cecil Manners, he adds, was also liberated. They were both acting as newspaper correspondents. Although Consul Hay's cable to the United States Ambassador, Mr. Joseph H. Choate, does not mention the conditions prevailing at Pretoria, there is a disposition here to regard it in some measure as a kind of semi-official endorsement of the statements made in Lord Rosslyn's despatch to The Daily Mail of London announcing the [illegible] surrender of Pretoria to the British.

Mania for Operations

Among the Doctors. No Need of the Knife to Cure Piles. A Surer, Cheaper, Easier Way, Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Dread of the surgeon's knife causes multitudes of people to suffer on year after year with piles, when they could be cured without risk, expense, or danger of an operation by using Dr. Chase's Ointment, the only preparation guaranteed to cure any case of itching, bleeding, or protruding piles.

Rev. J. A. Baldwin, Baptist minister, Arkona, Ont., writes:—"For over twenty years I was a great sufferer from itching and protruding piles. I used many remedies and underwent three very painful surgical operations, all without obtaining any permanent benefit. When about to give up in despair I was told to use Dr. Chase's Ointment, and did so, finding relief at once. I used three boxes, and am almost entirely cured. The itching is all gone. I have advised others to use it, believing it would cure them as it has me."

Dr. Chase's Ointment is the only positive and actual cure for every form of piles, 60 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates and Co., Toronto.

WHAT A RECORD TO BE SURE!

Great is the Liberal Government at Ottawa. Its greatness may not be apparent to all who have watched its conduct of public affairs and its unstatesmanlike methods in dealing with great questions that have arisen, but its greatness at once becomes evident to any one who reads the column and a half which the Toronto Globe devoted the other day to giving its record, "the work of the Liberal Government."

In that column and a half there are nearly fifty paragraphs each commencing with "it," meaning the Liberal Government, and each intending to tell of some act of this Liberal Government since it has secured office. It is truly a great record when viewed in cold type, but the writer with the artistic mind that penned the paragraphs in such well-sized sentences must have smiled as truth was discarded in order to give length and appearance to the record. But are the Canadian people so ignorant of public affairs as to be misled by this parade of "its?" Certainly not. The Globe it was that called this administration the strongest that Canada ever seen, and it is evidently on the eve of a campaign about to undertake the task to prove that it is "the greatest that has been."

But reading the record one cannot but consider why details are not given.

When the Globe says "it has stopped the exodus" one wonders why the organ that has profited so highly under Liberal rule does not point out in what way "the exodus" has been stopped. Probably by allowing the Americans to prevent Canadian nurses and others going to the United States by the Alien Labor Law, while "it" allows Canada's alien labor law to remain unenforced and inactive.

Or when the Globe says "it has put a necessary check upon the participation of public officials in election contests" why does it not explain how it is that Grit officials are still active politicians, some of them even leaving their official duties to assist the machine in organized efforts to steal constituencies. The Globe should in fairness show where the "check" is, and where it has withheld the official compaigners from taking their place in the fighting ranks when an election is on.

When the Globe says "it has developed and improved the system of cold storage for Canadian shipments to British markets" why does it not tell the public the manner in which the whole question of a fast Atlantic service and cold storage system has been played with and bungled by incapable or negligent Ministers, who have failed to complete the good work in this direction well-nigh completed by "its" predecessors.

When the Globe says "it has sent out contingents of Canadian troops to fight the battles of the Empire in South Africa" it should add an explanation that the Liberal Premier said this contingent could not be sent, and the Liberal master, Mr. Tarte, said it would not be sent, but, when forced by the Canadian people to do this duty to the Empire, these two leaders of this great "it," explained that the contingents were sent but the men were only enlisted for the British army. Mr. Tarte boasted that he had seen that this was "not to be a precedent." The Globe in justice to the people, should have explained how "it," the Government, sent these contingents, and give the credit to the loyal and patriotic Canadian people who forced the hands of the men who said it couldn't and wouldn't be done.

When the Globe says "it has improved and energized, the Canadian immigration agencies in the United States, in the British Islands and on the continent'" it might have told how one of the energizers on the continent was Mr. Preston, Liberal organizer of "hug the machine" fame, who at a salary of $5,000 made a tour of Europe and performed the wonderful feat of travelling Sweden, Norway, Finland, Russia and dear knows how many more countries and never having to use an interpreter. Although he knew not the languages of these people and he did not employ an interpreter, he yet "energized" and "improved" immigration—probably by sight-seeing or allowing the Swedes and other foreigners to see him. One view would inspire a deep-seated desire to fly to the land of the maple and get a job on the Liberal machine. Or the Globe might have explained what Jury, the labor orator of the party, has accomplished as immigration agent in England in the way of energizing immigration and inducing agriculturalists of England to come to Canada. Mr. Jury when not doing professional stump speaking for the Liberals was a tailor in Toronto, and therefore knew all about agriculture and could present the claims of Canada to the English agricultural immigrant. Or the Globe might have let the public know what Mr. Devlin, a 'kicker" in the ranks in the House, has done for immigration since he resigned his seat and went to Ireland. The improving and energizing the great "it" has done in immigration agencies has consisted in using these agencies as berths at big salaries for party hacks. The Doukobors are the net result of the energizing, and a doubtful result they are, too.

When the Globe says "it has lowered imperial and domestic postal charges" it should relate the blunders that were made by the "I, Wm. Mulock" in his ignorance of steps he was taking and what they entailed.

When the Globe says "it has secured the denunciation of the German and Belgium treaties" it should again recall the blundering of the Finance Minister which marked the bringing about of this denunciation.

When the Globe says "it has successfully imposed and collected gold royalties in the Yukon, etc.," it might in fairness have added that the grossest mismanagement marked the administration of Yukon affairs, that almost every letter from the Yukon told of the scandalous condition of affairs that was allowed to continue under Mr. Sifton's officials, and that when charges of the gravest character were made in Parliament against the administration of the Yukon this great Liberal Government took refuge behind its obedient majority and refused to allow any investigation. The Yukon royalities and the Yukon administration is not only a blot on Canadian government and British rule, but its disgrace alone gives full justification for any fair-minded man voting to turn out the men who allowed it and refused to give an investigation that would have done something towards vindicating the good name of Canada by the punishment of the guilty ones and the remedying of the evils.

When the Globe says "it sought to establish an all-Canadian route to the Yukon" it should do the Senate justice and explain that when the Government's deal was killed in the Upper Chamber the people were saved several million dollars, and the Yukon did not suffer. The railroad was built and Canada did not give Mackenzie and Mann half of the gold country. The subsequent facts proved how badly the Government erred and how wisely the Senate acted in this matter. But the Globe claims credit for the deal.

Then when the Globe mentions the Crow's Nest railway it reaches the climax and stops. And well it might, for the people do not forget the rich coal lands that were dealt out to Government friends, who were given the people's property without a shadow of excuse. Of course the Globe said nothing for some of its directors were interested.

Such are some of the claims that the Toronto organ sets up as "the work of the Liberal Government" and the shameless manner in which it is done. But the people are intelligent, and are not misled, and the Globe's artistic column and a half will only give rise to thought which must result in the condemnation of the men whose deeds are thus untruthfully recited. Better not recite the record when it is one such as the Globe produces.

What "it," the Government, has done will be more interesting than what it has done, and will be given again.

"The Thorn Comes Forth With Point Forward."

The thorn point of disease is an ache or pain. But the blood is the feeder of the whole body. Purify it with Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Kidneys, liver and stomach will at once respond? No thorn in this point.

Severe Pains—"I had severe pains in my stomach, a form of neuralgia. My mother urged me to take Hood's Sarsaparilla and it made me well and strong. I have also given it to my baby with satisfactory results. I am glad to recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla to others." MRS. JOHN LA PAGE, 340 Church St., Toronto, Ont.

Complete Exhaustion—"After treatment in hospital, I was weak, hardly able to walk. My blood was thin. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla until well and gained 20 lbs. It also benefited my wife." ARTHUR MILLS, Dresden, Ont.

Hood's Pills cure liver ills; the non-irritating and only cathartic to take with Hood's Sarsaparilla.

HONEST WORK BRINGS HAPPINESS.

But Overwork Takes All the Joy Out of Life.

If the Stomach is Overworked it also becomes Unhappy—It Sends Grumbling Telegrams by the Nerves all over the Body—These if translated would read, "Send a Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablet with each meal."

No honest right-thinking man objects to work. There is a joy in working and in the result of work that amply repays a man for the trouble and pains he puts into it.

But overwork is a different thing. Overwork kills. It takes away all chance for proper rest and recreation, and rest is necessary for the proper performance of work.

As this is recognized and understood in the cases of the man as a man. But does that part of the man that keeps him alive—the stomach—get a fair share of rest.

The stomach works on when he is sleeping. The stomach works when his mind is playing.

When we consider how much unnecessary work we give it besides, in the shape of unwholesome and harmful kinds of foods, is it any wonder it suffers?

Dyspepsia is caused by an overworked stomach. The juices that digest the food run dry. There is either too great a bulk to digest or the materials of which the food is composed are too difficult of digestion.

Thus both the wealthy man who has on the table everything money can buy and the poor day laborer who has to subsist on cheap, unwholesome food, are alike victims of Dyspepsia.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets take charge of the work of digestion and give the stomach a much needed rest. Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets cure Indigestion, Sour Stomach, Catarrh of the Stomach, Billious Headaches, and all other Stomach complaints.

SCHEME FOR THE BOERS.

It Is Proposed to Bring the Defeated Burghers to Colorado by Free Passage as Settlers.

Chicago, June 2. — A special to The Tribune from Denver says: Governor Thomas has given his endorsement to a gigantic proposition, having for its object the bringing of the defeated Boers to the valley of the Platte, in Colorado.

The Union Pacific Land Company proposes to give a million acres of land, to be taken up under the Carey Land Act, on the Julesburg and Wyoming divisions. There is to be no charge for the gift, and the company will undertake to transport the Boers to Colorado, being repaid on the instalment plan after the communities are established and prosperous.

E. C. Wantland, agent of the Union Pacific Land Co., left for the east last night, where he will meet the Boer envoys and explain in detail the proposition.

DELUGE AT AMHERSTBURG.

People Driven From Home by a Cloudburst—Houses Floating.

Windsor, June 2. — Many families in Amherstburg to-day are living in the upper parts of their homes as a result of the cloud burst that visited the town and vicinity Thursday afternoon. The ground floor of many houses is under two feet of water, and the homes of Frank Pymeau and Teamster Deice are floating around like ships in distress. Bridges and walks all over the town were swept away, and new stone pavements in course of construction, were converted into mortar. Chickens and other small live stock were drowned. Mayor Floray, who was in Windsor yesterday morning, says that about noon three sort of funnel-shaped clouds were observed approaching the town in opposite directions. At 1 o'clock they came together, and then the deluge began. The storm abated at 8 o'clock. There was no lightning and very little thunder. The loss will be heavy.

The divorce evil seems to grow with every year. 7,500 divorces were granted in the State of Ohio last year. We agree that there are faults on both sides, but the great problem is: Are these faults remediable? To a great extent there is no doubt the conditions which result in divorce may be remedied. Given a dyspeptic husband and a wife suffering from female trouble and we have the ready made elements of a divorce case. In view of the facts there can be very little doubt that many women look forward to divorce only because they seek relief from obligations they do not feel fitted to fulfill. Women are not to blame. They have looked forward to their home life as a dream of paradise. Then disease comes like a serpent and destroys all happiness.

Women who suffer with debilitating drains, inflammation, ulceration, female trouble and bearing down pains, will find certain relief and cure in Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It so invigorates the organs peculiarly feminine and regulates their functions that they are established in a perfectly healthy condition. The old brightness of heart comes back; there's light in the eyes and a smile on the lips. The old irritation and nervousness are gone, and the husband comes to his home as to a haven of rest and comfort.

TIN-POT COLONELS CRITICIZED

House Seems to Favor the Earning of Military Titles.

Government Is Trying to Take Power to Make Such Appointments—Hot Half Hour for Mr. Fisher—Sir Charles Tupper Shows Up Fallacy of His Copyright Bill—The Question Is a Constitutional One.

Ottawa, June 2. — For half an hour yesterday afternoon the copyright bill of Mr. Fisher's was discussed in the House.

Sir Charles Tupper and Sir Hibbert wanted to have expert testimony on the matter to see how the bill affected the constitutional question, whether Canada had free power to legislate concerning copyright or not. The bill of Lord Monkswell, before the Imperial House, presumed to legislate for the whole Empire.

Mr. Fisher replied that he hoped the constitutional question would not be raised in the bill. The bill proposed a simple amendment to the present act and would not touch the general question.

Sir Wilfrid agreed to send the bill to committee for general discussion.

Hon. Lieut.-Colonels.

Dr. Borden, in presenting his bill for a second reading in committee, said that the bill provided for the abolition of the title, D.A.G., and for substitution of the title, D.O.C. The two chief clauses are as follows:

1. Officers holding commissions as lieutenant-colonels in the militia may be transferred to the retired list with honorary rank, not exceeding that of colonel, and officers now on the retired list, holding commissions as lieutenant-colonels, may be promoted to the rank of colonel, under regulations approved by the Governor-in-Council.

Officers from the retired list may be reappointed to the active list or such other list as is from time to time authorized, but no officer so re-appointed shall be compelled to serve in a lower rank than that with which he retired.

(2) In time of peace no person, except the officer commanding the militia, shall hold higher rank in the militia than that of colonel, but Her Majesty may, whenever the militia is called out for active service in the field, appoint therein other officers of rank superior to that of colonel, but not higher than that of major-general.

To Appoint Civilians.

Dr. Borden said the Government should be able to appoint civilians honorary colonels of regiments. The power would be limited to honorary colonels. The cause of the discussion was whether the appointment of civilians was in the best interests of the militia or not. The Government argued that because honorary positions had been awarded to Governor-General and the Prince of Wales, therefore they could be given to civilians of lower estate. But it was pointed out that the clauses quoted did not give that power, but gave power to appoint only militia officers to honorary positions.

Mr. D. C. Fraser, Guysboro, said he could see no sense in calling a man a colonel who did not know the goose step. He objected to literary colonels. His love was fighting colonels.

Sir Charles Tupper remarked that he hoped Mr. Fraser's attack did not refer to the Prime Minister, for he had drilling abilities, as was shown by his success in keeping the discordant, quarreling elements of his party together.

As a retort Mr. Fraser referred to the Birmingham episode.

Mr. Osler agreed with Mr. Fraser. There was no more use for making a civilian a colonel than in making Hon. John Charlton a reverend. The system would degrade the militia, and enable the Ministry to appoint colonels for political services. It was a serious matter at this time when so many Canadians were winning laurels in the South African war. A military title should be given for military service, but this bill aimed to create tin-pot titles and to introduce aristocratic notions foreign to a democratic country. He stood on the principle that a man should not be appointed to an office that he had not earned.

Other members engaged in the discussion, and, by consent, the bill went through committee and was reported.

Notice was given, however, by the Opposition to that in the third reading the six months' hoist would be agitated.

After recess the act to incorporate the Canada National Railway and Transport Company came up for a second reading.

Mr. Clarke moved an amendment, giving the Crown power to take over the undertaking on one month's notice.

The amendment was voted down and the bill read a second time. The whole matter will be discussed on the third reading.

Bank and Copyright Acts.

The Bank Act and the Copyright Act were moved up a stage.

The Copyright Act will be referred to a special committee composed of Sir Hibbert Tupper, R. L. Borden, Q.C., Hon. Charles Fitzpatrick, Dr. Russell and Hon. S. Fisher, with power to send for papers and persons.

To Remove Clerk Reilly.

When the House went into supply, Sir Hibbert gave notice that he proposed that the salary of Clerk Reilly in the Interior Department be withdrawn, because in the memorandum presented by Reilly last year in regard to the Yukon census, he had deceived both Parliament and the Minister, and was not fit for the service. The returns of this year would show this.

The discussion of the Interior estimates continued till 2 o'clock, when the House adjourned.

THE RELIEF OF COOMASSIE.

Believed That the Relief Party Entered the City on May 26.

London, June 2. — The Colonial Office has received a despatch from Cape Coast Castle, dated May 31, saying it is believed there that Captain Hall, with a relief party, entered Coomassie May 26. The Governor Sir Frederick Mitchell Hodgson, with the sick, wounded and refugees, was expected to arrive at Fumsu May 30.

Troops, it is added, have been concentrated at Fumsu to overcome any possible resistance by the rebels, who are reported to be to the north.

If the report of the relief of Coomassie is correct, it greatly improves the military situation.

BLUE JACKETS NOW AT PEKIN.

The Arrival of the Foreign Troops Improves the Situation.

Shanghai, June 2. — The detachment of over 300 international blue jackets has arrived at Pekin.

The Situation Improved.

Washington, June 2. — Minister Conger at Pekin reports to the State Department yesterday that the arrival of 350 guards for the legations of Russia, France, Great Britain, Italy, Japan and the United States has had the effect of improving the situation. He says that Pekin is much quieter, but that the "Boxers" are still active in the surrounding country.

He Had Too Many Names.

About two years before Mr. Sawyer retired from the senate his mail one morning contained a touching letter from a man in Maryland whose home had just been brightened by the arrival of a bouncing boy. The fond parent went on to tell that the boy would be named Philetus Sawyer Jones and expressed the hope that the child would grow up an honor to the name and the possessor of the fine traits of character that distinguished the generous hearted man whose name would be borne by himself.

Senator Sawyer went to the senate chamber with a warm glow in his heart and the determination to send that fond parent a nice big check. He felt so good that he showed the letter to Senator Allison. The Iowa man chuckled as he read it and produced a letter almost identical, except that the young prodigy was to be named William Allison Jones.

It was too good to keep, and they told the story to Senator Edmunds of Vermont. That stately old gentleman melted sufficiently to smilingly produce a letter of similar purport. Then there ensued a comparison of senatorial notes, showing that the youthful Marylander had been fairly loaded with distinguished names from Justin Morrill Jones to Don Cameron Jones. That Maryland infant received no birthday present.—Milwaukee Wisconsin.

Confessing.

When the matron called upon the bride of three months, she discovered her in tears.

"Why, my dear, what is the matter?" she cried.

"I want to die! I want to die!" sobbed the bride.

"There, dear, there! What is the matter?"

"It's—it's Harry!" sobbed the girl wildly.

"Has he been abusing you?"

"No-o-o, but—oh, dear, what shall I do?"

"What on earth is the matter, dear?"

"He—he—oh, I can't tell you!"

"You must. Has he been staying out late nights?"

"No-o-o!"

"Has he been drinking?"

"No-o-o!"

"Then what is the matter?"

"He—he doesn't love me any more!"

The matron drew the sobbing girl to her side.

"Now tell me all, dear," she whispered.

"When—when he c-came home last night, he didn't k-k-kiss me!" she sobbed.

"My dear," said the matron, "you'll get over that. When my husband came home last night, he did kiss me, and I have been wondering ever since what he has been up to."—Detroit Free Press.

The Irony of Fate.

Speaking of the queer flukes of luck in the goldfields of Alaska, a writer in Ainslee's Magazine says:

"Often after the 'pile' is made accident, disease or death steps in to prevent its legitimate enjoyment.

"One man dropped dead when at the weighing of the first clean up he found himself a rich man. There was something wrong with his heart. He had the physical strength to make the fight against bad food and water, to endure the back breaking toil of developing and working out and all the strain of the uncertainty that went before. The supreme moment of success was more than he could stand, and the use of the gold passed from him with its acquirement.

"A certain James Meade lay down with typhoid fever in an outlying camp just as he was starting for home with the accumulations of the year, and he and his bag of dust entered Dawson together on a litter. It took six men to bring him in—alternating four to carry and two to rest—and he paid each man $15 a day. Once in Dawson Meade seemed to grow better, and when his sailing day came he walked to the boat. He reached the wharf and fell dead as he was about to go aboard."

Sarcasm From the Pulpit.

"Bruddren and sistahs," sternly said good old Parson Woolimon after the collection had been taken up upon a recent Sabbath morning, "before the hat was done parsed I expounded the request dat de congregation contribute accawdin to deir means, and I sho expectorated dat yo' all would chip in magnanimously. But now, upon examinin de collection, I finds that de concocted amount contributed by de whole posse ob yo' am only the significant and pusillanimous sum of sixty-free cents. And at dis junction dar ain't no 'casion for yo' all to look at Brudder Slewfoot, what done circumambulated de hat around, in no such auspicious manner, for, in de fust place, Brudder Slewfoot ain't dat kind of a man, and, in the second place, I done watched him like a hawk all de time muhself. No, sixty-free cents was all dat was flung in, and I dess wants to say dat, in my humble opinion, instead ob contributin accawdin to yo' means, yo' all contributed accawdin to yo' meanness. De choir will now favor us wid deir reg'lar melodiousness." —Harper's Bazar.

KEENE REJOICED

There Was an Enthusiastic Celebration at Keene.

May 31st, 1900, will long be remembered in the village of Keene. In the afternoon the school children took a half holiday, formed a procession with a picture of Lord "Bobs" and flags at the head, then an effigy of Kruger. They marched through all the streets, ringing bells and making a great din. About 9 p.m. an immense crowd came in from all over and a larger procession was formed. One of the torches got too close to Kruger, when near the main corner, when he was at once strung up to a telegraph pole where, amid fire works, principally cannon crackers, rockets and Roman candles, all saw the last of him. Nearly everyone had a flag up and Mr. S. English had three lights in each window, making a grand illumination. A very large number got together on the corner and sang patriotic songs during the show. The celebration was continued most of the night. Nearly all of Allandale was out. A very fine display of fire works was seen in the school grounds before the procession. We are the people.

"You are in the last stages of Consumption and cannot live more than a month," were the words of doom heard by Mrs. Rosa Richardson, of Laurel Springs, N.C., from her doctors, "but she began to use Dr. King's New Discovery" writes R. St. Helena.

St. Helena is a great place for caves and hills. Both abound, particularly the latter. Geologically speaking, the island is largely, if not wholly, volcanic, and a lot of extinct craters are apparent. Some of the pinnacles have queer names, such as Lot's Wife, the Man and the Horse, the Asses' Ears, Holdfast Tom, Old Joan Point, Stone Top, etc.

The only inhabited place is Jamestown, which has a population of about 2,500. It lies in a deep valley surrounded by very high hills. It is not a particularly healthy place. Ladder hill is where the government house is situated. It is so called because of the almost precipitous ladderlike wooden stairs, by which its acclivity of 600 feet has to be scaled.

Nearly four miles inland from Jamestown is an isolated farmhouse, on an elevated plateau about 2,000 feet above the sea. This is Longwood, where Napoleon lived from 1815 until he died there, in 1821. The house is a long, low, whitewashed, fairly trim building, with extensive outhouses, some rather fine old trees and a good bit of decent farm land.

Black Coats.

An English clergyman, rather pompous of manner, according to Spare Moments, was fond of chatting with a witty chimney sweep.

Once, when the minister returned from his summer holidays, he happened to meet his youthful acquaintance, who seemed to have been at work.

"Where have you been?" asked the clergyman.

"Sweeping the chimneys at the vicarage," was the boy's answer.

"How many chimneys are there, and how much do you get for each?" was the next question.

The sweep said there were 20 chimneys and that he was paid a shilling apiece.

The clergyman, after thinking a moment, looked at the sweep in apparent astonishment. "You have earned a great deal of money in a little time," he remarked solemnly, wondering, probably, what the sooty fellow would reply.

"Yes," said the sweep, throwing his bag over his shoulder as he started away. "We who wear black coats get our money very easily!"

THE CHILDREN AT ST. JOHN'S

AN ENJOYABLE EVENING FOR THE BOYS AND GIRLS.

A Big Gathering of the Children in the New Sunday School—Address by Mr. R. M. Dennistoun—A Patriotic Programme.

What proved to be a very enjoyable entertainment was tendered to the members of St. John's Sunday school and Bible classes last evening by the teachers of the congregation. It was felt that the Sunday school scholars had had little part in the ceremonies of opening the new building and at the same time the congregation desired to encourage the Sunday school with the result that last night in spite of the rain the new school house was well filled with a large and merry company of eager boys and girls.

The superintendent of the school, Mr. W. H. Walkey, was unavoidably absent and Rev. J. C. Davidson acted as chairman, explaining that the scholars had come together to have a good time and no great restraint would be placed upon them.

However, in spite of the jollification and outbursts of patriotism excellent order was easily maintained throughout.

The evening was opened by the whole company singing the National Anthem, after which Soldiers of the Queen was clamored for and sung with great gusto, the scholars showing the training which had been given in the public schools.

The informal programme was contributed to by Mrs. Seward, Miss English and several of the pupils including D. Parker and A. Seward, Geraldine King, Katie Graham, Sarah and Lizzie Hillier and their little sister. The selections given by these were loudly encored.

After the singing of the Maple Leaf the address of the evening was given by Mr. R. M. Dennistoun, conductor of the Young Men's Bible Class. In graphic language he described the rise of the new Sunday school building, which had originated in the generous gift years ago of $500 by the late Mrs. Nicholls. Mr. Dennistoun spoke of the gratitude with which Mrs. Nicholls' name should be remembered by all the boys and girls as well as other citizens of Peterborough. This money had accumulated in the bank and for several years large offerings had been made at Easter for the purpose, together with contributions by the boys and girls themselves, with the result that the building was now equipped for its useful work. As grateful and loyal young members of the Church they should now see that it was used to the best advantage and help forward the work done there. Mr. Dennistoun went on to say that they should not only grow up loyal members of the Church but also loyal citizens of their country, for which the boys should be at any time ready to fight when called upon. To this end he recommended a three years course in the 57th. After speaking further of the great heritage and privileges which were theirs as belonging to the Church and the Empire, Mr. Dennistoun concluded amidst reiterated applause.

The scholars then went down stairs to the commodious basement where long tables were spread with plates of cake and ice cream for each, which were greatly enjoyed.

About 9.30 the proceedings came to an enthusiastic termination by the singing of the National Anthem and an appropriate hymn, a short prayer also being offered.

VAGRANTS COMMITTED

A Trio of Professional Beggars From Toronto Get Into Trouble.

Three vags were before the Magistrate this morning, having been arrested last night about 12 o'clock because they kicked up something of a row near the Oxford house. The first one had a name which many puns were worked off. He was Wm. Collar. He had been begging around town, stating that he needed the money to have an operation performed on his eyes but this morning he acknowledged that he could see all right and he was sent to the Central Prison for six months. He had worked his game on the Magistrate but, being an absent minded beggar, did not remember having seen him before.

Andy Ralph, a former Peterborough man, was given a month in gaol with notice to quit the neighborhood when his time has expired.

Jos. Cross, the third of the trio, was ordered to leave town.

The man who on Thursday night would persist in firing rockets into a window, was allowed to go on payment of court fees.

STONY LAKE FIRE

Mr. Yelland's Cottage Burned but the Others on the Island Safe.

As reported yesterday Mr. Jos. H. Yelland's cottage at Stony Lake was destroyed by fire Thursday night with all its contents. There was some insurance on the property. The other cottages on the island, belonging to Messrs. McCallum, McWhinnie and Brownscombe, are safe. The owners went up yesterday and found the fire still burning. They learned that it was first seen by some river men about 11 o'clock on Thursday night. On Friday morning Capt. Scollard, of the Majestic, on his up-trip saw it and stopped his boat and did what he could to prevent it spreading, leaving a man in charge. He then telephoned from Burleigh. The party from town on arriving yesterday found that the fire had spread to within 30 feet of Mr. McCallum's cottage. They kept it from approaching closer and the rain last night extinguished it. The origin is unknown.

A PIPE OF PEACE.

Presentation to Mr. Jas. English by the 57th Regimental Band.

There was a pleasing little event at the band hall last evening, when the members of the 57th regimental band presented Mr. Jim English with a handsome meerschaum pipe. Mr. English has been for years a stalwart supporter of the band and has taken a great interest in its progress and development and his many little services have been greatly appreciated by the members of the band. As a mark of their esteem they piped to a new tune last night. Mr. Jos. Crowe made the presentation on behalf of the band with a few complimentary words and good wishes, which were heartily endorsed by the members. Mr. English was entirely unprepared for the demonstration but succeeded in finding some words to express his great and sincere pleasure and his delight that the band is flourishing.

OUR SOLDIER BOYS ARE A CREDIT TO US

THE 57TH IS ON SPLENDID FOOTING AND THE RANKS SHOULD FILL UP AT ONCE

Inspection is Definitely Fixed for the First Week in July so That Drill Will Not be Extended Over Many Months.

Peterborough has a city regiment in the 57th of which the citizens can well be proud. Its appearance on several occasions recently has been most creditable. The officers are qualified and energetic in promoting the interests of the corps and spare neither time or means to achieve the end in view—the maintenance of an efficient corps that will give military instruction and experience to the young men of the town. The importance of such instruction and experience cannot be overestimated for Canada depends for defence on her citizens soldiers, and that these soldiers are of the right stamp and are equal to all the demands of war-time has been shown by what the Canadians have done in South Africa. These men were equipped in the city battalions or regiments throughout Canada, and the 57th sent its quota.

Every young man should take a patriotic stand in regard to this and serve a short term in the volunteers. At present the 57th has in its ranks a hundred and fifty or more bright, active, intelligent young men, filled, like the officers, with the proper spirit, and bound to make the corps a credit to the town. This is as it should be, and with national enthusiasm at high tide, there will be no difficulty in filling the ranks to the required strength. There is room for some few more recruits and applications should be made at once by any young men who desire to do their duty in this respect.

The annual inspection this year is fixed for July 5th, 6th and 7th, so that there will be no fall drill. There is only the month of June in which to prepare for inspection, and as it is desired to have a crack corps up to full strength in the field this year intending recruits should apply at once. The time for drill is short, and the good results are many. Young men cannot do better than identify themselves with the regiment. The regiment was never on a better footing, and never was there a better time for a young man to give a little attention to drill. It is urged in the Old Country at the present time, and can be just as strongly urged here.

Join while there is an opening.

—Mr. W. J. Wiseman's saw mill, at Havelock, together with a lot of logs and lumber were burned to the ground on Tuesday night. LETTERS FROM SOUTH AFRICA

TROOPER HALL TELLS OF THE ARRIVAL OF PARCELS SENT BY PETERBOROUGH LADIES'

They Were Greatly Appreciated—Lord Roberts Inspected the Mounted Rifles at Fisher's Farm—The Canadians Are Called the Finest at the Front.

Mrs. Adam J. Hall has received the following letters from her husband who is one of the Peterborough boys with the Canadian Mounted Rifles. The letters are interesting as they tell of the place the Canadian troops have won for themselves and also of the arrival of the parcels sent out by the Peterborough ladies :—

FINEST IN SOUTH AFRICA.

Bloemfontein,
Camp three miles south,
April 20th, 1900.

I am further up the country now than I was when I last wrote you. We are now in camp on a ridge about three miles from the city named. From the top of ridge we can see plainly the great city, It is not near the size of Peterborough and Ashburnham, but a very pretty place. Trees, shrubs and flowers, with long avenues and shady lawns and vine covered houses, much the same as Cape Town. We made our march of 115 miles here without a single hitch. We left Springfontein on Monday, 16th, about 2 o'clock. So far we had good food. The C.M. Rifles, who get the name of being the finest body of men in S.A., are the whole thing. The Boers have a worse dread of us than of any of the troops out here. The Gordon Highlanders and a number of other crack regiments from England are very, very jealous of our boys since the first scrap the Canadians were in. A Highlander told me that the Canadians could go through anything, lead all the other troops up places where no one would ever dream of troops going.

Tuesday afternoon.

Things are awfully busy now. We have orders to move at once. We just got in here on Sunday evening, and were told we would be here one week at least, and now we are ordered to go again. Never a minute to yourself. We are to leave about 5 or 6 o'clock and march all night. Well, that is far better than in day time because the nights are so cool that an overcoat feels very comfortable.

PARCELS RECEIVED.

Fisher's Farm,
8 miles north-east Bloemfontein,
April 26th, 1900.

Wrote you a few days ago. I did not get an opportunity to post it, as I can do so today I will try and tell you some more. Well, we boys of Peterborough got our parcels from the ladies the evening we left Bloemfontein. They are just fine too, and we all appreciate them very much, as every thing is so useful. They could not have made a better choice, just the thing we wanted—cocoa, chocolate, lime juice capsules, beef tea tablets, all came in fine after a long day's march.

Well, yesterday we had quite an experience. At 2.30 we were lined up and formed on a commons north of camp and in a few minutes in rode Lt.-General Hutton, who is in command of the colonial brigade, that is a brigade composed of the mounted colonial troops. About 4 o'clock we got our surprise of the day. The troops were called to attention and at a distance a small party of English horse was to be seen coming at an easy gallop. As they drew up near us we all recognized that venerable old hero, Lord Roberts. He inspected the troops, which were composed of "A" Squadron and machine guns only, then after the march-past he addressed the troops and rode away. He is a fine man, very determined, sharp looking old fellow. Our camp is on Fisher's farm, a very pretty place. The mansion is only about 500 yards from here and is very fine. Fisher was Secretary of Orange Free State. There is very little news from the front here. In fact no news at all. You know far more about the war than we do. Remember me to all friends.

ELECTRIC LINE PROJECT

Idea of a Line From Brighton to Havelock for Freight and Passengers.

Havelock Standard :—Mr. D. Carlaw, of Warkworth, was in town on Wednesday and informed a representative of the Standard that there is almost a sure prospect of connecting Havelock with an electric road. A gentleman, president of one of the American electric railways, has been corresponding with him for some time on the project and the matter is being rapidly pushed through. The route recommended is from Havelock to Brighton via, Trent Bridge, Healy's Falls, Campbellford, Warkworth, Castleton and Colborne to Brighton. The gentleman referred to proposes to interest capitalists in the scheme, organize a company and establish the line for passenger, freight and mail traffic. They also purpose erecting a mammoth summer resort at Healy's Falls, at which point they will obtain their power to operate the road. Mr. Carlaw is pushing the scheme very earnestly and is now ascertaining what bonus the various municipalities will give towards it.

St. John's To-morrow.

To-morrow being the great festival of Whit Sunday, the festival order of services will be observed in St. John's. The Holy Communion will be celebrated at 8 a.m. instead of 8.30. The 11 o'clock service will be shortened and will be followed at 12.15 by a second celebration of the Holy Communion without music. Special offertory for North-west Missions. Evening service as usual. The Rev. Geo. Warren, B.A., of Lakefield, will officiate at all services and preach. A hearty invitation is respectfully offered to all.

Paris Is France.

Paris has always been France. All the great movements of the country have been centered here, whether political, religious, social, literary or artistic. So that any attempt to trace the history of the city launches one immediately into the study of the nation, while an effort to master the history of the French people sends one to Paris. One realizes this particularly when he comes to study the lives of her great men and women. They may have been born in the south or east or north or west, but to rise to the first rank they were obliged to seek the capital. It was there they sought instruction, formed relations, began their careers, played their parts.—Scribner's.

He tried Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure, and the effect was magical. Bridge Builders' Fright.

Bridge building is a perilous business, and no insurance company will take any risk on the lives of superstructure workers. There is one horrible sensation known to superstructure workers. It is something like stage fright.

"I know once," said one of them, "when I wasn't up more than 140 feet, a sudden feeling came over me that I couldn't get down. I looked down, and there was a swift tide swirling around the edges of the piers. It seemed to me I should surely be killed. I clasped both arms around the beam on which I was working and lay there, just clinging to it, for 20 minutes. Luckily for me, the foreman, who was near me, saw what was the matter and had sense enough not to speak to me. If he had, I know I should certainly have fallen off. He kept on working, and I clung helplessly to the beam. Finally, in a gruff voice, he growled at me: 'Say, git out o' there! I want to put a rivet there.' And I, obedient to an instinct of duty, found myself moving along. The feeling passed away as I did move and didn't come back."

"When I was in Peru building bridges," said an engineer, "I did not lose my head at work, but I more than once woke up during the night hanging to the sides of the bed in desperation of fear to keep from falling in a nightmare."—Boston Herald.

All Fools' Day.

The custom of playing pranks on April fools' day probably had its origin in France, the first nation to begin the new year Jan. 1 instead of March 25. Before the change April 1 was the day when the merrymaking of the New Year's celebration culminated in the paying of gifts and visits in return for those already bestowed. When the reformed calendar in 1564 made the 1st of January the beginning of the new year, April 1 was the time for pretended gifts and visits of mock ceremony to make fools of those who had forgotten the change in dates.

The Romans had a holiday similar in character to this, although not coming at the same time of year, the saturnalia, and in Hindustan the feast of the Huli, on March 31, has for its chief diversion the sending of people on fruitless errands.

In Scotland they have a trick for April fools' day which never grows stale. If a fellow can be found simple enough to undertake it, he is given a note to carry to a certain person. He reads it and says it is not for him, but that he is to go to—naming another man—and from there he is sent to another and so on until the bearer grows tired or sees a light. The note contains the lines:

This is the first of Aprile;
Hunt the gowk another mile.

Egg Superstitions.

There are many superstitions about the egg. In Scotland and Ireland children are taught by their nurses to crush the shell after eating an egg or to push the spoon through the bottom in the form of a cross, showing a lingering relic of the once general superstitious belief that witches lived in eggshells and made boats of them, casting spells upon the household.

In Italy it was believed that an egg laid by a white hen in a new nest on Easter day would cure pains in the head or stomach; that broken in a vineyard it would prevent its suffering from hail or similarly would save a field from frost, and its possession gave one the power to see witches. It was also believed that an egg laid on Good Friday, thrown on the fire, would extinguish it, while the devil would be killed if shot with an egg laid on Christmas.—Self Culture Magazine.

Mail Shirt of a Dervish Warrior.

The shirt is made of rings, every ring from a piece of steel wire 1¼ inches long and about one-sixteenth of an inch thick. The ends of the piece of wire are flattened out, holes are punched through them, one end is turned on to the other, and they are fastened together by a small rivet. Every ring connects four others. The wire differs somewhat in thickness, not by design seemingly so as to make one part of the shirt stronger than another, but from material of uniform thickness running short. In parts where the rings are free to jingle together they are worn very thin. Round the neck is a band of three thicknesses of red leather, stiff like the stock worn formerly in our army. It is 2¾ inches high and on the outside is decorated with ornamental lines like toolings made by a bookbinder.—Notes and Queries.

Flowery Phrases.

Professor Walter Raleigh, who has published a rather clever book on "Style," likes making phrases. "The poetry of Catullus," he said in a college address, the other day, "has survived the passing of a religion and an empire; the diary of Mr. Samuel Pepys will be as fresh as at the day of its birth, when the Forth bridge is oxide of iron and London is a geological pancake of brick dust."

Heartless.

"Did that man ever write anything that attracted attention?"

"Oh, yes," answered Miss Cayenne. "I know some people who have offices near him. He composes on a typewriter, and it is one of the noisiest machines ever constructed. Anything he writes attracts the attention of the entire building."

The first skates were made out of the bones of animals. Sometimes children would sit on the jawbone of a horse or cow and propel themselves along the ice by means of iron staves.

There is no fun in playing cards for fun, and it is dangerous to bet.—Atchison Globe.

How They Eat.

The editor of Life and Beauty, a British organ on hygiene and diet, succeeded in eliciting from a few popular writers replies on the subject of diet which they find most conducive to good work.

Hall Caine wrote: "I am afraid I have no theories on the subject of diet. If I knew anything that would be worth telling, I would avail myself of its advantages, being a constant martyr to all the troubles that attend diet."

Mr. Zangwill's answer was brief and epigrammatic, "Unfortunately I have never eaten to work, but always worked to eat."

"John Oliver Hobbes" confessed that she "tried vegetarianism for two years, but now finds that, on the whole, the ordinary diet of the country is the best."

Mme. Sarah Grand said she never drank milk. "I never forget the horrible cow," she added in explanation.

Marie Corelli answered characteristically with a quotation from "Hamlet:" "I eat the air, promise crammed. You cannot feed capons so."

Took It Away From the Jury.

There are any number of stories to be printed about Judge Caldwell, but here is one that is said to be typical: He was hearing an argument whereby an attorney for an insurance company was attempting to evade payment of insurance on a purely technical ground. Judge Caldwell interrupted him. "Let me understand you, Brother Todd," he said to the attorney. "The policy was issued?"

"Yes," was the reply.

"And the premiums were paid?"

"Yes."

"And it was not set on fire?"

"No."

"Brother Todd," said Judge Caldwell, "you can sit down. The jury will return a verdict for the plaintiff."—Indianapolis Sun.

Diplomacy in the Pulpit.

Now, don' any you niggars dat help steal dem chickens put nuffin in de 'lection box. I'se not goin hab any you 'sgracin de good Lawd dat way, nohow!"—Harper's Bazar.

One hundred ladies of Washington city have subscribed $25 each to purchase a souvenir to be presented to Lady Pauncefote, wife of the British embassador. They have selected a diamond sunburst costing $2,500, which they will hand her before she leaves to remind her of their regard and affection.

Miss Kitty Wilkens, known as the "Horse Queen of Idaho," is to be married to William J. Baker of St. Louis. The National stockyards of St. Louis buy horses of Miss Wilkens 3,000 at a time, and it was after making one of these enormous sales of stock that the young woman met the St. Louisan whom she is to marry.

Mrs. Joubert, the widow of the late Boer general, has from the days of her earliest childhood been used to war's alarms. She can load and fire off a gun and on many occasions has shown the greatest courage. She has an extensive knowledge of Kaffir warfare, and her advice has often been acted upon by her husband, plans of campaign being freely discussed over her dinner table.

How Lincoln Won His Wife.

Mr. Lincoln used to take great delight in telling how he gained a knife by his ugly looks. That has been published, but I have not seen another in print telling how he gained his wife. Mrs. Lincoln was a beautiful lady, attractive, sharp, witty and relished a joke even at her own expense. She was staying with her sister, Mrs. Edwards. She had not been there long before everybody knew Miss Mary Todd. She often said: "When a girl, I thought I would not marry until I could get one of the handsomest men in the country, but since I became a woman I learned I can't get such a man, which has caused me to change my mind. I have concluded now to marry the ugliest looking man I can find."

Later on Lincoln came to town. She had never seen him before she met him on the street. She was told who he was and went home and told her sister she had seen her man, "the ugliest man I ever saw, Abraham Lincoln, and I am going to set my cap for him."

That became a common saying in street gossip. When they were married, instead of taking a bridal trip, they went to the Globe hotel, owned by the writer and occupied by a tenant. They took board at $4 a week. When he got able, he bought a lot for $200 and built a four room house costing less than $1,000. When he received $5,000 from his great railroad case, he spent $1,500 of it in putting a second story on his house, and there he lived until he went to Washington.—Thomas Lewis in Leslie's Weekly.

He Telegraphed Up One Flight.

That New York is a big city which the stranger seldom learns very well was quite forcibly impressed upon a certain well known Californian a few days ago. He visits New York twice a year and has long since learned to find his way about.

He was charging about in the business district and suddenly remembered that he wanted to telegraph to a friend whose offices are at 195 Broadway. The Californian dashed into the nearest telegraph office, wrote out his dispatch and, covering it with the coin, passed it through the wicket to the receiver. The receiver smiled.

"What is the matter?" demanded the Californian.

"Why, this is 195 Broadway," said the receiver, "and your man is up just one flight of stairs."

There was a confused period that lasted about a second, and when the Californian got his nerve back he calmly said: "I know that. Let it go anyway. I guess I can telegraph across the room or this counter if I want to and have the money. We do that thing out in California every day for a joke." The receiver may have been bluffed, but as receivers go they are hard to impress.

Easily Managed.

House Hunter—But are you sure that the cellar is perfectly dry?

Real Estate Dealer—Oh, you may be sure of that! Never was a drop of water ever seen in it, even in the wettest kind of weather.

House Hunter—Sorry about that. Do you know I have a theory that a damp cellar is the healthiest thing in the world. In my opinion the water in a cellar absorbs noxious gases, and, besides, it so moistens the whole atmosphere of the house as to make it more grateful to the lungs.

Real Estate Dealer—Come to think of it, it was that other house on the other side of the street that has the dry cellar. The cellar in this house is never free from water. Really, sir, I think it will suit you immensely.—Boston Transcript.

Got Over the Limit.

The late Senator Sawyer of Wisconsin was a very generous giver of charity and of presents, which neither he nor the beneficiary would have cared to denominate as charity, though the gifts amounted to much the same. He told a friend one day that he was going to turn over a new leaf and try to keep his donations down to a limit that would not exceed $1,000 a month. Three months after he had announced this resolution his friend asked how he had made out.

"I started out pretty well," he replied, "and if I hadn't given an old friend of mine in Wisconsin who had struck hard luck $10,000 last month I think I should have kept within the limit."

Try a Change.

You have probably tried the plan of making others miserable and found little comfort in it. Try making others happier. Possibly it will suit you better. Too many people have the habit of saying disagreeable things to and about others. There is no pleasure in it, but there is so much unhappiness in the world that you can gain genuine satisfaction by saying kind things of people, by doing kind things. Don't cut and slash. It only makes miserable people more miserable. The fact that others cut and slash you is no excuse for adopting their mistaken policy. With a little modesty and a little kindness you can do missionary work every day and accomplish a great deal of good.—Atchison Globe.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

Toronto, June 2. — The run of live stock at the cattle market was fair yesterday—59 loads, composed of 1,020 cattle, 1,546 hogs, 258 sheep and lambs, with 70 calves. The quality of fat cattle was not, generally speaking, as good as on Thursday. Trade was fair. In the morning the market opened up quite brisk, but later on in the day became quite easy in nearly all the different classes. Spring lambs were about 50c each lower in price, and the quality of those offered generally inferior.

Every Kind of Backache

Yields to Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, Because They Act Directly on the Liver as Well as the Kidneys.

Pains in the small of the back, over the kidneys, are usually due to derangements of the kidneys, and disappear when the kidneys are set right.

But there are other kinds of backache, by far the greater proportion, that can never be reached by treating the kidneys. Pains in the shoulders, through the centre of the back, and in the sides are caused by a torpid action of the liver, and can only be driven out when the liver is made healthy and active.

To reach the liver, as well as the kidneys, to get the filtering organs in working order and to cure every kind of backache, there is but one unfailing remedy, and that is Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. It is the only treatment that has this direct and combined action on both liver and kidneys, and the only one that positively and permanently cures backache, whether caused by liver or kidneys.

A PIONEER'S STORY

AN INTERESTING INTERVIEW WITH MR. B. L. MASTIN.

After Long Years of Perfect Health He Was Attacked with Kidney Trouble and Other Complications Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Bring Him New Health.

From the Picton, Ont., Times.

Mr. B. L. Mastin, of Hollowell township, Prince Edward county, was a caller at the Times office the other day and during his visit told of his great suffering from kidney trouble and rheumatism, accompanied by dyspepsia, cold feet and a generally broken down constitution. Mr. Mastin is one of the first settlers of Prince Edward county. He is in his seventy-first year and is the father of a grown up family of well-to-do farmers. In the course of the conversation Mr. Mastin said:—"I had never known what it was to be sick. I have always had good health and worked on my farm every day until some months ago, when I was taken with severe pains in my back and shoulders. I consulted a doctor but received little benefit. I was told by one doctor that I had rheumatism and kidney disease, but his treatment did not help me and I continued getting worse. My appetite failed me and I fell away in flesh. I became irritable and could not sleep well at night. Nobody can conceive the intense pain I endured. Not deriving any benefit from the food I ate and having a constant pain in my stomach I soon became aware that I had dyspepsia, and the pain in my back and shoulders intensified by the stonelike weight in my stomach, made life to me almost unbearable. I was also a great sufferer from cold feet, nearly every day my feet would get like chunks of ice, and unless I was constantly by the fire the soles of my feet would feel as though they were wet. One day I told my wife I was going to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Having read so much of these famous pills, I thought that what they had done for others they might do for me. I procured a box from Mr. E. W. Case, druggist, and to my great delight before I had used quite one box I had improved. When I had finished a couple more boxes I felt like a new man and I gladly tell this for the benefit of all who suffer as I did." Continuing Mr. Mastin said:—"My rheumatism is all gone and I can come and go and enjoy as good health as well as I ever did." With these remarks Mr. Mastin got up to go, but added that his wife was receiving much benefit from Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. "I took home a couple of boxes the other day and she thinks they are splendid."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure by going to the root of the disease. They renew and build up the blood, and strengthen the nerves, thus driving disease from the system. Avoid imitations by insisting that every box you purchase is enclosed in a wrapper bearing the full trade mark, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. If your dealer does not keep them they will be sent postpaid at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

"PIMPLY" FACES.

What a Bane—But Dr. Agnew's Ointment is a Sure Cure.

Chas. H. Lilly, 412 Luzerne Ave., W. Pittston, Pa., writes:—"I am a barber and meet many people troubled with pimples. I have tried many preparations claiming to cure such, and without success, until I used Dr. Agnew's Ointment. Within the last few weeks I have used it on three very stubborn cases, and in each case it has made a cure; has cleaned off all the pimples and blotches, and left the skin clear and soft. It's the greatest skin remedy I've heard of and a boon to 'pimply faces.'" Sold by Ormond & Walsh.

The Yaqui Indians, after several weeks of inactivity, have again become very annoying to the Mexican troops near Torin. Several night attacks have been made recently, and a number of casualties are reported.

Friday afternoon Samuel Harkness of Kingston, Ont., received from Capt. Irwin, commanding 39th Separate Company, Watertown, N.Y., a cheque for $28, value of flag destroyed by a bandsman on the Queen's Birthday.

The fast passenger train on the San Antonio & Arkansas Pass Railroad, known as the "Flyer," was wrecked 80 miles south of Waco, Texas, on Friday night by the washing out of a bridge. Engineer John Hines and Fireman Womble were killed.

Capt. Smith at Halifax delivered judgment on Friday in the wreck of the steamer Montpelier. He said the captain should have exercised the lead more than he did, and not having done so was negligence on his part. Capt. Galt was suspended for three months.

Friday morning the death occurred of St. Catharines' esteemed City Clerk John Rollinson. John Rollinson was born in Edinburgh, Scotland, in July, 1833, and came to this country when quite young. In December, 1868, he was appointed to the position of City Clerk, which he has filled since that time.

Grosvenor Peterson, son of Mr. N. A. Peterson of Belleville, was drowned in the Moira yesterday afternoon. He was bathing with some of his fellow-students from Albert College, and sank in deep water. The body was recovered by his comrades, but life was extinct. Deceased was 16 years of age.

Officers of the Canadian volunteers at Vancouver, B.C., have politely but firmly refused the annual invitation for their battalions to take part in celebration of the United States' national holiday in Seattle. This is because of recent hostile utterances of the Seattle press and the anti-British feeling there.

SATURDAY, JUNE 2, 1900.

A Prize Thought.

A teacher of music in one of the public schools of the south desired to impress the pupils with the meaning of the signs "f" and "ff" in a song they were about to sing. After explaining that "f" meant forte he said, "Now, children, if 'f' means forte, what does 'ff' mean?"

Silence reigned for a moment, and then he was astonished to hear a bright little fellow shout:

"Eighty!"—New Lippincott.

The Day After.

Mrs. Mixer—Tell me the worst, doctor. Is my husband's condition serious?

Doctor—There is no cause for alarm, madam. He is now out of danger, although suffering acutely from enlargement of the cerebral glands.

Mrs. Mixer—But, doctor, how do you suppose it was brought on?

Doctor—On a tray probably.—Chicago News.

Pleasure's Penalty.

When the doctor gives one up, most people lose heart, but it was not this way with the young society woman in a western Ontario city who had contracted kidney trouble through lack of care in "wrapping up" after an evening's round of pleasure. She heard of South American Kidney Cure and pinned her faith to it to cure her and in an incredibly short time felt her health returning. Her suffering abated, and three months from the day her physician hinted her case was hopeless she presented herself to him a cured woman. Sold by Ormond & Walsh.

Blomfield was beginning to hit out well when he was unfortunately run out. For Peterborough, the long patient innings of Stapleton and the bowling of Boucher were the chief features. The score:—

BOLE WON'T COME.

West Elgin Commissioners Hold a Session on Friday—Evidence Taken.

Toronto, June 2. — The West Elgin commissioners held a short session in the Parliament Buildings yesterday morning and examined three witnesses.

James Cartwright, Registrar of the Court of Appeal, was examined as to the condition of the ballot box when it reached Osgoode Hall. He said it was fastened by screws, which were countersunk and covered by sealing wax, but did not remember a lock being upon the box.

Edwin Long, a student in Kerr & Macdonald's office, also testified to the condition of the box when it reached Osgoode Hall. He remembered it being fastened by screws, but did not recall a lock.

Box Was Not Locked.

T. Gagen of the firm of McPherson, Clarke, Campbell & Clarke, said there was a lock on the box, but it was not locked. The lid was screwed down and sealed with wax, but the seal was not stamped. It was possible, he thought, for the ballots to have been tampered with. More than this, he testified that he had discovered irregularities. In some cases there were two numbers the same, while other numbers were missing altogether. These discrepancies, he said, were not to be accounted for by spoiled ballots. This was the sum of the evidence taken, but considerable time was spent in discussing the prospects of obtaining further testimony from Mrs. Pritchett and Thos. D. Hastings.

Barron Wanted to Drop It.

The chairman, Judge Barron, was disposed to abandon further attempts to secure their attendance, but Judge Morgan, feeling they had something to conceal, was disposed to get at the bottom of the affair. Another effort will be made to get them.

Bole Won't Come.

The commission will resume at 10 o'clock to-day, when Louis Heyd, Q. C., will make a statement on behalf of Duncan Bole, who refuses to come to Canada and testify. Telegrams will also be sent to Spence, W. W. Coulter of St. Thomas, Mrs. Pritchett and Hastings.

SAFEBLOWERS ARRESTED.

Three Men, Believed to Be the Aurora Safe Crackers, Captured in Chicago—To Be Extradited.

Toronto, June 2. — Acting under the instructions of Inspector Stark of the local Detective Department, the authorities at Chicago yesterday arrested three men whom the police here say were members of the gang of safeblowers who robbed Ross' private bank, the postoffice and the Queen's Hotel at Aurora and made attempts to enter the Parkdale branch of the Standard Bank here and the Bank of Commerce at Dundas within the past few weeks.

After the robberies Frank Rutledge, a well-known bank robber and leader, was seen here, but the detectives engaged on the case, refrained from placing him under arrest, because they believed if he was taken into custody the others would make themselves scarce. Several times round-ups were planned, but each time something turned up to stop the arrests. The two who were taken into custody besides Rutledge, gave their names as Fred. Harris and T. Jones.

$550 in Canadian Money Found.

All the baggage belonging to the three fell into the hands of the Chicago police, together with $550 in Canadian money. Rutledge, although only 30 years of age, has a lengthy record in police circles. He came originally from Streetsville and his first crime, that of burglary, was committed there in 1888, after which he came to Toronto. At the request of the County of Peel authorities, he was arrested, taken to Brampton and tried for the crime. He was convicted and sentenced to five years in Kingston Penitentiary, and while awaiting removal to serve his term, committed a brutal assault on his keeper in an attempt to escape. For this he was given two years additional, making seven years in all. After Rutledge had served four years he was pardoned out and, to show his gratitude to the Government, which released him, he immediately went on a tour of the postoffices and customs houses throughout the province.

Detective Cuddy left last night for Chicago to commence extradition proceedings and to bring the three prisoners here for trial.

GRAND ORANGE LODGE.

N. Clarke Wallace, M. P., Re-Elected Grand Master—Other Business.

London, Ont., June 2. — Hon. N. Clarke Wallace was re-elected Grand Master of the Orange Grand Lodge of British America, there being no opposition.

Fully five hours were consumed in debating as to whetner or not liquor dealers or manufacturers should be admitted to the order. A resolution that they should be debarred was moved by H. H. Pitts of Fredericton, and the discussion which followed lasted till after midnight. When the vote was taken at 1 o'clock 74 were in favor of the resolution and 52 against it, the majority being just 10 votes short of the necessary two-thirds.

The matter will come up again next year.

A cablegram was despatched to Her Majesty Queen Victoria, congratulating her on the success of her army in South Africa.

These men were appointed delegates to the Imperial Orange Council of the World: Grand Master Wallace, Grand Treasurer Parkhill, Dr. Beattie Nesbitt, Robert Burns, J. S. Leighton, Thomas A. Duff and Edward Floody, Toronto; Joseph Kelly, St. John, N.B.; Rev. William Walsh, Brampton; M. Thompson, Windsor; Dr. Sproule, M.P., E. T. Essery, London, William Nicholson, Hamilton.

No Chance For Him.

Three negro lads met on a street corner one afternoon, and by some queer freak of Providence each had just 15 cents. This was considerable for them, and, being so unfortunate as to have no "craps," it required much serious deliberation to arrive at just the best plan for spending it.

Finally one suggested that they place their little capital in a pool and then, each in turn, guess what was good to eat, the best guesser to take all of the money.

This plan met with hearty approval, as each one had ideas on that subject, and the 45 cents was soon in a pile. Then the first one guessed.

"Possum, sweet taters an watermelon," he said.

At this the second one reached down and began picking up his nickels, but the third stopped him with: "Hol' on dare! Let dat money 'lone!" To which the second replied:

"You think I'se goin to guess agains' that fool nigger when he's done said all der is good ter eat?"

The Stupid Thing.

"Do you think the shortest route to a man's heart is through his stomach?" asked Miss Gabby as she prepared to exhibit her skill with the chafing dish to young Dr. Powers.

"Oh, dear, no!" exclaimed the young physician, swelling up with the consciousness of his superior knowledge. "The shortest way to the heart is by way of an incision through the left subclavial section of the thoracic parietes."

Thus is cold science wresting Cupid's weapons one by one from the hands of the fair sex.—Baltimore American.

EXODUS FROM PRETORIA OF FOREIGN LEGIONS

They will not Wait for the Entrance of the British--Boers Watching Ex-President Steyn to Prevent his Escape as They Want Him to Stay for the Finish

FLEEING FROM PRETORIA

Cape Town, Sunday, June 3—The telegraph to Pretoria is still open, but the town is in great confusion. There has been a general exodus, among those taking part in it being the foreign fighting legion. Six special trains left on Wednesday last and one of them is reported to have been derailed. No British refugees have arrived.

SMALL CAPTURES BY THE BOERS

Maseru, Basutoland, Friday, June 1—Gen. Brabant's horse have been the subjects of several small captures at the hands of the Boers. Lieut. Bundle was captured with 20 men while searching a farm house in the Vicksburg district. Two of the men were wounded. Lieut. Lees and two men were captured while commandeering. Another patrol of the Border horse numbering 20 men was surrounded and captured. Count Gleychen sent 13 men of the Provincial Horse under Lieut. Bowker with a flag of truce to Senekal to demand the surrender of that place. The Boers captured the entire party and after robbing them of all but their clothing sent them to Urede, whence some of them managed to escape. Most of these who succeeded in eluding their guards, however, were recaptured.

WATCHING STEYN

Cape Town, June 4—Burghers are massing on the frontier between the Transvaal and Portugese territory. It is stated they are watching President Steyn closely, determined that he will remain in Boer territory to the end.

Egyptian Chicken Factories.

In his volume on "Present Day Egypt" Frederick Penfield thus describes one of the interesting sights in the neighborhood of the pyramids, the incubators in the native villages. "It will be found," he says, "that the incubator is constructed of sun dried bricks and so arranged internally that the eggs, placed in mud constructed ovens on trays cushioned with cut straw, are constantly under the attendant's view. No scientific apparatus is employed by this man, not even a thermometer. He knows from experience and his own feeling how much heat is needed, and he systematically turns the eggs several times each day until they are developed into peeping chicks.

"These hatching establishments exist throughout middle and upper Egypt and in a season bring fully 20,000,000 chickens into the world that grow up to be scrawny, unattractive fowls. The industry is thousands of years old and seems conclusively to settle the question of a chicken's maternity by allocating that parentage to the hen laying the egg.

"The incubator is a foster mother only and is responsible for stifling the 'setting' instinct with Egyptian hens. The keepers of the incubators have a system of traffic with peasant farmers by which eggs are purchased outright or six live chicks given in exchange for a dozen fresh eggs."

They Struck It Rich.

It was a grand thing for this community that such an enterprising firm as J. Lynch, secured the Agency for Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, the wonderful remedy that has startled the world by its marvellous cures. THE WEST ELGIN ENQUIRY.

Mrs. Pritchett Goes Into the Witness Box on Saturday.

She Told the Details of How She Got Money for Her Husband While He Was Away in Detroit—Gave Her Evidence in a Straight-Forward Manner and Was Complimented By the Commission.

Toronto, June 4. — The West Elgin Commission sat on Saturday morning. Mrs. Pritchett was the first witness. She said she had not left her house in London for a week past, and had not evaded service of the subpoena. Her husband resided in London. She remembered that he had gone to St. Thomas to an election in January, 1899. Witness had no knowledge of her husband practising the art of ballot-slipping at home before he went to St. Thomas, so as to be expert. She had no knowledge of him doing wrongful acts at election times, nor had he ever spoken to her about it. Her husband had left the country late one night in May, hearing that there was a warrant out for his arrest. He had gone hastily, and Mr, Hastings, his brother-in-law, had afterwards called for his clothes. Lewis had called at the house the day before her husband left, but said nothing in her hearing on that occasion. He had left by the back door upon her arrival, which conduct she thought peculiar. Lewis called later the same evening, and all she heard him say to her husband was to meet him next day at 10 o'clock. Her husband had returned to London in September. While he was away, she had sent him money, on one occasion, $100 of her own money. On other occasions she had sent him money from Hastings, $25 at a time.

Witness had been with her husband in Detroit part of the time, and saw him receive the money.

To Receive $100 a Month.

Hastings had said to her that he was to receive $100 a month from Lewis to send to her husband while away. This statement was made between May 4 and 24, before he went away, for he left on the 24th.

Witness knew of the warrant being out for her husband's arrest, and said he had returned because the payments to him had stopped. The payments stopped some time in July, and the warrant was still out when her husband returned. She did not know why the payments had ceased, and Hastings had never told her.

Shortly after her husband returned, Lewis had called upon him, but she heard nothing of the conversation. He had gone driving with Lewis on two occasions at night, and remained in the house all day, concealed. She did not know anything of the object of Lewis' calls. Her husband had told her that they wanted him to go back, and she was very uneasy all the time he was home.

Then $50 a Month.

He had remained home that time for 17 or 18 days, but left again, saying that Lewis had come to terms and was to send him $50 a month thereafter. He had received some money before going, but witness did not know from whom. Pritchett had once mentioned John O'Gorman to her as a person from whom he received $100 before leaving London the first time. Witness had no idea where Lewis or O'Gorman got the money. Lewis was not a friend of the family, and merely a casual acquaintance. She had called on Lewis on one occasion, when her husband was away, and asked him if he knew when the matter would be settled, and Lewis said he did not. On Jan. 16 last she had gone to Detroit to see her husband, and had returned with Lewis, who, she was informed by her husband, had gone there to see him. There had been no row between them, but her husband had been dissatisfied because he was not receiving his monthly payments of $50 regularly. She had received the money at this time from Hastings, who was merely earning a salary as a photographer.

In reply to questions witness said he had seen Hastings working in his garden in London recently, and knew that he was home last week. He had been steadily at work and not in hiding. His address in London was 108 Centre street.

Called to Get Money.

Continuing, witness said she had been accustomed for some time to call at Hastings' house on the 1st and 15th of the month, and got $25 each time, some of which she sent to her husband, keeping what was necessary for her own provision. When she first failed to receive the money from Hastings, he told her it was because Lewis had not got it. He had also told her on one occasion that Lewis had made a payment out of his own funds, because he had not received the money from Toronto. She had no idea, and heard nothing, as to where his money came from in Toronto.

Her husband had not said anything to her about making affidavits before they had been published. He had only been home about four weeks, coming home the latter part of April. About that time she had heard that the warrant against her husband was withdrawn. It was in January or February last that she had paid the $100 to her husband out of her own money, which she had invested in a London loan company.

Witness knew nothing else touching the election, or the conduct of her husband, and was allowed to go, after being complimented by His Honor Judge Morgan for the straightforward nature of her testimony.

The Printing of Ballots.

E. J. Hataway, assistant manager in the printing department of Warwick Bros. & Rutter, was examined regarding the printing of the ballots by that firm. Only one order for the printing had been received from the Clerk of the House, which had been duly executed. It would be impossible, in his opinion, for a duplicate set Nervous and Debilitated.

Almost a Victim of Nervous Prostration —Was Restored to Health and Strength by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Mrs D. W. Crossberry, 162 Richmond street west, Toronto, Ont., states:—"My daughter, who sews in a white goods manufactory, got completely run down by the steady confinement and close attention required at her work. Her nerves were so exhausted, and she was so weak and debilitated, that she had to give up work entirely, and was almost a victim of nervous prostration.

"Hearing of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, she began to use it, and was benefitted from the very first. It proved an excellent remedy in restoring her to health and strength. After having used four boxes she is now at work again, healthy and happy, and attributes her recovery to the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food."

As a blood builder and nerve restorative, Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is of inestimable value. It makes the blood red, the nerves strong, and the whole system healthy and vigorous. 50c a box —at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

CIRCUMSTANCES ALTER CASES.

When Liberal newspapers are making such exhaustive efforts to make a sensation out of the Birmingham episode in a desire to attract public attention from the exposure of the machine in Ontario and the sorry spectacle presented by the Liberal party at Ottawa in fighting to burke enquiry into the West Huron and Brockville frauds, it is interesting to have recalled the record of these men along this line at a recent time. Much was heard of election scandals in Manitoba after the election in 1896, and without any urging the Government, or Mr. Sifton for the Government, undertook at once to investigate and expose the alleged crookedness. His zeal was great because it was supposed that Conservative wrong-doing was to be unearthed. He took the people's money without asking authority in order to further his investigation and resorted to very questionable means in a overzealous anxiety to fasten guilt on political opponents. How very marked is the difference in the position taken when election frauds by Liberals are exposed and an investigation demanded? The party of purity does not see its duty when its own party is concerned, and the Liberal press that now would make out of a bluff by a political organizer who had been removed from office had not a word of protest, but defended the endeavor to cover up crime and fraud.

But let the Winnipeg Telegraph tell the story of the Manitoba case :—

The Government willingly squandered the public funds upon an investigation into the groundless charges regarding the Macdonald election at the last general federal elections. Mr. Sifton, now Minister of the Interior in the Laurier cabinet, was the prime mover in these proceedings. Mr. Sifton went to extraordinary lengths in his desire to bring these prosecutions to a satisfactory conclusion to the Liberal Government. Mr. Sifton caused the sum of $8,964 of the appropriation of the Department of Justice to be transferred to his own department in order that he might advance money on account of the costs of the proceedings. The circumstances attending the disbursement of this sum were extremely suspicious; and apparently Mr. Sifton could not trust Sir Oliver Mowat to sanction the irregular payments. The expenditure of the federal Governemnt upon these proceedings reached the large sum of $10,964.41, and an attempt was made to incriminate nineteen deputy-returning officers, by the most dishonorable methods. Freeborn, the informer, was paid the sum of $804; and another beneficiary was Orange H. Clarke, a cousin of Mr. Sifton. The prosecutions were abortive and unjustifiable. One conviction only was secured, and this conviction was on account of tampering with the ballots with the object of extorting money from the Conservative party. The man who was convicted was a tool of the prosecution; for him, Dr. Rutherford, the Liberal candidate, went surety, and he was appointed by the Attorney-General, who prosecuted him, a commissioner to take affidavits in the courts of this province. The action of the government in regard to these prosecutions, contrasts strangely with its action in regard to the demand for an investigation in the scandals pertaining to the elections in West Huron and in Brockville. The government did not scruple to spend the sum of $10,964.41 upon the unjustifiable prosecutions of the deputy-returning officers in the Macdonald election, and in order to secure conviction was guilty of irregular and dishonorable actions. The prosecutions were entered upon on the strength of the evidence of the perjurer Freeborn, who had previously attempted to blackmail the Conservatives, and whose evidence proved to be worthless.

MANITOBA SCHOOL QUESTION

His Grace Archbishop Langevin Says It Is Not Settled.

The St. Boniface Prelate Read a Pastoral Letter to His Flock on Sunday Morning, and "in His Official Capacity" Stated There Was no Settlement—Exhorted Catholics to Continue Agitation Against Grievances.

Winnipeg, June 4. — Aechbishop Langevin read a pastoral letter to Catholics of Winnipeg yesterday morning in St. Mary's Church, in regard to the school question. In his letter the Archbishop commended the Catholics of Winnipeg for their recent action in appointing a committee to interview the Public School Board. The committee, he said, had acted in a wise manner, and had discharged its duties efficiently and well. His Grace also said that the report that the school question has been settled is untrue, and that he wished to deny it in his official capacity, and also to state that the Catholic minority of Manitoba was not satisfied with the so-called concessions granted by the Government. The letter exhorted the Catholics to continue their efforts towards having their grievances redressed, and advised them to pray for the desired end and have patience.

MOST REVOLTING SCENES.

Awful Story of Indian Famine Sufferers by Dr. Louis Klopsch.

Bombay, June 4. — Mr. Louis Klopsch of New York, publisher of The Christian Herald, who arrived here May 14 and started at once on a tour of the famine-stricken districts, has returned after travelling through the most sorely-smitten districts of the Bombay Presidency, including Gujerat and Barola. He made the following statement regarding his observations:

"Everywhere I met the most shocking and revolting scenes. The famine camps have been swept by cholera and smallpox. Fugitives scattering in all directions, and stricken in flight, were found dying in the fields and roadside ditches. The number at one relief station was increasing at the rate of 10,000 per day.

"At Godhera there were 8,000 deaths from cholera within four days and at Dohad 2,500 in the same period. The hospital death rate at Godhera and Dohad was 90 per cent. The condition of the stricken simply beggars description. Air and water were impregnated with an intolerable stench of corpses. At Ahmedabad the death rate in the poor house was 10 per cent. Every day I saw new patients placed face to face with corpses. In every fourth cot there was a corpse.

"The thermometer read 115 in the shade. Millions of flies hovered around the uncleaned dysentery patients.

"I visited the smallpox and cholera wards at Viragam. All the patients were lying on the ground, there being no cots. Otherwise their condition was fair.

"I can fully verify the reports that vultures, dogs and jackals are devouring the dead. Dogs have been seen running about with children's limbs in their jaws.

"The Government is doing its best. Between the famine, the plague and the cholera, the condition of Bombay Presidency is now worse than it has been at any previous period in the nineteenth century. Whole families have been blotted out. The spirit of the people is broken; and there may be something still worse to come when the monsoon breaks."

Many of the foreigners were wounded, four were killed outright, but the fate of the remainder of the party is unknown.

The foreigners who escaped from Pao Ting Fu are ten miles from here. Four of the party have been killed and 4 are wounded. An expedition is proceeding to their relief.

What a Difference it Makes When Peterborough Residents Testify.

It is pretty hard to prove the testimony of some stranger in far away parts of the country.

The Pitcher Tablet success is so great and so general that every town contributes its own testimony, and that of a Peterborough citizen should convince the most sceptical.

Miss Irene Grouelle, Water-st., Peterborough, says :—"Since last May trouble with my back and side has been persistent, and the side very sore. I got a bottle of Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets from Ormond & Walsh, and soon felt a big change for the better. The soreness is all gone, and I can't say too much in praise of the medicine as it succeeded when others had failed."

If you have the slightest symptom of Kidney or Bladder trouble, you can test this great medicine free. Arrangements have been made whereby every reader of this paper can obtain a trial package of Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets absolutely free by enclosing two cent stamp for postage to The Pitcher Tablet Co., Toronto, Ont. This concluded the evidence taken at the sitting, and the commission adjourned to meet again at 10 o'clock Monday morning, when another effort will be made to have Hastings present.

END OF O. J. C. RACES.

Beautiful Weather Brings Out a Big Crowd With Ladies in the Glory of Summer Finery.

Toronto, June 4. — Queen's weather was granted for Saturday, the closing day at the Woodbine. The day was delightfully cool, tempered by a gentle breeze, that blew over the course, freighted with the freshness of the lake, and made promenading a genuine pleasure. Friday's rain, however, left the course a trifle heavy, but the racing was excellent. The grand stand resembled a gay portiere of flowers with the charming frocks of the ladies, and there was a great crowd present. The day's record:

Second Race—⅝ mile; $500 added; handicap; 2-year-olds. Vince & Weir's br.g., Bill Massie, (6–1), 1; Flatterer, 2; Denman Thompson, 3. Time, 1.05.

NORTH RENFREW.

The Writ Issued Fixed the Nomination Day for June 19.

Toronto, June 4. — The writ for North Renfrew for an election to fill the vacancy in the Legislature, caused by the death recently of Mr. White, was issued on Friday. Nomination will be on June 19, and polling a week later.

Mr. Ed. Dunlop Chosen.

Pembroke, Ont., June 4. — The convention of the Conservatives of the North Riding of Renfrew on Saturday unanimously nominated Mr. Edward Dunlop, of the firm of Dunlop & Co., Pembroke. Mr. J. P. Whitney addressed the gathering. Despite the bad weather, a large crowd of the supporters were present.

Hon. Thomas Bain Tired of Politics.

Hamilton, June 4. — The executive of the South Wentworth Liberal Association held a private meeting at the New American Hotel Saturday afternoon to consider Speaker Thomas Bain's decision to retire into private life at the close of the present session. After the meeting Mr. Bain said: "The executive begged me to reconsider my decision, but I have definitely decided to cut away from public life. I have now been nearly 30 years in harness, and, like Cincinnatus, long for the quiet of rural life. Besides, my eyesight is a general source of trouble."

Among the city Conservatives, the reason of Speaker Bain's retirement is cruelly assigned to an unwillingness to face so formidable a rival as E. D. Smith.

West Indies Want Federation.

Kingston, Jamaica, June 4. — The question of a federation of the British West Indies on lines analogous to the Australian Federation is now occupying serious attention in these colonies. Powerful friends of the West Indies in England are working for the realization of this scheme.

Will Demand Compensation.

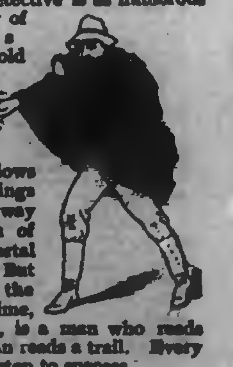
Winnipeg, June 4. — In view of the prohibition law taking effect, it is said, next year, the liquor men have presented a petition for compensation for the sums invested in connection with the sale of liquor. The amount of compensation asked is said to be about $2,000,000.

Sir Chas. Tupper in Picton.

Picton, Ont., June 4. — The visit of Sir Charles Tupper to Picton was characterized by a great deal of enthusiasm. An address was also presented from the Conservative Association. Sir Charles delivered a most able address on the political affairs of Canada.

Liverpool to Port Arthur.

Port Arthur, Ont., June 4. — The steamer Tolika arrived in Port on Friday direct from Liverpool. She is the first ocean vessel to come into this harbor and will take out a cargo of 80,000 bushels of wheat to Buffalo.



The amateur detective is as humorous a character as any of Shakespeare's clowns, or even old Dogberry himself. He finds the most astonishing clues, and generally follows them until he brings up about as far away from the solution of the mystery as mortal well may be. But the specialist in the detection of crime, Sherlock Holmes, is a man who reads clues, as the Indian reads a trail. Every step he takes is a step to success.

It's much the same way in the detection of disease. While the amateur is blundering along over misleading symptoms, the specialist goes right to the real cause and puts an arresting hand upon the disease. It is in such a way that Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., succeeds in hunting out and arresting diseases, where the less experienced practitioners fail. More than thirty years of special study and experience have enabled Dr. Pierce to read symptoms as easily and as truly as the Indian reads a trail which is without a hint for a less acute vision than his. Any sick person can consult Dr. Pierce by letter absolutely without charge. Each letter is read in private and answered in private. Its contents are held as sacredly confidential. It is answered with fatherly feeling as well as medical skill and the reply is sent sealed in a perfectly plain envelope, that there may be no third party to the correspondence. Thousands have taken the first step to health by writing to Dr. Pierce. No writer ever regretted writing. Ninety-eight in every hundred treated have been positively cured. If you are afflicted with any old obstinate ailment write to-day, you will be one day nearer health. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

ROBERTS AT ORANGE GROVE.

25 Miles From Pretoria, on Saturday Last at 9.10 a. m.

Not a Word From Pretoria Since Thursday Last—Censorship Again Complete—The Entry Into Johannesburg Described by Detail by the Field Marshal—Boers Are Retreating—Little Doubt About the Surrender of Pretoria.

London, June 4. — (4 a.m.) — There is no direct news from Pretoria of later date than Thursday evening. Gen. French's cavalry were then at Irence, eight miles south of Pretoria, and firing was heard there. Lord Roberts' messages about secondary operations elsewhere and the situation at Johannesburg, dated at Orange Grove, a farm four miles northeast of Johannesburg, show that on Saturday at 9.10 a.m., he was 25 miles from Pretoria.

Not a Line Permitted to Pass.

The correspondents with Lord Roberts have not got through a line about the operations after the occupation of Johannesburg. Official messages continue to come through, but press telegrams are held up, probably to avoid their giving a hint as to what may be the pending operations.

Filtered Through Boer Sources.

From the other side there filters through Lorenzo Marquez a mass of statements, some contradictory, others obviously improbable, but the following purporting to be facts. Passengers arriving at Lorenzo Marquez Saturday direct from Pretoria say that the capital was preparing to surrender when they left Thursday. The forts were dismantled. The Boer guard at Komatipoort, searched all trains and turned back most of the fugitives, among them deserting foreigners who were striving to reach neutral soil.

Boer Convoys of Provisions.

Immense Boer convoys of provisions are between Pretoria and Middleburg. Fifteen trains are sent daily to Machadasdorf with supplies for Lydenburg. Pretoria is pictured by the refugees as in a state of indescribable chaos. The populace are dismayed, and the British are expected hourly.

Foreign Attaches See the End.

Some foreign attaches have arrived at Lorenzo Marquez to communicate with their Governments for orders to leave, as they consider that organized war on the Transvaal side is at an end.

LORD ROBERTS' BULLETINS.

Commandant Botha and His Field Cornet Taken Near Johannesburg.

London, June 4. —The War Office has received the following reports from General Lord Roberts:

Johannesburg, May 31. — (9.40 a. m.) — French's report of his operations during May 28 and 29 reached me at 8 a.m. to-day. He was opposed throughout his march, but managed to drive off the enemy from the strong positions they successively held with very little loss, and is now holding the place which I directed him to do, north of Johannesburg. Two officers were wounded and two men were killed and 27 wounded.

The Entry Into Johannesburg.

Johannesburg, May 31.—Despatched at 8.30 a.m. June 1. — The occupation of Johannesburg passed off quite satisfactorily, thanks to the excellent arrangements made by Dr. Krause, the Transvaal commandant here, and order prevailed throughout the town. Dr. Krause met me on my entrance to Johannesburg, and rode by my side to the Government offices, where he introduced me to the heads of the several departments, all of whom acceded to my request that they would continue to carry on their respective duties until they could be relieved of them. Johannesburg is very empty, but a good crowd of people had assembled in the main square by the time the British flag was being hoisted. A royal salute was fired, and three cheers for the Queen were given. At the end of the ceremony the eleventh and seventh divisions marched past with the naval brigade, the heavy artillery and two brigade divisions of the Royal Field Artillery. Gen. Hamilton's column and the cavalry division and mounted infantry were too far away to take part in the ceremony. The troops looked very workmanlike and evidently took keen interest in the proceedings. The 14th and Wavell's Brigade have been left in Johannesburg to preserve order, while the remainder of the force is encamped north of the town on the Pretoria road.

Colville Had Hard Fighting.

Johannesburg, June 1. — (9.25 p.m.) — Sir Henry Colville, in reporting the arrival of the Highland Brigade at Heilbron, May 29, states that he was opposed more or less the whole way from Ventersburg. Eight men were killed and four officers and 82 men were wounded.

Colville says the Lancashire Battery of field artillery did excellent work. Grant's naval guns were most valuable and the troops behaved in a most soldierly manner throughout the trying march.

Rundle telegraphs that his casualties were 32 killed and 150 men wounded.

Commandant Botha Taken.

Orange Grove, June 2.—Johannesburg is quiet. The people are surrendering arms and ponies. Only three Boer guns were left in the fort.

The Queenslanders captured May 30, a Creusot, with 11 wagons of stores and ammunition.

Commandant Botha of Zoutpansberg, his field cornet and 100 prisoners were taken in the fighting around Johannesburg, some belonging to the foreign contingents and the Irish brigade.

The 13th Yeomanry were attacked May 29, between Kroonstad and Lindley. There were some casualties.

Roberts' Lines Interrupted.

Orange Grove, June 2. — Owing to the interruption of the telegraph lines, I only to-day received a report from Col. Sprigg that his battalion of Imperial Yeomanry was attacked between Kroonstad and Lindley, May 29. Casualties to follow. The shops in Johannesburg are being opened, and there seems to be a general feeling of relief at the peaceful occupation of the town. The proclamation announcing the annexation of the Orange Free State was made known at Bloemfontein, May 26, by Gen. Prettyman (Military Governor). The troops, under Gen. Kelly-Kenny, formed a square, the Royal Standard was hoisted, the troops saluted, a royal salute was fired, the Queen was cheered. The name, 'Orange River Colony,' was well received. Received a report yesterday that four prisoners had escaped from Pretoria.

BOERS AROUND PRETORIA.

On Thursday There Were 10,000 Men Surrounding the Capital.

Lorenzo Marquez, June 2.—President Kruger yesterday was still at Machadodorp (about half way between the Transvaal capital and Delagoa Bay). Boer commandos totaling about 10,000 men held, Thursday, all the positions and hills around Pretoria. Telegraphic communication with the Transvaal is closed to the public. The object of the trip here of Frichie Elof, President Kruger's son-in-law, and Dr. Heyman, the President's physician, appears to have been to place a large amount of gold in safety.

The Boers Are Surrounded.

Maseru, Basutoland, May 31.—Gen. Brabant has practically surrounded the Boers five miles outside of Ficksburg. The only side open for the Boers' retreat is the Basutoland border, where thousands of Basutos under Chief Jonathan are awaiting events.

Grenadier Guards Lost Heavily.

Maseru, Basutoland, June 2.—The Grenadier Guards were the heaviest sufferers during Gen. Rundle's fighting. They lost 30 men killed and had 88 men wounded.

New Story of the Fight.

Cape Town, Thursday, May 31. — Last Tuesday Gen. Sir Charles Warren, the Governor of Grisqualand West, with 700 men, occupied a strong defensive position at Faber Spruit near Douglas. At dawn on Wednesday 1,000 rebels surrounded and fiercely attacked his force after stampeding the horses. The British quickly concentrated and repulsed the rebels. A small party that was holding a garden continued to fight tenaciously and only evacuated the position when the Volunteer Rifles started a charge.

TRIED TO BLOW UP MINES.

Judge Kock Has Been Arrested on a Charge of Incendiarism.

Johannesburg, May 30, by despatch rider to Pretoria and via Lorenzo Marquez, June 2, 1.30 p.m.—Judge Kock, who attempted to blow up the mines yesterday, was arrested by Special Commandant Dr. Krause. He was placed in jail on the charge of incendiarism.

ONE CANADIAN KILLED, 8 WOUNDED

In the Uprising at Douglas by the Cape Colony Dutch Rebels.

Ottawa, June 4. — Col. Aylmer, received Saturday morning a cable from Major Ogilvie, commanding "E" special service battery, dated Douglas, June 2, reporting the following as killed and wounded in a night attack on Fabre's Farm:

DUTCH REBELS IN CONGRESS.

They Condemn British Action and Send Delegates to Canada.

Graaf Reinet, Cape Colony, Thursday, May 31.—The People's Congress opened here to-day. Mr. Pretorius a member of the Legislative Assembly, offered a resolution, declaring that, in the opinion of a majority of Cape Colonists, the chief immediate cause of the war was the unwarranted intolerable interference of Ministry in London in the internal affairs of the South African Republics. A member, speaking in support of the resolution, said it would be impossible to hold out the hand of friendship after the war.

The chairman advised moderation in all the speeches.

The resolution was adopted unanimously.

Other resolutions presented affirmed that if the Republics were annexed the peace and prosperity of the country would be irretrievably wrecked, and that in order to insure lasting friendship and prosperity the settlement must include the restoration of unqualified freedom and independence to the Republics and the colonists be allowed a voice in the appointment of the Governor of Cape Colony, thus obviating the necessity for keeping a standing army, as the Republicans would be prepared to assist the colonists to resist any foreign inroads in South Africa, unity would be insured and loyalty to Great Britain cemented.

A delegation was appointed to visit Great Britain, Canada and Australia to explain the views of those represented at the Congress.

WHOLESOME ADVICE

For People Whose Stomachs are Weak and Digestion Poor.

Dr. Harlandson, whose opinion in diseases is worthy of attention, says when a man or woman comes to me complaining of indigestion, loss of appetite, sour stomach, belching, sour watery rising, headaches, sleeplessness, lack of ambition and a general run down nervous condition, I advise them to take after each meal one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, allowing the tablet to dissolve in the mouth, and thus mingle with the food eaten. The result is that the food is speedily digested before it has time to sour and ferment. These tablets will digest the food anyway whether the stomach wants to or not, because they contain harmless digestive principles, vegetable essences, pepsin and Golden Seal, which supply just what the weak stomach lacks.

I have advised the tablets with great success, both in curing indigestion and to build up the tissues, increasing flesh in thin, nervous patients, whose real trouble was dyspepsia, and as soon as the stomach was put to rights, they did not know what sickness was.

A fifty cent package of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets can be bought at any drug store, and as they are not a secret patent medicine, they can be used as often as desired with full assurance that they contain nothing harmful in the slightest degree; on the contrary, any one whose stomach is at all deranged will find great benefit from the use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. They will cure any form of stomach weakness or disease except cancer of the stomach.

Making Barrels.

"Cooperage is one of the trades that no one thought of improving until within recent years," said a manufacturer, "but then the inventors and expert machinists started in with such a rush that it takes a good deal of our time keeping abreast of the improvements that are coming into the market every day.

"The work used to be done entirely by hand, and the coopers often had to buy their hoops from a firm that made nothing else. The coopers were not well enough equipped to make all the different parts of a barrel themselves, and often they bought everything outside and merely put the barrels together. It used to take five or six men to do the work properly, and an hour's time would perhaps turn out ten barrels.

"As the system is now, all the different parts are made by one machine, and only one man is needed to attend it. After the wood is fashioned into staves and hoops and braces by it the pieces are run through another section of it and come out almost immediately a finished barrel, ready to be loaded and shipped to our customers.

"On a regular average about 30 barrels can be turned out in an hour. You can see what the saving is over the old way. Employing six men for one hour, as they used to do, we can get 160 barrels, where by the old system they were only able to get ten."—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

ETIQUETTE OF THE PAST.

How the Old Time Damsel Was Coached In Social Manners.

A quaint folio is "Ye Boke of Curtasye," lately unearthed by Mr. Furnivall in England. It consists of two companion tracts apparently written early in the fifteenth century, entitled "How ye Goode Wife Shall Teache Her Daughter" and "How ye Wise Man Learneth His Sonne."

The daughter addressed by the endearing term of "lief child" is advised that if she would be a wife she must "wisely work" and "look lovely" and not suffer the rain to hinder her from hearing mass daily. At church she is to "bid her bedes"—i. e., say her prayers—and to "make no jangling to friend nor to sib." If a suitor present himself, she is not to "scorn" him nor again to keep the matter secret.

Sit not by him nor stand where sin might be wrought,
For a slander raised ill
Is evil for to still,
My lief child.

When she has secured a good husband, she must "love him and honor him most of earthly things" and "answer him meekly, not as an atterling"—i. e., a shrew.

So mayest thou slake his mood and be his dear darling.
A fair word and a meek
Doth wrathe slake,
My lief child.

She is to keep her "countenance" whatever of news or of gossip she may hear and on no account to "fare as a gigge"—i. e., to behave as a giggling girl—but when she laughs "to laugh soft and mild." When she walks, she is not a "brandish" her head nor to be too talkative and by no means to swear, "for all such manners come to an evil proof." But if she chance to be "where good ale is on loft" she is to drink "measurably," for it is a shame to be "ofte drunk." She is to avoid common show, as, for instance, wrestling matches and "shooting at the cock," and not to pick up acquaintances in the street, but if any man should speak to her she is to greet him "swiftly" and let him go his way. And "for no covetise" must she accept a present from any man.—Collier's Weekly.

PORT HOPE WINS AT BASEBALL

BIG CROWD WITNESSES THE BASEBALL MATCH ON SATURDAY

Port Hope's Victory by 15 Runs 12—A Good Afternoon's Sport — Exciting Finish.

All the cheering at the finish of the baseball match on Saturday afternoon was done by the Port Hope people present, though there was a time in the last half of the last innings when the Peterborough supporters were making all the enthusiasm, for the players were hitting the ball and making runs in a way that threatened to give them the game if they kept the pace up for but a few minutes longer. But all the cheers of the fans were unavailing to save the boys, and the Port Hope crowd resumed its joy when the side was retired, leaving their team victors by the score of 15 runs to 12.

It was the first scheduled game of the Midland Baseball League in Peterborough and drew a large crowd, the largest that has attended a baseball game in town in years. The bleachers and covered stand were both well occupied, and a large crowd of the sport lovers found seating accommodation around the fences near the home plate, where all the play could be well seen. The Port Hope excursionists swelled the attendance considerably and gave lusty support to their team. They were a jolly and orderly crowd and a credit to their town. There were many ladies present at the game. Baseball has caught on in Peterborough.

While there was an excess of errors the game was an interesting one to witness and everybody was pleased with the sport. After the fourth innings the Port Hopers looked to have a safe lead, but it was no surer than a horse race, and before the last run was struck the home team made things decidedly uncomfortable. The finish of the match was the best part of it.

The visitors earned their victory and are fairly entitled to the credit of it. Their batting power was turned on full force, and when they hit they generally hit strong and safely. The Peterborough players did not put up the game they are capable of. Almost all the infield seemed wild. They appeared to have an attack of the rattles, and their game was not marked by any confidence, decision or snap. They were off color. There was too much wild throwing and some muffing and fumbling of the ball. The visitors, on the other hand, played like veterans, cool and steady. Peterborough should beat them in the return match.

There were not many features to notice. In the first two innings both sides went out in 1, 2, 3 order, no runs being scored. In the first innings Mulhall did a clever piece of work in covering first bag to assist Connors, who was fielding the ball.

The game loosened up in the third round. Port Hope's grounders ran through the men's hands. Parnell made a hard catch that drew applause. In Peterborough's half Sheridan made a good hit, scoring Parnell from 2nd, but was himself left on the base, Earle going out on a long fly to centre.

In the 4th Port Hope added 3 runs, giving them 7 in all. Peterborough's outfield men played very well, King catching a long distance event by Burt in right field, and Earle catching one in left by McMahon.

In the 5th McCabe struck two men out, Benson and Pethick.

In number 6 Earle got another fly in left field from Henderson's bat, but McGill, Port Hope's third baseman, knocked the ball over right field fence for a home run. This was the best thing of the afternoon.

In the 7th round Graham made a difficult catch, Port Hope being retired with three men on bases and no runs in. The feature of the second half of the innings was a very clever piece of base stealing by Earle, one of the best plays of the day.

In the 8th McCabe and Sheridan both made two base hits.

Port Hope added two more runs in the 9th, giving them 15 in all. Peterborough came to bat with only 6 in hand. They secured two, and the next two men were put out, but the boys showed great spirit and touched Pethick up for good safe hits till six runs in all were bagged. Amidst great excitement the third man was called out on a foul, and the victory rested with Port Hope.

Mr. C. LeBrun acted as umpire.

The sheds in the vicinity of the grounds held big burdens of spectators.

The attendance would have been larger but for the rain which threatened, but did not come.

POLICE COURT

A Tramp Who Helped Himself to a Pair of Socks From a Clothes Line.

Mr. R. S. Davidson, J. P., occupied the seat of justice at the police court this morning. The case of the two men who put up such a bloody scrap on Chambers-st. on the night of Pretoria day, was enlarged till Thursday.

Wm. Ryan was in the box as a vagrant. He was remanded till the 12th. He was also charged with stealing a pair of socks belonging to Percy Reid, from a line on Westcott-st., and was trying to get into the house when P. C. Stewart happened along.

On Saturday afternoon bail was taken for the appearance of a young man who got into a melee about a year ago, and who left town when summoned to appear in court. He returned not long ago and the warrant was produced against him. He also appears on Thursday.

FOR A TEN HOUR DAY

Employees of the Dickson Co's Mill Strike for Shorter Hours.

The lumber mill of the Dickson Co. is idle to-day on account of a difference between the employees and the officers of the company, and about 30 men or more, all the staff of the sawing and shingle departments, are taking a rest.

The number of hours that should constitute a day's labor is the cause of the trouble. The men have been working from 6 a.m. till 6 p.m., 11 hours a day, and their demand is that from 7 till 6, or 10 hours, be considered a day's work. They point out that 10 hours constitutes a day in almost every field of labor, that it is generally recognized as a day's work. They ask to be put on the same footing as employees of other works.

On Friday evening last the men made a formal demand that their day be shortened by an hour, and received a refusal. This morning they went to work at 7 o'clock instead of 6 as usual, and were told that they must report at 6 o'clock in order to receive a day's pay. They all quit with two exceptions, a sawyer and a packer, in the shingle mill. These two decided not to stand out.

The officers of the company point out that the mill has been run 11 hours a day for years. This rule is a long established one and they see no reason why it should be broken. They state that the wages of the men were increased this spring.

The teamsters and others employees than those mentioned are at work.

Bicyclists, young or old, should carry a bottle of Pain-Killer in their saddle bags. It cures cuts and wounds with wonderful quickness. Avoid substitutes, there is but one Pain-Killer, Perry Davis'. 25c. and 50c.

AMONG THE CHURCHES.

Items of Interest Gathered From the Different Congregations.

CHARLOTTE-ST.

Rev. Mr. Wagg preached a much appreciated sermon at Charlotte-st. church yesterday morning. The choir rendered the anthem, "Guide me, O, Jehovah," in finished style, the solos being taken by Miss Hall and Mr. A. L. Davis. The offertory hymn was "It is Well." The evening service was largely attended, the children's song sermon being given. The singing was delightful and Rev. Mr. Crossley preached with considerable vigor. A pleasing feature of the service was a male quartette, "Gather Them In," sung unaccompanied by Messrs. Davis, Squires, Steers and Longmore. It was marked by perfect harmony and balance.

MURRAY-ST. BAPTIST.

The morning anthem at Murray-st. Baptist church was "Come unto Me," with duet and soprano obligato. Mrs. Dr. Scott and Mr. G. K. Martin ably rendered the solo passages. At the evening service Mr. G. K. Martin sang "The Coming of the King" very acceptably.

GEORGE-ST.

At the George-st. church last evening Rev. S. J. Shorey preached a special sermon in support of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society. His text was the words: "She hath done what she could," and in his discourse he pointed out that it was only the spirit of love to God in the heart actuating a man that made any act or gift acceptable; that nothing was acceptable in God's sight unless it came from a heart full of love for Him; that we were not to judge the acts of others by our own feelings, for God judged every one by his or her own ability, or in other words, our ability made our responsibility; and that no one should get discouraged because their effort might appear to be feeble and in vain, for God said, "She hath done what she could." His concluding remarks were an endorsation of the work the Women's Foreign Missionary Society was doing, which he dealt with in the spirit of the text.

At the evening service special music was rendered by the choir, assisted by Mrs. C. A. Barton. The choir gave a magnificient rendering of "Tantum Ergo in F," by Rossi. The duet passages between soprano and bass and chorus passages were sung in splendid harmony. Mrs. C. A. Barton sang the solo entitled "Peace," by Nevin, in a sweet and very artistic manner. The solo, "Refuge in Thee," was very acceptably rendered by Miss Pascoe. A very choice organ selection, "Andantino in D flat," by Lemare, was played by Mr. Walden at both services yesterday.

Rev. Mr. Shorey will be absent from town attending Conference next Sunday, but he promises to send a good supply from Conference.

Heat and Cold

Are never-failing causes of disease. At this season of the year neuralgia, toothache, and a host of similar diseases are rampant. The great question then, is to find the quickest, surest, and most economical remedy. Polson's Nerviline exactly fills these requirements. It is prompt, efficient and most economical, for it exceeds in power every known remedy, and is as cheap as inferior articles. A 10 cent sample bottle will give every person a chance to test it. Large bottles only 25 cents.

ANNUAL FLOWER SERVICE

The Children's Service at St. Luke's Largely Attended.

St. Luke's church celebrated its annual flower service last night, when the church, as is usual on these occasions, was crowded to the doors. About one hundred children, under the direction of Superintendent Spence, and led by Mrs. W. Scott, marched in procession round the church, each child bearing a bouquet of beautiful flowers, and singing the pretty and appropriate hymn,

"O gather the flowers together
And place them near the shrine."

The choir rendered the anthem, "March, March Onward, Soldiers True," and Rev. H. Symonds delivered a short address. The flowers are being distributed to-day at St. Joseph's hospital, the Nicholls hospital and to a number of sick persons.

Brevities

—The police have a pair of ladies' black kid gloves for which they want an owner. They were found in the South Ward.

—At the Nicholls hospital on Saturday, the death took place of Thos. McMurdie, of Lindsay, who was brought down on Wednesday last suffering from injuries received by being struck by a train in that town.

—The electric storm on Saturday night frightened pedestrians off the streets. The lightning came in contact with the electric light wires in the south ward and several residences were put in darkness in consequence.

—Mr. J. Alex. Culverwell is to-day taking the Lindsay Council and leading citizens on an excursion to Burleigh Falls to view the power site there of the Central Ontario Power Co.

—The police have a purse and a bunch of keys for which they want an owner. The purse was handed in to the police having been found on the street, and the keys were left at McCallum's restaurant.

—On Saturday afternoon John Strain, an employee of McAllister's mill, had a rib fractured by being struck by a belt which slipped from a pulley on which he had spilled some oil while oiling the machinery.

—A collection was taken up yesterday in the Charlotte-st. Sunday school in aid of the Indian famine fund, and the contributions reached the handsome figure of $21.73. This is exceedingly creditable to the Sunday school and shows the proper spirit.

—Robt. Stewart, who was convicted last February of cruelty to animals and who subsequently gave notice of appeal against the conviction, now gives notice to the Chief of Police through his solicitors withdrawing his notice of appeal.

A CHRISTIAN PRINCIPLE

DUTY OF THE FAMILY HEAD TO MAKE PROVISION FOR FUTURE

Church Parade of the Canadian Order of Foresters to All Saints'—Address by Rev. W. L. Armitage—Large Congregation.

The annual church parade of the Canadian Order of Foresters was held last evening to All Saints' church. There was a large attendance of the members, about one hundred being in line, and the general congregation was also large. The service was interesting and an impressive address was delivered by Rev. W. L. Armitage.

Rev. Mr. Armitage stated that it was with great pleasure that he extended on behalf of the officers and members of the congregation a hearty welcome to the members of the Canadian Order of Foresters, especially as the Order was one that had always been well received by all people.

The speaker took his text from Genesis 41-31, "And Pharaoh said unto Joseph * * * * Egypt." He pointed out that a church attendance of a society is of the object of the society but it is to recognize that all good things come from the Father of Life and also that we may come together to thank God for his gifts to us both as an individual and as an order. We meet as a common community, that of a nation. The members may hold different opinions but they are bound together as members of the order and as members of the same country. No society can do more to bind together the men of this country. They are called Canadian Foresters, called after the country and are responsible for the safe keeping of that great name. In this country we have possibilities for goodness and greatness as magnificent as our resources. As Canadians we are bound together in the bond of good fellowship from the Atlantic to the Pacific, a bond that binds the members together in their sorrows as well as in their joys.

This bond of union is what is needed more and more in the empire. The founders of the order did not think at the beginning to build up such

A GREAT SOCIETY.

However, this order has risen higher until now it has 40,000 members and a treasury of $1,000,000 for the relief of suffering and sorrow. It has bound together in a national strength those who have many different interests. It has bound them together in principles broad enough for all and yet binding enough to be sacred.

Rev. Mr. Armitage congratulated the Order on its success and was sure it would reflect credit on its principles, principles which God would have us abide by, principles of liberty, benevolence and concord.

It may be but a duty to help one another but it is a duty for the doing of which the members

SHOULD BE THANKED.

We may call it business but it is done in sight of God with truth and unrightness and honesty and is done in the cause of religion as much as in the cause of everyday life. There is no division into secular and sacred in the sight of God. It is all sacred and should be so performed.

The principle of liberty is

A GIFT OF GOD

to all His children. He proclaimed "Peace on earth, good will to men." It is the gift of God that one man shall stand by another that he may still be a free man. The liberty of God stands for liberty of spirit, the liberty to do good to others.

Benevolence simply means

DOING GOOD.

When we go to visit a brother we do it not because it is a duty but with a fellow feeling and with a knowledge that it is acceptable in the sight of God. We should all practice these principles. They are the duties of our faith.

Concord is

THAT HARMONY

by which all things divine are moved. God is a lover of concord. There is no discord in His work. His universe is noiseless in its concord, in its harmony. Our Lord came to earth that He might put down that discord that existed between the heart of man and his God, to establish the harmony that should exist. The concord of the lodges teaches the men concord in their own homes and lives and, extending it, we shall learn to love our enemies and those that despitefully use us. On these principles of liberty, benevolence and concord we shall unite together our provinces in love and shall merit that blessing of Christ promised to the peacemakers.

The system

is not to be condemned because some evils have arisen from it. In it there is a principle that is beneficial, that of provision for the time to come. This is truly a religious principle. "Be not anxious for to-morrow" does not mean to not make provision for the morrow.

The Egyptians were commanded to give a fifth part of all their crops for seven years that they might make provision for the famine. They did so. Yet some men recoil at the idea of giving one tenth to religion or charity. In this story God showed Joseph how to make provision for the future and he expects all men to do it. It is

A SACRED DUTY.

We should endeavor to make our homes

A SHOCK THAT CURED

WHY ONE MAN NO LONGER HAS A DESIRE FOR LIQUOR.

His Story of the Terrifying Experience That Made Him and the Drink Habit, Which Brought About the Incident, Part Company.

"Thanks, I don't care if I do—not," said one man in the crowd of half a dozen who were invited to indulge in a potation.

"Why not?" inquired the host. "You drank enough when we worked together five years ago down yonder in the Cumberland mountains handling timber for that Michigan firm."

"As the children's books say," responded the man of temperate will, "listen, and I will tell you a story. When you went away and left me there alone, whatever there was in the country that was endurable went away, too, and I began to take all the time at my disposal for my drinking time. You left in October, you remember, and at Christmas I resolved to celebrate my loneliness by a drunk that would make me forget my surroundings for three or four days at least. My plans were carried out to the letter, the festivities beginning the third day before Christmas and going right ahead until Christmas night, when I got out of the house and started up the mountain. All I know is that I got out and wandered away among the rocks and cliffs. When I recovered consciousness, I was lying on a smooth stone, and it was dead dark around me and somewhat warmer than when I last remembered. I dozed off several times after my first awakening, and I did not know where I was. At first I did not care, but after awhile my thirst became so strong that it brought me to a full sense of my situation, and brought with it the purpose of getting something to quench that thirst.

"I thought it was the darkest night I ever saw, and when I at last got to my feet I was afraid to move lest I might go off the stone and land somewhere 1,000 feet down the mountain. Then I looked for matches and found none. As for stars, there wasn't a glimmer of one in the sky, and if there was a moon it had retired for the night. I calculated that it must be near daylight, and though I could hear my watch ticking I could not see its face. Being afraid to move and not comprehending the meaning of the thick darkness, I lay down again, intending to wait until daylight.

"I lay awake half dreaming for some time, then went to sleep, and when I awoke again several hours must have elapsed, and it was still as dark as before. I rubbed my eyes now and getting to my feet began groping my way about the stone on which I stood. It was evidently not more than 20 feet in diameter, for as I cautiously felt my way around it I soon came to an edge over which I feared I might fall. At last, without any apparent reasoning process, the thought came to me with sudden and dreadful conviction that the darkness was not the darkness caused by the night, but that I was blind. 'My God!' I shrieked, 'I am blind,' and with that I threw myself down on the hard stone and clawed at it as if it were something I could get hold of to lead me. In an instant more my mind was as clear as if I had never been stupefied by drink, and I sat with my face in my hands and cried like a baby. Then I prayed as I never prayed, but it was such a wild, tempestuous, rebellious prayer that it could not have helped my cause.

"Then I sat and listened, hoping that I had been missed and that the men, knowing my fondness for the mountain, were searching for me. The stillness of the mountain had always impressed me, but never as it did now, when I was sightless. I tried to catch a sound of the wind in the trees, but there was no breeze apparently that morning, nor was there any sunshine, for I had not felt its warmth. Four or five times I shouted for help, but I was two miles at least from the nearest house, and if any one were coming that way at all it would be near enough for me to be seen rather than heard.

"Fear made me less impatient than I would otherwise have been, for I was well aware that any slip off the stone where I was meant a fall of 50 feet at any point and 500 on the side toward the east, and I sat as still as I could, each moment feeling the growing sense of fear and utter helplessness. For hours, it seemed to me, I sat, afraid to move as I had moved at first, and then came a change in my feelings. Why should I fear to move? Why should I fear to fall? Why should I not move and fall and die? What good on earth was I without my eyes? Who would support me? Who would want the bother of me? Death were preferable to darkness such as covered me then, and I would throw myself from the rock and let my body rot among the rocks if no one came to find me.

"As I rose once more to my feet I heard a sharp yelp, and the next instant my dog was licking my hand and tumbling all over me in the most enthusiastic fashion. For the moment I was so glad to see him—I mean I was so glad that he had found me—that I forgot my infliction. But it was only for an instant. As I put out my hands to him and felt his familiar head and furry ears I knew I could never see the old fellow again, and I burst into uncontrollable weeping. 'Go, go, Jack, old man,' I said to him when I could; 'go quick and tell the people that I am here blind, and they must come to me. Go quick,' and I pushed him away. But he would not go. On the contrary, he began barking until the place rang with noise, and as I tried to quiet him I heard a shout, then another as the dog barked more wildly than ever and then a lot of voices. A second later the light of a dozen lamps fell upon me coming around the jutting rock, and I fell over on the dog in a dead faint.

"It was 24 hours until I knew anything and six weeks before I recovered from the subsequent attack of brain fever. Then they told me I had wandered that night into a cave in the mountain, and not showing up the next day they had gone searching for me. They were unsuccessful the first day, but taking the dog as an afterthought on the following day they had hunted me out and found me about a quarter of a mile from the cave's mouth, traced there by the dog. Since that experience I am pretty sure you will understand that the liquor habit or that which brings it to a man is not a pleasure to me."

A Painter In a Swamp.

Wishing to make a study of a portion of the swamp near El Akewa, in Egypt, I set up my easel on the edge of a pool where the ground seemed a little firmer than the rest. Quickly becoming engrossed in my work, I did not notice that I was slowly sinking until I found that my sketching stool had nearly disappeared and my legs were imbedded in the mud almost up to my knees. With the breaking of the surface crust the black slime gave out most horrible odors, and small stinging flies, liberated from the earth, quickly covered me, crawling up my legs and arms, while the mosquitoes, combining in the attack, eventually drove me from my half finished work.

Though really quite clear, the water was so alive with mosquito grubs as to appear almost opaque. By thousands every moment the grubs would come to the surface, either crawling up the rushes or floating, and the outer shells soon cracking in the sun left the little insects at liberty. A few seconds sufficed to dry their wings and give them life and strength, and then with hum and buzz they joined their brothers in the air, hovering in thousands like a cloud of black smoke over the stagnant pond from which they sprang. Then I was discovered—a rare bonne bouche for those parts—and a rapid retreat became imperative.—C. Talbot Kelly in Century.

Black Rain.

The first case of black rain which comes under review occurred at Grahamstown and the surrounding district in August, 1888, and it extended over an area of no less than 360 square miles, says Chambers' Journal. Since then there have happened several showers of a similar description, but less pronounced in their sable character. Other showers of black rain have been recorded in Ireland, one of which was felt over an area of 400 square miles.

No one seems to have microscopically examined the water which fell at Grahamstown, but it was noted that the liquid gradually cleared when placed in a suitable vessel, and a black precipitate fell from it. In the latter cases referred to the deposit has been carefully examined and was found to consist of microscopic organisms, which averaged about the twelve thousand five hundredth part of an inch in length, and which were identified with the same fungoid organisms that are responsible for blight in the plants which they infest and subsequently for smut, mildew and rust in wheat and barley.

The writer sums up his remarks thus: "Humidity is known to contribute largely to the copious production of fungi, and during protracted drought the regions affected thereby will remain comparatively bare of fungi, but during the seasons of frequent rainfalls the production of a fungoid vegetation is largely increased."

BONNER'S FIRST HORSE.

Bought by His Doctor to Save the Publisher's Life.

"I remember well the first driving horse that Robert Bonner purchased," said Dr. Hall of New York. "To be more accurate, it was I who purchased the animal for Mr. Bonner. I was his family physician during the fifties, and one hot summer day I met him on Broadway. He had been so busily engaged with the New York Ledger, which he purchased in 1851, that I had not seen him for some time. When I met him, I was actually startled by the man's appearance. He was well nigh unrecognizable. Dark lines showed under his eyes, and his skin was pale and drawn, like the skin of a consumptive.

"'Bonner,' I cried, 'what have you been doing to yourself? Here, come into the shadow. You're in an excellent condition to suffer a sunstroke.'

"'Oh, there's nothing much the matter,' he answered. 'I'm simply worked out trying to make this paper of mine a go. That's all.'

"'That's all!' said I. 'Well, that's nearly enough to put you in your grave. Here, jump into this omnibus and get a breath of air.'

"'Can't do it, doctor!' he replied. 'I have an important engagement which must be kept.'

"'Bonner,' I persisted, gripping him by the arm and detaining him, 'it's my duty to tell you that you are killing yourself. You must take a rest.' But in spite of the most direful warnings and strongest pleas the Scotch-Irish in him insisted on having its own way, and he left me, not, however, until I had made him promise to drive regularly in the country at least once a week.

"To make sure that he would keep his promise, I bought an excellent roadster, which cost, I remember, $350, and sent the animal to Mr. Bonner. Shortly afterward I met him out driving. His cheeks were aglow, and on recognizing me he pulled up alongside and, reaching his hand to me, said in great enthusiasm: 'Doctor, I want to thank you. I never would have known the joy of sitting behind a good horse had it not been for you.'

"Two or three months later he bought a span of iron gray horses, for which he paid $1,500.

"From the time of this purchase until his death Mr. Bonner was the best known strictly amateur horseman in this country. To gratify his taste for fast horses he purchased some of the most celebrated trotters in the world, but withdrew them from the race course. Probably his greatest horses were Peerless, Dexter and Maud S, marking, as they did, three distinct epochs in the history of trotting horses in this country.—New York Mail and Express.

HOW A PLANT FEEDS.

Digestive Processes Are Carried on In Its Living Cells.

It is more than 2,000 years since philosophers began to speculate about the food of plants and what we may term their "digestive" processes, but it is only during the last half century that really clear and definite notions concerning the food supplies of the vegetable world have been generally accepted by scientific men.

As far as is known, the first botanical experiment ever performed was conducted by Van Helmont. He placed in a pot 200 pounds of dried earth, and in it he planted a willow branch which weighed five pounds. He kept the whole covered up and daily watered the earth with rainwater. After five years' growth the willow was taken up and again weighed and was found to have gained 164 pounds. The earth in the pot was dried and weighed and had lost only two ounces.

Knowledge was not yet sufficiently advanced to enable Van Helmont to interpret these striking results correctly, and he came to the erroneous conclusion that the increased weight of the plant was due to the water which had been supplied to the roots. He therefore looked upon this experiment as supporting the theory which he had advanced—viz, that plants required no food but water.

Stephen Hales advanced the subject a great step by indicating that much of the increase in weight of plants was derived from carbon dioxide in the air.

Vegetable cells contain a liquid known as "cell sap," which is water holding in solution various materials which have been taken up from without by the roots and leaves. These materials are thus brought in contact with the protoplasm, which causes them to undergo changes in composition which prepare them to be added to the substance of the plant. Thus it is in the protoplasm of the living cells of the plant that those "digestive" processes are carried on which Aristotle believed to occur in the soil. We see, then, that the living cells are microscopic laboratories in which the digestion of the food of the plant is carried on.—Knowledge.

Pretty Bit of Superstition.

When a Chinese baby takes a nap, people think its soul is having a rest—going out for a long walk perhaps. If the nap is a very long one, the mother is frightened. She is afraid that her baby's soul has wandered too far away and cannot find its way home. If it doesn't come back, of course the baby will never awaken. Sometimes men are sent out into the streets to call the baby's name over and over again, as though it were a real child lost. They hope to lead the soul back home.

If a baby sleeps while it is being carried from one place to another, the danger of losing the soul along the way is very great. So whoever carries the little one keeps saying its name out loud, so that the soul will not stray away. They think of the soul as a bird hopping along after them.

Hot Water Bags.

A hint in the use of hot water bags is gained from a trained nurse. Very little water is used, not more than a coffee cup full in a three pint bag, but it is very hot. Before the stopper is screwed in the air is pressed out of the bag by a quick smoothing of the hand toward the opening. In this way the weight is considerably lessened. This particular nurse in attending a pneumonia patient kept in use during the severity of the attack six of the bags, three of them upon the patient at one time. During periods of the critical two or three days the bags were changed every 15 minutes, but so light were they that their weight did not in the least inconvenience the sufferer.

Among Japanese a daily hot bath is the rule. When people are too poor to have a bath in their own houses, they patronise the public baths.

Some people wear glasses because they can't believe their own eyes.—Chicago News.

Venice Without Water.

Venice without water would hardly be Venice at all, but we are assured there is a possibility that the picturesque Venice of today may become a city of the past, and eventually Venice may be waterless.

According to Professor Marinelli, the regular increase in the delta of the river Po is such that in process of time the northern Adriatic will be dry, and Venice will no more be upon the sea. The annual surveys show that the mean annual increase of the delta during 70 years has been three-tenths of a square mile.

An encroachment upon the sea of three-tenths of a mile in a year means a large increase in a century. It appears that the total increase in six centuries has been about 198 square miles. The increase is continuing, and the gulf of Venice is doomed to disappear.

No immediate alarm need be felt, and it will not be necessary to hurry off to Venice to take a farewell look at the city in its present picturesqueness. Professor Marinelli calculates that between 100 and 120 centuries will elapse before the entire northern Adriatic will have become dry land.—Youth's Companion.

His Toast.

Brown was very much in love with pretty Miss Simpson and had told her so repeatedly, but in vain. She did not reciprocate. Brown's friends knew of the affair, and whenever Brown gave a toast Miss Simpson was made the subject of it. One night, when Brown and his companions were enjoying a little supper among themselves, one of the men said:

"Come, Brown, your usual toast."

"No," came the reply. "Since I can't make her Brown I'll toast her no longer."—London Answers.

Lady Betty.

In prerevolutionary days there was a woman public executioner in Virginia. At that time death sentences were respited on condition that a criminal should perform this office.

"Lady Betty," as she was afterward called, was sentenced to death for murder. She offered instead to become public executioner and held this office for many years.

It is said that on the scaffold she officiated without a mask.—Chicago Times-Herald.

Hardened.

"How came a man of your ability and position in society ever to engage in counterfeiting?" the judge asked him.

"I wanted a light, easy way to make money at my own home, your honor," answered the prisoner.

The judge looked at him sharply and gave him the full limit of the law.—Chicago Tribune.

How Peary Retrieved Wild Ducks.

Lieutenant R. E. Peary, the arctic explorer, was born in Maine. He prepared himself for entering Bowdoin college at Fryeburg academy in Fryeburg, in the western part of the state. The following story of Peary's early days shows his method of overcoming obstacles:

One of his fellow townsmen while out hunting one day in November discovered a flock of ducks in a pond about two miles from the village. The man wanted the birds, but knew no way of getting them, even if his shot were effective, for he had no dog, and there was no boat in the pond. On his way home he met Peary and told him about the ducks and why he had not fired at them.

"Now," said Peary, "let's go back to the pond, and if the ducks are still there I promise to retrieve all you kill."

They returned to the pond; the ducks were undisturbed. The weather had been cold for several days, ice had formed around the shore of the pond, and the ducks were bunched out in open water, but within range. Merrill fired and killed two. Without more ado than if he were about to take a dip in the old swimming hole on a hot July day Peary removed his clothing, broke the ice with a heavy stick and swam out, picked up the dead birds and brought them to land.—Saturday Evening Post.

The Sign Painters.

The question has been asked of sign painters hundreds of times, "Which letter of the alphabet do you consider the hardest or most difficult to make?" It is but natural to make the inquiry, for to the novice some particular letters are more perplexing than others. It is most generally conceded by some experts that the Roman capital letter "R" is the most difficult. Others will say that an "S" is very hard to make, and many strongly contend that the character "&" is the hardest and most difficult of any in the entire alphabet. Practically speaking, all of these letters are somewhat difficult, and to the young beginner they are not easily mastered.

It has frequently been supposed that an artist of ability on account of his great talent in drawing would of course naturally make a good sign painter, but the experiment has been tried and given up with unsatisfactory results.

An artist may draw and paint a most beautiful picture, but when it comes to forming a perfect letter he is entirely out of the race. About 47 years ago there were five well known artists of this city who were also experts at lettering, they having learned and worked at this branch previously.—New York Times.

The Club He Needs.

"That boy of mine," said the portly personage with the large watch chain and seal, "writes me from college that he has just connected himself with another club, composed exclusively of [illegible]. I wish some club would [illegible] with his body just [illegible] may a [illegible]."

The court of appeals of Kentucky has held that a person who was learning to ride a bicycle upon a street and while doing so was injured by a trolley car was not guilty of contributory negligence so as to preclude recovery of damages.

A Close Call.

Once I sailed these seas, where are the cannibals, with a corpulent captain. Whenever a chief came on board the first thing he was sure to admire was the proportions of our gallant tar, and the chief would feel him and smack his own lips and turn up his own eyes at the prospect of so much fatness—going to waste, as one may say. These attentions our skipper very much disliked.

Well, one day both boats were absent trading, and it fell suddenly calm. "The old man" (the forecastle name for a skipper) and self were the only whites on board. The strong currents caught the vessel and carried her on to the rocks, and we could get no bottom a hundred yards from the shore. The underflow from the waves kept her from striking. The natives gathered on the cliffs, as ravens to a carcass, waiting for the catastrophe. I took off all my clothes, and we waited and waited for some two hours, the natives recognizing the captain and telling him plainly they would eat him at last.

The strain on our nerves may be imagined. At last the captain's gave way. "Goodby, G——, old fellow," he said. "Those beasts will have me in the ovens at once. You may escape—you are thin. If you see my old girl again, tell her I was thinking of her at the last." This was said with a gulp and a quiver in the voice. But just then the two boats came round the point, having at last heard our stern guns, and we were saved.—"Among the Man Eaters," by John Gaggin.

Where It Rains Frogs.

Every once in awhile stories are brought out about extraordinary showers of fish, of bloody snow, etc., the latest thing being of a ship captain far out on the Atlantic who ran into a dust shower so heavy he had to set his crew shoveling the dust from the decks when the weight began to get dangerous. To this be there added a tale:

It rains frogs in Arizona. The old timers believe there is no doubt of it, though they cannot explain whence the frogs were originally "lifted." But this much is straight—let there be a summer rain along the line of the southern Pacific in southwestern Arizona, and behold the next morning every little pool has a myriad of little lean green frogs with marvelous croaking powers. They don't wait for nightfall like their more civilized brothers elsewhere, but keep up the music by day as by night. They live where water comes only about once a year. They can't live over the interim under the sun baked black rocks. They assuredly haven't hopped from the Colorado river, and they are all of a size to boot. If they didn't come from the ground or from the river, they must have come from the skies.

And that's what the Hassayampers firmly believe.

Reciprocity.

She drew a dime from her purse and put it between her teeth, while she crowded back the contents of the bag and snapped it shut.

When the conductor came along, she took the coin from her mouth and extended it to him.

He saw the action and at once placed a nickel between his lips. Then he took the dime and handed her the nickel.

"A fair exchange, ma'am," he pleasantly said.

"Of what?" she haughtily asked.

"Of microbes," he replied, and passed along.

MR. CLUXTON'S VIEWS

He Would Raise the Qualification of Voters and no Aliens Should Vote.

Saturday's Mail and Empire contained the following letter from Mr. W. H. Cluxton, Peterborough's well known citizen:—

Sir,—Whither are we drifting? Politically, we have very much reason for a feeling of uneasiness. Individuals are elective to the Government, though they may be utterly devoid of qualifications, personally or otherwise, and they may be elected by citizens who have no real interest in public affairs, citizens too glad of an opportunity to sell their votes for a dollar. We have aliens to whom we give full rights of citizenship, and there are many such that have come to this country poor, amassed wealth under the protection of our Government, and who are openly disloyal to the British flag. It is not to be wondered at that "there is no honesty in politics," and that the country is disgraced by "election frauds." Such will be the condition of affairs so long as we have a mob Government, for such it is. Time has proven that "representation by population" as existing is operating disastrously, for the true interests of Canada. The remedy for such evils is to raise the voters' qualification to $1,000, and membership of parliament to $5,000. As to aliens, they should not have the rights of franchise without taking upon themselves an oath of allegiance. A "British subject by naturalization" is farcical.

Yours, etc.,
W. H. CLUXTON.

the happiest place on earth and if a man does not do so he fails in his Christian duty. We cannot make it too bright, too happy. It should be our first thought. A man who does not make provision for his family is not worthy of the name of man. It is in the home that a man should primarily practice the principles of liberty, benevolence and concord. The man who neglects to provide for his household is worse than an infidel. We may soon be called away. Those we leave behind us will know the difference and it is our duty to provide for them. How sad to see a household left without the breadwinner. How much easier it is when there is something left behind to maintain the little ones until they shall grow up. "Set thine house in order for thou shalt die." This is a divine injunction. We have no lease of life. The message will come some day and we should be able to show that we have done our duty to those dependent on us.

Many a man spends more on his drink and on what he smokes than would pay his premiums. There are homes for the poor and aged but no one wants to see their's go to these places. The provision should come from the hearts that love them. Only 2 per cent. of the toilers of the day become rich men. Who knows that he will become one of the two. If we are too poor to make provision of the future we are too poor to die and leave others behind unsupported.

A Bundle of Nerves

Nerve force is the very life of man and every organ of the human body is dependant upon it. Just as soon as the blood gets thin and watery and fails to supply nourishment to the nerves there comes a train of nervous disorders, nervous prostration, paralysis, epilepsy, insanity and death. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food rebuilds and revitalizes the nerve cells wasted by disease, overwork and worry. It is beyond doubt the world's greatest restorative. Recommended by your family physician. All Druggists recommend and sell it.

Covering Corruption.

To the Editor of the Review.

Dear Sir.—Those affidavits of Pritchett on the awfully crooked work done in the bye elections must have touched the Grits in a sore spot—in the raw, as it were. They have been squirming like eels ever since. From one end of Canada to the other their press bureau is sending articles on "Bob" Birmingham, in which there is a small grain of truth to a whole bin full of fiction, just about the usual proportions found in Grit stories.

Give a Grit editor one ounce of truth, and he will make out a whole ton of fiction, spreading his little modicum of truth over an immense area of fiction.

"So cowards fight, when they can fly
no further;
So doves do peck the falcon's piercing
talons;
So desperate thieves, all hopeless of their lives,
Breathe out invectives 'gainst the officers."

They are trying the usual game of attempting to cover up their own corruption, but Shakespeare says:—

"Lay not that flattering unction to your soul;
It will but skin and film the ulcerous place;
Whilst rank corruption, mining all within,
Infects unseen."

We also know that—

"The devil can cite scripture for his purpose,
An evil soul, producing holy witness,
Is like a villain with a smiling cheek."

Yours,
VIATOR.

THE SECRET.

Nightingales warble about it
All night under blossom and star;
The wild swan is dying without it,
And the eagle cryeth afar.
The sun he doth mount but to find it,
Searching the green earth o'er,
But more doth a man's heart mind it—
Oh, more, more, more!

Over the gray leagues of ocean
The infinite yearneth alone;
The forests with wondering emotion
The thing they know not intone.
Creation arose but to see it,
A million lamps in the blue,
But a lover, he shall be it,
If one sweet maid is true.

HOW TO ADJUST EYEGLASSES.

Lessons by an Optician Which his Customers Will Not Heed.

"Oh, yes," said the optician as he fitted a pair of glasses on the nose of a customer, "there is an art in putting on nose glasses, and at least half of the people who wear glasses don't know how to put them on. The result is that the moment they begin to perspire a little or when they shake their heads or make any unusual movement off go the glasses on the floor or more often the sidewalk. Of course, we opticians don't kick, for that very thing gives us a good part of our business. There is a good profit in putting in new lenses. Really the only sensible glasses to wear are spectacles. They fasten over the ears, and they never fall off, and they don't get out of adjustment. They fit on the same place every time, and the eye looks through the center of the lens, as it should look. But most people think that spectacles make them look older or something like that, and they insist on nose glasses. Then they don't know how to put them on, and if they don't get them just right the eyes don't look through the center of the lenses, and if there is any disorder of the vision other than nearsightedness the improperly adjusted glasses often do more harm than good, to say nothing of the expense from breakage. Now, madam, if you feel you must wear glasses instead of spectacles take them like this."

He took the glasses and held them perfectly level before him. "Stretch them wide apart and approach the nose like this." He advanced them toward the tip of the nose. "Now raise them up, so." Still holding the glasses so that the spring stretched wide over the nose, he advanced them upward until the upper points of the clips were directly under the eyebrows. "Now let go," said he. The glasses were on firm. "Shake your head," said he. The customer shook her head. The glasses wiggled, but did not fall off.

"You see," said the optician, "you can't shake them off. They sit perfectly and just fit the eye. You don't want anything better than that, do you? Now try putting them on yourself."

The customer took them off and attempted to put them back. She got them on askew.

"No, no, no!" said the optician. "That is all wrong." And he showed her over again how it should be done. It took six times trying before the customer mastered the knack and went away happy.

"She'll be back in a month," said the optician, "wanting one or two lenses to replace her broken ones. Now, I've showed her exactly how to put them on, but she'll get careless after awhile and will forget all about it. I can always tell about that by the way they catch on to the knack of adjusting them when they first put them on. People who have to wear glasses at all should wear spectacles. But if they will wear nose clips they must learn how to adjust them, or they'll ruin their eyes and break their pockets at the same time. Women are no worse than men in that. I've got a customer who paid me last year $50 for new lenses. That's about $1 a week, and I can't get him to wear spectacles yet."

The Porcelain Tower.

The famous porcelain tower was one of the architectural boasts of Nanking, China. It was reared in the ninth century before Christ by King A-yon and has been twice rebuilt—once in the fourth century of the Christian era and again in 1413 by Hoang-li-Tai. The tower originally attained a height of 350 feet. It consisted of nine stories surmounted by a great mast bounded by a spiral cage and crowned by an immense globe. A hundred and fifty-two large bells were hung from the roofs of the nine stories, which were ornamented also with 128 lamps. The cost of the original edifice was estimated at between $35,000,000 and $40,000,000. It was made of white brick, and the walls and roofs were brilliantly ornamented with porcelain. The great porcelain tower was destroyed in 1853, during the Tae Ping occupation of the city.

Taking It Out In Trade.

"I want you," said an old Georgia farmer to a teacher, "ter give Bill about $6 worth o' schoolin, pervided you'll take it out in trade. Fer instance, I'll start him on three bushels o' corn; then when that's out I'll keep him a-movin on a couple o' smokehouse hams; I'll give you a young heifer ter larn him writin an a home raised cow ter beat figgers in his head."

"Do you want him to learn any of the higher branches?"

"Well, after he climbs a leetle you might throw in 'bout a bushel or two o' them, ef you think fit, er, say, 'bout a quarter o' beef's worth."—Atlanta Constitution.

THE BRITISH OCCUPY KRUGERS CAPITAL

Lord Roberts Telegraphs the Good News of His Arrival at Pretoria, and all Britian is Again Celebrating

The Official Entry to be Made This Afternoon ---French got Orders to Liberate all the British Prisoners---Canadians Killed and Wounded in Action and Dead and Sick From Enteric Fever.

ROBERTS SENDS THE GOOD NEWS

London, June 5.—12.45 p.m—The War Office has issued the following despatch from Lord Roberts: Pretoria, June 5, 11.45 a.m.—We are now in possession of Pretoria. The official entry will be made this afternoon at two o'clock.

THE STORY OF THE ADVANCE ON THE CAPITAL

London, June 5.—The War Office this morning issued the following despatch from Lord Roberts: Six Mile Spruit, 8.30 p.m.—We started this morning at daybreak and marched about ten miles to Six Miles Spruit, both banks of which were occupied by the enemy. Henry's and Ross' mounted infantry, with the West Somerset, Dorset, Bedford and Sussex companies of Yeomanry, quickly dislodged them from the south bank and pursued nearly a mile, when they found themselves under a heavy fire from guns which the Boers had placed in a well concealed commanding position. Our heavy guns of the naval and royal atrillery which had purposely been placed in the front part of the column were hurried to the assistance of the mounted infantry as fast as oxen and mules could travel over the great rolling hills surrounding Pretoria. The guns were supported by Stevenson's Brigade of Pole-Cawew's, and after a few rounds drove the enemy from their positions. The Boers attempted to turn our left flank, in which they were again foiled by the mounted infantry and Yeomanry, supported by Maxwell's Brigade of Tucker's Division. As, however, they still kept pressing our left rear, I sent word to Ian Hamilton, who was advancing three miles to our left, to incline towards us and fill up the gap between the two columns. This finally checked the enemy, who were driven back toward Pretoria. I hoped we would have been able to follow them up, but the days are now very short in this part of the world, and after nearly two hours marching and fighting, we had to bivouac on the ground gained during the day. The Guards brigade is quite near the southermost fort by which Pretoria is defended and less than four miles from the town. French, with the 3rd and 4th cavalry brigades and Hutton's New South Wales Mounted Rifles, is north of Pretoria. Broadwood's brigade is between French's and Hamiltons's columns and Gordon is watching the right flank of the main force, not far from the railway bridge at Irene Station, which was destroyed by the enemy. Our casualties, I hope are very few." Upon receipt of the long hoped for news, London threw off the lethargy, which has prevailed since Lord Rosslyn's despatch proved premature. The town is now going wild. Within ten minutes after the news was received traffic in front of Mansion House was completely stopped, a tremendous poster had been placed outside the building which read "The British flag flies at Pretoria" upon catching sight of it the people threw up their hats and cheered.

CANADIANS DEAD, WOUNDED AND SICK

Ottawa, Ont., June 5—Lord Minto to-day received despatches from Sir Alfred Milner reporting that Pte. C. H. Bolt, Royal Canadian Regiment, died of enteric fever at Naauwport on June 1; that Pte. J. Dore, both of the Canadian mounted infantry, were wounded, the former dangerously and the latter slightly, at Rooiport on May 28, and that Capt. E. J. BRITAIN IS CELEBRATING

London, June 5—Throughout the length and breadth of the country the news of the fall of the Transvaal capital spread like wild fire and all England is celebrating the event with wild enthusiasm. Judging from Lord Roberts' phraseology the occupation of Pretoria was not accompanied by loss of life. A special despatch received to day says that by the order of Lord Roberts, Gen. French released all the British prisoners at Watervaaland, Pretoria.

THE BRITISH INVEST PRETORIA

General Lord Roberts, However, is Silent as to His Movements.

Great War Council of Boer Generals Held at Pretoria—Marvelous Revival of Courage, and Some Large Talk—Hope of Beating Britain Not Yet Dead—Kruger Has Skipped With All the Gold.

London, June 5. — (3.40 a.m.) — Of official intelligence regarding what is transpiring outside Pretoria, there is little or nothing doing. Lord Roberts is silent. Nevertheless by piecing together items from various correspondents, it would seem that Lord Roberts' immediate army is all employed north of Johannesburg, except the brigade, which is at Johannesburg, and that six columns are converging on Pretoria.

British Invest Pretoria.

An undated news agency message from Pretoria, via Lorenzo Marquez, June 4, says:

"Pretoria is now invested by the British. No resistance will be offered. The city will be surrendered by the burgomaster as soon as a formal demand is made.

This message purports to come in cipher. President Kruger commands the telegraph eastward from Pretoria, and the telegraphic news from Pretoria to Lorenzo Marquez has ceased; but the messages of newspaper correspondents continue to pass to and from on the railway.

Determined to Defend Pretoria.

The latest to arrive at Lorenzo Marquez brings events at the capital down to a late hour Friday night. At that time, according to these sources of information, the military leaders had quite recovered from the panic and had determined to defend the town.

War Council Held.

One message, which is dated June 1, says:

"Pretoria is full of strange burghers, but most of the commandoes are laagered outside. A great war council of generals has just concluded its deliberations. The decision as to the future military course has not been made known. Both Botha and Delary sat in the council."

Another despatch from Lorenzo Marquez by messenger, and dated at Pretoria, Friday, at midnight, says:

"The war council assumed the powers of the Government. Its members declare that the capital may still be successfully defended.

"One commander declared: "With the help of God, the hour will still come when Great Britain will acknowledge the independence of the two republics. A tremendous change will come over the situation.'

"Gen. Delary said that Pretoria would be defended to the utmost, adding: 'There is every chance that we will yet beat the enemy out of the country.'

Kruger Took All the Gold.

"President Kruger is somewhere to the eastward, but is in constant wire communication with the leaders here. There is, however, a deep feeling of anger against him at what is now called his unnecessary flight because he and the officials took all the gold and left their subordinates unpaid. The latest phase of public opinion is a marvelous revival of courage."

British Movements in Progress.

From Lorenzo Marquez comes a despatch dated June 4, saying:

"It is known that some great British movement is now in progress."

The previous movements of President Kruger's secretary and physician particularly their secret visit to the Dutch warship, Friesland, which is in the harbor here, has aroused a suspicion that important personages are expected.

No Danger of Being Surrounded.

The news from the minor theatres of hostilities is less cryptic. The Boer operations to break Lord Roberts' communications have been successfully baffled, and the communications are not in danger of being surrounded at Ficksburg, Senekal, Heilbron and Lindley. Gen. Rundle, instead of throwing himself against the Boers that are entrenched at Senekal, moved towards Ficksburg and established communications with Gen. Brabant. The Boers marched parallel with Rundle, intending to seize a strong position on the Ficksburg road, but Gen. Rundle got there first. The 1,500 Boers who were in this movement are now reported to be going elsewhere.

It Was a Hard Fight.

The correspondents with Gen. Rundle continue to point out the hardness of the fight of last Tuesday; but they believe that it will be the last real resistance. Col. Lloyd was thrice wounded. Drummer Haynes, while aiding Col. Lloyd, was hit in the hand, which was resting near the Colonel's heart.

Buller Throws a Shell or Two.

Gen. Buller's guns throw a shell or two towards the Boer positions in front of him occasionally.

Gen. Baden-Powell is still at Mafeking.

Gen. Hunter's column is marching, unopposed, into the Transvaal, beyond Lichtenberg.

Beyond Lichtenberg the Boers are assembling to oppose Gen. Hunter. Col. Mahon effected a juncture with Hunter Thursday at Maribogo.

Pretoria in Confusion.

Cape Town, Sunday, June 3.—The telegraph to Pretoria is still open, but the town is in great confusion. There has been a general exodus, among those taking part in it being the foreign fighting legion. Six special trains left on Wednesday last, and one of them is reported to have been derailed. No British refugees have arrived.

Capture British Officers.

Maseru, Basutoland, Friday, June 1. — Gen. Brabant's Horse have been the subject of several small captures at the hands of the Boers. Lt. Rundle was captured with twenty men while searching a farm house in.

Eczema on the Scalp

Would Itch and Burn until the Child Screamed with Agony—A Wonderful Cure Effected by Dr. Chase's Ointment.

The case recorded here is one of the worst ever brought to the attention of Toronto's best physicians, and when doctors gave up all hope of recovery, Dr. Chase's Ointment was successful in producing a perfect cure.

Mr. James Scott, 126 Wright avenue, Toronto, states:—"My boy, Tom, aged ten, was for nearly three years afflicted with a bad form of Eczema of the scalp, which was very unsightly and resisted all kinds of remedies and doctor's treatment. His head was in a terrible state. We had to keep him from school, and at times his head would bleed, and the child would scream with agony. For two and a half years we battled with it in vain, but at last found a cure in Dr. Chase's Ointment. About five boxes were used. The original sores dried up, leaving the skin in its normal condition. To say it is a pleasure to testify to the wonderful merits of Dr. Chase's Ointment is putting it very mildly."

The report was adopted.

HOUSE SHATTERED.

Mr. Alex. McCallum addressed the Council regarding damage done to his house by the firing of the cannon on Thursday night last in the Pretoria celebration. The damage would amount to $150.

Ald. Denne stated that the town had given no authority for the firing of the gun, nor had it bought the ammunition. Still, individuals should not be allowed to suffer loss.

The Council will consider the matter of these damages.

Mr. G. S. Matthews pressed that the Council take some steps to place his property on Dalhousie-st. in proper connection with the street as it was before the bridge was built. The matter was referred to the Board of Works, with power to act.

RAILWAY CROSSINGS.

The Mayor spoke of the danger of accidents at the railway crossings, especially at Charlotte-st., where several narrow escapes have taken place. It was decided to hold a meeting of the Board of Works this evening to deal with the matter.

DICKSON CO'S. STONE.

There was considerable discussion over the matter of stone loaned to the Dickson Co., and which had not been returned. Ald. Sawers pressed for some action to get back the $1,400 worth of stone. It was left to the Board of Works.

BAND STAND.

Ald. Clinkscale stated that the band stand in Victoria park was a disgrace. It should be torn down. It is too small. It is on the bias. A new one should be built. This was ordered to be done on motion of Ald. Clinkscale and Robertson.

BY-LAWS.

Ald. Denne introduced a by-law to provide for the grants to the Agricultural Society and bands as mentioned in the Finance committee's report. The by-law was passed.

Ald. Weir introduced a by-law to regulate junk shops.

The by-law was allowed to stand over for future consideration. It provides for the imposition of a license fee of $50.

On motion of Ald. Clinkscale the Property committee was authorized to have a new flooring laid down in the fire hall.

Ald. Denne moved, seconded by Ald. Clinkscale,—That the treasurer issue cheques to Evans & Langford and R. Sheehy for amount due them on granolithic sidewalk construction.

On motion of Ald. Weir, Jas. Wilson was permitted to do carting around town, and a free license granted him.

MUST RETURN THE GOODS.

Ald. Oke moved, seconded by Ald. Sawers,—That the Board of Works insist on the Dickson Company returning stone borrowed by them from the town, and failing its return the matter be referred to the Legal committee.

Ald. Denne moved in amendment, seconded by Ald. Corkery,—That the matter be laid over until the return of the Dickson Co's. manager.

The amendment was lost and the motion carried.

Council then adjourned.

BACKACHE?

If you have Backache you have Kidney Disease. If you neglect Backache it will develop into something worse—Bright's Disease or Diabetes. There is no use rubbing and doctoring your back. Cure the kidneys. There is only one kidney medicine but it cures Backache every time—

The parents have the right theory but how rarely they carry it to its broadest application. Every mother is perforce laying up for her child what money cannot influence—happiness or misery. The nervous mother will have a nervous child. The irritable and fearful mother cannot have a happy and cheerful child. In mind and body the child will reflect the mother's condition.

The best preparation for motherhood is made by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Its perfect control over the sensitive feminine organism gives it a natural influence over the mind. It banishes anxiety and fear. It does away with the misery of morning sickness. It gives vitality and elasticity to the organs peculiarly feminine, and makes the trial of motherhood easy and brief. It makes healthy mothers, capable of nursing and nourishing the babes they bring into the world. "Favorite Prescription" contains no alcohol, whisky or other intoxicant. Accept no substitute.

Mrs. Anni Kjer, of Gordonville, Cape Girardeau Co., Mo., writes: "When I look at my little boy I feel it my duty to write to you. Perhaps some one will see my testimonial and be led to use your 'Favorite Prescription' and be blessed in the same way. This is my fifth child and the only one who came to maturity; the others having died from lack of nourishment—so the doctor said. I was not sickly in any way and this time I just thought I would try your 'Prescription.' I took nine bottles and to my surprise it carried me through, and gave us as fine a little boy as ever was. Weighed ten and one-half pounds. He is now five months old, has never been sick a day, and is so strong that everybody who sees him wonders at him. He is so playful and holds himself up so well. I would like to see this in print for so many have said, 'Do you think those are the testimonials of the people, or has Dr. Pierce just made them up and printed them?'"

ROYAL COMMISSION ISSUES

Electoral Corruption Will Now Be Stirred Up in Canada.

Text of the Orders to Chancellor Boyd, Judge Falconbridge and Judge McTavish—They Have Been Given Full Instructions, and Their Scope Is Wide Enough to Go Behind 1896 if They so Desire.

Ottawa, June 5. — The Royal Commission has been appointed to inquire into election corruption. The scope of the commission is almost unlimited, and 1896 does not end their purview; it is left to the judgment of the judges. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, in making the announcement yesterday afternoon, read the following order-in-council, and the commission was forthwith issued:

"On a memorandum, dated June 2, 1900, from the Minister of Justice, submitting that, whereas allegations have been made that, during and for several years prior and subsequent to the general elections of 1896, for the election of members to the House of Commons of Canada, frauds were committed by returning officers, deputy-returning officers, or other parties, in several of the electoral districts, either while the votes were being polled or thereafter, by the spoiling of the ballots marked by the electors, or by the fraudulent substitution of other ballots for those so marked, or by other fraudulent conduct in respect to the ballots, at any time before and up to the return of the writ, and it being most desirable that all such alleged frauds should be investigated, and the recurrence thereof, if any, prevented, to the end that the return may show the actual vote of the electors who vote in each electoral district;

"And whereas it is desirable to appoint a commission, with full power to make enquiries, investigation, reports and recommendations, as hereinafter set forth;

The Commissioners Named.

"Therefore, the Minister recommends that, under the provisions of chapter 114, of the Revised Statutes of Canada, entitled 'An Act Respecting Enquiries Concerning Public Matters,' the Hon. Alexander Boyd, Knight Bachelor and President of the Supreme Court of Judicature for Ontario, Chancellor of the Province of Ontario, (to be chairman); the Hon. William Glenholme Falconbridge, one of Her Majesty's judges of the said Supreme Court, and a member of the Queen's Bench Division of the High Court of Justice for Ontario, and His Honor Duncan D. MacTavish, judge of the County Court of the County of Carleton, be appointed commissioners, under the said act, in respect of the election of members for the House of Commons of Canada, to enquire into and investigate any alleged fraudulent alteration, defacing, marking, spoiling, substitution or tampering in respect of election ballots, or by reason of any fraudulent conduct in respect of the poll books, ballot boxes, or the lawful contents, or what should of them be lawful contents of the ballot boxes, whether by way of fraudulent alteration, addition, withdrawal or otherwise, during and until the close of the election, and until the return of the clerk of the Crown in chancery;

Covers Every Case Reported.

"That the said commissioners have power to hold such enquiry and investigation in every case in which they consider reasonable grounds have, in their opinion, been shown to them for holding the same;

"That the Clerk of the Crown in Chancery do produce before the commissioners all poll books, voters' lists and all other papers, letters, documents and memoranda and ballot boxes in connection with any such election, when the same may be called for by the commissioners for the purpose of any such enquiry and investigation;

Two Q.C.'s to Assist.

"That the said commissioners have power to appoint two of Her Majesty's counsel, learned in the law, to assist them in such enquiries and investigations, and also a registrar of their proceedings and necessary stenographers: that for the purpose of making such enquiries and investigations they may prescribe such rules and regulations governing the practice and procedure as seem to them proper for the initiation and conduct of such enquiries and investigations, and that in making such enquiries and investigations they exercise all due despatch, proceeding in each case undergoing enquiry and investigation de die in diem unless for special and sufficient reasons they otherwise determine, and at the close of each enquiry and investigation they report to the Minister of Justice the result thereof;

Given Full Powers.

"That the said commissioners be vested with the power of summoning before them any witnesses, and requiring them to give evidence on oath, orally, in writing or on solemn affirmation, if they are persons entitled to affirm in civil matters, and to produce such documents and things as such commissioners deem requisite to the full investigation of the matters into which they are appointed to examine.

Power to Enforce Attendance.

"That such commissioners have the same power to enforce attendance of such witnesses and to compel them to give evidence as is vested in any court of record in civil cases;

There is No Limit.

"That, whilst for the purpose of such enquiry and investigations the attention of the commissioners is specially directed to a period including and subsequent to the general elections of 1896, still such enquiry and investigation is not limited to such period if they deem it advisable to extend the same to a period prior thereto;

"That at the close of such enquiries and investigations the commissioners make such recommendations for amendments to the law respecting the conduct of the election as are calculated in their judgment the better to preserve the secrecy of the ballot and to enable the electorate in the most effectual manner to exercise their franchise; and, generally, that the said commissioners may report any facts, circumstances or opinions that to them seem proper in respect of the matters hereby referred to them."

The committee submit the above recommendations for Your Excellency's approval.

Sir Charles Is Pleased.

Sir Charles Tupper said he was glad Sir Wilfrid had at last made good his promise, but would postpone his remarks upon the topic until to-day.

State Ownership of Railways.

The Election Commission having been announced, the House spent its energies upon the discussion of Mr. Clarke's amendment to the bill to incorporate the Canada National Railway and Transport Company. The amendment was practically a move toward Government ownership of railways. Its main clause provides that the Government may on one month's notice in writing take over the undertaking, rights and franchises of the company. At the conclusion of a spirited debate, the amendment was voted down by a vote of 37 to 49. The speakers were Hon. Mr. Blair, Mr. Archie Campbell, Sir Chas. Tupper, Mr. W. F. Maclean, Mr. N. Clarke Wallace, Mr. Richardson (Lisgar), Mr. McMullen, Mr. Wood and Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

The bill was read a third time, and the House arose at 6.30 p.m.

Many Questions Answered.

After recess questions by members formed the routine. Mr. Casey was told that the postmaster at St. Thomas was suspended because of alleged wrongdoing.

Since July 1, 1897, $2,555 had been paid in connection with the alien labor law. Mr. McMurrich of Toronto got $275 of it.

From January, 1883, till January, 1900, The Toronto Globe received $4,417 of public money for printing and advertising.

Sir Wilfrid announced that it was the intention of the Government to wait till the census was taken before giving the Yukon district representatives in the House of Commons.

"No," was Sir Wilfrid's answer to the question of Mr. Bourassa, namely, has the Government, or any of its members, been consulted as to the conditions upon which the South African war should be settled?

It is not the intention of the Government to offer any suggestion or opinion on the matter.

The Bank Act.

Mr. Fielding's Bank Act was presented for a third reading.

Mr. Rosamond (N. Lanark) moved an amendment that any bank advancing money on merchandise bought but not paid for should file in the office of the registrar such lien, stating all facts. Till such registration was made the bank should have no prior lien on the merchandise.

Mr. Fielding opposed the proposition, for it would be interfering with what had always been recognized as right.

Mr. Wallace took a hand in the debate and opposed the Bank bill in general. He thought the banks had too much power already. A vote was taken, and the amendment lost. The bill was given a third reading.

On a motion to go into supply, Sir Hibbert Tupper introduced his vote of censure upon the Government for its neglect of duty in regard to the case of the SS. John C. Barr. The vessel was a foreigner, shipping in the Yukon in March, 1899. She flew the British flag, contra to international law, and received certain privileges. Besides a fradulent undervaluation was registered. The undervaluation amounted to $15,000. Both the Minister of Customs and the Minister of Marine and Fisheries by reason of neglect of under officials were responsible. The matter had been investigated and the penalty under the Customs Act was imposed. The Government claimed there was no fraud, while the Opposition held that a mistake of $15,000 could not be made without intent. A dozen members spoke.

A vote was taken at 12.30, and Sir Hibbert's motion was voted down by 43 to 22.

The House then went into supply and took up the estimates relating to the Government of the N. W. T.

The House adjourned at 1.30.

THE WEST ELGIN TRAVESTY.

Duplicate Ballots Couldn't Be Printed by the Contractor—The Wrong Box Produced.

Toronto, June 5. — The West Elgin Commission sat again yesterday. The first witness was William J. Foster, foreman in the printing department of Warwick Bros. & Rutter, who testified that it would be impossible for a duplicate set of ballots to have been printed without his knowledge. All work of this character was under his personal supervision. Immediately the ballots were printed the forms were broken up.

Wrong Ballot Box Produced.

Edwin Long, a clerk in the office of Kerr & Macdonald, was present at the inspection of West Elgin ballots in Osgoode Hall on March 24, 1899, and succeeding days. On one occasion the wrong ballot box had been produced, but he could not say it was in the West Elgin case.

Shiftless Handling.

J. S. Cartwright of Osgoode Hall was recalled and asked if he could fix the date of the receipt of the West Elgin ballot box at Osgoode Hall. This he was unable to do, but thought it was on March 24. He recollected that a wrong box had been brought on one occasion, but was not positive that it was in the West Elgin case. There was nothing on the outside of the box to indicate its contents, and these could only be discovered upon opening it.

Robertson Got the Wrong Box.

James A. Robertson, a messenger at the Parliament Buildings, told of bringing the wrong ballot box to Osgoode Hall by mistake, about March 17. He thought it might have been the East Elgin box, as they were received at the same time, and there was nothing to distinguish them. He changed the box for the right one, a few days after.

This completed the evidence to be taken by the commission, unless something unforeseen arises, and the commissioners adjourned to meet again on June 22, to consider the preparation of a report.

STATEMENTS

That Command Attention and Inspire Hope.

Paine's Celery Compound

THE NEVER-DISAPPOINTING BANISHER OF SICKNESS AND DISEASE.

The statement that Paine's Celery Compound builds up sickly, weak and rundown people, is true in every particular. It is also true that Paine's Celery Compound is the only medicine in the world that can successfully grapple with obstinate and long-standing cases of disease and give to sufferers active limbs, pure blood, clear complexion, healthy appetite and perfect digestion. Scores of able and reliable physicians, prominent druggists, legislators, merchants and leaders in society can bear testimony to the wonderful cures wrought by Paine's Celery Compound during the past spring months.

Such facts and statements should be sufficient to convince all doubting and despondent sufferers, and inspire them with a determination to test the world's great health-giver. Mr. Chas. W. Ross, Department of Railways and Canals, Ottawa, writes thus:

"For a long period of time I suffered from the pains and tortures of neuralgia, and the effects to my general system were so serious and alarming that my doctor ordered an ocean trip. I went to England at considerable expense, but had to return to Canada almost as bad as when I left it. After getting home I determined to commence the use of Paine's Celery Compound, as it was strongly recommended for such troubles. After using the medicine for a short time the results were most pleasing and gratifying. The attacks became less frequent and less severe, and soon the whole trouble was completely banished. I have not experienced a pain or ache for months. I take great pleasure in recommending such a marvellous medicine to all neuralgic sufferers. Paine's Celery Compound has astonishing virtues and powers, and will certainly overcome any form of neuralgia."

Some people are always too late.

THE HONEY MAKERS.

Raising a lot of useless drones often eats up the profits.

It requires from 8 to 20 pounds of honey to produce one pound of wax.

The brood nest is the space inside the hive occupied by the eggs and brood.

Do not spread the brood nest in the spring by inserting combs or frames of foundation.

Usually it is best to use foundation in full sheets for the brood nest and to cut all drone comb.

The best queens are those that are reared either during the swarming time or when the bees are about to supersede an old queen soon to fall.

Almost any queenless colony will accept a virgin queen that has been out of the cell for 24 hours, but if she has been out longer it will be a difficult matter.

If a colony is formed of young bees entirely, they will sometimes go out into the fields for honey when but 5 or 6 days old. When the colony is formed wholly of adult bees, they will build comb, feed the larvæ and do the work generally.

When combs are left in the spring after the death of the bees in a hive, there is no safer place to put them than in the care of a good, strong colony. Brush off the dead bees and put the combs in a clean hive, where the bees will be obliged to travel over them.—St. Louis Republic.

INVENTOR OF "LOG ROLLING."

Senator Sawyer Originated That Effective Form of Legislation.

Senator Philetus Sawyer was the inventor of that form of legislation known as "log rolling." It was the practical result of his ability to accomplish things. He never cared for show. He never made a speech in his life, but no man enjoyed the sensation of success more keenly. What he undertook he carried out, and if he couldn't do it in one way he did it in another. He had a large share of that faculty the Yankees call "contrivance," which enabled him to devise means for accomplishing his purpose that would not have suggested themselves to any other man. The "log rolling" method of legislation was suggested to him by the familiar habits of the lumbermen in his own country, who help each other roll the logs from the winter camp to the banks of the nearest stream, where they can be caught by the spring rise. It was the application of this neighborly practice which enabled Mr. Sawyer to secure legislation that could not otherwise have been passed, and he gave the method its name.

Wisconsin needed a good deal of legislation when he first came to congress, and Mr. Sawyer secured more than any 40 other men could have done. He let his bills accumulate until toward the end of the session, when he would take up the calendar and make memorandums of various measures in which influential men in the house and senate were interested. Then he would call them together at his house or at his committee room and say:

"Boys, we've got to do a little log rolling if we get our timber to the mill this session." The result would be an agreement to stand by each other and throw all their combined influence in favor of a list of bills which he had made out and handed to members of the combine. The work was conducted in secret and was almost always successful, so that the habits of the Wisconsin lumberman now prevail in every legislative body in the world.

The river and harbor appropriation bill originated in that way. Formerly a separate measure would be passed for each river or harbor that required improvement, but under Mr. Sawyer's log rolling system the members of congress interested in such appropriations organized a trust, which finally grew into a regular annual appropriation bill and a special committee to frame it.—Washington Letter in Chicago Record.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Knapman celebrated their tin wedding yesterday and received the congratulations of many friends. About thirty guests were present in the evening and spent a most enjoyable time. Among the guests for the day were Mr. J. E. THE POWER SITE AT BURLEIGH FALLS

A LINDSAY DEPUTATION GO UP TO INSPECT THE LOCALITY

Where the Power House Will be Placed —Opinion as to the Possibilities of the Project.

On Monday a deputation of gentlemen from Lindsay passed through town having been invited by Mr. J. A. Culverwell, managing-director of the Central Ontario Power Company, to go up and view the site at Burleigh Falls, where the power developing plant of the company will be placed. The deputation included Mayor R. Smythe, Alderman E. P. Gillogly, Town Solicitor G. H. Hopkins, and Messrs. J. H. Sootheran, Jas. H. Lennon, R. J. McLaughlin, Jos. Maunder, I. Finlay, T. McConnal, Dr. P. P. Burrows, F. K. Begbie, the latter Manager of the Lindsay Water Works. Many of the deputation are engaged in business enterprises that require considerable power and are looking out for such and, as well, for a profitable investment. Mr. McLaughlin is a director of and the Solicitor for the C. O. P. Co'y. Rev. Dr. McLaughlin, of Victoria University, was also of the party. Mr. Culverwell was host and general director, and discharged both functions to the entire satisfaction of the deputation. Representatives of the local press were also of the party. Mr. J. M. Kilburn, of Owen Sound, proprietor of the Owen Sound Portland Cement Works, who was in Lakefield in the interest of the new cement works to be there established, and Mr. J. F. Lillicrap, joined the party.

The party reached here by early train from Lindsay and went on to Lakefield, where the steamer "Empress" was boarded. The boat was in capital trim and, having been fitted up and painted for the season's work, made a quick run up the river and through the lakes. Many of the party, though living within 30 miles of the lakes, had never visited the locality and were profuse in expressing their admiration of the beauty of the island-dotted lakes and the handsome cottages.

On arriving at Burleigh Falls the steamer crossed over to the opening in the shore line known as the mouth of Perry's creek. This is about 500 yards west of the hotel. The channel forms the overflow from the waters held back by the big dam above, and down its course was racing an immense torrent of water, tossing over the rocky bottom and impinging against the sides. Fifty yards back from where the creek empties into the lake, the sides of the gorge come together within almost a stone's throw and at this point the power dam will be placed. It is an ideal spot for such a purpose, and the hydraulic engineers who have viewed it declare that there is not on the continent its equal for the opportunity to inexpensively construct a dam impounding waters that will afford such a head for power purposes. The solid granite sides of the gorge slope up from the narrow bottom in the form of a "V," affording facilities for the strongest possible construction. It is proposed to build the dam of rock concrete, and of such design that the dam and power house will be one and the same thing, and that such construction will afford use of the head of water to the fullest extent. The head is roughly estimated at 27 to 30 feet. Just here a small bottle was broken and the spot christened "Culverwell Gorge."

The party followed the course of the stream through the gorge to where it begins at the overflow gates above the dam, and above this noted the vast storage capacity existing in Lovesick Lake which turns its waters in to the Burleigh channel of the Otonabee. It was seen that the source of power was practically inexhaustible and the estimate of from 7,000 to 10,000 h. p. being easily available can be readily credited. A good deal was talked over and explained as to the intentions and purposes of the Company and as several of the Lindsay men are interested in it, they were glad of the opportunity to see for themselves just the state of affairs on which it is proposed to begin work.

Dinner was partaken of at the Burleigh Falls Hotel, a meal that was a satisfactory finish to the morning's work. After disposing of the menu, Mayor Smyth proposed the health of Mr. Culverwell and of Mr. McLaughlin, of the company. Mr. Culverwell in reply sketched the purposes of the company and its [illegible] in developing the magnificent power [illegible] at the site. The question of [illegible] the current was now [illegible] practically understood, and long distance power transmission was now a settled fact as well as its commercial [illegible].

PRETORIA IS OCCUPIED.

The news of the occupation of Pretoria by the British which comes to-day is official. The good news is from Lord Roberts, and its correctness is, therefore, beyond any shadow of doubt.

The news which came last week that Pretoria would not make a defence, but would be surrendered to Roberts' advancing forces was well founded, and though the occupation was delayed the people had good cause to celebrate as they did with rejoicing and gratitude, rejoicing not over a fallen foe, but rejoicing because of the success of the British and because the fall of Pretoria meant the end or beginning of the end of the war.

The anxiety and fear that had been aroused by the absence of any definite news during the past few days is now relieved, and joy and gladness again reigns throughout the British Empire. And what cause for jubilation and thanksgiving! The city of Pretoria nestling between hills that made formidable natural defences, and surrounded by forts of great strength, could have made a stubborn fight that must have been costly in the sacrifice of lives and property. Although Lord Roberts' despatches show that a show at resistance was made outside the city as the Britishers advanced, the surrender of the city proves that the Boers realize that further fighting would be in vain, that a successful stand against Lord Roberts and his army is impossible and that they must yield to British pluck and courage and resources. The Canadians have taken an important part in the advance, and the Dominion feels special pride in its sons who have quited themselves so well.

Well, therefore, can Britishers rejoice to-day. Truly all may be glad and enthusiasm run high, for victory and triumph is with our army and peace is at hand.

That the man who is most responsible for the war and all its bloodshed, Kruger, has fled from his capital and his people is evident, but his ultimate escape from the country is problematical. However, his capture and his fate will do for another day. To-day we have the capture of his capital, the stronghold that the British could never enter, according to his speeches. That is sufficient.

Heat and Cold

Are never-failing causes of disease. At this season of the year neuralgia, toothache, and a host of similar diseases are rampant. The great question then, is to find the quickest, surest, and most economical remedy. Polson's Nerviline exactly fills these requirements. It is prompt, efficient and most economical, for it exceeds in power every known remedy, and is as cheap as inferior articles. A 10 cent sample bottle will give every person a chance to test it. Large bottles only 25 cents.

"Learn to Swim."

"Your Summer Days" is the title of the summer announcement of the Peterborough Y.M.C.A. In it attention is called to the new features in out-door recreation, and the programme for the meetings and Bible classes which will continue during the summer. The summer days have their usual list of drowning accidents, and all young men and boys who do not know how to swim should early take advantage of the opportunity of the Y.M.C.A. swimming bath, where they can learn this necessary art under safe and favorable conditions. Nearly all the boys who are connected with the Y.M.C.A. have learned to swim in the Association plunge, and not a few men as well. One life was saved last season because the boy learned to swim here. With an equipment such as the Y.M.C.A. offers to the men and the boys of the town, and at so small a cost, there should be many who should at once take advantage of these excellent privileges and learn to swim.

A DAYLIGHT ROBBERY.

Thief Walked off with a Horse from Hugh Fife's Field.

Yesterday afternoon about three o'clock, a horse belonging to Hugh Fife, Otonabee, Jermyn post office, was stolen from its pasture field in a daring manner. A neighbor saw a man driving an old horse attached to a heavy phaeton lead Mr. Fife's horse from the field, hitch it to his vehicle and drive off, leaving his own beast tied at the roadside.

The man is described as old, stout build, with sandy moustache, mixed with grey.

The animal stolen is a brown horse, 7 years old, about 15¼ hands high, heavy mane and tail, scar on right hind leg, shoulder galled and white hairs grown in. Had been clipped in the spring.

Feet of this description are shorter from heel to ball and longer from there to toes. They are as a rule powerful, but most of their power is lost in wearing wrong shaped shoes.

This shape is especially designed for such feet, they will find a degree of comfort in it not attainable in any other.

English Army Horses.

Every horse in the English army is numbered and has a little history kept for it all to himself. The number is branded upon the animal's hind feet—the thousands on the near hind foot and the units, tens and hundreds on the off hind foot. Thus the horse whose number is, say, 8,354 will have an 8 on his left hind foot and 354 on the other one. On what is called his "veterinary history sheet" everything about the horse will, from time to time, be written.

The table linen of the Prussian royal family and likewise of the reigning houses of Baden, Saxony, Bavaria and Wurttemberg is made at one particular factory devoted to the purpose at Bielefeld.

The Light House Keeper.

No class in the community render more signal service to their fellows than the men who here and there along the chain of our great lakes and rivers keep bright and clear the lights that guide the sailor. Lighthouse keepers are necessarily exposed a great deal to the weather, and one of them, William Gillespie, of Wolfe Island, Ont., states that in this way he contracted muscular rheumatism. "For two weeks," said Mr. Gillespie, "I suffered untold agony with muscular rheumatism in my shoulders. I was crippled by the disease to such an extent that I could not put my coat on without assistance. I bought a bottle of Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure, and two doses cured me completely. I have not had a twinge of pain since. There is nothing like this medicine for rheumatism."

FOLLOWED BY PICTURE EYES.

From the Wall the Gaze Seemed to Follow With Living Light.

"I saw a clever window lithograph the other day," said a New Orleans physician, "which represented a soldier with a knapsack on his back and a gun at his shoulder pointed straight ahead. Of course the weapon was so foreshortened that all you could see of it was the metallic circle of the muzzle, and it seemed to be aimed directly at the speaker. No matter in what direction you moved you were still apparently 'covered.' The same optical illusion was employed some time ago by a famous detective agency, which sent out large photographs of a highwayman holding a cocked revolver in his outstretched hand. The yawning muzzle followed one about the room in a way that was distinctly disquieting, and these two clever trick advertisements remind me of a curious case I once encountered in my practice.

"I was called in some years since to see a lady who was suffering from an obscure nervous trouble that for awhile completely baffled diagnosis. She had lost her husband a few months before, and, knowing the couple to have been deeply attached, I thought at first that brooding over her affliction had induced incipient melancholia. It was by no means a typical case of melancholia, however, and finally, after much questioning, she confessed to me that she was suffering from an extraordinary hallucination and was in mortal dread of becoming insane. She said she had recently had an artist paint a large oil portrait of her husband, and whenever she entered the parlor where it hung the eyes turned in their sockets and looked at her.

"I went down stairs at once to inspect the picture, and, just as I anticipated, I found that the painter had introduced the trick effect which I have described. No matter where I stood the gaze of the painted face seemed to be fastened directly upon me. Next day I called again and brought with me an artist friend, whom I left in the parlor while I went up stairs to see my patient. Presently I suggested that we go down and look at the painting together. She consented reluctantly, but as soon as she saw it she drew a deep breath of relief. It no longer stared fixedly at her. While he was left alone the artist had painted in two little spots of light that gave the eyes an entirely different direction."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

A COSTLY TOOTHBRUSH.

And Yet She Bought It at a Great Bargain Sale.

"And so you really believe your shopping expeditions—I mean particularly your ones to the special sales—are in a strict line with economy?" he asked as he settled back in the chair and watched her.

"Of course," she answered, smoothing out the folds in her dress, "of course they are. Didn't I buy a 50 cent toothbrush yesterday for 39 cents?"

"You saved exactly 11 cents," he said after a pause. "But now let us look at this matter in all its lights. As I said, you saved 11 cents. But we will commence at the beginning. You push your way into the crowded store. You see the special sale counter and fight your way to it, make your purchases and are happy. Your hair is mussed, your skirt is torn in two or three places and entirely disarranged when you finally get your change and board the car. When you get home, you are cross to the baby and the servant, and you go to bed with a bad taste in your mouth. In the morning you are tired, aching and sore. Then you vent your spite on me, and all for 11 cents."

"But 11 cents saved is 11 cents earned," she exclaimed triumphantly.

"True," he said, "but what do you need with another toothbrush? I believe I have noticed several around the house."

She looked bewildered for a moment.

"I thought perhaps you would need it," she explained.

He laughed.

"Perhaps I will—some day. But just at the present time I am also well supplied."

His words were becoming cruel, and her lips were quivering. He knew it and approached her. Then she cried. Her head was on his shoulder.

"Don't mind me, dear," he said. "I'm a brute. Shop wherever you please. Buy all the toothbrushes you wish"—

But her subchoked voice interrupted.

"It isn't that," she sobbed, "but, oh, Jack, I just remembered that I left my pocketbook at the store!"

He smiled again.—Indianapolis Sun.

His Railroad Pass.

The following is the history of a railroad pass which, if true, is very good of its kind. When R. N. Rice, who was afterward president of the Michigan Central railroad, was the general manager of the New York Central, he received by mail an expired pass, across the back of which the holder had written in red ink:

Bless my stars! No more on the cars
As a deadhead I'll ride on the rail,
Unless Mr. Rice should take my advice
And send me a pass by the mail.

Without a moment's hesitation Mr. Rice turned the pass over and traced in red ink on its face the following:

The conductor will pass this bundle of gas
From July till the middle of Lent;
Like any other deadhead, without paying a red,
Let him ride to his heart's content.

The pass was never taken up and is today kept in the family of the holder.—Troy Times.

When Sorrow Comes.

All is well as long as the sun shines and the fair breath of heaven gently wafts us to our own purposes. But if you will try the excellency and feel the works of faith place the man in a persecution; let him ride in a storm; let his bones be broken with sorrow and his eyelids loosed with sickness; let his bread be dipped with tears and all his daughters of music be brought low; let us come to sit upon the margent of our grave, and let a tyrant lean hard upon our fortunes and dwell upon our wrong; let the storm arise and the keels toss till the cordage crack or that all our hopes bulge under us and descend into the hollowness of sad misfortunes.—Jeremy Taylor.

Death to the Workmen.

It was in an art store in Fifth avenue, and the dealer was showing gilded clocks and candelabra to a customer. Pointing to one particularly handsome set, he said, "That is worth $350." Pointing to another of similar pattern, but not so handsome, he said, "That is worth $600."

"But the other one is better," said the customer.

"Well," said the dealer, "the chief value of this one (pointing to the $600 affair) is in the gilding. It was gilded by the mercury process which is now forbidden by law almost everywhere. The other one was treated with the electroplating process."

"Well, it's handsomer," said the customer. "Is it as durable? If it is, why should I pay $250 more?"

"It is practically as durable, and it is handsomer," said the dealer. "But you can duplicate it, and you can't duplicate the other. The mercury process of gilding was death to the workmen who engaged in it. They inhaled the fumes of the mercury, and in the end it killed them, and it wasn't long doing it, either."

"I'll take the mercury one," said the customer, "but the other is handsomer."

The Cossacks of the Don.

The Don Cossacks are the finest looking race of men ever seen. Kingly in their carriage, tall and slender, lithe and graceful, their untamed spirit visible in every motion, their bearing is that of an unconquered people. Used as a living barrier against the Tartar invasions of Russia, they were never conquered. Living in what they call camps, each with his horse and gun, they are always ready to move in response to the emperor's call.

Their costume is a long, tight fitting coat reaching to the knee, having loose sleeves and a small, standing collar and with a row of ammunition pockets across the breast. The colored belt which encircles the Cossack's slender waist bristles with ornamented knives, daggers and pistols. Soft, high boots without heels and a great lamb's wool cap, with a little touch of color for the soft crown, and then the burka or long cape of hairy felt which they seem to wear in all sorts of weather complete the costume. These burkas appear to be worn on the theory that what keeps out the cold keeps out the heat. Anyway, these long black or white garments protect horse and rider equally from the rain and cold.—Self Culture.

THINGS IN STORAGE.

FORTUNES LOCKED UP IN FIREPROOF BUILDINGS.

The First Big Warehouse Fire in New York and Its Tragic Consequences—The Moving of Family Belongings Reduced to a Science.

"Fireproof storage buildings in New York are of comparatively modern origin," said the proprietor of a large storage warehouse to a New York Mail and Express reporter. "The first storage house in the city which I can recollect was erected in 1867 by John H. Morrell at the corner of Fourth avenue and Thirty-second street, adjoining the stables of the Fourth avenue railway line. When Morrell's business had reached a flourishing condition, an immense fire destroyed the car stables and Morrell's establishment, ruining him financially. Immediately the public set up a great howl against storage houses, and the men who had followed Morrell into the business suffered severely.

"One Mme. Desgarrens had stored several trunks in Morrell's establishment. She had come to America to claim a part of the estate of her granduncle, a rich planter of Louisiana. On the very day of Mme. Desgarrens' arrival in this country she received notification of the dangerous illness of another American relative who lived in Boston, and after leaving directions that her trunks should be stored at Morrell's she immediately set out for the Massachusetts capital.

"On her return to New York she sent an order to Morrell charging him to forward her trunks to her hotel. The answer came back that during her absence the storage house, with all its contents, had been destroyed by fire.

"Mme. Desgarrens was in her room when the note informing her of the loss was brought by a servant. She read it partly through and, suddenly uttering a shriek, fell to the floor senseless. On recovering consciousness she was found to be violently insane and died three weeks later in her room at the hotel.

"The very evening of her death workmen who were clearing away the ruins of Morrell's establishment discovered one of her trunks—a little, square, black leather one. It had become wedged in among a mass of bricks when the walls had fallen and, excepting that it was scorched, had suffered no injury.

"In this trunk were found all of the papers identifying her as the grandniece of the planter, and in a little box, tied with white satin ribbons, there nestled two golden curls, a tiny pair of baby shoes and a large gold ring. Wrapped about the ring was a slip of paper on which was written in French, 'All that is left of my darling child and husband, who were burned to death at sea, April 23, 1860.' I was with the man who found the trunk, and both of us shed tears as we looked over the things.

"But there need be no danger of such fires nowadays, when the first class storage houses are as nearly fireproof as buildings can be. People with up to date ideas recognise that their household effects are far safer in our hands than under their own eyes, as a properly conducted storage house does not know what theft, breakage and fire mean. It would be impossible to say what is the value of a storage house and its contents during the busy season, but when one knows that 12 trunks in one of our compartments are insured for $20,500 and that there are 200 other compartments in the building it is apparent that the contents represent a fortune."

It is not generally known, but a man in this city may at any time he has a mind to, without a moment's notice, send orders to a first class storage and packing concern to have the entire furnishings of his home moved from 203 Blank avenue, New York, to 46 Dash street, London, or any other place of consequence, for that matter, and he can walk off to the first transatlantic steamship, his wife on his arm, with the positive assurance that as soon as space and time will permit everything, from pins and needles to carpets and sideboards, will be transferred from New York to London without the loss of a tack or the breakage of a wineglass.

This is not conjecture, but fact. It has been done time and again. The larger storage warehouses, by means of their perfect organization of professional packers and movers, have reduced the business to a science.

When an order is received at the office, an inspector is immediately sent to make an estimate, who can tell by simply walking through a house how many vans will be necessary to remove the furnishings and how much to the penny will be charged for the storage. After the inspector follows the large vans, with trained packers and movers. The packers are divided into two classes—those who pack the wagons and those who prepare the contents of the house for the wagons. The latter class is subdivided again into those who handle delicate china and bric-a-brac and the packers of the heavy furniture and carpets. Special men, also, are kept whose exclusive duty is to take care of pianos and organs.

When the goods are in the wagons, they are moved to the storage house, where immense elevators, capable of taking vans without unloading, run from the basement to the top of the building. Rooms are set apart on each floor for the unpacking and examination of baggage.

After each article has been examined to make sure that it has not suffered in transit the goods are carefully stored away in the apartments allotted to them and the keys of the apartments placed in the office safe.

If a packer discovers an imperfection in any article he is handling, he immediately reports the fact to the inspector, who makes a memorandum of it on the spot. This is to prevent any misunderstanding with the owner in the future. When a packer or mover breaks anything accidentally, he must immediately report it. When he does this and shows the injury to have resulted from an accident, a deduction is made from his salary, but should he neglect to report the matter on the first occasion he is docked for the amount, and on the second occurrence of the kind he is discharged.

THE SMART LAWYER.

He Made a Little Mistake That Cost Him Much Money.

This is so blamed true that it is interesting—very much so: A well known Maine attorney is especially noted for his keenness in looking out for the best end of every bargain and for his ability in getting hold of that end. It has made him unpopular in some circles—has that trait of his!

On one deal not long ago he was in with a couple of friends, men of wealth and standing. Business was good the first year. There was a generous division of profits. But the lawyer wasn't satisfied with what was coming to him, share and share alike with the others. After receiving his proper whack as a partner he exacted $500 more for "counsel fees." He said that as a lawyer he was worth that much more to the deal. This was a new way of looking at the matter, but the bill was resignedly allowed by the friends.

They were pretty good business men, understand. In a little while they saw that the venture wasn't panning out very well. So the shrewd men of affairs quietly unloaded without saying anything to their partner. Then a little later came the crash.

The lawyer hurried around to hold a consolation meeting with the other two.

"Gracious! Isn't this too bad?" moaned he. "I lost so-and-so. How much did you fellows drop? You must have been hit pretty hard."

"You're wrong, old boy," came the cheerful duet. "We never lost a dollar; no, we never lost a cent. Tra la!"

"Wha-t-t-t?"

"Never lost a dollar. We saw it coming two months ago. Had a tip. Unloaded. All out."

"Well, then, why in the name of all that's square and above board didn't you tell me?"

"Well, we would have had you allowed us $500 counsel fees when you took yours. See?"

Turned the Tables on Reed.

They tell a good story in West Virginia about the first meeting between two congressmen from that state and the gigantic speaker of the house, Thomas B. Reed. The two West Virginians are Hon. Blackburn B. Dovener and Hon. Romeo Hoyt Freer. Both are small in stature and wonderfully alike in their general appearance. Together they went up to the ponderous Maine man to be introduced.

"Humph!" said Mr. Reed. "Is that the best the Persimmon State can do?"

"What do you mean?" asked Mr. Freer.

"Nothing," drawled the elephantine speaker. "I was only wondering at the uniformity of things down your way. I suppose the horses are all ponies and the persimmons all dwarfs"—

"Well," interrupted Mr. Freer, "there is one thing in our favor. The persimmon has more taste than the pumpkin."

The laugh was on the speaker, and he acknowledged it by cordially grasping the hands of the lilliputians and joining in the merriment.—Success.

A Tree That Yields Electricity.

A German authority recently announced the discovery of a tree in the forests of central India which has most curious characteristics. The leaves of the tree are of a highly sensitive nature and so full of electricity that whoever touches one of them receives an electric shock. It has a very singular effect upon a magnetic needle and will influence it at a distance of even 70 feet. The electrical strength of the tree varies according to the time of day, it being strongest at midday and weakest at midnight. In wet weather its powers disappear altogether. Birds never approach the tree, nor have insects ever seen upon it.

Pekin, Sunday, June 3.—The most alarming reports are constantly arriving from the country, especially from Pao Ting Fu. The telegraph wires from Pekin to Pao Ting Fu are cut, and all news comes via Tien Tsin.

It is reported that a serious crisis exists at the Palace. The ultra-Conservative party advocates not taking repressive measures, urging the Dowager Empress to allow the Boxers to finish the work of driving the foreigners out of the country; the moderate party, led by Prince Ching, representing the serious danger of provoking a conflict with the powers.

Arrests Are Demanded.

It is impossible to confirm or deny the report, but significant indications of the feeling of the Government towards foreigners are contained in the attempt to arrest Lin, Chinese manager of the Pekin Syndicate; Kia, chief of the Shan Si Commercial Bureau, and Fan, a leading banker of Shan Si, on the ground that they were "dangerous characters," but in reality because they are connected with new British enterprises. All of them were absent, and they have not yet been arrested. The British Minister, Sir Claude Macdonald, has addressed a note to the Tsung Li Yamen, demanding why the arrests were ordered.

Murders Are on the Increase.

Washington, June 5. — The following cablegram has been received at the State Department from U. S. Minister Conger at Pekin:

"Pekin, June 4.—Outside of Pekin, the murders and persecutions by the Boxers seem to be on the increase. The Pao Ting Fu Railway is temporarily abandoned. Work on the Pekin and Hang Kow line is stopped. All foreigners have fled. The Chinese Government seems either unwilling or unable to suppress the trouble. The troops show no energy in attacking the Boxers. "Conger."

Great Damage Done.

London, June 5. — According to a despatch from Shanghai, the Cossacks were despatched to the rescue of the Belgians after a stormy interview between the Belgian Minister, Baron De Vinck de Deux Orp, and the members of the Tsung li Yamen. The despatch says also: Over forty miles of bridges and stations on the Lu Han Railway have been destroyed, and it will take months to repair the damage. The German and Austrian legation guards have arrived at Pekin.

Latest From Shanghai.

London, June 5. — The Daily Mail has the following from Shanghai: Later reports from Tien Tsin show that no American nor English missionaries were among the refugees who escaped from Pao Chi Fu district. The safety of the seven foreigners still missing is despaired of. Twenty-three of the French and Belgian party arrived wounded at Tien Tsin, and suffering terribly.

A Canadian Knighted.

Windsor, Eng., June 5. — In the St. George's Chapel here to-day, in the presence of all the military knights, Major C. H. Dale, late of the Canadian militia, was installed as a military knight.

Field Battery for Camp.

Hamilton, June 5. — The Hamilton Field Battery, with seven guns will leave here this morning for the camp at Deseronto. Major Hendrie will be in command.

the Ficksburg district. Two of the men were wounded. Lt. Lees and two men were captured while commandeering. Another patrol of the Border Horse numbering twenty men was surrounded and captured. Count Gleichen sent thirteen men of the Provincial Horse under Lt. Bowker with a flag of truce to Senekal to demand the surrender of that place. The Boers captured the entire party, and after robbing the men of all but their clothing, sent them to Urede whence some of them managed to escape. Most of those who succeeded in eluding their guards however were recaptured.

FROM BOER SOURCES.

Fierce Fight Expected at the Noddofontein Dynamite Factory.

Pretoria, June 4. — A dynamite factory at Noddofontein was occupied last night by a regiment of British troops. Commandant Delary's commandoes are now surrounding the factory, and a fierce fight is expected. The Orange Free State artillery consisting of three batteries are now between Johannesburg and the Delagoa Bay railway station. Afrikander women here have presented a flag to Commandant-General Botha.

CANADIANS WOUNDED.

The Effective Strength of Our First Contingent to South Africa Is Only 450 All Ranks.

Ottawa, June 5. — A cable has been received from Lieut.-Col. Otter, commanding the first Canadian contingent, dated Johannesburg, June 4, reporting the following wounded on May 29:

No. 7030—Pte. J. E. Davis, Royal Canadian Dragoons.

No. 7235—Pte. J. B. Robinson, 21st Essex Regiment.

No. 7355—Pte. J. Jordon, 2nd Queen's Own Rifles.

No, 7838—Pte. E. Hill, 9th Batt., Voltigeurs de Quebec.

No. 7939—Pte. A. Haydon, 62nd St. John Fusiliers.

Nol 7688—Pte. F. Richardson, from No. 5 Military District (no corps.)

Effective Strength Only 450.

Lieut.-Col. Otter also reports No. 7886, Evais, as slightly wounded, but the department is unable to identify this man. He also states that the effective strength of the battalion at the front is only 450, all ranks.

Royal Canadian Dragoons.

Ottawa, June 5. — A report has been received from Lieut.-Col. Lessard, who is in command of the 1st Batt. Canadian Mounted Rifles, stating that, in accordance with the wishes of officer commanding (Lord Roberts), the name of the regiment has been changed to the Royal Canadian Dragoons.

For a Dead Soldier.

Hamilton, June 5. — Lieut.-Col. McLaren of the 13th attended the memorial service for the late Pte. J. Rasberry, who died while on duty at Bloemfontein, South Africa, which was held at St. Andrew's-in-the-Vale. The service was conducted by the Rev. A. E. Irving of St. James' Church, Dundas. About 40 of the comrades of deceased from "A" Co., 77th Regiment, attended, under Capt. Knowles.

No Welcome to Boer Delegates.

Cleveland, O., June 5. — When the Boer envoys come to Cleveland, which they are booked to do soon, they will not be welcomed by the Mayor of the city, John H. Farley, Democrat, who has notified the local pro-Boer committees that he cannot welcome the envoys in his official capacity. He says:

"It would not do for me as the executive of Cleveland to extend a greeting to the representatives of a country that is at war with another country to which the relations of the United States are friendly, this country preserving a neutral attitude toward the war. They will be welcome to Cleveland, but they will not get any official welcome from me, and I shall not recognize them in any way. I believe in letting everybody skin his own skunk, anyway."

THE POWER SITE AT BURLEIGH FALLS

mercial success. The mechanical difficulties were none greater than skill could overcome and the expenditure entailed was not large, when the future benefits were considered. It would mean cheap power and light for Peterborough and Lindsay, and he relied on the thoroughly practical character of the undertaking to make it an unqualified success.

Mr. McLaughlin said he was fully satisfied, as one of the company, that all the essentials were present in the scheme for a success. There was ample reservoir capacity, a grand head, an excellent site, and a good field for the distribution of current for power and light. It would cost less to develop the power at Burleigh than if the same thing were attempted at Peterborough, and there was only the question of transmission to be dealt with. Taking it altogether the current could be laid down to consumers at a better rate than by any other form of development in the district. Ontario was a province without coal, but by using the power nature had so liberally provided, the lack of fuel as an impedient to manufacturing progress would be overcome. The project was a solid one and had his hearty support.

Mr. J. M. Kilburn, of the Owen Sound Cement Co., briefly stated his impressions with regard to the scheme. Mr. Kilburn knows the value of power and the cost of its production, and he said he was thoroughly satisfied that there was a good thing in sight. They were considering the question of power for their works at Lakefield, and if Burleigh Falls power was available they would certainly use it should it be to their advantage, but it would depend on the agility with which the power company got to work to deliver current.

Mr. G. H. Hopkins was pleased to add his commendation to the scheme, and in doing so spoke of the need at Lindsay for more power and of the expectation there felt that the completion of the project would solve the question for that town.

Mr. Smyth said he was impressed with the commercial advantages of the project, and felt assured that the mechanical problems would be grappled with and successfully.

Mr. Sootheran, said he would go back and be able to assure Lindsay people that the project was all right. He had not realized before just where the power was to come from, but the trip had given him the opportunity to learn some things about our opportunities that he had not before been aware of. The town would await the development of the work and rely on its completion for increased means of progress and prosperity.

Mr. Lennon, Mr. Gilloghy, Prof. McLaughlin and Dr. Burrows also spoke and expressed their impressions of the opportunity and of the commercial possibilities of the project. They all heartily commended it.

The party then proceeded to the steamer and the trip to Lakefield and by train to town was concluded. Several of the Lindsay men went home by the early train while others remained to go up by the last train at 9 p.m. A formal vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Culverwell for the day's outing and for the opportunity to see the locality in which the power will be developed.

PIE VS. WHISKEY.

A Debate Which Gives Pie the Worst of It.

Dyspepsia is a Greater Curse Than Intemperance Because Wider Spread — Pie the Greatest Cause — Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets the Greatest Cure.

"Pie," said an eminent public man recently, "is a greater curse to this country than whiskey."

"Pie doesn't break up a man's home," said the temperance man.

"Wait a moment," said the first man. "How many drunkards are there in this country?"

"I don't know," said the temperance man. "I don't know either," said the other, "but in proportion to population there are but few. Now let me ask you in how many homes in Canada is pie excluded?"

"Not many," admitted the temperance man.

"Pie," said the other earnestly, "is the greatest cause of Dyspepsia in this country. Ask physicians if this is not true. And further, Dyspepsia, with its various symptoms of Indigestion, Sour Stomach, Foul Breath, Wind on the Stomach, Biliousness, Waterbrash and Catarrh of the Stomach, causes more bodily pain and discomfort to the sufferer than do the effects of alcohol. Talk of the unhappiness of families! What could be worse than a whole pie-eating family with Chronic Dyspepsia? I know of lots of them—in fact my own was the same way."

"What did you do about it?" asked the temperance man. "Taboo pie?"

"Not quite so far as that," said the prominent public man smiling. "No, we use Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets after each meal. We can eat anything we like now."

"How much are they?" asked his friend. "Fifty cents a box at all drug stores," said the other.

Winnipeg, June 5. — A shocking tragedy occurred last night at a house on Notre Dame street. Francis Kerr, who kept a boarding house, has been quarrelling with his wife for a couple of weeks. He then went upstairs and blew out his brains. The woman will recover. They have a family of three sons and two daughters. The man was aged 58.

This is Roberts' Report, and he says it was Witnessed by Some of the British Officers Who had been Prisoners in Petoria.

ROBERTS REPORTS THE OCCUPATION CEREMONY

London, June 6.—10.55 a.m.—Lord Roberts telegraphs to the War Office as follows: Pretoria, June 5.—5.35 a.m.—The occupation of the town passed off most satisfactorily and the British flag is now hoisted on top of the government offices. The troops met with a much more enthusiastic reception than anticipated. The 3rd Battalion of the Grenadier Guards lined the square when the march past took place. Owing to their having been on duty at some distance around the town, very few cavalry and infantry were able to take part in the ceremony. Several of our officers who had been prisoners, were among the onlookers.

FIGHTING GOING ON IN CHINA

Foreign Marines Have Been Engaged With the Boxers.

U.S. Admiral Kempff Reports That He Landed Reinforcements From His Flagship—The Situation Looked Upon as Decidedly Serious—Dowager-Empress Will Face All Europe If Necessary to Help Boxers Out.

Washington, June 6. — The Secretary of the Navy yesterday received the following cablegram from Admiral Kempff, commanding the United States ship Newark, lying at the Taku Fort, at the mouth of the Pei-Ho River, dated Taku:

"Engagement has commenced. Have landed force of 50 seamen more — battalion of marines. (Signed) Kempff."

Missionary Norman Murdered.

Tien Tsin, June 6. — News has just been received from the viceroy, through the men he sent to Yung Ching, that Mr. Norman of the North China Mission was murdered Friday or Saturday. It is thought that the viceroy knew of Mr. Norman's murder at the time of Mr. Robinson's.

Trains cannot get through to Pekin, on account of the burning bridges.

THE SITUATION IS ALARMING.

Encounter Between Boxers and Russians Fraught With Danger.

London, June 6. — The Shanghai correspondent of The Daily Mail yesterday says:

"The Boxers are within three miles of Tien Tsin. In addition to the marines, the defensive force includes volunteers, under the command of Major Higgs, late of the 16th Lancers. The town is practically under arms."

The Daily Express has a despatch from Shanghai, dated Tuesday, which says:

Russian Troops Ordered Out.

"Russian troops have been ordered from Port Arthur to the neighborhood of Pekin, to punish the Boxers for killing two Cossacks and wounding two."

The Situation Very Serious.

A despatch to The Daily Mail from Tien Tsin, dated June 4, says:

"The situation is very serious. The Boxers are approaching Tien Tsin on all sides."

Powers Exchanging Despatches.

The Berlin correspondent of The Daily Chronicle says:

"In official circles it is believed the situation in China has grown worse. The powers are now exchanging despatches regarding the appointment of a single commander for the united European and American squadrons."

TO FACE ALL OF EUROPE

Rather Than Interfere With the Boxers Says Dowager Empress.

Shanghai, Monday, June 4. — The China Gazette says it has the highest authority for stating that the Dowager Empress has ordered the Tsung Li Yamen to face all Europe rather than to interfere with the Boxer movement.

Elsewhere it is asserted that the Viceroy has ordered the troops to oppose the further landing of parties from foreign warships and that the troops now engaged in operations are designed to prevent further foreign reinforcements reaching Pekin.

40 Families Homeless in Quebec.

Quebec, June 6. — A despatch from Tadousac says that the large lumber establishment at Ste. Etienne du Saguenay, near that place, belonging to Price Bros. & Co., of Quebec, was totally destroyed by fire yesterday afternoon. The loss is very great, and includes 300,000 feet of lumber, stores, all the wharves, one schooner and two batteaux that were moored at the wharf. Forty families are rendered homeless by the conflagration, and are in a destitute condition, without food and scarcely any clothing. The loss is estimated at $400,000.

Fatal Cyclone at Winnipeg.

Winnipeg, June 6. — A cyclone struck the city last night, doing considerable damage. A boathouse at the foot of George street was carried away some distance, and Ed. Atwell, a 15-year-old boy, sheltering behind it, was killed. A tin roof, weighing hundreds of pounds, was blown off the Karner Block a considerable distance, breaking the telegraph and electric railway wires. Many other roofs, pieces of buildings, flagstaffs, chimneys, etc., were blown down. There was only one big blast and it did not last long.

The French in Algiers.

London, June 6. — Special despatches last evening from Algiers portray a serious situation. Thousands of Moors are massing at Figuig and in the neighborhood, preparing for a determined attack upon the advanced posts of the French. The French are preparing entrenchments and are confident of their ability to repel an attack, and even to take the offensive against Figuig if necessary.

He Was Very Charitable.

An amusing story is told in connection with a swell bazaar held a short time ago. Among the features of the entertainment was a refreshment stall, to which charitable donors contributed supplies, thus enabling all the takings to represent clear profits.

The lady in charge requested a gift for this purpose from a well known and wealthy gentleman in the city, but one not famous for "parting." To her surprise she received next day a note to the effect that he was sending her a sirloin of beef and "two" ox tongues.

The same morning the lady happened to go to her butcher (who was also the butcher of Mr. X.), and, after giving him a large order for her stall, asked him if he would like himself to give anything.

"I should very much, ma'am," replied the worthy tradesman, "but I yesterday gave to Mr. X., at his request for this purpose, a sirloin of beef and three ox tongues."

Net gain to Mr. X.: One ox tongue and a cheap reputation for charity!—

CELEBRATED PRETORIA DAY.

Her Majesty Drank Lord Roberts' Health and Lit Bonfire.

All London Went Wild With Joy and Demonstrated on the Receipt of the Official News of the Surrender—His Excellency Lord Minto Expresses His Feelings at the State Ball—Montreal and Other Canadian Celebrations.

London, June 6. — (4.35 a.m.)—Queen Victoria, surrounded by the Duke and Duchess of York, Princess Christian, Princess Victoria and many notables of her court, drank to the health of Lord Roberts and the army at Balmoral last evening. A great bonfire, lighted at Her Majesty's command, blazed on Craiggowan Mountain, illuminating the countryside for miles around. The nation joins in the toast, glorifying Lord Roberts and turbently rejoicing in his victory.

OLD LONDON REJOICED.

Another Demonstration Like After the Relief of Mafeking.

London, June 6. — England has been celebrating to-night the fall of Pretoria very much as she did the relief of Mafeking. Drunkenness has been a trifle less conspicuous than when Baden-Powell was the hero of the moment, but in London and in the other large towns the scenes last evening were practically a repetition of those which marked the other victories, and long after midnight, uproarious yelling, the tooting of horns and discordant chants ascended from the city streets, usually, at such an hour, as silent as the grave.

Processions Galore.

All during the evening processions marched along the Strand, Piccadilly and the other leading thoroughfares. In fact, so great was the crush, that the easiest method of locomotion was to join one of the processions, for whose strident choruses and waving flags all traffic was stopped.

Every building possessing an illuminating device used it for all it was worth, until the metropolis was ablaze with light. The club on Pall Mall were lit up with huge torches, and the old, staid street of murky buildings was scarcely recognizable. Around Marlborough House and the War Office the crowds continued thick.

The Prince in London.

The Prince of Wales came to town yesterday afternoon, and went to the opera in the evening. His drive to and from the performance was marked by a tremendous welcome. The news was wired to the Queen at Balmoral immediately on its receipt, and the Union Jack was hoisted over the Royal residence.

Throughout the country illuminations occurred on a large scale. Effigies of President Kruger were burned and innumerable telegrams of congratulation were sent to the little field marshal who had made England so happy. Lord Wolseley received the news while visiting Mr. Henry James at Rye. He improved the occasion by attending the local municipal meeting and joining in the cablegram to Lord Roberts.

A Message to Roberts.

London, June 6. — The Lord Mayor of London, Mr. A. J. Newton, has cabled as follows to Lord Roberts:

"The Empire will never forget what you and the forces under your command have accomplished. Accept the grateful congratulations of the citizens of London."

Cheers at the State Ball.

Ottawa, June 6. — At the State ball at Rideau Hall, Lord Minto read a cablegram received from Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, saying: "Capture of Pretoria officially confirmed."

At the refreshments Lord Minto, in a few patriotic words, proposed the health of the Queen. This was received with cheers. He followed with the health of Lord Roberts. This was received with tremendous cheering. The feature of the decorations of Rideau Hall was the multiplicity of Union Jacks, some 3,000 being hung up in every conceivable corner.

CANADA'S CELEBRATIONS.

City of Montreal Turned Itself Loose to Celebrate Pretoria Day—Dominion Demonstrations Elsewhere.

Montreal, June 6. — Montreal last night was a blaze of light and glory, and never before during the present war has the patriotic enthusiasm of all races living beneath Mount Royal been made so strikingly manifest. All day long flags floated from every house top, and the crowds cheered for "Bobs" and the Empire.

The Great Demonstration.

The demonstration last evening in honor of Pretoria was one of the grandest ever seen in Montreal as a military and civil pageant. It was simply magnificent, and there must have been 150,000 people on the streets. The following corps participated in the great parade:

Duke of York's 3rd Field Battery, 2nd Regiment Canadian Artillery, 1st Regiment Prince of Wales' Fusiliers, 3rd Regiment Victoria Rifles and the Highlander Cadet Battalion.

The regimental orders called for a turn out of all brass and pipe bands, bugle corps and stretcher sections, in

SERGT. TRUSLER TO THE "REVIEW"

Capt. Greenwood, and the boys of B squadron, speak in the highest terms of Capt. Greenwood. The weather just now is fine and warm during the day and cold at night which makes it very comfortable for sleeping, if it does not happen to rain, but it has not rained any for nearly two weeks and the roads are getting in fine shape again. Provisions are very scarce here just now, for with such an immense army to feed and as there is only one railroad to Cape Town it is hard work getting supplies to the front. I shall have to stop writing now, so hoping to get back to the old town again, I remain, yours, for Queen and country.

ANOTHER TO BERT. KINDRED.

Mr. Bert Kindred has also received a letter from Sergt. Trusler, written earlier than the two above. It reads:—

Bloemfontein,
South Africa,
April 26, 1900.

Dear Bert,—Just a line to let you know how we are getting along. Well, we are having quite a time of it in this barren place, and lots of hardships. We are marching all the time through all kinds of weather. It is very hot during the day and cold at night. This is winter here, but I have not seen any frost yet, I don't think we will, for frost is very rare here. We are right in the enemy's country and have to be very careful, especially at night. Last night and the night before we could hear the roar of cannon south-east of us, but the Boers are wasting more ammunition than anything else. We expect to have a hot time of it when we make our advance towards Pretoria. When we start from here with Lord Roberts there will be an army of 120,000 men, composed of cavalry, artillery, mounted rifles and infantry. We expect to start for Kronstadt, which is 75 miles from here, on the 27th of April. It is the new capital of the Orange Free State since the surrender of Bloemfontein, and we expect the Boers will make a stubborn resistance. We have marched 290 miles from Cape Town, where we got off our ship, and we have got a little idea of what is, sometimes getting only two meals a day and one pint of water. I have often longed for a good drink of water from the well at the Temperance House and some of your mother's buns and pies, but, of course, we may not expect such things out here where supplies are scarce and so many men to feed. But we are cheerful and healthy and thankful for it, for there is a terrible lot of sickness here. Just now enteric fever is bad and a great many of the troops are dying every day, but our Canadian boys have escaped so far and are in good health and spirits. Of course we have had a few accidents. I was thrown from my horse and broke a small bone in my back, but am alright again. It happened after a night we were out on patrol, and my horse stepped into a rabbit's hole in the ground and away I went. I consider I came off lucky, for many men are hurt in this way, for the ground is full of rabbits and we cannot tell when our horses are going to stumble and fall. At Springfontein twelve of us went out one night on outpost duty twelve miles from camp, and we had the luck to and their horses and arms. We came upon them suddenly and they were rather surprised, and you bet we felt big over our exploit. Of course we kept the horses, but sent the prisoners to Cape Town. The Boers are very treacherous, for after surrendering to the British and laying down their arms they immediately return to their army again and fight against us. So you see they can't expect any mercy from us. They will not come out and fight, but they delight in hiding behind small hills and picking our men off one at a time. At home we always thought they were crack shots, but they are quite the reverse. They are very large men, nearly all six feet high and built in proportion, but very slouchy in appearance, and are very cowardly when in small bodies.

A SOLDIER'S LIFE

CAPTURE THREE BOER PRISONERS

Spence, Hall, Percy Price and Wasson are all well, and Percy Wasson wishes to be remembered to all at the house. Remember me to all at home and to Noble and Etta and Geo. and wife, and also to Mr. and Mrs. Anderson and Sandy. I will write again if I get a chance, but it is very difficult to write, for we are so busy during the day and are not allowed to have any light at night. So with best love to all and wishing you every success, I remain, respectfully,

Your friend,
A. TRUSLER.

"BOBS" LED GUARDS IN. BRITISH IN PRETORIA.

Long-Awaited Message From Lord Roberts Reaches War Office on Tuesday.

BOTHA SURRENDERS PRETORIA!

There Were No Terms, the Surrender Being Unconditional—One British Regiment Had to Surrender to a Superior Boer Force, Although Gen. Lord Methuen Marched 44 Miles in 25 Hours to Relieve Imperial Yeomanry Near Lindley, but Arrived Too Late.

London, June 6. — The War Office has received the following from Lord Roberts:

"Pretoria, June 5. — (12.55 p.m.) —Just before dark yesterday the enemy were beaten back from nearly all the positions they had been holding, and Ian Hamilton's mounted infantry, followed them to within 2000 yards of Pretoria, through which they hastily retreated.

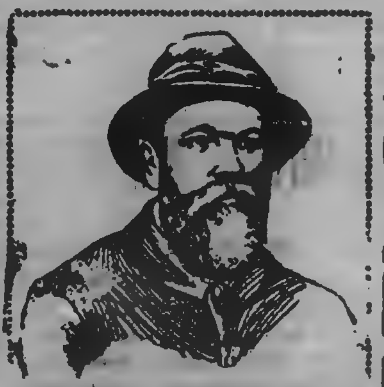
Surrender Demanded.

"Delisle then sent an officer with a flag of truce into the town, demanding its surrender, in my name.

"Shortly before midnight I was awakened by two officials of the South African Republic, Sandberg, military secretary to Commandant Botha, and a general officer of the Boer army, who brought me a letter from Botha, proposing an armistice for the purpose of settling the terms of surrender.

Would Accept No Conditions.

"I replied that I would gladly meet the Commandant-General the next morning, but I was not prepared to discuss any terms, as the surrender of the town must be unconditional. I asked a reply by daybreak, as I had ordered the troops to march on the town as soon as it was light.



COMMANDANT-GENERAL BOTHA
Who formally surrendered Pretoria, Capital of the South African Republic, to Lord Roberts rather than defend the city.

"In his reply Botha told me that he had decided not to defend Pretoria, and that he trusted the women, children and property would be protected.

The Surrender Was Made.

"At 1 a.m. to-day, while on the line of march, I was met by three of the principal officials, with a flag of truce, stating their wish to surrender the town.

"It was arranged that Pretoria should be taken possession of by Her Majesty's troops at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Mrs. Kruger in Pretoria.

"Mrs. Botha and Mrs. Kruger are both at Pretoria.

"Some few of the British prisoners have been taken away; but the majority are still at Waterval. Over a hundred of the officers are in Pretoria. The few I have seen are looking well."

ROBERTS HAD HARD FIGHTING.

Burghers Strongly Endeavored to Prevent Pretoria's Fall

London, June 5. — The War Office has issued the following despatch from Lord Roberts:

"Six Miles Spruit, 8.30 p.m., June 4.—We started this morning at daybreak and marched about ten miles to Six Miles Spruit, both banks of which were occupied by the enemy. Henry's and Ross' mounted infantry, with the West Somerset, Dorset, Bedford and Sussex Companies of Yeomanry quickly dislodged them from the south bank and pursued them nearly a mile, when they found themselves under a heavy fire from guns which the Boers had placed in a well-concealed commanding position.

Drove the Enemy Out.

"Our heavy guns of the Naval and Royal Artillery, which had purposely been placed in the front part of the column, were hurried to the assistance of the mounted infantry as fast as oxen and mules could travel over the great rolling hills surrounding Pretoria. The guns were supported by Stevenson's Brigade of Pole-Carew's, and after a few rounds, drove the enemy from their positions.

Tried to Turn British Left.

"The Boers then attempted to turn our left flank, in which they were again foiled by the mounted infantry and Yeomanry, supported by Maxwell's brigade of Tucker's division. As, however, they still kept pressing our left rear, I sent word to Ian Hamilton, who was advancing three miles to our left to incline toward us and fill up the gap between the two columns. This finally checked the enemy, who were driven back toward Pretoria. I hoped we would have been able to follow them up, but the days now are very short in this part of the world; and after nearly two hours' marching and fighting we had to bivouac on the ground gained during the day.

Position of the Forces.

"The Guards Brigade is quite near the southernmost fort, by which Pretoria is defended, and less than four miles from the town.

"French, with the Third and Fourth Cavalry Brigades and Hutton's New South Wales Mounted Rifles, is north of Pretoria. Broadwood's Brigade is between French's and Hamilton's columns; and Gordon is watching the right flank of the main force, not far from the railway bridge at Irene Station, which was destroyed by the enemy.

"Our casualties, I hope, are very few."

Lord Roberts First Move.

London, June 6. — The War Office has information that one of the first things done by Lord Roberts after the occupation of Pretoria was to direct Gen. French to release the British prisoners confined at Waterval.

Blood Disorders

are simply kidney disorders. The kidneys filter the blood of all that shouldn't be there. The blood passes through the kidneys every three minutes. If the kidneys do their work no impurity or cause of disorder can remain in the circulation longer than that time. Therefore if your blood is out of order your kidneys have failed in their work. They are in need of stimulation, strengthening or doctoring. One medicine will do all three, the finest and most imitated blood medicine there is SURRENDERED.

13th Imperial Yeomanry Was Surrounded by a Very Superior Boer Force —Methuen's Great March.

London, June 6. — The following is the text of the despatch from Lord Roberts announcing the disaster to the 13th Battalion of the Imperial Yeomanry:

"Pretoria Station, June 5. — (12.55 p.m.) — I regret to report that the 13th Imperial Yeomanry had to surrender to a very superior force of the enemy on May 31 near Lindley. On receiving information of the battalion being attacked, I ordered Methuen to proceed with all speed to its assistance.

"Methuen was then on the march, on the Heilbron side of Kroonstad and half an hour after the receipt of my telegram, on June 1, he started off. By 10 a.m. of the following day he had marched 44 miles in 25 hours; but he was too late to rescue Col. Spragge's Yeomanry.

"Methuen attacked the Boers, who were between 2,000 and 3,000 strong and after a running fight of five hours, completely routed the enemy.

"It is a very regrettable circumstance, but I trust it will not be very long before the Irish Yeomanry are released from captivity."

THAT ATTACK AT FABER SPRUIT.

British Casualties in Warren's Force Were 15 Killed and 30 Wounded.

London, June 6. — The casualties of the British in the fighting under Gen. Warren at Faber Spruit, May 29, when, with 700 men, he was surrounded and attacked by 1,000 colonel rebels, who were repulsed, included one man killed and 10 wounded, among the Canadian artillery. As cabled to the Associated Press, June 2, the total British casualties at Faber Spruit were 15 men killed, including Col. Spence, and 30 wounded.

A Bundle of Nerves

Nerve force is the very life of man and every organ of the human body is dependent upon it. Just as soon as the blood gets thin and watery and fails to supply nourishment to the nerves there comes a train of nervous disorders, nervous prostration, paralysis, epilepsy, insanity and death. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food rebuilds and revitalizes the nerve cells wasted by disease, overwork and worry. It is beyond doubt the world's greatest restorative. Recommended by your family physician. All Druggists recommend and sell it.

OUR TWO OPINIONS.

Us two wuz boys when we fell out,
  Nigh to the age uv my youngest now.
Don't rec'lect what 'twuz about;
  Some small diff'rence, I'll allow.
Lived next neighbors twenty years,
  A-hatin each other, me 'nd Jim,
He havin his opinyin uv me,
  'Nd I havin my opinyin uv him!

Grew up together 'nd wouldn't speak;
  Courted sisters 'nd marr'd 'em, too;
'Tended same meetin house oncet a week,
  A-hatin each other through 'nd through.
But when Abe Linkern asked the west
  F'r soldiers we answered, me 'nd Jim,
He havin his opinyin uv me,
  'Nd I havin my opinyin uv him!

Down in Tennessee one night
  Ther wuz sound uv firin fur away,
'Nd the sergeant allowed ther'd be a fight
  With the Johnnie Rebs some time next day.
'Nd as I wuz thinkin uv Lizzie 'nd home
  Jim stood afore me, long 'nd slim,
He havin his opinyin uv me,
  'Nd I havin my opinyin uv him!

Seemed like we knew there wuz goin to be
  Serious trouble f'r me 'nd him;
Us two shuck hands, did Jim 'nd me,
  But never a word from me or Jim.
He went his way, 'nd I went mine,
  'Nd into the battle's roar went we,
I havin my opinyin uv Jim,
  'Nd he havin his opinyin uv me!

Jim never came back from the war again,
  But I hain't forgot that last, last night
When, waitin f'r orders, us two men
  Made up 'nd shuck hands afore the fight,
'Nd after it all it's soothin to know
  That here I be 'nd yonder's Jim,
He havin his opinyin uv me,
  'Nd I havin my opinyin uv him!

CAPTIVE WILD ANIMALS.

Their Restlessness Due to the Natural Craving For Exercise.

It is a common saying among keepers that, averaging one animal with another, a menagerie must be renewed every three years. Yet I know of one manager who kept most of his animals, those of Woodward's gardens, San Francisco, alive, healthy and happy from the beginning of his time to the end, 16 years later, when the establishment was broken up, and the animals were ordered to be shot in their cages. The great secret of his success, he tells me, was caring for their minds as well as for their bodies.

Many a man shut up in a cell has saved his mind by inventing some trifling amusement. It is recorded that one set a daily watch on the movements of a spider. Another tried how many times he had to toss five pins before they fell in just the same way. Another tried to run ten miles each day in his narrow limits. Yet another busied himself inventing new arrangements for the two or three articles of furniture in his cell. Many have paced up and down each day for a number of hours. And whatever they did all alike were seeking to put in time, to while away the awful tedium of their monotonous lives, to respond to the natural craving for exercise and to save their minds and bodies from actually withering from disuse.

If instead of "human captives" we read "wild animals" in all this, we shall have a very fair portrait of what we may see every day in an ordinary menagerie. Why does the elephant swing to and fro forever from his chain picket? Why does he gather from the floor all the straw he can reach, throw it over his back and over the stable, to be regathered later? Why does the squirrel enter and work for hours the aimless treadwheel and the marten leap listlessly half a day from point to point—floor, perch, slat, box; floor, perch, slat, box—again and again with monotonous sameness day after day? Why does the lone ostrich waltz far more than does his wild kinsman that has many admiring spectators of his own kind, and why do the fox and the wolverene trot miles and miles of cage front every day? Why does the bear roll and tumble for hours over the same old wooden ball as if it were a new found chum or if no ball is supplied swing back and forth on pivotal hind foot for hours each day? Why does the rhinoceros keep on forever nosing at some projection that his horn can almost fasten under till it gets more and more elusive through the smoothing of perpetual use? Why do wolves and monkeys put in hours and hours over humble duties that in their wild state were the work of a few minutes at most?

To all the answer is the same as to the similar query about the man prisoner. They are putting in time. They are responding to the natural craving for exercise. They are trying to pass the tedium of their hopeless lives. They are doing anything, everything, their poor brains can suggest to while away the weary drag of dull, eventless days. Their bellies are well cared for or at least are always plentifully cared for, but how few keepers have learned that in each animal is a mentality, large or small, that ought to be considered.—Ernest Seton-Thompson in Century.

They Drove There.

A couple of members of the Blue Pencil club of New York, which is composed of Gotham's wisest, fliest and most traveled citizens, came to this city last week on a business mission. After attending the theater they determined to call upon a friend at the Pen and Pencil club. They did not know the exact location of the club and started out to find it. After hunting for some time the couple finally addressed a cab driver and asked the way to the club. "I'll drive you both there for 50 cents," the driver said. "Here's your money," they replied. "Now hurry up."

When the New Yorkers had climbed in, the cabman slammed the door shut, mounted his seat, turned the horse about and crossed the street, traversing a distance of about 15 feet. "Here you are, gentlemen," said he, pointing the dazed New Yorkers to the brilliantly lighted club entrance.

A Luscious Potato.

"I suppose you never thought of a potato being luscious," says a Michigan man. "You thought that peaches were the only things which were luscious. Perhaps you never ate a Petoskey potato. We make flour out of these potatoes. Out of the flour we make bread, soup and any other prepared food into which potatoes are put. The flour is kept in cans until ready for use. The bread is very palatable. It forms one of the regulation articles of diet in the German army."—New York Tribune.

The largest salt producer in this country is New York state. It and Michigan furnish nearly 12,000,000 barrels annually or within 5,000,000 of the entire production in the United States.

The forest area of all the British possessions in America is estimated at about 800,000,000 acres.

A Friend In Need.

It happened in the early days of Australian history when bushranging was common.

A gentleman was riding along a lonely track through the bush when he heard loud cries for help proceeding from a neighboring grove. Arriving at the spot whence proceeded the cries, he was surprised and shocked to find a man securely tied to a tree.

"What is the matter here?" he asked.

"Oh, sir," replied the poor fellow, "I'm so glad you have come! A few hours ago I was stuck up by bushrangers, who rifled my pockets, and, after stealing everything I had except a bundle of notes in my inside breast pocket, which they fortunately overlooked, bound me to this tree and decamped."

"The scoundrels!" ejaculated the newcomer. "Took everything you had except a bundle of notes in your inside pocket, eh?"

"Yes, sir."

"The villains! And then they tied you so tightly that you cannot escape?"

"Yes, sir."

"Then I'll take the notes the other fellows left!" And he did.—London Answers.

Embarrassing.

When the new minister, a handsome and unmarried man, made his first pastoral call at the Fosdicks', he took little Anna up in his arms and tried to kiss her. But the child refused to be kissed. She struggled loose and ran off into the next room, where her mother was putting a few finishing touches to her adornment before going into the parlor to greet the clergyman.

"Mamma," the little girl whispered, "the man in the parlor wanted me to kiss him."

"Well," replied mamma, "why didn't you let him? I would if I were you."

Thereupon little Anna ran back into the parlor, and the minister asked:

"Well, little lady, won't you kiss me now?"

"No, I won't," replied Anna promptly, "but mamma says she will!"—Harper's Bazar.

The Bundle Kicked.

A comical story is told of an English nobleman who is shortsighted. In a railroad train, while he was sitting next to a very stout old woman, friend on the next seat accosted him. "Wait a minute," said his lordship. "I'll put this bundle of rags in the rack and you can sit here." And to the astonishment and horror of the gigantic female he caught her round the waist before he realized his mistake.

Expensive Furniture.

"One of the special agents of the Indian bureau is a woman, and she receives a salary of $8 a day," read Mr. Wintergreen.

"She must sell a good many," commented Mrs. Wintergreen. "But I shouldn't have thought there was such a demand for that sort of a bureau."—Detroit Free Press.

Small kindnesses, small courtesies, small considerations, habitually practiced in our social intercourse, give a greater charm to the character than the display of great talents and accomplishments.

Negro Eloquence.

Negroes sometimes express themselves as felicitously as do the Irish. Here is a case copied from a Texas paper. Some time ago one of Texas' widely known statesmen, who is now dead, was passing along a street in Dallas, when an old colored man, who had once belonged to him, approached, took off his hat and passed a hand over his white wool as he asked:

"Marster, gin de old man 50 cents."

"Dan, you are a robber."

"How?" asked the astonished darky, opening his eyes, around which rough shod age had walked.

"Didn't you see me put my hand in my pocket?"

"Yes, sah."

"Well, you old rascal, you rob me of the pleasure of giving you money without being asked."

The old man received a dollar. Bowing almost to the ground, while tears came out and coursed through the aged prints around his eyes, he replied:

"Marster, wid, wid such a heart as you hab and wid Abraham and Isaac and de Lord on your side, I don't see what can keep you out of heaven."

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Cotton soaked in peppermint oil has been found to be effective in getting rid of mice.

Milk jugs should be rinsed out with cold water before being scalded in hot. If hot water is poured in first, the curd sets, and the surface cannot be so easily cleaned.

"Never, never, never," says Harper's Bazar, "buy a chair without sitting down in it and seeing whether it is or is not comfortable and suited to your requirements." Good advice too.

Lamp chimneys, if held over steam and quickly wiped out with a dry cloth which is quite free from lint, will be just as bright and shining as if laboriously washed with soap and water. Of course if smoked black they will require washing.

THE DEACON.

J. W. Moodie, the Scotch soldier evangelist, is addressing large meetings at Cape Town.

Bishop Potter of New York makes it his rule to read a certain amount of Greek every day of his life.

Rev. Dr. Edward Everett Hale celebrated his seventy-ninth birthday in good health at his home in Roxbury, Mass., the other day.

The Rev. C. D. Crane of Portland, Me., thus explained the other day why so many Maine officials permit the illegal sale of liquor: "They know that we will continue to vote as we pray—that is, with our eyes shut."

What a Difference it Makes When Peterborough Residents Testify.

It is pretty hard to prove the testimony of some stranger in far away parts of the country.

The Pitcher Tablet success is so great and so general that every town contributes its own testimony, and that of a Peterborough citizen should convince the most sceptical.

Miss Irene Grouelle, Water-st., Peterborough, says:—"Since last May trouble with my back and side has been persistent, and the side very sore. I got a bottle of Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets from Ormond & Walsh, and soon felt a big change for the better. The soreness is all gone, and I can't say too much in praise of the medicine as it succeeded when others had failed."

If you have the slightest symptom of Kidney or Bladder trouble, you can test this great medicine free. Arrangements have been made whereby every reader of this paper can obtain a trial package of Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets absolutely free by enclosing two cent stamp for postage to The Pitcher Tablet Co., Toronto, Ont. When giving address mention this paper.

If you are convinced Pitcher's Tablets are what you want, you can purchase regular size for 50 cents per bottle. If not obtainable at druggist's, mailed free of postage on receipt of price.

HOW TO HURRY.

1. Do nothing that you don't have to do. Cut out the nonessentials.

2. Don't hesitate. Begin at once. When you are through, stop, and begin on the next thing.

3. Don't be too particular what part of the job you begin with. Other things being equal, do what's under your hand first and the next nearest thing next.

4. Don't pause between jobs.

5. Don't go from one job to another until the first is done. "Do one thing at a time." It takes time to change your mind.

6. Do your thinking while you're acting. And think about the work in hand.

7. If you have assistants, use them. At first do only what they can't do, and afterward help them out.

8. Do nothing twice. This makes it necessary to do it right the first time.

9. Don't lay down one tool except to take up another.

10. Beware of looking out the window. That way distraction lies.

11. Don't put things off. Do them when you think of them.

If you'll follow these rules and a few more that you can make yourself, you will be able to reduce your office hours about one-half; you won't think you're hurrying and you won't be bored and worn out by your work.—New York World.

Next to the Lowest Bidder.

"Said contract to go to the next to the lowest bidder" is the way that a local building contractor would have the closing sentence read in advertisements for bids on any particular job. While speaking of the matter recently this same contractor said that if the truth were known nine out of ten of the lowest bids made are made through a mistake in the calculations of the bidder.

"If the contractor who gets the job was aware that his bid is oftentimes $1,000 below that of the one next above him, and this on a comparatively small job, he would immediately institute a search and find where he had made the mistake, thus having an opportunity of failing to qualify to complete the job. This privilege is often denied the bidder, however, and he gets well along with his work before the fact dawns upon him that he is on a losing venture. It is then too late to go back on the job, and the result is that the party who is doing the building and the contractors also are losers, and this because of the natural inclination of the contractor to shirk in order not to lose any more than he is absolutely obliged to in order to get out on the bad deal.

"These mistakes are not only disastrous to the parties immediately concerned, but to the trade in general, as by the error of the unlucky bidder another worthy contractor is unable to get the work at reasonable figures. Give the work to the next to the lowest bidder, I believe to be a good general rule."

His Only Conundrum.

The old pilot of the little steamer Maid of the Mist, which used to carry passengers quite up to the foot of the falls of Niagara until the mist from the falling waters drenched the clothing of every one on board, used to perpetuate one solitary conundrum each trip. It always commenced and ended the same.

Moving his hand along the sides of the pilothouse and examining the woodwork minutely, he would look up mysteriously and remark:

"I say, stranger, do you know what this boat is made of?"

"Made of? Why, pine and oak, isn't she?"

"No, sir."

"Hemlock?"

"No."

"'Tisn't cedar, is it?"

"Oh, no!"

And then the old pilot's eyes twinkled and his mouth whistled a crazy tune.

"Well, iron perhaps?"

"No."

"What in thunder is she made of, then?"

"She's Maid of the Mist, stranger; Maid of the Mist."

Then the pilot accepted his morning cigar.

A Specialist.

A few days ago a well known Washington lady, being unexpectedly bereft of her kitchen assistance, advertised for a colored woman capable of performing general housework.

The first caller in response to the advertisement was a mulatto damsel, bedecked with ribbon and finery. From her airs and graces she might have been a graduate of a seminary. She announced that she had noticed the advertisement and was desirous of securing employment.

"Are you a good cook?" inquired the lady of the house.

"No, indeed, I don't cook," was the reply.

"Are you a good washer and ironer?" was the next query.

"I wouldn't do washing and ironing; it's too hard on the hands," declared the caller.

"Can you sweep?" the housewife then wanted to know.

"No," was the answer, and it was a positive one. "I'm not strong enough for that."

"Well, in the name of goodness, what can you do?" said the lady of the house, exasperated. The placid reply was:

"I dusts.'

Summer Colds

No cold is so hard to cure as the summer cold. It hangs on in spite of all ordinary treatments and frequently develops into consumption. It matters not what means have failed you can rely absolutely on Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine to promptly and thoroughly cure every kind of cough and cold. It is universally used in the best families all over this great continent. 25 cents a bottle. Family size 60 cents.

How Expresses Drop Men.

"While coming from Chicago last week," said a prominent business man to a Mail and Express reporter, "I noticed a peculiar railroad custom which interested me considerably. I happened to be in the last car of the limited when the train stopped in a desolate spot between stations. The rear brakeman, of course, dropped off and went down the track with a flag to warn any train that might be following us. In a moment or two we started up again, but minus the brakeman. I wondered at this, but was still more surprised later on to see the same thing repeated when we were obliged to stop on account of a threatened hot box. Upon inquiry I found that this was the custom on fast trains. 'Sometimes, if we have lots of time,' said the conductor, 'we whistle for the men to come in, but in most cases we leave them to be picked up by the next train or to walk to the nearest station.'

"'But isn't that rather hard on the men?' I asked. 'Oh, it's all part of the business,' he replied. 'I have known of cases where men dropped off in this way were frozen to death or waylaid by tramps, but the railroads have to make the time, and that's why it is done. I have seen trains running with only a conductor aboard them at times because the rest of the crew had been left behind in just this way.'"

BAD BOYS IN WEST END.

Mr. Ferguson stated that he had had complaints from the janitor of the West Ward school about the boys destroying the property. It seemed impossible to prevent it or conrol them. The Board had similar complaints a couple of months ago. He had spoken to the police about it.

The opinion was expressed that there is a bad gang out there, of which the janitor is afraid.

It was moved by Mr. Hill, seconded by Dr. Burnham, that the Property Committee be given power to take what steps they deem advisable to remedy the nuisance.—Carried.

The Board adjourned after a very brief session.

REGIMENTAL NOTES.

Last Evening's Parade—A Splendid in the Moonlight on Nicholls Park.

The 57th Regiment paraded last night about 175 strong, with both bands, to East Nicholls park, where they were practiced in the attack as laid down by Major-General Hutton, by the Sergt.-Major. The men did excellent work, considering that it was their first practice.

As the inspection is drawing near, it behooves all intending recruits to be on hand next Tuesday evening, so that they will be able to go through the work and get themselves into shape for that event. The inspection will probably take place on the same ground as last year, just east of the exhibition grounds.

The rifle ranges are now open and all who can do so are urged to go out every Saturday afternoon and do their target practice.

The following orders were issued:—

Headquarters, Peterborough,
May 5th.

Orders by Major Edwards, commanding the 57th Regiment of Infantry, P.R:—

A DIFFICULTY AT THE FIRE HALL

REGARDING ONE OF THE DRIVERS GAVE ALDERMEN A DISCUSSION

The Council Did Not Interfer With the Rules—Some Other Matters Were Discussed by the Aldermen.

A special meeting of the Town Council was held last evening. Mayor Kendry presided, and Ald. Denne, Roger, Corkery, Sawers, Weir, Dawson and Oke were present.

The minutes were read and confirmed.

ALD. SAWERS ADDED.

Ald. Roger moved, seconded by Ald. Denne,—That Ald. Sawers be added to the committee appointed to fix the rates of interest at which local improvement debentures shall be issued. This was carried.

A WALK ON CHARLOTTE-ST.

Ald. Roger moved, seconded by Ald. Denne,—That instead of giving notice to build a six foot sidewalk on south side of Charlotte-st. between Rubidge and Reid-sts., that notice be given of the intention of the Council to build an eight foot sidewalk on that block.—Carried.

This action was taken as a result of the consideration of the matter in committee before the meeting. The Board of the Charlotte-st. Methodist church did not want a narrow walk in front of the church, and favored a wide board walk to a narrow granolithic walk. Ex-Ald. Neill, of the church Board, was present in regard to the matter, but was not prepared to say whether the church would favor a wider granolithic walk, but he would bring the matter up at the next meeting. In the meantime the Aldermen decided to take action as in the motion, and the Board can appeal if it desires and the matter considered then.

A WIRE MATTER.

Ald. Corkery called attention to the condition of the street railway wires on George-st. south.

The Mayor said he had had his attention called to it in the afternoon, and had telephoned the clerk to have the Company's attention called to the trouble.

The Town Engineer said he had spoken to Mr. Bradburn, and he said he would have the matter attended to at once.

THE DRIVERS AT THE FIRE HALL.

Ald. Dawson brought up a difficulty that had arisen at the fire hall and precipitated a long discussion regarding the arrangement of the duties of the drivers. The trouble arose over Mr. Montgomery, who does outside work, refusing to take out the teams day about when ordered by the Chief of the Brigade, through Mr. English, who has charge of the horses. Mr. Montgomery was suspended by the Chief and his refusal to obey orders reported. The changing off of the teams was to give both teams exercise on the watering cart.

Mr. Montgomery was heard, and he said he had been told to take out the grey team and he refused. He thought one man should drive only one team. He said according to the papers he signed he was under the Chief of the Brigade when the fire bell rang, and after fires he was under the chairman of the Committee. He thought it was too much for him to work on the watering cart all day and then take night about at the hall. He only

$20 on a Douro Farmer for Carrying a Revolver

In the county police court yesterday, a farmer from Douro township, was fined $20 and costs, with the alternative of a month in gaol, for carrying a revolver. He was also charged with assaulting his wife. In this case Magistrate Edmison reserved judgment for a week.

A session of the county police court will be held on Friday to investigate a charge of theft.

An information was laid against a Dummer farmer last night charging him with the theft of two cook stoves and other old iron. Two old iron men allege that he gave them instructions to carry off the goods, to which he had no claim.

Trusler, Who Met With an Accident, Also Writes to Sergt. Roberts and Bert Kindred and Tells Much That is Interesting—The Canadians Had Started for Pretoria When He Wrote.

The Review received the following letter from Sergt. Trusler, who is with the Mounted Rifles in South Africa, and it will be read with interest:—

Bloemfontein, S. A., May 5.

Dear Review,—Just a line to let you know that we are on the march to Pretoria. We had some pretty hard marching from Orange River to Bloemfontein, through muddy roads and wet weather, but the past two weeks has been very fine and warm, with fine cool nights for sleeping. We have been in no action yet, but expect it any time. Our troops are at Branford, 45 miles from Bloemfontein. We are brigaded under General Hamilton, with General Hutton's division. Our boys are all well. Fever is very bad here, and at Bloemfontein we are losing British soldiers at the rate of 8 per day from entiric alone, not to mention deaths from wounds, dysentery, etc.

Bloemfontein lies in a very low place and is surrounded by kopies on all sides which are well fortified. There are about 10,000 men left at Bloemfontein to garrison the place. We expect a hot time of it from here to Pretoria, especially at Kronstadt and the Vaal River, where the enemy are making every preparation for us. Spence, Hall, Price and Turner are in good health, and we are as black as negros, with lovely beards from two to six inches long. The Boers look on us as savages, and, indeed, we look like it. We march on an average of 15 miles per day, sometimes only getting two meals per day, which consists of hardtack and bully beef. I have not much news to give you, for, in fact, on the march we hear nothing and you get more news than we do. The Canadians are greatly praised for their excellent work.

Capt. Greenwood is a fine officer and the men under him cannot speak too highly of him. We have fine warm weather with cold nights and we sleep soundly at night on the veldt dreaming of our far away home in the land of the Maple Leaf. I enclose a few lines by Kipling which I cut out of the Bloemfontein Post which explains a little of the Boers treachery, I shall have to close this time so promising to write again if I get a chance. I remain, yours, for Queen and country.

A. TRUSLER,
3rd Troop, A Squadron,
Canadian Mounted Rifles,
Field Force, South Africa.

ONE TO SERGT. ROBERTS.

Sergt. W. Roberts, of the 57th, also received a letter from Sergt. Trusler, and while covering much the same ground as the one to the Review, it is very interesting:—

Bloemfontein, S. A., May 5, 1900.

Dear Friend,—Having the opportunity, I thought I would just drop a line or two, hoping you will get this all right. Our troops have gone on towards Kronstadt and are at Branford, which is 45 miles from Bloemfontein. I unfortunately was left at Bloemfontein owing to an injury I received by being thrown from my horse, but my injury is not serious and I expect to join our regiment in a few days. Everything is quiet here, and the enemy seems to have fled towards Pretoria, and General French is keeping them on the move. I tell you French is a dandy and is making a name for himself in Africa. The Orange Free State is very quiet, and I think as far as the Free State is concerned the war is over. The Free Staters are giving in their arms by hundreds and returning to their homes. Occasionally we hear of some taking up arms again, but such are being severely dealt with by Lord Roberts, and I think it will soon cease. A great many Free Staters are accusing President Steyn of forcing them into war and are glad to surrender to the British.

Our Canadian boys are enjoying fairly good health, considering the heavy marching and wet weather, and the amount of fever and dysentery, which is very bad here just now. At the hospital here, at Bloemfontein, they at the rate of 8 per day from enteric fever, and men are coming in by hundreds suffering from it, which is a very serious affair. Two of the first contingent are here, Burns and Culver, of Ottawa, having been wounded at the water works, which the enemy tried to destroy but in which they failed. Bloemfontein is a very pretty little town of perhaps 3,000 whites, and 10,000 Kaffirs, but is in a very unhealthy location, lying, as it does, in a low valley surrounded on all sides by kopies, which the British have strongly fortified. There are about 10,000 men left here to garrison the town and from the scarcity of news this week one would not think there was a Boer in the country. We have several wounded Boers here, but in trying to converse with them I could get nothing out of them, although they could speak English fairly well. They seem to have

A MORTAL DREAD OF CANADIANS,

and to look on us as savages. There is lots of good land around here, but the Boers seem too lazy to cultivate it, and what is under cultivation seems to be very productive. I had a look at Lord Roberts last week, and also had the honor of speaking to Lord Kitchener, who came into the ward and asked me what regiment I belonged to. Spence, Hall, Price and Turner are all well, also

RAILWAY RUMBLES.

It costs $550,000,000 every week to run the world's railways.

The Canadian Pacific railway is surveying a new route from Ottawa to Arnprior.

A new system of railway traction has been invented by a New Zealander in which half of the car is underground and half above. It is proposed to construct a conduit of sufficient capacity to receive the truck and running gear.

Russia is getting ready to build a new railway from the south of European Russia to Turkestan. One line proposed goes from Orenburg through the Turgai country and Turkestan to Tashkend. Another starts at Alexandrovsk on the Caspain and follows the left bank of the Amu Daria to Tchardshui on the transcaspian railroad.

On the farm, especially where the fowls are given a free range, it is usually not necessary to feed the hens except at night, allowing them to hunt and scratch for their food during the day. In this way they will be kept thriftier and in a better laying condition.—St. Louis Republic.

The Light House Keeper.

No class in the community render more signal service to their fellows than the men who here and there along the chain of our great lakes and rivers keep bright and clear the lights that guide the sailor. Lighthouse keepers are necessarily exposed a great deal to the weather, and one of them, William Gillespie, of Wolfe Island, Ont., states that in this way he contracted muscular rheumatism. "For two weeks," said Mr. Gillespie, "I suffered untold agony with muscular rheumatism in my shoulders. I was crippled by the disease to such an extent that I could not put my coat on without assistance. I bought a bottle of Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure, and two doses cured me completely. I have not had a twinge of pain since. There is nothing like this medicine for rheumatism."

Rats on a Wreck.

A correspondent of the Newcastle Chronicle describes a striking scene witnessed at the breaking up of the vessel Gothenburg City on St. Mary's island, off the coast of Northumberland.

The vessel might have been sailing comfortably out of harbor for aught that appeared except that there was no sign of life on board. We had no sooner put foot on deck, however, than we were furiously attacked by swarms of rats.

Great, hungry, lank, lean looking rats, many of them with their tails chewed off, swarmed up from below in hundreds and thousands, squeaking and squirming over each other in a manner sickening and horrible to behold.

Those of us who had stepped on deck ran to the rigging, while the others scrambled hurriedly back into the boat.

Our position in the rigging was dangerous in the extreme. It was more than one's life was worth to attempt to run the gantlet of these fierce, starving rodents, and to remain in the rigging was equally impracticable.

At last we cut off some loose ropes, knotted them into convenient lengths and, so armed, descended and fought our way through the squealing hordes and eventually succeeded in beating a passage to the boat.

It seemed as if the rats knew the impending fate of the vessel, for they no sooner saw us over the side than they began to swarm down the ropes and try to enter the boat. It was with difficulty that we could beat them off before casting clear. And they squeaked in a horrible manner as we rowed away.

A few hours later the Gothenburg City went to pieces.

Mollified.

The head of the household was late getting home. He was very late. It was midnight. Indeed the little clock on the hall mantel had just struck 3 o'clock when he came walking in. He had been out with the boys, and his wife reproached him.

"Why, it's early yet. It's not late."

Just then the clock sounded one, two, three.

The wife looked at him with grim rebuke. He caught her eye and jerked out this reply:

"Well, now, if you want to believe that darned $1.50 clock before your dear husband, it's all right."

It was a similar occasion, only more so. At this time he was a little drunker than usual. His step was unsteady, but he had not lost his courteous manners. She met him at the front, weeping reproachfully.

"Oh, John," she pleaded, "what makes you do this way?"

"You are—hic—so awfully pretty—hic," he said, making an extravagant bow and kissing her, "that I like to—hic—to see you double."

And she put him tenderly to bed, bathed his forehead the next morning and forgot about the scolding she had fully determined to administer to him. —Missouri Excelsior.

A Floral Nosebleed.

Why speak of the lovely painted trilliums, with their three daintily crinkled petals, streaked with rose purple? says Bradford Torrey in The Atlantic. One after another I gathered them (pulled them, to speak with poetic literalness), each fresher and handsomer than the one before it till the white stems made a handful.

"Oh," said a man on a hotel piazza as I returned, "I see you have nosebleed." I was putting my hand to my pocket, wondering why I should have been taken so childishly, when it came over me what he meant. He was looking at the trilliums and explained, in answer to a question, that he had always heard them called nosebleed. Somewhere, then—I omitted to inquire where—this is their "vulgar" name. In Franconia the people call them Benjamins, which has a pleasant Biblical sound—better than nosebleed, at all events—though, to my thinking, trillium is preferable to either of them both for sound and for sense.

The Traces of the Beasts.

On every side in the Malay wilds the traces of the beasts—which here live as secluded, as safe from molestation, as did their ancestors in pre-Adamite days—are visible on tree trunk, on beaten game path and on the yielding clay at the drinking places by the hurrying stream. Here a belt of mud nine feet from the ground shows that an elephant has rubbed his itching back against the rough bark of a tree, and, see, coarse hairs are still sticking in the hardened clay. There a long sharp scratch repeated at regular intervals marks the passing of a rhinoceros. Here again is the pad mark of a tiger, barely an hour old, and the pitted tracks of deer of all sizes and varieties surround the deeply punched holes which are the footsteps of an elephant.—Blackwood's.

He Took It.

While the late James H. Beard, father of Dan Beard, the artist, was painting a portrait of Zachary Taylor, he said to him, "Well, general, I suppose you are to be our next president?"

"I hope not," grunted the bluff old hero. "No military man has any business in the presidential chair, but if they offer it to me I suppose I'll be fool enough to accept it."

And he was.

Deserved Tribute.

Chicago's chief of police says he would rather have a good, well trained newspaper man for detective service than the usual police officers who act as detectives. As a matter of fact the newspaper reporter does more good detective work every day in the year than the average member of a city detective force, but the public does not as a rule recognise the obligation.—Omaha Bee.

Vanity and Curiosity.

Vanity seems to spring eternal in the masculine breast, and the less it has to feed upon the more it thrives apparently.

The other day a tramp of high degree in vagrancy stopped before the window of a house at which two young women were standing. He was tattered and torn and melancholy looking to such an extent that he aroused a feeling of deep sympathy in the hearts of the maidens, who looked down upon him as he stood gazing intently at some object he held in his hand.

"I wonder what he has," said the sentimental one of the two as she peered down on him. "A lock of some woman's hair, I shouldn't wonder."

"More likely a coin he's found; he looks pleased," rejoined the practical one scathingly as she maneuvered for a position that would reveal the object to her.

But it was neither, they discovered. It was just a bit of looking glass, in which the man was surveying his features with a satisfied air, that told of his entire contentment with his very rugged physiognomy.

Which shows, as was said at the beginning of this story, that vanity springs eternal in the masculine breast just as curiosity does in the feminine.—Baltimore News.

Turned the Joke to Account.

Some friends once invited the late Tiny Waterman to their shooting club at Kings Lake, near St. Louis, and the first afternoon they stationed Tiny in a ducking tank, or sink box, where they well knew ducks had never been seen. He took the joke good naturedly, and that night at dinner he pulled a shell out of his pocket and tossed it on the table with the remark that he "thought he had put all of his shells away." Most naturally one of the diners cut the shell open with his pocketknife, disclosing the contents. Tiny seemed astounded at the number of "bullets," as he called them, and asked how many were in a shell. Of course no one could enlighten him, so he said, "If you fellows who are hunters really don't know, it seems to me that it is a good betting proposition."

"Good scheme," exclaimed one of his hosts. "Let's make it a dollar each as to who guesses nearest to the actual number in the shell."

"As there is only one bet in this proposition," Tiny suggested, "let's make it $5 a corner," which was agreed to.

Each one wrote on the tablecloth his guess as to the number contained in the shell, and when the pellets were counted it was found that Tiny had guessed the exact number. He accordingly gathered in the $30, and when he had it safely bestowed he casually inquired, "What do you fellows think I was doing in that blamed tank all afternoon?"—San Francisco Argonaut.

A Very Restful Rest.

Adolf Menzel, the German artist, was at one time engaged on a mural decoration. He had rigged up a scaffolding in his studio, on which his model was requested to stand. For two long hours the poor "poseur" stood up aloft in a most fatiguing posture. Menzel in the meantime worked at his sketch, heedless of the fact that his model was growing tired.

At length the model found it necessary to speak. "Herr professor," said he, "how about a recess?"

Menzel apologized profusely for his forgetfulness. "Certainly, certainly, my dear sir," said he. "Come down and rest yourself a bit."

The model had clambered from the scaffolding to the ladder, which led down from it to the studio floor.

"Stop!" cried the artist suddenly. "That pose is fine! Don't move a muscle!"

And once more the model was forced into strained rigidity, while the enthusiastic draftsman set about sketching him.

At the end of half an hour Menzel looked up from his work. "There," said he, "that will do nicely! Get back on the scaffold. We have had our rest. Let us get back to work again."

What the model said is left to the reader's imagination.

How Mayne Reid Won His Bride.

It was through his novel, "The Scalp Hunters," that Captain Mayne Reid won a bride. He was 30 years old when he met a damsel of 13, with whom he at once fell in love. The child took no notice of him, but he gave her the story to read, as effective a manner of courting in this nineteenth century as ever was Othello's in an earlier one. Two years later the young lady was at a public meeting where Captain Reid spoke on behalf of the Polish refugees. "An electric thrill seemed to pass through me as he entered the room," she said afterward, and when the meeting was over she went up to him. "I leave for London on the next train," he said hurriedly. "Please send me your address."

"I do not know where," she replied with some embarrassment. He instantly handed out his card and was gone. A formal little note followed: "Dear Captain Reid—As you asked me to send you my address, I do so." By return of post came the answer: "Only say that you love me and I will be with you at once," and then the reply, "I think I do love you."

His Vote.

"Well, suh," said the old time colored voter, "de ways er de canderdate is past findin out. All de year I been lak one cryin in de wilderness, en no man 'spon ter my cry. I holler fer bread, en dey give me a Belgian block en 30 days. En now look at 'em! En all I got ter my name is one vote en der rheumatism!"—Atlanta Constitution.

White and Red Wines.

White and red wines owe their difference to the fact that, while the former is permitted to ferment without the grape skirts, these are allowed to remain in the case of the latter. The color of the grapes makes no difference whatever to the color of the wine which they produce, for the juice of all grapes is as nearly as possible colorless. For instance, the grape which yields champagne is almost black in outward appearance.

A THOROUGH ENQUIRY.

Sir Charles Tupper Offered Some Investigation Suggestions to the Canadian Premier in the House.

Ottawa, June 6. — The election commission and the election law occupied the minds of the Commoners all day long.

Sir Charles Tupper criticized the Royal Commission. He said its scope was not wide enough. It should include "any fraudulent practises, persons or means connected therewith." A short bill should be passed extending indemnity to witnesses, providing for their pay and maintenance and giving the judges power to compel a witness to give evidence and to examine him as to how he voted. Sir Charles suggested that he and Sir Wilfrid should choose the counsel, that the evidence taken before the Privileges and Election Committee should be used and the cases of West Huron and Brockville should be first taken up.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said he would talk the matter over with Hon. David Mills. He will ask Parliament to provide for the expenses of the commission. His intention was to give the commissioners a free hand, believing they knew their business. When Mr. Mills has been informed of Sir Charles' suggestions the matter will come up again.

The Election Law.

Hon. Charles Fitzpatrick announced that he withdrew the clauses in the election law relating to N. W. T. representation, and that part of clause seven disqualifying soldiers of the permanent force and N. W. M. P.

Mr. Casgrain referred to the amendments he proposed to introduce. They aimed to secure purity of elections, to banish corruption and to make elections cheap. They were drafted from Imperial and Quebec statutes.

Mr. Ingram wanted a clause inserted adding imprisonment to the penalty for intimidation. He also argued the giving of a lump sum to returning officers to prevent the great sub-division of ridings.

Mr. Puttee wanted the polls in cities of 10,000 and over open till 8 p.m. He was opposed to the new ballot, as the mark could be seen from the back on account of the black background.

Mr. Fitzpatrick said that he was not wedded to the new ballot.

Sir Charles Tupper strongly urged that the man who stole an election should be sent to the Penitentiary.

The House went into committee on the bill.

The various clauses of the bill were discussed. Whenever any objection was taken to a clause, it was stood over.

The committee reported progress and the House adjourned at 12.40.

Serious Injury to a Bicyclist.

Fergus, Ont., June 5. — While returning from Arthur Sunday night about 10.30 James Ready of this place, who was riding a bicycle, collided with a buggy, the shaft striking him on the left side of the face near the nose, piercing the side of his face, tearing away the jaw bone and left ear and about one-third of the scalp. The point of the shaft came out behind his left ear. The horse took fright, and he was carried thirty or forty yards on the shaft. The flesh giving way, he was thrown in the ditch. Medical aid was summoned at once, and he was removed to his home, where all that was possible at the time was done to relieve the injured boy. Yesterday morning strong hopes were entertained for his recovery.

The Appointment Is Certain.

Ottawa, June 5. — The following significant item appears in the Government organ last night: The Free Press is in a position to confirm the report cabled from London as to the choice of Col. Richard O'Grady Haly, C.B., D.S.O., as successor to Major-Gen. Hutton, in the command of the Canadian militia. The appointment will be officially announced in a day or two. The salary of the major-general will be as usual, $4,000, with $2,000 for allowances. Col. Haly, who is on the retired list of the British army, is 60 years of age.

"My friend," said the long haired passenger to the young man in the seat opposite, "to what end has your life work been directed?"

"To both ends," was the reply. "I have the only first class hat and shoe store in our village."—Chicago News.

HAMILTON'S HALF HOLIDAY.

The Response, However, Was Not a General Observance.

Hamilton, June 6. — As soon as Lord Roberts' announcement of the fall of Pretoria reached this city Mayor Teetzel proclaimed a half holiday, but it was not generally observed.

At the Conference.

The announcement of the occupation of Pretoria by the British forces under "Bobs" swept away all the gravity of the Methodist Conference yesterday. The ministers applauded, and nearly everyone took out a flag from beneath his coat tail and frantically waved it. Rev. R. W. Wright the "poet laureate" of the conference had a poem ready, which President Jackson read, and the patriotic wave broke out in a cablegram of congratulation to Hon. Joseph Chamberlain.

London Will Celebrate.

London, Ont., June 6. — As soon as the news reached London yesterday of the surrender of Pretoria, bells began ringing, whistles tooted and flags made their appearance all over the city. In a few minutes the business portion of the city presented a holiday appearance, decked gaily in flags. Mayor Rumball lost no time in proclaiming a half holiday for this Wednesday afternoon. the Citizens Committee decided to hold a monster procession this afternoon, in which the soldiers now in camp on Carling's Heights, will take part. The demonstration promises to be the greatest ever held in London.

Rejoicing at Quebec.

Quebec, June 6. — The officers of the 8th Regiment, Royal Rifles, entertained their men last night to one of the largest electric car parades ever witnessed in this city, to celebrate the taking of Pretoria. It consisted of about a dozen cars brilliantly illuminated, and decorated with Union Jacks in colored electric lights, etc. One of the cars was filled by the young ladies of the Red Cross Society. The parade started from the Esplanade at 8 o'clock and the men met there in mufti, provided with tin horns, etc. It was an original and spirited demonstration.

Kingstonians Made a Noise.

Kingston, Ont., June 6. — There was great rejoicing yesterday upon the report of Lord Roberts' army occupying Pretoria. Flags and bunting are displayed from all public buildings. At noon all the bells were rung and steam whistles were sounded. The Cadets at the Royal Military College fired a 21-gun salute.

Halifax Opened Out.

Halifax, N.S., June 6. — Pretoria Day was celebrated with wild enthusiasm. The Mayor and corporation arranged for a grand torchlight procession and a general illumination. The firemen, the societies, all city bands, the full militia force, all regular soldiers, sailors from warships and thousands of citizens paraded. It was the grandest celebration ever known in Halifax. The city is a mass of decoration.

Newfoundlanders Celebrate.

St. John's, Nfld., June 6.—A celebration took place here over the taking of Pretoria. The fishermen celebrated with torch-light procession. The Colonial Goverment has sent official cablegrams of congratulation to Queen Victoria and Lord Roberts.

Waterloo's Second.

Waterloo, Ont., June 6.—Not content with the celebration last Thursday, Waterloo again celebrated Roberts' occupation of Pretoria in an uproarious manner. A huge bonfire was burned on the main street, and fireworks and giant crackers in endless numbers were set off by the enthusiastic citizens.

Rodney Celebrated.

Rodney, Ont., June 6. — There was a big celebration here last night on account of Pretoria victory. Bands were out, and there was a torchlight procession, bonfires, fireworks, etc.

Walkerton, Ont., June 6.—A general jubilation prevailed in town last night in commemoration of the victory at Pretoria. The town was illuminated, bonfires at every corner and numerous processions, with music and torches, marched through the town. The whole population was out in the streets.

ENTHUSIASM HAD BEEN SPENT.

"The Grange" Decorated in Toronto, and a British Flag on Bourassa's Desk in Parliament.

In Toronto the fall of Pretoria and the flight of Kruger had been celebrated duly last Wednesday and Thursday, and the pealing of bells, the tooting of whistles, and the redecorating of the town with flags showed the inward joy the people felt, but on this occasion did not noisily express.

Prof. Goldwin Smith's residence, "The Grange," and grounds were decorated lavishly with British flags, and the Boer's friend enjoyed the joke as well as did all who passed that way.

Ottawa celebrated, but it was not a patch on last week's demonstration. In the House of Commons all went on as if there was no Pretoria. The chair of the sergeant-at-arms, and the Speaker's throne were decorated with Union Jacks, while some joker had put a small flag in the ink pot on Mr. Bourassa's desk.

The Boer delegates were received by the Mayor of Chicago Tuesday, while the newsboys were shouting about the surrender of Pretoria. They said it was what they expected, but that the fighting would go on.

WHOLESOME ADVICE

For People Whose Stomachs are Weak and Digestion Poor.

Dr. Harlandson, whose opinion in diseases is worthy of attention, says when a man or woman comes to me complaining of indigestion, loss of appetite, sour stomach, belching, sour watery rising, headaches, sleeplessness, lack of ambition and a general run down nervous condition, I advise them to take after each meal one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, allowing the tablet to dissolve in the mouth, and thus mingle with the food eaten. The result is that the food is speedily digested before it has time to sour and ferment. These tablets will digest the food anyway whether the stomach wants to or not, because they contain harmless digestive principles, vegetable essences, pepsin and Golden Seal, which supply just what the weak stomach lacks.

I have advised the tablets with great success, both in curing indigestion and to build up the tissues, increasing flesh in thin, nervous patients, whose real trouble was dyspepsia, and as soon as the stomach was put to rights, they did not know what sickness was.

A fifty cent package of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets can be bought at any drug store, and as they are not a secret patent medicine, they can be used as often as desired with full assurance that they contain nothing harmful in the slightest degree; on the contrary, any one whose stomach is at all deranged will find great benefit from the use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. They will cure any form of stomach weakness or disease except cancer of the stomach.

POLITICAL QUIPS.

The presidential office may be easy to fill, but nobody will deny that it is rather hard to get.—Rochester Democrat.

The candidate frequently fixes his fences, but invariably it is the voter who does the rail splitting.—Atlanta Constitution.

People should be careful about throwing stones promiscuously. They might hit a vice presidential candidate.—Chicago Record.

The voters of the United States are growing increasingly independent at municipal elections. The disease isn't one that should be cured.—Hartford Post.

LAUNDRY LINES.

Borax is especially excellent for use in washing linen, making it beautifully white.

It is claimed that phosphate of ammonia mixed with starch used in the laundry will render the fabric treated with it comparatively fireproof.

If you do up your own shirt waists, you will find a shirt waist board a convenience. On such a board the sleeves may be ironed without leaving creases. It should be covered with at least two thicknesses of flannel and then with clean white cotton.

Heat and Cold

Are never-failing causes of disease. At this season of the year neuralgia, toothache, and a host of similar diseases are rampant. The great question then, is to find the quickest, surest, and most economical remedy. Polson's Nerviline exactly fills these requirements. It is prompt, efficient and most economical, for it exceeds in power every known remedy, and is as cheap as inferior articles. A 10 cent sample bottle will give every person a chance to test it. Large bottles only 25 cents.

"Fortune favors the brave." It is also favorable to those who purify their blood at this season by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"JOE" MATTHEWS AT THABA NCHU

HE TELLS OF THE CANADIANS IN ACTION NEAR SPRINGFIELD

An Interesting Account of Experiences With the First Contingent in South Africa—A Night March.

The following letter from Pte. Joe Matthews, who is with the first Canadian contingent in South Africa, is interesting:—

Thaba Nchu, April 29, 1900.

Dear Mother,—I have not had a chance to write to you for the past week as we have been on the go all the time. We left Bloemfontein a week ago yesterday, just after I scribbled a few lines to you, and marched out to Springfield about eight miles away, and took the place of the 18th brigade who had moved out against a force of Boers who were making themselves obnoxious. We stayed at Springfield Sunday and moved on on Monday, our place being taken by the Highland Brigade. We marched about twelve miles that day and the next moved out against the enemy who occupied some kopjes across the Modder River. A strong force of mounted infantry went in front and ascertained that the enemy had retired, so we occupied their old position for the night. Next morning, the 26th, we started after them again, the R. C. R.

FORMING THE ADVANCE

guard of the infantry. About ten o'clock the mounted division found the Boers, and the guns, two batteries, hurried to the front while we rested on the slope behind them. After an hour's shelling the enemy's position was located and we started off against them. We were supposed to make a feint frontal attack while the Gordons and Shrops and Cornwalls turned their flank. Our "feint" attack turned out to be a very real one as the bullets soon began to whiz past us. We had two guns behind us which covered our advance. We were quite a long way from the kopje where the Boers were, so their fire had not much effect. A new danger presented itself, however, as our guns fired two defective shells which burst over our heads and sent the shrapnel bullets flying all around us. No one was hit but it was awfully close. After advancing about a mile our company reinforced the firing line and then we had the pleasure of shooting back. When we made the advance on the kopje the Boers skipped out as soon as

WE FIXED BAYONETS,

and when we got to the top we could see them riding across the plain. They took their dead and wounded away with them, expect four dead which were buried by one of our regiments. Our casualties were slight, only one killed and three wounded including Col. Otter who received a slight wound on the face, a bullet struck his neck and lower jaw. One of our company was hit in the arm by an expanding bullet which tore his arm in a terrible manner. Next day we came into Thaba Nchu and were sent out to guard a pass through which the Boers were expected to come, but after preparing our position nicely we were ordered back to the town.

We are about forty-five miles from Bloemfontein, and are part of a large force which is trying to round up the Boers, whose strength is estimated at anywhere from ten to twenty thousand, with fifteen guns. It is like playing checkers with a very large board. Some day soon the Boers will run up against it pretty hard, and the sooner the better as this is the hardest time I have had yet. The night before last our company and B Company, along with six companies of the Gordons, started out about seven o'clock to relieve a troop of Kitchener's Horse, which was SUPPOSED TO BE TRAPPED.

It was supposed to be five miles away, but we got lost and marched all night about twelve miles and halted about three in the morning. It was terribly cold and we had no coats, but we were so sleepy that we just fell down and slept. When we woke at dawn we found ourselves to be just under the fire of one of the big guns of the Boers. So we hustled out of that and took possession of a kopje where we were in comparative safety. When approaching the hill our half company was leading, and we saw a head bob up and down behind some rocks a couple of times, so we were sure the hill was occupied and expected to be fired on at any time. Then a man stood up, and I thought he was telling the rest to reserve their fire till we were close up. When we got up, however, we found that he was only a nigger shepherd and the only occupant of the hill. We got back to camp about two in the afternoon and were pretty tired and hungry I can tell you. There has been fighting going on continually for a couple of days, but with no results to speak of except the capture of some Boer transport waggons. I hope we can get the Boers in some place where they will stand and have it out. When this force is wiped out the war will be considerably nearer over. Will have to close in order to be in time to mail. Love to all.

Yours affectionately,
JOE.

P. S.—Am sorry to say that our chocolate boxes were on the "Mexican" and went to the bottom with her. Will try to get another, but am afraid I can't now. Am very much disappointed.

MAN ARRESTED

With Mr. Hugh Fife's Stolen Horse at Lorneville.

Chief Rossel this afternoon received a message from Lorneville, Victoria County, stating that the man with Fife's horse, stolen from the field in Otonabee, on Monday, had been captured there. The message said man under arrest, horse sick, man makes full confession.

An officer will be sent to bring the man here.

wanted fair play. He was willing to take week about or month about on the outside and inside work with the other driver.

Mr. McFarlane was called in and was willing to take week about if it was desired.

Mr. Craig, Assistant Chief of the Brigade, was consulted, and he said the present arrangement was satisfactory to the brigade and the changing system was not satisfactory. Mr. McFarlane was the only man that had kept the hall and the equipment in shape, and they desired no change.

Ald. Sawers and Weir were in favor of a change, and Ald. Oke and Clinkscale thought the division at present was hardly fair. Ald. Dawson had nothing against Mr. Montgomery, but he thought the work as at present being satisfactory should be left alone.

The Mayor spoke in favor of an amicable arrangement of the matter, one satisfactory to all concerned.

The discussion developed into a general talk.

Finally Ald. Clinkscale moved, seconded by Ald. Sawers,—That the drivers take two weeks about on the outside and inside work, and that the teams be taken out day about.

Ald. Dawson thought they should ask that orders be obeyed or men discharged.

Ald. Sawers said he would support the discharging of both men if Ald. Dawson would move it.

The rules and regulations governing the drivers were read, and these said the drivers must obey the chief stableman promptly, and any failure to do so was to be reported to the committee at once.

The Chief of the Brigade in suspending Mr. Montgomery for refusing to obey his orders and reporting him, had acted within the rules and according to them.

Ald. Clinkscale's motion, after further talk, was not pressed, and the matter was allowed to stand, and Mr. Montgomery will take the teams out as ordered until the matter is considered again.

ROOMS TO BE RENOVATED.

Ald. Clinkscale called attention to the condition of the firemen's rooms, and on motion of Ald. Dawson and Roger, the Property committee was authorized to have the necessary work done.

Ald. Oke was appointed to act as chairman of the Fire, Water and Light committee when Ald. Dawson was absent from town.

The Council then adjourned.

Where are the Skeptics?

In spite of all the evidence published in the daily press and even in spite of the testimony of your best friends you may still be skeptical regarding the unusual virtues of Dr. Chase's Ointment. Nothing short of an actual trial will prove to you beyond the possibility of doubt that Dr. Chase's Ointment is an absolute cure for piles. A single box will be sufficient to make you as enthusiastic as your neighbor in praising Dr. Chase's Ointment, for it is certain to cure you.

BOER ARMY TRIES TO MAINTAIN A POSITION

Endeavor to Gain Time by Making a Stand East of Pretoria

Still Keep the British Prisoners Under Guard—A Thousand of Them Guarded by Two Hundred and Fifty Boers.

Lorenzo Marques, June 7.—The Boers are reported to be making a stand near Hatherley, twelve miles east of Pretoria on the Delagoa Railway, for the purpose of gaining time. The British prisoners have been sent to Nooitgdacht northeast of Pretoria in the Elands Valley. Three hundred of them arrived there on Thursday and 700 yesterday. A force of 250 Boers are guarding them.

JUNE WEDDINGS.

SAVIGNY—TAYLOR.

The residence of Mr. and Mrs. John Savigney, "The Cedars," Otonabee, was yesterday the scene of a pleasant gathering, the occasion being the marriage of their daughter, Miss Anna Elizabeth, to Mr. Wm. H. Taylor, son of Mr. W. C. Taylor, of Beechwood Farm, Auburn.

The gathering was a large one although composed only the immediate relatives of the bride and groom.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Torrance. The groom was supported by Mr. A. R. Evans, of Newmarket, and the bridesmaids were Miss Bella Taylor and little Agnes Stewart. The bride's costume was of white organdie trimmed with white valenciennes lace and chiffon, and she carried a large boquet of white roses. The bridesmaid's costume was of white organdie trimmed with white insertion and chiffon, and the young lady carried a bouquet of pink roses. The maid of honor, Agnes Stewart, wore white organdie, made over a pretty shade of pink silk, and carried a basket of very fine pink roses. After the ceremony the company partook of dinner. The happy couple drove to Peterborough and left on the 9 p.m. train on their wedding trip which includes a visit to Rochester, Albany and New York. A large number of guests were gathered at the G.T.R. station to see the young couple depart, and to extend congratulations and best wishes. The bride has been a great favorite in the neighborhood and the large number of beautiful presents sent in were a pleasing recognition of a happy occasion and of personal popularity.

JOHNSTON—FERGUSON.

A pretty wedding was celebrated at Lakefield yesterday afternoon at five o'clock at the residence of the bride's father, being the nuptials of Miss Amanda Beatrice Ferguson, daughter of Mr. John Ferguson, and Mr. John Nesbitt Johnston, V.S., of Lakefield, late of Peterborough. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Campbell. About forty guests were present. Miss Gertrude Davidson was bridesmaid and Mr. Harry Fitzgerald attended the groom. Both bride and bridesmaid looked charming in exquisite costumes. Many handsome presents were received. Dr. Johnston and his bride have many friends in Lakefield and Peterborough, who will wish them a happy wedded life. They will reside in Lakefield.

DIXON—ROWSON.

A quiet wedding took place at St. Andrew's manse, Peterborough, on Tuesday, June 5th, when Mr. Wm. T. Dixon, of Lakefield, and Miss Helen Rowson, of Port Hope, were united in the bonds of matrimony by the Rev. J. G. Potter.

Weak, Sickly Children

Are Restored to Health and Vigour by Using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Many children are pale, weak, and bloodless from their birth. Many others have their blood and nerves exhausted, and their systems broken down by the ravages of disease, or as the result of over-study at school.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is the ideal treatment for children. It supplies the very elements which are lacking in the pale, weak, and nervous. It restores the colour and richness to the blood, invigorates the nerves, and builds up the system. As a restorative after the exhausting and debilitating effects of measles, scarlet fever, and such ailments, it is of incalculable worth.

Mrs. Stephen Dempsey, Albury, P. E. county, Ont., writes:—"My little grand-daughter, nine years old, was very pale and weak, and had no appetite. She had a tired, wornout appearance, and was delicate and sickly. I got some of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food for her, and it has helped her very much. She is gaining considerably in weight and looks real healthy."

RESTING BEFORE LONG CHASE

After the Retiring Boers in the Direction of Lydenberg.

Is British Cavalry Trying to Intercept Botha? - Lord Roberts Surprised at the Reception in Pretoria - There Was Much Enthusiasm When the British Flag Was Hoisted There - Armistice Between Buller and Botha.

London, June 7.—(3.15 a.m.) — Military operations in South Africa are apparently at a standstill. For a day or two the tired troops of Lord Roberts are resting and he is filling the magazines and warehouses at his new base, Pretoria, preparatory to a long chase after the retiring Boers in the direction of Lydenberg. His cavalry are probably seeking to intercept Commandant Botha.

Gen. Botha was fighting an essentially rear guard action, his object not being to defend Pretoria, but to delay Lord Roberts until the railway switch had been cleared and the main part of the Boer army had started to withdraw. The British advance appears to have left open to the Boers the best line of retreat along the railway.

Gen. Baden-Powell has extended martial law to the Marico and North Lichtenberg districts. Shots were exchanged between Boer and British patrols eighteen miles east of Mafeking on May 28.

The Boers used, both heavy and light artillery at Pretoria.

What is supposed to have been the last train out of Pretoria arrived at Lorenzo Marquez Sunday evening. The passengers included a number of foreign volunteers who were leaving the Boers, and also the wives and children of Hollanders. They described Pretoria as destitute of food and clothing. What the Boer officials could not take, the natives and townspeople did.

The Entry Into Pretoria.

London, June 7. — Lord Roberts telegraphs to the War Office as follows,

"Pretoria, June 5.—(5.35 p.m.) — The occupation of the town passed off most satisfactorily, and the British flag is now hoisted on top of the Government offices. The troops met with a much more enthusiastic reception than I anticipated. The third battalion of the Grenadier Guards lined the square when the march past took place. Owing to their having been on duty at some distance around the town, very few cavalry and infantry were able to take part in the ceremony. Several of our officers who had been prisoners were among the onlookers."

Armistice at Laing's Nek.

London, June 7. — A special despatch from Lorenzo Marquez, dated Tuesday, June 5, says: "Gen. Buller and Christian Botha met at Laing's Nek, at Buller's request, when a three-days' armistice was agreed upon." The despatch adds that the British have evacuated Utrecht..

Duke of Norfolk Wounded.

London, June 7. — The Duke of Norfolk, who is Lieut.-Col. of the Second Battalion of Royal Sussex Yeomanry, now in South Africa, has met with a somewhat serious accident by falling from his horse. His hip was dislocated, and he received other injuries.

Salisbury Congratulates Roberts.

London, June 7. — Lord Salisbury cabled to Lord Roberts on Tuesday as follows:

"I earnestly congratulate you on this crowning result of your brilliant strategy and the devotion of your gallant soldiers."

Boers Took 54 Prisoners.

Maseru, Basutoland, June 6. — A trooper of Brabant's Horse says that in the last engagement the Boers took 54 prisoners, including an officer, whom they released conditionally. The officer estimated that the Boer forces between Ficksburg and Bethlehem number 6,000 men.

The Captured Battalion.

London, June 7. — The Thirteenth Imperial Yeomanry Battalion, captured by the Boers Friday near Lindley, Orange River Colony, consisted of two Irish units, and two companies of the Duke of Cambridge's Own, including Lord Donoughmore's Company, which was regarded as the crack of the corps, a number of men in the ranks being closely allied to noble families. Among the officers are the Earl of Leitrim, the Earl of Longford and the Earl of Ennismore.

CANADIANS WOUNDED.

Several of Them Are Severe—One Man Dangerously Ill.

London, June 7. — It has been reported to the War Office that Pte. P. Clunie, of "D" Co., Royal Canadian Regiment of Infantry, is dangerously ill at Winburg hospital.

It has also been reported that Gray (127) and Stewart (291) were severely wounded at Olephantsviel. There are no numbers corresponding with these names in the official list, but there are several Stewarts and Greys in the Mounted Rifles and Canadian Artillery.

Several Wounds Severe.

The wounds received by Ptes. J. E. Davies, J. Jordan and J. B. Robinson, of the Royal Canadian Regiment of Infantry, at Johannesburg, are reported to the War Office to have been severe. Those of the other four Canadians were only slight.

Imitations

of Dodd's Kidney Pills are legion. The box is imitated, the outside coating and shape of the pills are imitated and the name—Dodd's Kidney Pills is imitated. Imitations are dangerous. The original is safe. Dodd's Kidney Pills have a reputation. Imitators have none or they wouldn't imitate. So they trade on the reputation of Dodd's Kidney Pills. Do not be deceived. There is only one DODD'S. Dodd's is the original. Dodd's is the name to be careful about—

D-O-D-D'S KIDNEY PILLS

Bobs' Proposal Not Accepted.

Ottawa, June 7. — It is reported that the Minister of Militia has cabled Col. Lessard to the effect that the proposed change in the title of the Canadian Mounted Rifles would be inadvisable. Lord Roberts had suggested that the name of Royal Canadian Dragoons be given to the first battalion of the mounted rifles, but the change would not apply to the second battalion, and it is considered inexpedient to have two sections of the same regiment under different titles.

Stinson Won His Case.

Hamilton, June 7. — The depositors of the Stinson Bank estate were cheered by the news yesterday that James Stinson had won his suit against the United States Government to determine the title to 2,200 acres of land in Superior, Wisconsin. It is said that this land is sufficiently valuable to enable Mr. Stinson to settle his debts.

Bishop Thornloe Chosen.

Kingston, Ont., June 7. — (2 a. m.) — After several conferences both committees of the Synod of the Diocese of Ontario decided to withdraw Professors Roper and Worrell, and nominated Bishop Thornloe of Algoma. He was afterwards elected coadjutor by the Synod.

Woman Killed Near Kingston.

Kingston, Ont., June 7.—Early yesterday morning Elizabeth (or Martha) Steele was struck by a freight train a mile east of the G.T.R. station and was killed. She was about 60 years of age and was a country pedlar.

Plague Dying Out.

San Francisco, June 7. — No new cases of the plague have been reported.

Toronto University Confers Degrees.

Toronto, June 7.—The Senate of Toronto University met last night and determined to confer the degree of LL.D. honoris causa on the Vice-Chancellor, the Hon. Mr. Justice Moss, on Mr. Louis Frechette, C.M. G., Quebec, and on Prof. Simon Newcomb, Washington.

The degree of Bachelor of Medicine is granted to Mr. J. C. Macdonald, B.A., and to Mr. J. Jordan, now on service in South Africa.

Rev. R. Johnson Chosen.

Toronto, June 7. — At a largely attended meeting of the congregation of Knox Church, held last night, it was decided unanimously to extend a call to the Rev. Dr. Robert Johnson of London to become pastor of the church at a salary of $3,250 per year, and six weeks holidays. No other names were mentioned in connection with the position.

Mail for Dawson City.

Washington, June 7. — Through an arrangement entered into by the postal departments of the United States and Canada it will be possible to send all classes of mail to Dawson City and other places in the Yukon district. Heretofore only letter mail could be transmitted to these points.

Socialist Labor Candidate.

New York, June 7. — The Socialis Labor party in convention in this city yesterday nominated Jos. F. Maloney of Lynn, Mass., for President of the United States. Mr. Maloney accepted.

Some Mistake.

"What does she say?" asked the crafty politician who had referred the committee to his wife for information as to his intentions.

"She refuses to talk," replied the spokesman of the committee.

"Then it wasn't my wife you met, gentlemen," he rejoined, with great positiveness. "It was somebody else."—Chicago Tribune.

An Example and a Warning.

"I'm afraid," said the patient wife, "that yours will be the fate of Abel."

"Why, what do you mean?" asked the astonished husband.

"Well," she replied, "Abel was killed by a club, and your club will be the death-of-you if you don't come home oftener."—Chicago News.

"MACDONALD DAY."

How the Memory of the Grand Old Chieftain Is Kept Green—Superb Decorations.

Toronto, June 7. — The decoration of the late Sir John Macdonald's monument in the Queen's Park yesterday afternoon was a just and deserving tribute to Canada's "Grand Old Man," whose whole life was devoted to the advancement and to the welfare of his country. Every school child knows what he had done. How he brought the scattered provinces together; how he acquired thousands of thousands of square miles of territory belonging to the Great Hudson Bay Company, and how, by dint of great exertion, welded together into one great Dominion, stretching from the Atlantic to the Pacific Oceans. This was his master work and that gigantic undertaking brought to such a successful finish will be the means of keeping his memory forever green.

Yesterday's demonstration was the third time the monument has been decorated under the Toronto Conservative Club, was the most successful yet held. In the neighborhood of 3,000 people were present and everything went along smoothly.

The Decorations Superb.

The large stone pedestal, as well as the bronze figure of Sir John were almost completely obscured from view when all the floral tributes were arranged in place. A large Union Jack was thrown over the shoulder of the statute and a bunch of deep, red roses was pinned on the lapel of the coat. The hand extended held a handsome wreath in the shape of a shield, and across it was the inscription, "Dominion 1876." It was from the Toronto Conservative Club. There were other wreaths also from the Conservative members of the House of Commons and Ontario Legislature, the Central Conservative Association, the Albany Club, the Macdonald Club (central), Macdonald Club (western), and the Macdonald Club (northern).

The chairman, R. S. Burrows, and ex-President E. M. Dumas, having spoken, these speakers were called upon and responded in eloquent terms: Hon. N. Clarke Wallace, Mr. J. G. H. Bergeron, M.P., Mr. G. V. McInerney, M.P., Mr. W. H. Hoyle, M.P.P., and Mr. J. J. Foy, M.P.P.

The proceedings were closed by the band playing the National Anthem, in which many of those present joined.

Kingston Marked the Day.

Kingston, June 7. — The grave of the late Sir John A. Macdonald was decorated yesterday on the ninth anniversary of his death. Wreaths were contributed by the Conservative members of the House of Commons, the Macdonald Clubs of Montreal and Kingston. Addresses were delivered by Mayor Minnes, Kingston; Rev. Dr. Shaw, Montreal; Alderman J. M. Shaw, J. R. Dargavel, Elgin.

A Cable With a History.

The cable of the Western Union Telegraph company which runs under Lake Champlain from Ticonderoga to Larrabees Point has something of a history. It was made in Europe and was first used in connecting opposite shores of the Red sea. From there it was brought to Hilton Head, where it was used in connecting that place with Tybee island, near Beaufort, S. C. At the close of the civil war it was taken up and carried to New York city, where it remained for several years in the company storehouse before it was placed where it now is.

The Automaton chess player is a wonderful thing. It plays a perfect game inside its limitations. But once outside the routine moves, the Automaton is a failure. Much of medical practice is as limited in its way as the moves of the Automaton at chess. No medical man can move with success outside his experience and training. For that reason the local doctor, often gives up as hopeless a case which is quite curable when greater skill and experience are brought to bear.

It is the so-called "incurable" and "hopeless" cases, which come in such numbers to Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., for treatment. Men and women with weak lungs, obstinate coughs, emaciated bodies and fevered cheeks have found in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery the true elixir of life. "The blood is the life" and the "Discovery" by increasing the activity of the blood making glands, and restoring to healthy action the digestive and nutritive organs, places the entire system in a condition to throw off disease. There is no alcohol, opium, or other narcotic, in "Golden Medical Discovery."

Mr. Chas. Hunwick, of Lenox, Macomb Co., Mich., writes: "I have never felt better in my life than I do now. I have taken Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery right along. I think I am doing finely. I do not cough now and I can sleep like a school boy. I think I will have to change my mind about 'Patent Medicines,' as I never had much faith in them; but you must know that I have been treated in two hospitals and by three doctors besides, and received no benefit; so I think your medicine is the only medicine for me."

A Bundle of Nerves

Nerve force is the very life of man and every organ of the human body is dependent upon it. Just as soon as the blood gets thin and watery and fails to supply nourishment to the nerves there comes a train of nervous disorders, nervous prostration, paralysis, epilepsy, insanity and death. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food rebuilds and revitalizes the nerve cells wasted by disease, overwork and worry. It is beyond doubt the world's greatest restorative. Recommended by your family physician. PROTOS VERSUS VITALINE.

A Scandal That Ought to Be Investigated at Once.

Was the Emergency Ration Supplied by the Government to the Second Canadian Contingent Spurious?—Mr. Monk Charges That Vitaline, an Untested Food, Was Substituted for Protos, a Tested Ration—A Warm Time.

Ottawa, June 7. — Has Canada an embalmed beef scandal on her hands? Did the Militia Department provide the members of the second contingent with putrid emergency rations, that were on a par with peas? Has an infamous crime been committed? These were the questions raised by Mr. Monk of Jacques Cartier yesterday, when he asked for an inquiry into certain facts relating to the purchase of emergency rations.

On the opening of the House yesterday, Mr. Monk of Jacques Cartier read an article from The Military Gazette of April 3, 1900, in which it was stated that the Militia Department had paid $2 a pound for a ration that could be duplicated in Canada and the United States for from 12 to 15 cents. No tenders had been called for, and the ration was given no practical test. It was packed in tins that were not air-tight, and that were labelled falsely. "On this diet, with tea and coffee, Canadian soldiers have lived, without discomfort, for 21 days."

Mr. Monk said this was his ground for moving for an investigation, for no fraud should go unpunished, and the persons low enough to trade on the health of soldiers should be found out.

A History of the Case.

Mr. Monk said the article had never been called in question. He then gave this history of the ration purchased. In October, 1898, a Montreal company brought their ration to the notice of Lieut.-Col. Neilson, Director-General of the Medical Department of the militia. Samples were sent to the department. In February, 1899, Dr. Borden promised to give the ration a first trial with the Yukon Mounted Police. In March, 1899, Dr. Devlin of Montreal came to Ottawa, representing this company, and Dr. Borden promised to give his ration a severe test. The test was carried out at Kingston, and proved successful. Now, war broke out, and the company sought an order for its ration for the first contingent. Dr. Borden replied that the Government had nothing to do with the provisions of the contingent.

The Company Was Offended.

In January, 1900, the company became aware that a large quantity of a certain kind of ration had been bought from Chemist Lyons of Montreal, by the Government at $2 a pound. On January 25 the company offended that the Government had broken faith with it, wrote to Dr. Borden, asking if this was true. The letter was registered. Dr. Borden never answered it. When the company sent a reliable man to Lyons and bought a sample of the ration sold to the Government, the man had to pay $8 for it, because Lyon declared the Government had bought such a large quantity and given promises for the future. The sample was taken to Milton Percy, the analyst of Montreal, who declared there was but 17.55 per cent. of nutriment in the ration, while the ration tested at Kingston contained over 60 per cent.

$500 for $400 Worth.

The analyst found that the ration was but an ordinary breakfast food that could be bought for 10 to 12 cents a pound in New York. So that the Government had paid $5,000 for what was worth $400. As an emergency ration it was valueless. It was not even sterilized. To a certain extent it was putrid. It was an ordinary gruel. A gross fraud had been perpetrated by labelling the ration as if it had stood the test.

Enquiry Should be Held.

Mr. Monk then declared that the Department had not taken sufficient precaution. An inquiry should be held so that those who tried to make money at the expense of soldiers' health should be held up to contempt. The Minister was gravely compromised and should be the first to ask for an inquiry.

This was the case for the Opposition, and it was sufficiently grave to keep all the Ministers in their places till 6 o'clock. It was no joke and the Ministers were made serious.

Dr. Borden on the Rack.

When Dr. Borden rose to reply, he flatly denied many of Mr. Monk's statements, and accused him of aiming only to make a political point, regardless of loyal sentiments for the South Africa soldiers. He rested his case on the declaration that the emergency ration so successfully tested at Kingston was the very ration sent by the Department to South Africa. He was emphatic in declaring that in the purchase of the ration he dealt solely with Dr. Devlin, whose recommendations from Sir Hingston and Prof. Ruttan, as to the excellence of the ration led the Minister to put the utmost faith in it. It was the test ration, he had every reason to believe, that was sent to South Africa. To prove his case he read a letter from Lieut.-Col. Neilson, [illegible] [illegible] was [illegible] that [illegible] of the samples of ration used at The Kingston test had been retained by the colonel. After the purchase in January, 1900, he compared the ones sent to South Africa with the others, and found them to be identical. Prof. Ruttan's recommendation was read, stating that the ration contained 88 per cent of nutriment. In conclusion Dr. Borden said he was ready for any inquiry.

Discussion Became General.

Sir Charles Tupper said that if the charges were true, a more frightful fraud had never been brought before Parliament. The matter simmered down to the charge that a worthless food had been substituted for a tested food, and had been falsely labelled as if it were the good food. The Minister had been lacking in his duty because he should have had a certificate of the food's fitness from an impartial man, not from Devlin.

The Premier Defends Borden.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said the question was, had the Minister of Militia taken due precaution to guard the health of the soldiers? He had. Dr. Devlin and Prof. Ruttan were reputable men, recommending the ration. Col. Neilson's letter showed that what the Government bought and that tested were identical. If the same food went to South Africa no fault could be found. If not, then the presumption was that Dr. Devlin did not give to the Department what he had contracted to do. He was guilty of the unspeakable crime of substitution. This, then, was the charge, not against Dr. Borden, but against Dr. Devlin.

Offender Should be Punished.

Mr. Foster held that there had been no charges made against Dr. Borden. The matter was that if any one had imposed on the soldiers he should be punished.

Mr. Monk said he wanted an inquiry to find out if the wrong food had been palmed off on the soldiers.

Dr. Borden was the prime factor. He had not exercised due care, for in dealing with a contractor one should deal with him as if he were a third party. Dr. Borden could not say that the last samples examined were the packages actually taken from the boxes sent to South Africa. He only believed they were. This was the fatal step pointing to the substitution of a wrong ration.

Mr. Fielding said it was an abominable charge that Dr. Borden had been bribed to send rotten stuff to Africa.

It Was Worse Than Peas.

Mr. McNeill said the ration was worse than peas. It had been less nutriment. He wanted to know if Vitaline, the ration sent to South Africa, had been tested as the Protos had been at Kingston.

An Unseemly Row.

Dr. Borden refused to answer, and an unseemly row ensued.

It might be here remarked, in order to give a clear idea of this question, that it is assumed that Dr. Devlin first represented the Protos firm and afterwards the Vitaline firm. When Dr. Borden declares that the food sent to South Africa was identical with the ration tested at Kingston he means that Vitaline is identical with Protos. The charge made by the Opposition is that Protos is made by a registered company, but Vitaline by an unrecognized concern. Protos is good; Vitaline spurious.

McNeill Made a Good Point.

Mr. McNeill said that Col. Neilson was in no position to say that Vitaline was identical with Protos after a casual examination. It would require an analysis. He read a letter sent to Lord Minto before the ration purchase, signed by "H. H.", declaring that Protos and Vitaline had nothing in common. "Did the Minister have Vitaline analized before he sent it to South Africa?"

Again the Minister refused to answer, and discourteous remarks were thrown across the house.

Mr. McNeill declared that the fact that there was no analysis showed criminal negligence on Dr. Borden's part.

Mr. Fitzpatrick Jumped In.

The Solicitor-General reviewed the debate. He refused to lay the contract entered into between the Government and Dr. Devlin upon the table, though he had referred to it.

The Speaker ordered the contract to be laid on the table.

Mr. Fitzpatrick declared that the Opposition dared not make the charge that a spurious ration was substituted for the good ration.

Mr. Monk said: "I intend to make that charge."

Mr. Fitzpatrick—"What is the charge?"

Mr. Monk—"I charge that the food supplied to the soldiers in South Africa was not the food tested in Kingston. I do so as a layman."

Fitzpatrick Grew Wrathy.

The Solicitor-General made the foolish break that he challenged Mr. Monk to make the charge outside the House. (Groans.)

When the Solicitor had been seated, "Contract!" was shouted across the floor.

Dr. Borden said he did not think there was any regular contract.

Mr. Blair explained that there was no set contract, but all papers referred to would be brought down.

A Little Pandemonium.

Pandemonium reigned for a quarter of an hour. "It is the worst I ever saw," said the hardened doorkeeper.

The Documents Handed in.

Mr. Foster—May I rise to a point of order?

Speaker Bain—It would be better to let the Minister of Militia hand in the documents.

The Minister handed in the papers, and told the Speaker that some documents were missing.

Some more documents were handed in.

These Charges Made.

Many other speakers followed. These charges were made: Vitaline was never tested. Col. Neilson's letter was got yesterday for a purpose, and showed that fraud had been done somewhere. His examination of the emergency ration was an examination of Protos and not of Vitaline. No chance was given for a test, for the purchase was authorized Jan. 4, 1900, and the tender of Dr. Devlin received and approved Jan. 5. The account was paid in four days. This very rapidity gave a suspicion of fraud.

Sir Louis Davies, replying, read a letter from Cotton, one of the patients who used Protos at Kingston, April 3, 1899, saying that he had had Vitaline, and found it the same as the Protos he had used April, 1899.

How the Government Wriggles.

By 12.30 a.m. the Opposition was urging the necessity of granting a thorough and immediate inquiry and the Government replied that no fraud had been shown and that the country should wait till the contingents returned, when some of the ration could be tested.

A Committee Demanded.

At 12.40 Mr. Monks spoke again, declaring the facts he had brought out called for an investigation. He charged that the food tested at Kingston was not the same as supplied to the soldiers in South Aftica and the Minister of Militia was guilty of gross negligence in dealing with these supplies. If he had been heated in making his charges it was due to his sense of the enormity and heinousness of the frauds. He gave the names of Mr. Hatch, a food specialist of Montreal, Mr. Moore, who bought the Vitaline from Lyons, Analyst Percy, Dr. Devlin and Mr. Lyons as persons he would summons to the investigation to give evidence.

Afraid to Investigate It.

Mr. Foster asked Sir Wilfrid if he would appoint the commission.

Sir Wilfrid said that if Mr. Monk would, on his own word, say a fraud had been committed, then he would appoint a committee, but he refused to act on a mere newspaper article, This fixes the intention of the Government not to grant a committee.

The incident dropped there.

THE CITY OF HONGKONG.

It Is One of the Most Unhealthy Spots on the Globe.

In spite of all the precautions that have been taken, the perfect sanitation of the city, the fine natural drainage, the cleanliness of the streets, Hongkong is one of the most unhealthful spots on the globe. With its tropical heat the lofty peaks that half encircle it catch the clouds that the rapid evaporation create, and they are squeezed like a sponge, the floods of rain pouring down in streaming torrents.

The houses lack light, although they are built as well as they could be, with perforated ceilings, through which the air circulates, admitted from openings pierced by the outer walls. The floors are brilliantly waxed, carpets, owing to the great dampness, being dispensed with. The great difficulty is to secure light and proper ventilation. The streets are very narrow, and the towering walls of buildings opposite obstruct the light in front, while at the rear the courts of terraces crowded with foliage cast a heavy shade from that direction. In the gardens, while plants flourish luxuriantly, there is no grass, but the ground is green with moss, just as it grows in damp, shady places in cooler climates. The heat and the great humidity are destructive to health, and it is doubtful if there is a single normal liver in the whole of Hongkong.

English women who come out with complexions of cream and roses grow thin and sallow. The Hongkong complexion is a startling grayish green, and the old resident has with this pallor dark bluish circles under the eyes. The least exertion includes exhausting perspiration, and people become gaunt and thin.

In her visiting from Ottawa to Lindsay she has travelled six hundred and fifty miles by carriage, and fifteen hundred miles by railway. Of the hundreds of children, under the control of the different Children's Aid Societies, visited by Mrs. Harvie, she found but two who were not looked after well and in a prosperous condition. She spoke favorably of the work done by all the Societies in the eastern part of the province, but especially complimented those of Ottawa, Peterborough and Lindsay, Mrs. Harvie went north to-day to look after a family of grossly-neglected children in the vicinity of Kinmount.

The suggestion is to the point.

—For the latest developments in commercial ideas see the very touching display in the window of the store north of Adam Hall's. It has broken many a lady's heart to pass the marked down goods which are offered with so many tempting inducements. The dresser of the window evidently understands both merchandising and human nature.

—A citizen this morning said:—"The Water-st side of Victoria Park is in an extremely ragged condition, neither sod nor seeding being utilized to make it look well. Probably because the ground is where the old sidewalk lay the caretaker has neglected it. It is a caricature of a park. That the grass is not regularly cut is proved by the fact that the dandelions are quite a foot high."

—A brief session of the police court was held this morning, Mr. R. S. Davidson, J. P., on the bench. The charge against two men of scrapping on Pretoria night was further enlarged till to-morrow. The charge against a south ward man of allowing his cow to run at large was dismissed, the bovine having been on the street only half an hour. A young man who got mixed in a fight on the street in May, 1899, and who left town then, but returned not long ago and paid $1 fine and 75 cents costs for the ancient offence.

CHEESE BUYERS MAKE A PROTEST

AGAINST VICTORIA COUNTY CHEESE MEN DRAWING WHEY IN MILK CANS

It Causes the Cheese to Lose its Flavor—Are Willing to Pay 1-16 of a Cent More to Factories That do Not Allow it.

The first sale of the Victoria county Cheese Board for 1900 was held Monday morning in the Council Chamber, Lindsay, business being taken up at 10.30. President Thos. Robertson, Vice-President Sinclair, Treasurer Sandford and Secretary Shine were in their places, and there was a good attendance of salesmen and citizens. The buyers present were Messrs. Jas. Whitton, Geo. Fitzgerald and Wm. Flavelle.

Buyer Whitton said he was not a fault-finder, but what he was about to mention deserved very serious consideration. He wished to refer to the old trouble—returning whey in cans. Lindsay cheese will not hold their flavor, and no doubt the whey was the cause of the trouble. Serious complaints were heard last fall, and an English buyer who had visited the Peterborough Board last week had repeated the censure. It was a very serious matter indeed. If Lindsay cheese, although apparently a first class article in every other respect, would not hold its flavor when stored, but became "bucky," buyers would be unable to pay first-class prices for it.

Mr. Flavelle—"How is the whey disposed of in Peterborough district?"

Buyer Fitzgerald—"The whey is sold at every factory—it is not sent back in cans."

Buyer Whitton—"You'll notice that the Madoc Board is generally a little ahead of other boards in the matter of price. The factory men believe that if co-operative cheesemaking will pay, so will co-operative pork-making. They feed all the whey to hogs, and when the animals are fit for market they notify the buyers, and sales are made after the cheese board plan. The local banker had paid out $20,000 last year on cheques issued by the hog buyers."

Buyer Fitzgerald—"The only complaint we have against Victoria county cheese is that some of it will not hold its flavor."

President Robertson—"If the whey is the trouble, the factories concerned should change their plan at once."

Secretary Shine—"It's the wrong time, as the contracts have been let. The matter should have been settled at the annual meeting."

Buyer Fitzgerald—"We warned you two years ago, and also last year."

Buyer Whitton—"If Prof. Robertson is right, the whey is no good anyway. He says fresh, sweet whey is worth 8c per 100 lbs., for feeding, stale whey 4c., and sour whey nothing. Most farmers get it good and sour."

A suggestion was made that the Board pass a resolution calling upon the interested factories to make the change at once, but many objections were raised.

Mr. H. J. Lytle suggested that the buyers offer one-eighth of a cent more to factories that do not return the whey.

Buyer Whitton thought the inducement named too high, but felt certain that some distinction would have to be made in the near future. He was willing to offer a sixteenth more on board purchases of 300 boxes to factories which do not send back the whey.

The Board was cleared off by Messrs. Fitzgerald and Whitton at 9 3-8 cents.

Early Closing.

On and after June 11th the drug stores of the town have arranged to close at 7 o'clock p.m. One store will be open each night for the public accommodation.

THE HORSE DIED

And the Man Who Stole it From Mr. Fife's Field Escaped From Custody.

As told in yesterday's Review word was received yesterday that a man had been arrested at Lorneville, Victoria County, on the charge of being the party who stole a horse from Mr. Hugh Fife's field, Otonabee, on Monday, and that the man confessed the theft. A telegraph message informed Chief Roszel that the thief's name was Josiah Hill.

High County Constable Geo. Cochrane left on the 5.30 train last night for Lorneville to bring back the thief. This morning Chief Roszel received a telegram from him dated at 9.20 o'clock this morning stating that Fife's horse was dead, that the prisoner had escaped before his arrival and that he was in pursuit.

Mr. Fife also left to drive to Lorneville last evening. He would arrive in time to find his horse dead.

GILBERT PARKER WRITES

A Graceful Letter, Enclosing a Cheque for the Belleville Library.

20 Carlton House Terrace,
London, S.W., 24th May, 1900

My Dear Col. Ponton,—I enclose a cheque for $100 for the Belleville Library from my wife and myself. Kindly accept it with our united good wishes and greetings.

We watch with pride the movements of Canada's men in South Africa, and Paardeberg is written large in the diary of our days. These are great days and out of them will come momentous things. The old order changes, there are to be new rites at the old altars. We Imperialists may be all wrong, but I feel that our ideas will outlast our times, will outlive a hundred Governments, and a hundred crises. They have as their germ of life—"Rule well, hold strong, be just, serve well the world." Is it not so?

From the old well of affection for you and all old friends in Belleville there is always a fresh draught to drink your health. My regards to the 15th A. L. I.

Yours sincerely,

EULOGY OF THE DEAD

A Reference to a Peterborough Lady Who Was Killed by Accident in Texas.

The death of Mrs. Wm. Sackville, of Pearsall, Texas, some few weeks ago, was sad news to her friends in and around Peterborough. The deceased lady who was Miss Mary Sanderson, daughter of the late Michael Sanderson, of Smith, was struck by a train while going to Sunday school, and died from injuries received. Her son, Howard Sackville, had been in Peterborough attending the Collegiate Institute for three years, and had arrived home just ten days before his mother died.

Friends here will be interested in the following reference made to the deceased by Rev. S. T. Day, at the funeral service, the remarks being taken from the Pearsall News:—

"We are called, friends, to-day, to the house of mourning, by one of those sudden and mysterious providences in which we see the result but not all that leads up to it. Yesterday our friend in life, in usual health went forth to the place of worship, to-day the lifeless body is carried to the grave, the real woman has gone home to God.

"Mrs. William Sackville has a well earned place in the hearts of hundreds of people in this part of the country. Coming in an early day to the wilderness of the south west, she has by patient activity and cheerful endurance of many hardships been one of the principal factors in the progress and developments of home, church and country. She was a woman of large heart, she filled a position where many will miss her. Her home has ever been the open harbor for the sick and discouraged and the home-sick stranger. There are scores who have experienced her kindness and been gladdened by her hospitality who will in the great day of revelation rise up and call her blessed. In all the community her public spirit and broad sympathy was felt, and had influence.

"In the church she was foremost. Having been for years a member of the Baptist church, she was none the less a worker in them all. Her benevolence was of the personal kind that always gave something of herself with her gifts. Her presence could be depended upon and her sympathy and her prayers went up for every good work. The Sunday school, the prayer meetings, revival meetings will henceforth look in vain for a well known face. She cared for the souls of her fellowmen. In her home she was ever praying and longing that God might have full possession in the hearts of husband, son and daughter. Among the families about her on the place she has preached the gospel both by word and by practice, everywhere her memory is blessed. For all this we thank God, that we need not sorrow as those who have no hope, we praise the Lord in this Godly life though it was his good will to take it from us. In this death there is teachings, and if we will, it may be to our profit.

Since I heard this sad news this scripture has been in my mind.

"Be ye always ready, for in an hour when ye think not the Son of Man cometh."—Our friend was ready.

Let your lamps be burning. Let our loins be girded. Be watching.

A Splendid Entertainment.

The Edison Waragraph Co. gave one of their excellent entertainments at the opera house last night to an appreciative audience. The pictures were without a doubt the finest ever exhibited in Peterborough, not only as to their life size, but the accompanying mechanical noises rendered them so realistic that one could imagine himself suddenly removed to South Africa or elsewhere and viewing the real events instead of their pictures. The pictures were so life-like that one little boy thought the men were really alive. The pictures of the Canadian contingents leaving Quebec and Halifax came in for a liberal share of applause. The battle of Modder River, which shows the Boers completely routed by a small force of the British, evoked rounds of applause from the audience, and was immediately followed by the charge of the 5th Lancers. Other interesting views were the Columbia and Shamrock yacht race, which shows the Columbia winning the race. The Dewey parade in New York city shows Sousa's band leading the parade followed by the crew of the Olympia, Admiral Dewey and the Governors of the different states following in carriages. Barnum's street parade at Philadelphia and the magic subjects were exceptionally good, and the pictures of Generals Buller and White, Col. Baden-Powell and General Lord Methuen were well received. The entertainment will be repeated again to-night and deserves liberal patronage. The company will leave for Port Hope to-morrow. 1d

ORIGIN OF TRADE MARKS

Trade marks were used as far back as the 16th Century.

They originated from the signs that, in the early ages, were hung over the shops telling of the wares inside. To-day the trade mark is branded on the goods themselves, enabling the purchaser to identify the good from the bad and indifferent.

On a Slater Shoe the name and price appear on the sole in a slate frame, $3.50 and $5.00. Every pair Goodyear welted.

The Problem Unsolved.

A story is told of a young man in England, a great chess enthusiast, who was so annoyed at his failure to solve an apparently simple problem that he vowed he would neither sleep nor eat until the solution was found. He shut himself up in a disused room and was found four days later by his relatives terribly emaciated and out of his mind. He spent a year in a lunatic asylum as a result of his rash vow, and the problem remains unsolved.

She Voted.

"What was the topic of debate in our club today?" asked one member of the feminine society.

"The topic of debate," was the response. "Why—er—let me see—I can't remember what the topic was. But I voted on either the positive or negative side of the question. I forget which."—Washington Star.

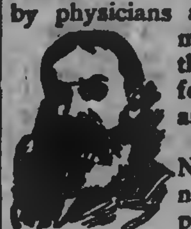
Another Triumph for Science....

RHEUMATISM and its kindred diseases have always been classed by physicians among the ailments for which their science afforded no sure and complete cure. DR. L. R. HALL, New York, originator and proprietor of DR. HALL'S RHEUMATIC CURE, has changed all that and has earned the sincerest thanks of thousands of sufferers.



DR. L. R. HALL

People are slow to believe that rheumatism can be cured. They have tried many things, and all have failed, and the announcement of a new cure is received by many with sceptical indifference, and yet it may be stated very confidently that DR. HALL'S RHEUMATIC CURE NEVER FAILS, and there are innumerable BONA FIDE testimonials to back the statement. From one to six bottles will cure any form of rheumatism.

Sufferers from rheumatic complaints should read Dr. Hall's pamphlet on rheumatism, wherein their symptoms are described, and should lose no time in making a trial of the only sure remedy—DR. HALL'S RHEUMATIC CURE.

Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure is put up in 50 cent bottles, containing ten days' treatment. For sale by all druggists and dealers in medicine. The Dr. Hall Medicine Co., Kingston, Ont.

Burying a Spanish King.

Strange and almost weird is the ceremonial which accompanies the burial of Spanish kings. The pantheon, or royal tomb, is at the palace of the Escurial, situated 3,000 feet above the level of the sea and some distance from the capital. Only kings, queens and mothers of kings are buried there, the coffins of the kings lying on one side, those of the queens on the other. After lying in state for several days in the throneroom in Madrid an enormous procession is formed, accompanying the body to the Escurial. A halt is made on the way, and the corpse rests there for one night.

In the morning the lord high chamberlain stands at the side of the coffin and says in loud tones, "Is your majesty pleased to proceed on your journey?" After a short silence the procession moves on and winds up to the grand portal of the palace. These doors are never opened except to admit a royal personage, dead or alive. When the casket containing the remains is at last placed in the vault, the chamberlain unlocks it and, kneeling down, calls with a loud voice: "Senor! Senor! Senor!"

After a solemn pause he cries again: "His majesty does not reply. Then it is true, the king is dead!"

He then locks the coffin, gives the key to the prior and, taking his staff of office, breaks it in pieces and flings them at the casket. The booming of the guns and the tolling of bells announce to the nation that the king has gone to his final resting place.

The Hog.

No other animal has been more modified by civilization and none reverts more quickly to the original wild type than the hog. Three generations of running wild suffice to turn the smooth, round, short snouted razorback or hasel splitter, thin, lank, leggy, lop-eared, sharp snouted an Ishmael in bristles, running like a deer, if running be possible, fighting as only a wild hog can fight when battle is imperative. The tusks, which have been half obliterated in the process of civilization, get back size and strength. At a year old they are formidable, at 2, murderous; at 3 or 5, more deadly than a sword. They afford a certain index of age up to 6 years, but are commonly broken in, fights long before that time. Wild boars are very ill tempered and, when worsted in fighting, often revenge themselves by ripping the bark from trees as high as they can reach.

Pat's Ready Wit.

An Irishman who was traveling through London met two Englishmen, who thought they would play a joke on him.

One of them said: "Good morning, Pat! Did you hear the devil is dead?"

The Irishman put his hand in his pocket and gave each a copper.

They asked what this was for, to which he replied:

"'Tis always a custom in ould Ireland, when the father is dead, to give something to the poor orphans!"

Tommy's Lunch.

Uncle (who left his nephew "refreshing")—Well, Tommy, you see I'm back. Are you ready? What have I to pay, miss?

Waitress—Three buns, four sponge cakes, two sandwiches, one jelly, five tarts and—

Uncle—Good gracious, boy! Are you not ill?

Tommy—No, uncle, but I'm very thirsty.—London Tit-Bits.

WORKED THE AGENT.

THE GRAND PROMOTER TOO MUCH FOR THE BOOK CANVASSER.

Major Crofoot Organizes the Dietary Sausage Trust on a Capital of $5,000,000 and Accepts a Small Installment of Cash on Account.

[Copyright, 1900, by C. B. Lewis.]

It was a canvasser for "The Life of Napoleon," price $3.50 in calf, and he had scarcely exhibited his sample copy when Major Crofoot arose and took him by the hand and exclaimed:

"Just the man I wanted to see of all others in the world! By George, but this is luck!"

"I shall be happy to book your order," smilingly replied the canvasser. "Will you take calf or morocco?"

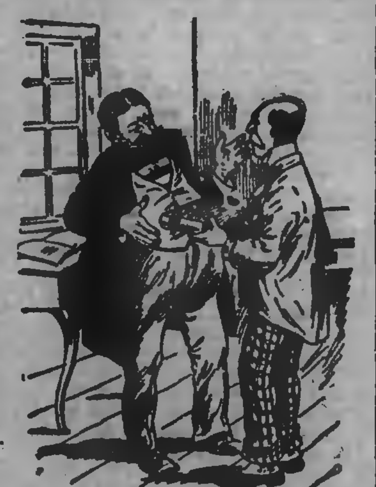
"My dear man," continued the major, "my name is on a sign at the door, but it doesn't state my business. Let me say to you that I am a grand promoter of enterprises, an organizer, a consolidater, an originator of some of the most stupendous and gigantic schemes of the country. You have come to the right man in the right time."

"Will you take calf or morocco?"

"Six stupendous enterprises in the last six weeks—one per week—and every one of them bound to pay a quarterly dividend of 30 per cent—bound to do it. That's $1.20 per year, and I'd like to see the diamond mines doing better. Six stupendous enterprises originated, capitalized and floated, and now comes the seventh. Fortune must have directed your footsteps. I am going to take you in. Yes, sir, I'll give you a show compared to which the 'Life of Napoleon' can't be mentioned. Let me congratulate you, sir—let me shake hands with another newborn millionaire!"

"Y-e-s, but how about the book, major?" was asked.

"You have heard of the dietary sausage, of course," said the major as he walked to and fro; "invented by accident by one of the greatest chefs in America, and, as he had no idea of what a good thing he had struck, I bought his right, title and interest for a mere song. The d. s. has jumped into popularity in a day; has all the juiciness of fresh pork, the nutritive qualities of beef, and the taste reminds you of venison; can be made of seven kinds of meat if you happen to have them on hand, or you can get along with only one. It's the way they are fried that makes 'em dietary and has set the gormands crazy; sure to drive every other sausage out of the market in four weeks more—sure to do it; can be furnished as rations to every army and navy in the world; can be sold in every hotel, boarding house and family wherever humanity exists; good for breakfast, dinner or supper; can't run no camp meeting, picnic or Sunday school excursion without 'em. My dear fellow man, your fortune is made!"



"SALARY TO BE PAID WEEKLY OR MONTHLY."

"If you would select the style of binding"— began the man.

"But we've got to go a little slow for a few weeks," interrupted the major. "There is a disposition on the part of the world's aristocracy to class sausage way down on the list of meats; can't expect that lords and dukes and presidents will order a second plate of them until they realize that it won't affect their social positions; got to look out for social prestige, you know. Once get the whirlwind of popularity started, and the public won't stop to ask whether our dietaries are made of fish, flesh or coco matting. First thing is to warrant them to cure indigestion, torpid liver and all that. They are a spring and fall tonic. All singers, actresses and athletes use them; testimonials from professors, actors, clergymen and thousands of others, and all family doctors recommend them above everything else. And there you are, my boy; there you are, and let me shake hands with you again."

"But the book, major. The price in calf is"—

"And you are to be our purchasing agent and buy our raw material. Dietary sausages will be made in several different lengths and sizes, and we shall use beef, pork, mutton, fish and what not; everything to be bought alive and killed in our own slaughter houses and hashed up with our own knives. You attend to the buying and I attend to the frying. Millions of dollars will pass through your hands every year, but we shall trust to your honesty; salary $15,000 per year at least, and you come in on the ground floor for stock. I just lack $10 to meet the expenses of organization, and I'll borrow it of you for a day or two. We shall capitalize at $5,000,000, but probably increase to $15,000,000 inside of a year. And what is the name, please?"

"My name 's Taylor," slowly replied the canvasser, "but I have no $10 to put into your scheme. I'm selling the 'Life of Napoleon.' It is printed from new, large type, illustrated by"—

"Yes, we will call it the Great American Dietary Sausage company," interrupted the major, "and as purchasing agent we'll deposit $500,000 to your credit to start on; salary to be paid weekly or monthly, just as you elect, and the dividends on the stock to come quarterly. I need $10 to see my way clear, but if you can't spare that sum give me $5. And there you are, sir; there you are."

"But I haven't got $5."

"Don't neglect this golden opportunity, my dear contemporary; don't do it. The man who invented the Welsh rabbit made $3,000,000 and lived to be 90 years old. Angel cake brought its inventor $1,000,000 while he lived and a monument 40 feet high after death. Hoky poky ice cream won't be in it with dietary sausage. Peanut brittle and lobster salad have already gone to the rear. Why, sir, any moment a telegraph boy may come in with a telegram from the president reading: 'Congratulations on your dietary; have only eaten one barrel and am sure I shall be renominated. Send another by express.' The very next mail will probably bring unsolicited testimonials from a dozen actresses and four or five senators. It is needless for me to tell you that delays are dangerous. Time, tide and the dietary sausage wait for no man. If you haven't got $5, I'll try and make $3 do. Leave your name and $3."

"The 'Life of Napoleon' "—

"Never mind the 'Life of Napoleon,' my boy. Napoleon was a great man, but Major Crofoot wasn't on earth then. We are not delving in the past, but digging into the future. Where Napoleon made $100 you'll make $5,000. Let others conquer the world by force of arms if they will, but we'll conquer it by force of dietary sausage. You've certainly got $2 about you. I want to get the organization perfected today."

"I've—I've only got a dollar," stammered the canvasser as he exhibited the bill.

"Well, I'll take it and make it go as far as it will," replied the major as the greenback changed hands. "You'll feel safer for having invested money in the enterprise. Stock will be ready in about two weeks, and as soon as we can erect and equip a factory you'll begin purchasing stock. Yes, I'll make the dollar do, and you'd better begin posting up on meats. When we once get started"—

"But I came up here to sell you this book!"

"When we once get started, we'll use up at least 1,000 tons per week, and you must be able to tell at a glance whether the meat is juicy enough for our purpose. That's all, and there you are, and I'll send for you when the papers are ready to be signed. I think we'll make the ground floor price on stock 20 cents, but maybe we can scale that figure down a little. At any rate, there you are, and you can have every confidence that your canvassing days are ended. Turn to the right, please, and good day—good day."

"But listen a minute. I came up here to sell you"—

"And don't give me away—don't do it," cautioned the major as he pushed his caller along. "Just keep mum and saw wood until our patent is secured, and then we'll jump on the whole world with both feet and boom dietary sausage even to the drawing rooms of royalty. Ground floor—$15,000 per year—golden opportunity. Don't miss it."

A minute later the canvasser found himself on the street, and when he was asked what had happened him that he looked so put out he replied:

"Why, I went up to sell a man a $3.50 subscription book, and I'll be hanged if he didn't turn me out and get my only dollar in cash besides!"

Sustaining His Theory.

No man is a real man of science unless he is ready to abandon his own conclusions, duly put on record, if subsequent investigations prove them fallacious. The president of a great college once wrote a volume on the practice of medicine. After it had been completed and he had gone to New York to arrange for its publication his house was burned, and the manuscript of his book and all his notes were destroyed.

He couldn't reproduce it. Ten years afterward he said: "That fire was the greatest of good fortune to me. If I had published the book, I should have had to stand by it, whereas now I know that it was all wrong!"

Mr. Andrew Lang in Longman's Magazine tells of two geologists who were gathering specimens in a lonely mountain place. One of them had written a book. The other, looking about one day with a fieldglass, saw his friend occupied a long time—unobserved, as he thought—in rolling a great stone down hill and at dinner questioned him about it.

He pretended at first that he had been doing it for exercise, but, hard pressed, confessed:

"Well, the fact is the confounded thing was 200 feet too high to suit my theory!"

Answered.

Henry Fielding was once asked by Lord Denbigh why he wrote his name "Fielding" instead of "Feilding," as his lordship's family used.

"I cannot tell, my lord," replied the novelist, "except it be that my branch of the family were the first that knew how to spell."—San Francisco Argonaut.

About 24 women in 100 are stronger in the left arm than they are in the right. Women, too, are more frequently equally strong in both arms than are men.

Peas and beans are the most nutritious of vegetables, containing as much carbon as wheat and double the amount of muscle forming food.

THE BIG EXPOSITION.

The Paris exposition is not quite ready, but Paris is ready. The people of France are always ready for the dollar of the unwary traveler.—Springfield News.

Our prediction is that at the Paris exposition all records will be surpassed in receipts, as they have already been beaten in the matter of expenditures. And a great proportion of the total will be American money.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

The fact that the share of the United States in the Paris exposition is greater than that of any other country except France appeals to the pride of Americans and may be expected to prove of no small benefit to our commercial interests.—Omaha Bee.

Americans have scored their first victory at the Paris exhibition by an exhibition of energy in getting their building and exhibits advanced so much ahead of others as to make the French commissioner general say, "It is an object lesson to us all to see the American people work."

CRESCENT AND STAR.

The only side Turkey takes in the matter of debts is the side of the man who "lets the other fellow do the worrying."—New York Press.

It is time now for the sultan of Turkey to remember and act on the old adage, "Beware the fury of a patient man," and pay, pay, pay.—Baltimore American.

The Turkish government seems to have become a convert to the philosophy by which the debtor leaves the other man to do the walking of the floor.—Washington Star.

The sultan is in debt to the whole world and cannot establish a precedent by paying us without bringing all Europe on his back.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

Turkey's cash box must be running rather low or the sultan would not go back on his promise to pay the trifling sum of $90,000 as indemnity for the destruction of buildings erected by the American missionaries. — Globe-Democrat.

THE NAVY.

The United States by its extent would be an easy prey to a great sea power unless we had ships to enable the man behind the gun to work to the best advantage and keep the enemy off our coasts, and this is the object of the naval appropriations. It is always best to be prepared.—Grand Rapids Herald.

Congress is building up the navy, but Secretary Long says the department is short of officers to handle the ships. It might be a good plan to hire clerks to do the clerical work of the various bureaus of the navy department and send the naval officers to sea, where they belong.—Philadelphia North American.

Backache for 18 Years.

Suffered Much—Was Unable to Work or Sleep—Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills Made Him Well.

Too many endure the misery of backache without knowing that it is the unmistakable symptom of kidney disease. As you value your life do not neglect a backache. It tells of the beginning of the most fatal of diseases —Bright's Disease of the kidneys.

Mr. D. C. Simmons, Mabee, Ont., writes:—"My kidneys and back were so bad that I was unable to sleep or work. My urine had sediment like brickdust, and I had to get up three or four times every night.

"I saw Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills advertised, and decided to give them a trial. I have only used one box, and am a well man again. I can saw wood or do any kind of work, and am not bothered with backache or kidney troubles. I also enjoy good rest and sleep, which is a great relief after suffering for eighteen years."

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates and Co., Toronto.

His Inspiration.

"What furnishes your inspiration?" they asked of the author.

"My wife," was the reply.

"How lovely!" they cried. "How perfectly idealistic!"

"Yes," he went on, "if the muse ever halts and I feel like loafing on my job, her demand for a new gown or some additional money for household expenses stirs me to renewed effort and puts Pegasus in a gallop."—Chicago Post.

Glimpses of Browning.

In the life of the late Archbishop Benson is given the following extract from his diary, written just after Browning's funeral:

"I wonder whether I have anywhere put down a walk with Bradley and Tennyson. Bradley had been reading me 'The Grammarian's Funeral,' and he said. 'We'll ask Tennyson whether Browning's writing at large is poetry or no.' Tennyson's answer was, 'I'll think about it.' In a walk a week later, apropos of nothing, he observed, 'I have thought, and it is.' We had no idea for the moment as to what he spoke of.

"In my last talk with Browning himself I said, 'What all want is more 'Men and Women,' not so many riddles of language. He said, quite with surprise, 'Men and Women!' I've got thousands of such things in my portfolios.' I hope we may now taste them.

"A. told me that he stood by Browning at a late funeral in the abbey and that Browning said, 'When the Lord's Prayer began I looked at Huxley and grinned. I said to myself, "That means something to me, and to you it means nothing."'"

Miles and the Reporter.

"General Nelson A. Miles always did like to have fun with new reporters," said an old newspaper man. "I remember some years ago he told an unfortunate Washington correspondent a long story about a new gun metal that some genius in Oklahoma or Kalamazoo was supposed to have just discovered. It was a wonderful alloy, which was as tough as steel and as light as aluminium. By its use, the general said, it would be possible to build guns which would weigh no more than the immense projectiles which they fired.

"The correspondent was delighted and went off and wrote a beautiful article, which produced spasms of laughter throughout the entire artillery service. You see, it doesn't require a very profound knowledge of ballistics to know that if a gun and projectile both weigh exactly the same amount they would fly in opposite directions with exactly the same velocity when the piece was fired." —New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Kruger's American Accent.

One day Oom Paul had to travel from Pretoria to Cape Town in a company composed in part of Germans, in part of English. He said to his secretary:

"Hoe ver is het van hier?"

An Englishman and a German completed each the sentence according to his vernacular, each thinking the president had suddenly tried to speak German or English and had not quite but nearly succeeded. The German said:

"Herr president, you almost speak German—Wie weit ist es von hier?"

The Englishman put in: "How far is it from here? Mr. President, you speak almost excellent English, but you must avoid getting the American accent."—New England Home Magazine.

THE ORIENTAL WAR CLOUD.

Russia and Japan May Be Embroiled.

Russia Said to Be Intriguing to Have China Call Upon Czar for Aid—In Consequence, Japan Is Said to Have Mobilized Its Navy for War—U.S. Minister Conger Sends More Bad News—British Minister Ill.

London, June 7. — A special despatch from Shanghai, dated June 6, says the members of the majority of the legations at Pekin, including the members of the British legation, are sending their families away. It is also said that several prominent Chinese are leaving the city.

There is an unconfirmed report that two Russian engineers have been murdered at Yo Chow Fu, northwest of Port Arthur, after their wives had been outraged.

The total damage done to the Chinese railroads by the Boxers is now estimated at $5,000,000.

Cabinet Crisis in Japan.

London, June 7. — Advices received from Japan say the Cabinet, presided over by the Marquis Yamagata, has resigned, and the Emperor has invited the Minister of Finance, Count Matsukata Masayoshi, to form a new Cabinet, but he declined, and the Marquis Ito is now endeavoring to form a coalition ministry.

FIGHTING NEAR PEKIN.

Troops and Boxers Were Engaged and Many Killed.

Shanghai, June 7. — The soldiers despatched to attack the Boxers have fought an engagement quite close to Pekin. Many were killed on both sides.

Japan Shows Herself.

In consequences of the representations of Japan, the landing of a large Russian force at Taku is alleged to have been stopped. It is believed here that should Russia persist in sending a preponderant military force to the front, a collision with Japan would inevitably result.

Alarming Reports.

Alarming reports are current here of the hurried completion of the mobilization of the Japanese fleet.

Russia Wants to Get In.

The Russian Minister at Pekin, Mr. De Giers, has made another attempt to induce the Chinese Foreign Office (Tsung Li Yamen) to formally request Russian assistance to restore order, but the offer has not been accepted.

Violent dissensions are reported to exist between the Chinese commander-in-chief of the forces, Jung Lu, and Prince Ching Tuan, who, in accordance with the wishes of the Dowager Empress, is strongly supporting the case of the Boxers.

The mobs who murdered the English missionaries, Robinson and Norman, have since mutilated and disemboweled the bodies.

The station at Yan Ting, three miles from Pekin, has been burned.

The British Minister, Sir Claude M. Macdonald, is reported to be quite ill.

BAD NEWS CONTINUES.

U.S. Minister Conger Cables That the Situation Is Worse at Pekin.

Washington, June 7. — Bad news continues to come from Minister Conger, and the American naval force in the Pei Ho River has been ordered strengthened.

The minister cabled yesterday that the situation was worse at Pekin, and this statement, taken in connection with Admiral Kempff's alarming cablegram of the day before, announcing that an engagement had begun, decided the State Department to increase the naval forces nearest the scene of trouble. Accordingly a cablegram was sent to Admiral Remey at Manila directing him to despatch at once to Admiral Kempff's command the gunboat Helena, or, if that craft was not at Manila and ready for immediate service, then some craft of correspondingly light draught and power. The purpose is to place at Admiral Kempff's disposal an efficient warship capable of ascending the Pei Ho River, as far as Tien Tsin.

Little, But Dangerous.

The little Helena, drawing only 11 feet, was designed for service in these Chinese rivers, and so is likely to prove much more effective than any other of the foreign warships which can pass the Taku forts and reach Tien Tsin. She carries a battery particularly adapted to dealing with such half-organized mobs as the Boxers. She is commanded by Commander Swinburne. If she left Manila yesterday she should reach Taku next Sunday night.

Secretary Hay cabled Minister Conger at Pekin an authorization to call for reinforcements from Admiral Kempff and to make such disposition of his naval force as he might deem proper to protect the American legation and consulates, and American interests generally.

Growing Steadily Worse.

Pekin, June 7. — The situation is growing steadily worse. Events move with such rapidity, and the affairs, owing to the excitement of the [illegible] hand for energetic action, without a perpetual reference to the Home Governments. Sir Claude Macdonald, the British Minister, is wiring for 75 more marines. Native employes who have returned from Feng Tai say they left the Boxers openly drilling in the adjacent villages.

Court Party Seeking Safety.

London, July 7. — The Morning Post has the following despatch from Pekin, dated yesterday: "Reports say that the court party is collecting inside the city; consequently there is increased uneasiness."

Won on a Bluff.

"It does me good to meet up with one of that class of people who think they know it all," said the old man with the ancient hat. "I was coming over from Baltimore on a train the other day, and a man who was writing in a book asked me how to spell 'proper.' I told him, but a know it all who sat near disputed me. I bet him $10 even up that I was right and proved I was by four disinterested men. I gave the $10 to charity."

"How did the man contend the word should be spelled?" was asked.

"Why, he said there was only one 'p' in it."

"And you stuck for two, eh?"

"I did. I insisted that it was spelled 'propper,' and he finally owned up like a little man and handed me over the money."

"And would you like to make the same wager again and leave it to the dictionaries?"

"Not much! I consulted 'em all next day and discovered that I had bluffed that poor chap out of his wealth."—Washington Post.

Heartless Man.

"Dear," said the dying man, "I don't want you to go into mourning for me when I am gone."

"Oh, George!" she sobbed. "Don't be so hard upon me."

"Hard? Why, love, I simply want you to be happy. You are young yet. Why should you deck yourself with widow's weeds?"

"It's mean of you, George! You know black is so becoming to me!"—Catholic Standard and Times.

Consolation, indiscreetly pressed upon us when we are suffering under affliction, only serves to increase our pain and to render our grief more poignant.

We know of no worse sensation than to be in a hurry and find our path obstructed by some one who is very slow. —Atchison Globe.

Heat and Cold

Are never-failing causes of disease. At this season of the year neuralgia, toothache, and a host of similar diseases are rampant. The great question then, is to find the quickest, surest, and most economical remedy. Polson's Nerviline exactly fills these requirements. It is prompt, efficient and most economical, for it exceeds in power every known remedy, and is as cheap as inferior articles. A 10 cent sample bottle will give every person a chance to test it. Large bottles only 25 cents.

BAY OF QUINTE CONFERENCE

Interesting Session of the Preachers' Conference Department at Port Hope.

Preachers' Conference, presided over by Rev. C. W. Watch, on Tuesday evening, proved to be a very interesting service—so much so that a resolution was passed memorializing the Committee on Conference services to make provision for it next year and officers elected to prepare programme.

The subjects discussed last evening were, "The Minister, a teacher as well as a preacher," "What measure of responsibility rests upon the minister for the small increase of membership in our churches." And how far the preacher is responsible for the enforcement of discipline. The "What, Why, and Need," were freely and fully discussed in an honest, broad, brotherly way, leading to a question of methods. Lastly, the heart confession of failure and determination to amend. The dearth of spiritual life and power was deplored, and the meagre results of the years toil forced home the conviction of a more sturdy faith and manlier presentation of the doctrine of our church, and a greater dependence on the Spirit to second the efforts.

The Committee having charge of the Convention for next year, is composed of Rev. C. W. Watch, Rev. D. N. McCamus and Rev. B. Greatrix.

They Struck It Rich.

It was a grand thing for this community that such an enterprising firm as J. Lynch, secured the Agency for Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, that wonderful remedy that has startled the world by its marvellous cures. The furor of enthusiasm over it has become their business, as the demand for it is immense. They give free trial bottles to sufferers, and positively guarantee a cure in Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma, Croup and all Throat and Lung troubles. A trial proves its merit. Price 50c. and $1.00.

DRAW OF THE GOLF CLUB FOR THE STRATTON TROPHY

Tennis Club Preparing for an Active Summer's Sport.

GOLF.

DRAW FOR "THE STRATTON TROPHY."

The rules of "Special Stroke Competition" to govern. These rules posted up in the Club House. The draw for this competition will be made during the first week of each month, for the five months ending with October. After each match, the cards of the players duly initialed by opponents shall be placed in the box at the Club House. The aggregate of strokes for each player will, at the end of October, determine his place in the competition. The lowest net total for any three game wins the prize, which is the right of having the winner's name inscribed upon the trophy.

In case of default, two weeks being allowed for each match after the placing of the draw upon the board at the Club House, the player remaining will notify the Secretary, without delay, when the committee will appoint an opponent for him.

Handicaps are liable to revision each month. The ladies' club will make similar draws, under the same regulations, with a like object.

It is not necessary to play 5 matches to win as the aggregate score of 3 will be accepted by the committee.

TENNIS.

The Park Tennis Club begins to-day its annual June Handicap Tournament. The method of handicapping is a slight departure from that followed last year, in that the younger players, including all those just starting this year, are placed at scratch, while the older players are at the beginning of each game placed in debt to the "Scotch" men by various amounts ranging from one-half 15 to 50 (4 points). It is believed that this arrangement will be more satisfactory to all players than last years plan of giving various odds to the younger players, with the older ones at scratch.

The result of the first draw (with relative handicaps) is as follows:—

F. W. Jackson vs. C. Lang, owe 15.
Dr. Young vs. H. Cluxton, owe 1-2 15.
D. Baird vs. P. Wilgar, even.
J. R. Jeffrey vs. V. McWilliams, owe 15 1-2.
C. B. McAllister vs. A. W. McPherson, even.
W. H. Collier vs. S. Hall, owe 15.
H. Brown vs. R. McWilliams, owe 30.
G. Burnham vs. E. G. Patterson, owe 30.
E. E. Lord vs. H. Burnham, owe 40.
E. W. Holst vs. H. D. Burnett, owe 50.
H. H. Edmison vs. Dr. Wightman, owe 15.

Each event will be decided by the best 2 out of 3 sets, unless any two players agree before starting to play to make it the best 3 out of 5. All matches must be played off on or before Thursday, 14th inst., and the results handed to the Secretary. Any player failing to play on or before that date will default to his opponent if the latter stands ready on 14th.

INDUCTION SERVICE AT NORWOOD

The New Anglican Clergyman Formally Installed in His Charge.

The Rev. J. McKee McLennan, who has been appointed by the Bishop of Toronto to the charge of Norwood and Westwood, in succession to Rev. J. Bushell, was formally inducted last night by Ven. Archdeacon Allen, assisted by Rev. Rural Dean Webb and Rev. H. Symonds. After the special service for the occasion had been read by Mr. Webb, the Archdeacon addressed the new incumbent and the congregation. He spoke of the importance of the pastoral office, and the deep responsibility that rested upon the minister of the Word and Sacraments to the people. He earnestly appealed to the people to support the clergyman by their prayers, co-operation and sympathy.

Rural Dean Webb referred to the excellent work Mr. McLennan had accomplished in previous charges, and predicted a bright future for the parish.

Rev. H. Symonds also spoke briefly. Both Mr. and Mrs. McLennan have already created a favorable impression at Norwood, and the prospects before the Anglican congregations at Norwood and Westwood are encouraging.

Where are the Skeptics?

In spite of all the evidence published in the daily press and even in spite of the testimony of your best friends you may still be skeptical regarding the unusual virtues of Dr. Chase's Ointment. Nothing short of an actual trial will prove to you beyond the possibility of doubt that Dr. Chase's Ointment is an absolute cure for piles. A single box will be sufficient to make you as enthusiastic as your neighbor in praising Dr. Chase's Ointment, for it is certain to cure you.

A SPECIAL SALE

—OF—

SLATER SHOES

It's unusual—a special sale of goods so good as the Slater Shoes are. Slater Shoes sell on sight, on their worth, on their value, on the strength of the many points making up a good shoe. But here is a sale.

And by special permission of the Slater Shoe Company—we need not detail all the facts—we have approval. That is as far as the public care, but what interests more is the prices.

Our stock is large. Large for a big city store, where thousands pass the doors and hundreds buy in an hour. Our large stock we want to reduce and make offer:

SLATER SHOES

$5.00 quality in Men's sizes for............$3.00
$3.00 quality in Men's sizes for............$2.00
$3.50 quality in Men's sizes for............$2.00

Every shoe new, bright, latest patterns of last, and in every way first-class goods. Better buy now. All shades of leather and styles of fastening.

Just a line to say that our Tan and White Canvas Shoes are just the thing for hot weather wear.

Notes of Personal and General Interest From North Dummer.

(Correspondence of the Review.

Messrs. A. Carveth and F. Payne were visiting friends near Lakefield on Sunday last.

On Friday evening, 1st inst., the Good Templars, of Zion Lodge, No. 96, held their regular meeting at the private residence of Bro. J. Hatton.

Mr. F. W. Payne had the pleasure of spending Sunday last, with friends, in Warsaw vicinity.

A number of the young people of the neighborhood had the pleasure of enjoying a very pleasant drive on Wednesday evening, 30th ult., to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edwards, of Warsaw, where they were very courteously received, and passed a very jolly and profitable evening.

Mr. J. Stubbs, of Peterborough, has been busily employed during the past few weeks here on the lake, where he is erecting a beautiful summer cottage. This island is very picturesque and from it the lake and surrounding cottages, can be very plainly observed.

The home of Mr. Wm. Carveth, on Thursday evening, was the scene of a very jolly and amusing event. Among the guests present they were pleased to entertain two young ladies from Warsaw, viz., Misses Mabie and Rose Doughty. All spent a very pleasant evening, which was devoted chiefly to music both vocal and instrumental and the singing of patriotic songs.

Mr. Jordan Crowe, who is employed as a cheesemaker in Selwyn for this summer, paid a short visit home here on Sunday.

The Health Problem.

Is much simpler than is sometimes supposed. Health depends chiefly upon perfect digestion and pure blood, and the problem is solved very readily by Hood's Sarsaparilla. You may keep well by taking it promptly for any stomach or blood disorder. Its cures of scrofula, salt rheum, catarrh, dyspepsia, rheumatism and other diseases are numbered by the thousands.

The favorite family cathartic is Hood's Pills.

THE ART OF WAR.

The British have 689 ships of war, and they could fire off 7,530 guns at once.

Germany's war lord is on the lookout for an up to date war chariot. He has offered a prize of $20,000 for the best war motor car.

In making intrenchments the pick must be used front and rear, and never across the trench, nor can men safely work closer together at such operation than four feet.

On night marches troops do not usually advance at more than a mile an hour. In attack neither officer nor man is to step to help the wounded, and no halt is permitted until the enemy is driven off.

PARSON, FOX AND HOUND.

The Man Who Was Short a Hound Made the Parson Own Up.

The politician told me this story after we had concluded the interview. He told it to illustrate a point in his interview. No matter what the point was, the story will apply to a great many points.

"Our minister," said he, "supplies for a church over in the back part of the town and drives over there every forenoon. The other day, in the course of his sermon in the back part of the town, he used this illustration:

"'As I was driving here this morning, brethren,' he said, 'I heard the deep bay of a hound on the hillside near, and, looking up, I beheld a little fox running.

"'But though the fox was running hard and fast the hound was making great plunges through the snow and was gaining with every leap, and at last the hound overtook the little fox, and that was the end.

"'Thus, brethren, does sin with horrid bayings pursue mankind, ready to slay and devour and destroy,' etc.

"At the conclusion of the sermon there came one to the pulpit and twirled his hat in his hand and asked if he might have a few moments' conversation with the parson. So they retreated to one side.

"'You spoke of seeing a hound this morning, elder,' said the man. 'Would you mind telling me how that hound was marked?'

"'I can't say that I noticed,' replied the minister, hemming and hawing.

"'You see, elder, I have lost a hound,' continued the man, 'and I thought you might be able to help me a little in finding him.'

"'My dear man,' said the elder, straightening himself and patting the other's shoulder, 'that was an imaginary hound for the purpose of illustration.'

"And," continued the politician, "I know something about these imaginary hounds in politics. I've pulled my old wallet many times to buy meat for 'em." —Lewiston Journal.

The Forbidden Fruit.

The botanical curiosities of the island of Ceylon are replete with varied interest. One of them is "the forbidden fruit," or "Eve's apple tree." Its native name is Diwi Kadura, Kadura signifying "forbidden" and Diwi "tigers." The flower of this extraordinary production is said to emit a fine scent. The color of the fruit, which hangs from the branches in a very peculiar and striking manner, is very beautiful, being orange on the outside and a deep crimson within. The fruit itself presents the appearance of having had a piece bitten out of it.

This circumstance, together with the fact of its being a deadly poison, led the Mohammedans on their first discovery of Ceylon, which they assigned as the site of Paradise, to represent it as the forbidden fruit of the garden of Eden, for although the finest and most tempting in appearance of any it had been impressed, such was their idea, with the mark of Eve's having bitten it to warn man from meddling with a substance possessing such [illegible]

The Latest War News.

The Review's Special Afternoon Despatches Giving the Latest Developments of the British-Boer Hostilitites.

THE WAR NEWS IS NOT VERY EXCITING TO-DAY

The American Consul Had an Interview With Kruger--Organizing for the Government of the Transvaal --Rundle's Operations Against the Boers.

SAW KRUGER

Lorenzo Marquez, June 8—W. S. Hollis, the American Consul General here, has returned from Pretoria and Machadorp. He saw President Kruger at the latter place. It is stated that Mr. Hollis, while at Machadorp, delivered despatches from Washington to the Boer President, urging peace.

ORGANIZING TRANSVAAL GOVERNMENT

London, June 8.—A despatch from Cape Town announces that the work of organizing the government of the Transvaal is proceeding. A portion of Sir Alfred Milner's staff has gone to Pretoria to start the machinery. So the proclamation of the annexation of the Transvaal may be speedily expected.

RUNDLE IS STILL FIGHTING

London, June 8.—Despatches from Cape Town report that Gen. Warren with a strong force, including the Canadian artillery, is reaching north through Griquiland. He encamped at Campbell yesterday, no opposition being offered. Numbers of the rebels are handing their arms to the British commander. Col. Plummer occupied Zeerust on May 29 without opposition. The district is regaining its normal conditions. Supplies are arriving daily. Gen. Rundle made a strong demonstration against the Boer positions at Harmonia to day, employing 500 of Gen. Brabant's Queenstown Mounted Rifles, two guns and the Cape Mounted Infantry, under Col. Dalgeto. The Boer outposts were driven back and their laager was located but the troops returned without a battle.

FROM SOUTH AFRICA

A Letter From Private Chil. Turner to Capt. Grafton.

Following is a copy of a letter received by Capt. Grafton, of the 77th Regiment, Wentworth, from Chil Turner:—

Dear Capt.,—I take this opportunity of letting you know of my doings in my new home. The voyage was a most enjoyable one. The first three days was very rough, and as a result I was sick, but from that I have been enjoying myself immensely for the rest of the voyage. The sea was like glass, but the heat was intense, especially crossing the equator. The provisions were the very best and the accommodation for both men and horses was very good. Our chaplain did everything in his power for the men's comfort, arranging concerts and spiritual services.

Upon entering Table Bay the sight was simply magnificent, the Bay being covered with transports and vessels, while the mountain and town formed the back ground, especially at night when all the lights were lit. The docks were simply a mass of cannon and other war material. Cape Town is a most charming place and our week's stay was a most pleasant one, we being camped on the ocean beach at Green Point, and the Canadians seemed to have first place in the hearts of the British citizens. We also formed the escort for four hundred Boers which went by the Milwaukee to St. Helena. They have the Boers very secure at Cape Town. They are in a park with three fences around it, two of light wire and the centre of heavy iron charged with electricity and well guarded by sentries.

We left Cape Town on the 4th, marching to Stellenbosch, a distance of thirty-two miles. Here we camped for a few days and then entrained for Bloemfontein, but received orders at Norval's Point to unload. However, we marched the next morning to Springfontein, where we captured two Boers, and as we thought we might do better up the country, we marched to our present position at Edenburg. We start in the morning for Bloemfontein, a distance of forty miles. We now form a part of the Eighth Division, under General Gatacre, and are hot after the Boers.

We see some very queer sights, including ostriches, goats, and Kaffir villages, the latter being composed of mud huts shaped like bee hives, while about fifteen people occupy each hut.

The niggers are very poorly clad, some in fact do not wear clothing at all. This would make it bad for the clothing business and I would not advise you to start a branch in this locality.

I was at the Imperial Yeomanry Hospital at Deelfontein about a week ago, where I saw several of our chaps of the first contingent who were wounded at Bloemfontein. They receive the best of care, as this is the best hospital along the line. They leave shortly for home.

Well, sir, by the time you receive this letter you shall have the beautiful May days, while we hope to be spending the 24th in Pretoria. I am sure we shall.

I think I have told you all for the present. I will now close with love to all. I have been enjoying myself immensely.

I remain, yours respectfully,

AT THE NEW BOER CAPITAL

A Railway Car Shunted on a Switch at Machadorp.

AN INTERVIEW WITH OOM PAUL.

He Says the Boers Now Can Do Nothing But Fight to the End—Denies That He Carried Away £2,000,000—Sir Alfred Milner Warns Miners Not to Go to South Africa for Two Months—War News Scarce.

London, June 8. — (3 a.m.)—The executive offices of the Transvaal Government are in a railway car, which is shunted on a switch at Machadorp station. President Kruger caused the interior of the coach to be reconstructed some time ago, with a view to contingencies that have now arrived. A correspondent of The Daily Express, who went from Lorenzo Marquez to see President Kruger, was received yesterday. The President sat smoking a long pipe. He looked worried, but his bearing was quiet and determined. He did not make the least objection to being interviewed.

Says Boers Will Fight.

The correspondent was equipped for the interview by cables from London.

"Yes," said President Kruger, "it is quite true that the British have occupied Pretoria. This, however, does not end the war. The burghers are fully determined to fight to the last. They will never surrender so long as 500 armed men remain in the country. I feel deeply encouraged by the fine work Steyn and Dewet are doing in the Free State."

Where the Boer Capital Is.

The correspondent suggested that the war was over, inasmuch as the capital had been taken.

"The capital," exclaimed Mr. Kruger, with energy, "what is a capital? It does not consist of any particular collection of bricks and mortar. The capital of the Republic, the seat of Government, is here in this car. There is no magic about any special site. Our country is invaded, it is true, but it is not conquered. The Government is still effective."

Won't Be Taken Prisoner.

Referring to the reasons why he left Pretoria, he said: "I was not foolish enough to be taken prisoner. I provided this means of locomotion for the same reason as our burghers supply themselves with horses when they take the field. It is necessary that I should be able to move easily from place to place. That is all. By and by this car will take me back to Pretoria. For the present, it enables me to keep away from Pretoria, where I could be of no service, and where I should only play into the hands of the enemy."

Denies He Had £2,000,000.

"They say, Mr. Kruger," remarked the correspondent, "that you have brought with you gold to the value of £2,000,000."

"It is not true," replied the President. "Whatever monetary resources I may have with me are simply those which we require for state purposes. At the same time, I am not going to tell you where our treasure is. Let Lord Roberts find it if he can."

That's Another Lie, He Says.

"They also say in England, Mr. Kruger, that you contemplate taking refuge on a Dutch man-of-war at Lorenzo Marquez."

"That again is a lie," retorted the President with vehemence. "I know of no Dutch vessel. I am not contemplating taking refuge anywhere. I shall not leave my country. There will be no need for me to do anything of the kind."

Knows His Wife Is Safe.

The correspondent—Then, Sir, there is much surprise at your having left Mrs. Kruger behind.

President Kruger—But why? Mrs. Kruger is quite safe in Pretoria. She would only be put to personal inconvenience here. All communication between us is stopped, of course: but she will await my return with calmness and courage. She is a brave woman. I am here awaiting further information. We are surrounded by faithful burghers and are quite safe.

Reitz Says Guerilla Warfare.

State Secretary Reitz remarked: "You may depend upon it that the war is not yet over. Guerilla warfare will continue over an enormous area. We intend to fight to the bitter end and shall probably retire upon Lydenburg, where we can hold out for many months."

"Yes," observed Mr. Kruger, "it is only now that the real struggle has begun. I fear that there will still be much bloodshed, but the fault is that of the British Government."

Nothing But to Keep on Fighting.

Then, raising his voice to an almost passionate height, Mr. Kruger exclaimed: "The time has passed for us to talk. We have done plenty of that, but it has done us no good. There is nothing left for us to do but to keep on fighting, to keep on fighting."

The correspondent who secured the interview telegraphed it immedaitely from Machadorp Station yesterday, when the wires were working as usual to Lorenzo Marques.

Four Irish Judges' Sons.

Four Irish judges had sons in the battalion of the 13th Yeomanry, which was captured at Lindley. Mr. A. M. Porter, son of the Right Hon. WILL THE BOERS FIGHT ON?

Said to Be in Strong Positions at Majuba Hill and Laing's Nek.

New York, June 8. — Great numbers of the enemy still occupy Majuba Hill, Laing's Nek, and the Pegwani range as far east as Englebrecht's Pass, says a Newcastle despatch to The Herald, dated Monday. On the Ballenberg the positions they hold

OUR SPECIAL OTTAWA LETTER

THE BINDER TWINE COMBINE BUYS CHEAP FROM GOVERNMENT AND SELLS DEAR TO PEOPLE

Yukon Claims Combine Has Expenses Paid by Government—And Pockets the Gains—A Straight Tip and a Night Journey—Colonels Who Don't Fight.

Special Correspondence of the Review.

Ottawa, June 2.

Several millions of supply have been voted this week, and much commonplace legislation has been forwarded. But parliament found time to discuss two motions of censure. On Tuesday, Mr. Taylor, of Leeds, the opposition whip, brought up the question of binder twine. This is a matter of practical interest to the farmers of Ontario and the west, and the common taxpayers generally.

Mr. Taylor proposed the following resolution:—

"That the system adopted by the government in disposing of the output of binder twine manufactured at Kingston penitentiary through their political friends, has imposed a monopoly on the farmers of Canada and has forced them to pay from 100 to 200 per cent. more than the cost of manufacture.

"That the proposal of the government to sell the binder twine manufactured this year up to the 1st of May, to farmers in small quantities, at 14 cents per lb. for Manila, 11 for mixed and 10 for New Zealand, while the cost of production did not exceed 6 cents, is unjust to the farmers, and that the price should not exceed seven cents for the best quality."

This resolution of want of confidence was supported by Mr. Clancy, Mr. Roche and Mr. Davin, and opposed by the Solicitor General and by Mr. Frost and Mr. Rogers. The patron member last mentioned expressed his disapproval of the government's course previous to this year, but voted with the ministers. Mr. Fitzpatrick is the representative of the department which is accused of wrong. Mr. Frost is a dealer, whom Mr. Davin describes as one of the criminals concerned.

THE COMBINE AS A BUYER.

One purpose of the establishment of the binder twine industry in the Dominion and provincial prisons was the protection of the farmers from oppression at the hands of the combines. The two prisons produce some three million pounds of twine each year, which could be used to break down any combination to unduly increase prices. The record goes to show that the Government at Ottawa, as well as the one at Toronto, instead of taking the part of the farmers against the combines, joined the combine against the farmer. To begin with the whole product of Kingston, found on hand at the change of Government, was sold nominally to Coll Bros., of St. John, but really to Mr. Hobbs, of London, to whom the contract was transferred. In 1897, 1898, and 1899 the whole product was sold to the combine. It went year and year about to the Hobbs Hardware Company, and H. A. Bate & Co., the former a Liberal member of the Ontario Legislature, the latter a leading member of the party at Ottawa. There has never been any real competition for the purchase of the prison product. In the first and second years tenders were received from two firms, and the one who got the contract sold out to the other. In the third year, private circulars were sent out to persons not in the trade, after a private offer had been received from Mr. Bate. There was no call for tenders, and Bate got the contract at his own price. In 1899, Hobbs got the contract on a tender put in by his firm in the name of another person, after a lower tender had been submitted in his own name. Mr. Bate or Mr. Hobbs were also the purchasers of the Central prison, and Hobbs has been the Canadian agent of the United States companies, whose goods are imported.

BOUGHT AT A BARGAIN.

The result of this system of sale was such that the product of a million pounds or more each year has been sold by the Government at very little over the cost of production and sometimes below it. The product of 1896 was sold to the combine at $4.25 per hundred pounds, though it cost $4.41 to buy the material and manufacture it. The product of 1897 cost the Government $4.13, and was sold to the combine at $4.64. In 1898 the cost of production was $4.47, and the combine bought it for $4.60. 1899 the cost was $6.06, and it was sold for $6.51. The Government therefore made no money out of the twine works, while the factories at Brantford divided 60 per cent. profit one year, and 100 per cent. profit the next.

SOLD AT A BETTER BARGAIN.

Unfortunately the farmers got no benefit from the low price at which the penitentiary product was sold to the favorites. It was shown in Tuesday's debate that the twine sold to Coll Bros. for Hobbs in the autumn of 1896 at four and a quarter cents per pound, and in 1897 at four and two-thirds cents per pound, was bought by the farmers at ten to thirteen cents per pound, or more than double the price received by the Government. The product sold in 1898 to Bate at less than four and a half cents per pound, cost the farmers when it reached them eleven to fourteen cents per pound, or nearly three times the price paid to the Government by the combine. In 1899 the combine paid the Government six and a half cents per pound, while the farmers were compelled to pay thirteen to fifteen cents per pound. It will be seen that the combine worked with great success in two ways. In buying from the Government it forced down the price to the cost of production. In selling to the people it forced up the price so as to give 100 to 200 per cent. profit, and compel the farmers to pay two prices for their twine.

SELLING DIRECT.

In the year 1900 the price obtained by the government from contractors is not known, for the government refuses to give it.

This year the government has taken a new departure and for a limited time sold some twine in small quantities to the farmers direct. But instead of making such prices as had been accepted from the combine the Government makes the price for small lots the same as the selling price of the combine, and double that which Bate and Hobbs were required to pay last year. Such is the state of affairs. The Solicitor General did not contradict the statement that the purchasers of the product always worked with the combine. He admitted that the prison work brought in no profit. He could not deny that the farmers paid the prices stated. The cost of production is taken from the official figures and the statement of the Minister of Justice. The profits of the combine and the middle men can be ascertained by a simple calculation. The profits of the Brantford company which got the benefit of combine prices is given in the annual statement. But the majority in the House voted down Mr. Taylor's resolution.

WALSH AND HIS POWERS.

They treated in the same way a motion by Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper proposed on Thursday concerning the Yukon. The charge in this case was direct and specific. Briefly this is the story told. When Major Walsh went to the Yukon to govern that district, at $5,000 a year, he took with him his brother who also obtained a Government office from Mr. Sifton. They took also a man named Carbeno and two others named Cullom, with all of whom Philip Walsh had made a bargain at Port Arthur before starting. It was agreed that these should locate claims in the Yukon and give a three-quarters interest to Philip Walsh, who was to pay their expenses. An easy means of payment was secured. Commissioner Walsh engaged Carbeno, the Culloms and others as cooks, guides, dog drivers, etc., and they all went toward the Yukon in the Government ship together, Mr. Sifton being in the party. In Commissioner Walsh's cabin on the Government ship Quadra, the partnership bargain was signed. Carbeno, who was summoned as a witness before Ogilvie, and told the whole story on oath, says that he was not disposed to sign, but Walsh told him that if he refused he would be dismissed from Government employ at once and sent back home with the ship. He then agreed to give the Commissioner's brother three-quarters of his claims. So far the story of Carbeno is uncontradicted.

A TIP AND AN ALL NIGHT JOURNEY

The next chapter opens at Dawson. Carbeno has had his salary doubled. The Culloms, who are about prospecting for Walsh and themselves, get an increase of their pay from the Government. The opportunity to find properties is not so good as the partners would like, but it improves. By order of Commissioner Walsh, and against his own wish, Gold Commissioner Walsh closes from location the bench and hill properties about Dominion Creek. They are kept closed for a time and then opened by notice, which is not made public until the day of opening. On the afternoon before the opening four persons have learned what is going to happen, and an all night journey brings them in the forenoon to the spot. One of these is Carbeno, Government employee under Commissioner Walsh, and partner with Philip Walsh. The others are the Culloms, servants of the Government under Commissioner Walsh, and partners with Philip. The fourth is a woman named Koch, who keeps a saloon at Dawson, and is a particular friend of the Chief Commissioner, for whom she sometime cooks. She swore before Ogilvie that she got a tip in advance. These four had the choice of locations and all but the woman transferred their claims to Lewis Walsh, a brother of the Major and Philip. Such is the story which in the essential facts is uncontradicted. Carbeno swears that he heard from Walsh's dog driver, Mr. Beth, another of the Port Arthur party, that the opening was to take place, and that Philip Walsh confirmed the report. The Solicitor General admits everything except that Commissioner Walsh had a corrupt knowledge of and share in the affair. But he successfully called upon the House to vote down the motion, asking for a judicial enquiry into the affair.

A COLONEL FACTORY.

One of the great industries in this growing time is the manufacture of honorary colonels. Dr. Borden astonished the House on Friday by suddenly springing on the chamber a statement of the scope of the operations of his factory. The late Conservative Government made one honorary lieut.-colonel, and he was a Liberal and a member then of Sir Oliver Mowat's Government. Col. Gibson had, however, been an active militia officer. The present Government has appointed three dozen honorary lieutenant-colonels, including three members of the Cabinet, who never carried a weapon except their tongue. The Premier, who only talked of shouldering a musket, is a colonel. Sir Louis Davies is entitled to be called Colonel Davies, and the hero of the bottle-sealed steamship, who ought to be a commodore or an admiral, is Col. Dobell. This is what has been accomplished in the Borden workshop. But the Minister explained that he wanted this new bill in order that he might make full colonels and make them more abundantly. By one of the blunders to which the Ministry is exposed the bill probably fails to give that power, but such by the Minister's announcement, was its purpose. The House did not take kindly to the scheme. Mr. Fraser, from the Government side, who spoke before he knew that his Premier was one of the new colonels, made great game of the ornamental officers who get their swords tangled up amongst their feet, and who fall into the rear when the army goes to the front. On the Opposition side Dr. Montague, Mr. Osler, Mr. McNeill, Mr. Foster, Mr. Davin and other members opposed the idea of making civilian colonels, to have social precedence over the real officers, and to make the whole system ridiculous. It was suggested that the three civilian colonels in the Ministry might take the title of archbishop, or a farmer might be made Queen's Counsel, or a doctor could be dubbed an admiral, as well as a man who was no soldier, could hold a military title. The Minister says that the Emperor of Germany is colonel of several regiments, but it is the disposition of some members not to imitate in this country all the doings of Imperial Germany.

NOTE.

The announcement of British victories in the Transvaal, the capture of Johannesburg, and the reported capture of Pretoria were received with applause in the House. The National Anthem was sung, and most of the members have been wearing small flags for the last three days.

are particularly strong. Generals Christian Botha, Fourie and Pretorius are in command.

Should they obstinately refuse to yield and still continue fighting, they will in all probability fall back on Lydenberg, by way of Ermelo, with prospects of a safe retreat into the almost inaccessable mountains of the Murchison range. Their task to prevent Gen. Buller's entry into the Transvaal by way of Volhurst can only result in failure and unncessary loss of life on both sides.

War Supplies for the Cape.

Gibraltar, June 7. — The British transport Bramear Castle has arrived here from England. After embarking 700 cases of ammunition the vessel will leave for the Cape.

French Eulogy of Britain.

Paris, June 8. — In the Senate yesterday during the discussion of the bill providing for the formation of a colonial army, Gen. Billot, the former Minister of War, eulogized the attitude of Great Britain, which he said at the time her troops were suffering reverses in the Transvaal, supported her generals.

German Friendship for Britain.

Berlin, June 8. — It has just become known here that the Woermann Line steamer Marc Woermann, on May 2, took 80 men and two officers, English troops, aboard at Whale Bay, after obtaining the German Government's permission by wire. The troops were landed at Cape Town. This is construed here as indicating the friendship of the German Government for England.

Warned Not to Go South.

London, June 8. — The following despatch has been received at the Colonial Office from the British High Commissioner, South Africa, Sir Alfred Milner:

Cape Town, June 7. — It is reported by telegram that large numbers of miners and others are about to start for the Transvaal from Southampton on Saturday. Cannot a public notification be issued warning the people against premature return here. They will be delayed at Cape ports, and will only increase the numbers supported by charity. It must be a couple of months at least before the bulk of those now in the colony and Natal can be allowed to return or work generally can be resumed.

New British Prisoners Are Penned.

London, June 8. — Nine hundred British prisoners arrived Tuesday at Nooitgedacht. They are penned in a barbed wire enclosure of four acres on the open veldt.

According to a despatch from Lorenzo Marquez, dated yesterday, Lord Roberts is reported to have intercepted two trains full, leaving the vicinity of Pretoria.

Telegrams from the British side are exceedingly scanty. Two brief ones received from Pretoria, say that Mrs. Kruger is still occupying the Presidency, and that a number of engines and cars have been seized.

Boers Broke Their Pledge.

London, June 8. — Mr. Prevost Battersby, in a despatch to The Morning Post from Pretoria, dated June 5, says:

"The Boers pledged themselves to 20 British officers, not to take the British prisoners away if these officers would control them and prevent an outbreak. Nevertheless, they began their removal. After 900 had been taken, British shells struck a train that was loading, and the Boers desisted and retired. The Pretoria forts were found without guns. All the artillery had been gotten away."

Another despatch says: "Sixteen hundred British prisoners were removed."

An Asylum for Kruger.

Elmira, N.Y., June 7. — It is reported by The Canton, Pa., Sentinel that President Kruger, if he succeeds in evading the British, will locate in or near Brownlee, Toga County, Pa., Henry Malles, a relative of Kruger, who lives in Brownlee, wrote Kruger at the breaking of the war, inviting him to locate there in case eventualities made it necessary for him to leave the Transvaal. Recently Malles received a letter from Kruger accepting the invitation, and representatives of the Transvaal have made enquiries regarding the price of farms in the vicinity of Brownlee, which has a large number of Dutch residents.

EIGHT MEN WERE KILLED.

Scared Into a Panic When They Saw a Child's Head Hacked Off.

Stockbridge, Oneida Indian Reservation, Wis., June 8. — Eight Indians and one child were killed here yesterday in a peculiar manner. A squaw went into the yard, where several children were playing, caught a chicken and chopped off its head, leaving the hatchet on the ground. The children prepared to imitate the woman, and one, selected to act the part of the chicken, was seized, its head placed on a block and hacked off.

A number of men engaged on a derrick in the yard raising heavy timbers for a barn, seeing the child beheaded, became panic-stricken. The heavy timbers fell with a crash, killing eight men.

Mr. Sifton Now All Right.

London, June 8. — Hon. Mr. Sifton and Mrs. Sifton have returned to London from Vienna, where Mr. Sifton's visit to a celebrated aurist has been completely successful. He is now in excellent health, and returns to Canada shortly.

Dr. Devlin Writes to Mr. Monk.

Ottawa, June 8. — Dr. Devlin, who sold the Government the emergency ration discussed in the House, has written to Mr. Monk asking him to make the charges outside that he made in the House.

The Franchise for the Ladies.

Ottawa, June 8. — When the Election Act comes up again in committee, Mr. Moore of Stanstead will move an amendment that women be put on the list for Dominion franchise.

The British steamer Favonian, from Liverpool for Alexandria, Egypt, went on the rocks near Algiers, and will probably become a total wreck. No lives were lost.

CURIOUS CUCKOOS.

The cuckoo is generally known only as a bird with a very monotonous note: a continuous cry of "cuckoo, cuckoo" over and over again. Among naturalists, however, the cuckoo is known as a bird that never builds a nest for itself, but takes advantage of one already built by some more industrious bird.

There is a good deal of the cuckoo about these advertisers who, instead of making a success of their own, seek to profit by the success which some one else has made with much effort and labor. It is so with those imitations of Dr. Pierce's methods, by which free medical advice is offered, although those who make the offer are without qualified medical ability or experience. And the cry raised in some cases of "woman, woman, woman write to woman" makes the resemblance to the cuckoo even stronger.

There is as far as known no qualified woman physician connected with any proprietary medicine establishment, and none therefore competent to give medical advice. It is certain that there is no one, man or woman, who can offer free medical advice backed by such knowledge and experience as is possessed by Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician to the World's Dispensary, Buffalo, N. Y. For over thirty years Dr. Pierce has made a specialty of the treatment of diseases peculiar to women. In that time he has treated over half-a-million women, ninety-eight per cent. of whom have been perfectly cured. Every sick woman is invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter absolutely without charge or cost. Every letter is held as strictly private and sacredly confidential, and all answers are mailed securely sealed in perfectly plain envelopes bearing no printing whatever upon them.

MR. BOURASSA STOOD ALONE

Against Commons Resolution to the Majesty the Queen.

HIS ANTI-BRITISH TALK HISSED.

On the Conclusion of Bourassa's Tirade the House of Commons Cheered for the Queen and Then Sang the National Anthem—Sir Wilfrid Called the Young Man Down and Hinted at His Sanity—The Address Passed.

Ottawa, June 8. — As soon as Speaker Bain had pronounced "Amen," in the House yesterday, Sir Wilfrid proposed, in view of the recent events, which had taken place in South Africa, and the successes which had crowned Her Majesty's troops, to move the following address to be forwarded to the Queen:

> To the Queen's Most Excellent Majesty:
> Most Gracious Sovereign—
>
> We, Your Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects, the Senate and House of Commons of Canada, in Parliament assembled, desire to offer to Your Majesty our heartfelt congratulations on the approaching termination of the war in South Africa, as foreshadowed by the recent successes, culminating in the fall of Pretoria, which have attended the British arms.
>
> The feelings of pride and satisfaction with which we hail every fresh addition to the long and glorious roll of deeds wrought by British valor and resource, are enhanced on the present occasion by the proud consciousness that, in the active co-operation of her sons on the battlefield, Canada is entitled to share in a new and special manner in the joy of the present triumph.
> We rejoice that the conflict, now happily drawing to a close, will result in the removal of those disabilities under which many of our fellow-subjects have labored for so long, and we cannot doubt that the extension of Your Majesty's gracious rule over the whole of South Africa will be attended by those blessings which flow from a wise and beneficient administration of just and equal laws.
>
> We pray that, for your people's sake, the blessings of Your Majesty's reign may long be continued.

The Premier's Remarks.

Speaking to the address, the Prime Minister testified to the devotion of all the British subjects to the Queen. This was not due to maudin sentimentality, but to the fact that she was one of the noblest women that ever lived, and England's best sovereign. He referred to the occupation of Pretoria as a happy issue out of a war of varying success. The happy result was due, above all, to Lord Roberts, "Lord Roberts," said Sir Wilfrid, "is the great leader of whom each soldier can say, as the soldiers of Napoleon said, at Austerlitz, 'he won battles not so much by making use of our weapons as by making use of our legs.'"

Canadians Proved True.

He paid a tribute to the Canadian troops when he declared: "We may, perhaps, remark with pardonable pride that, on more than one occasion, when the fate of battle was trembling on the scales of destiny, the scales were turned in favor of the British arms, and the victory decided by the help of our Canadian soldiers, who proved that, though many years have passed since they last were called upon to take the field against the foe, they are yet worthy of the races from which they have sprung, and that the blood which courses in their veins is the same as that which inspired their ancestors to gallant deeds."

Though the end of the war was in sight, still it was not yet finished. He hoped and prayed that Her Majesty's rule would never more be marred by war. To have British subjects in South Africa appreciate British institutions, would be a fitting climax to her rule, and, when the end came, he hoped and prayed it would see a united Empire, wherein peace and good-will prevailed among all men.

Sir Charles Seconded It.

Sir Charles Tupper seconded the address. He did not think it was a source of unqualified regret that the war had taken place. It was but a step in a chain of events in the expansion of England and the Empire. The Confederation of Canada was one step and this war had shown it as a united country which could give material aid to Her Majesty's troops in Africa. Canada's example had but recently been followed by Australia, another great step towards the complete consolidation of the Empire had been taken. South Africa before the war was a cloud on the horizon of England's expansion. But to-day we have fairly in sight the complete consolidation of South Africa under British rule. These great kindred nations, the Dominion of Canada, the Commonwealth of Australia and at an early day the great Dominion of South Africa, all to be consolidated under the same wise and happy British institutions that have made Canada and Australia the flourishing countries that they are. Touching upon the position the Boers would occupy after the war, Sir Charles said that history taught by examples, and the illustrious example of the treatment of the French by the English at the conquest of Canada would be the pattern cut to fit the Boers. Tracing the effect of wise British rule upon the French, Sir Charles declared that there could be no anxiety as to the Boers' position. "They will have a free[illegible]. [illegible] the corrupt oligarchy that [illegible] Transvaal under the name of a republic, they had no knowledge or conception of; and the result will be that at no distant day we shall find a happy, united South Africa, in which all races, all classes, all creeds will enjoy equal privileges in the eyes of the law and a united and happy loyal population sustaining the Crown of England."

Then Bourassa Spoke.

The House was now in excellent humor, and a glow of patriotism illuminated the Chamber. But there came a thunder-bolt to curdle the patriotic milk. Mr. Bourassa declared he could not agree with the words of Sir Charles Tupper and Sir Wilfrid. (Groans.)

Mr. McCleary—If you can't you had better get out.

Mr. Bourassa, however, declared he would make a protest that was shared by a large part of the whole of Canada, not only of French-Canada. (Cries, No, no.) He could not rejoice at the conclusion of a war with whose causes he did not agree. The causes were unjust. The result could not make them just. He prophesied that future events would show that the war was the most unfortunate political event England ever engaged in. He carped about 200,000 British troops taking eight months to crush 250,000 people, who raised an army of poor peasants.

"This war will not add an ounce of glory to the British flag," he said. That was as a red flag to a bull.

No Place for Traitors.

The Opposition made confusion worse confounded, by shouting "shame," "scoundrel."

Mr. Foster exclaimed: "Shame on you."

Clarke Wallace angrily declared: "This is no place for traitors."

Mr. Fielding—"It is a free Parliament."

He went as white as a sheet. It was many minutes before the uproar of hisses and contemptuous remarks subsided.

Mr. Bourassa went on with his harangue. He declared England would have to keep a standing army of 100,000 in South Africa for years to come. He regretted the policy that a Conservative party in England had forced upon the Empire. It was a policy of breeding hatred among peoples. That policy went back on the best traditions of England. "I cannot join hands with the great majority of this Parliament, who rushed to congratulate Her Majesty," said Bourassa, and again the torrent of derisive jeers was poured across the House. "It is a war that has been forced upon her by the ambitious men who joined hands with the financiers who wished to increase their dividends in South Africa," he continued.

Cries of "shame," "scoundrel."

Claiming to speak for the French-Canadians, he said: "I protest against that infamous policy which to-day those who happen to be in power are trying to impose on the free British subjects in South Africa. It will not keep the Boers in a free acceptance of British rule." (Groans.)

Then the House cheered for the Queen and sang the National Anthem, while giving loud expression to the most demonstrative patriotism and loyalty.

Rebuked by Charlton.

Mr. John Charlton remarked in a kindly way that when Bourassa had a greater weight of years upon him and had acquired a larger amount of experience he would be able to see matters in a different light. It was impossible for a man to be more utterly, more radically wrong and misinformed than Mr. Bourassa. It was useless for a man to belittle the achievements of British arms or to belittle the importance of the epoch-making crisis Great Britain had gone through. The war was a just war. Kruger's insulting ultimatum had made it imperative that England should assert herself. Had she bowed she would have become the laughing stock of the world. Was she to bow to an autocrat like Kruger?

The Premier Speaks.

The Prime Minister declared this was a free country, and asked the members to be calm. Mr. Bourassa and he differed in toto on the question. He believed England never fought in a more just war. Mr. Bourassa had a right to his opinions, but this was not an occasion to express them. England's war with the Boers was but the leading of Providence. He felt sure it was the intention of Providence that England should exercise great influence over all peoples for good. The war was a question as to whether the civilization of the seventeenth century or that of the nineteenth century should win out. It was a slave-holding civilization led by an oligarch against the beneficient, just, righteous rule of Queen Victoria. He thought that man insane who would side with the Boers against the British in such a struggle. Had the Boers succeeded the hope of humanity would have been blasted. As it had eventuated, it was the most fortunate event that had ever happened in the world. Suppose a standing army of 100,000 had to be kept in South Africa, what of that? Was England to lose her prestige and have her flag trailed in the dust? He said if half a million men were needed, send them. (Cheers.) Because the cause of war was just and the stake invaluable, he protested against the sentiments of Mr. Bourassa, that could not be farther from the truth. After paying a tribute to the Canadian troops, that had taught all Canadians that the bond of sympathy that united the Empire was stronger than a band of steel, he declared that the one homogeneous Empire was a unit, believing that the last dollar and the last man should be sent wherever needed to maintain the British Empire and British institutions. The address to the Queen was not a matter of controversy, and it was discourteous for Mr. Bourassa to talk as he did. Speaking as a French-Canadian, he said the occasion had been badly chosen to utter the views expressed by Mr. Bourassa. (Cheers.)

The address was then carried, Mr. Bourassa shouting "No!" and the Senate was asked to concur in it.

House in Supply.

The Penitentiary estimates and Interior Department estimates occupied the attention of the House all night. Apart from minor objections everything went through.

The House adjourned at 1 a.m.

United States Congress adjourned sine die at 5 Thursday afternoon.

Doctors Elected Officers.

Toronto, June 8.—The second day of the twentieth annual meeting of the Ontario Medical Association in the Normal School yesterday was a busy one, and three sessions were held. McKinnon, Guelph; first vice-president, Dr. R. A. Pyne, Toronto; second vice-president, Dr. W. H. Jeffs, Havelock; third vice-president, A. S. Fraser, Sarnia; fourth vice-president, H. H. Canada's Tourist Trade.

Canada, says the Toronto News, is coming forward more and more each year as an ideal country for the tourist and a land of attractive and healthy summer resorts. The railways and steamship lines have done much to bring our summering places under the notice of Americans, and this season will see a rush into Muskoka, and Kawartha, and other Canadian resorts of thousands of visitors from across the line. Hundreds of people, who ten years ago would as soon have thought of making a trip to Siberia as to Northern Ontario, now have summer residences in our delightful lake districts where they regularly spend their holidays. But a great deal has to be done yet before Canada takes the place it should occupy in this regard. There is no reason why, with proper advertising and adequate accommodation, there should not be a hundred visitors for every one at the present time. The resorts are numerous enough and extensive enough to provide for them all.

THE OLYMPIC ANNUAL OUTING

A JOLLY OUTING THAT WAS IMMENSELY ENJOYED

About One Hundred Representative Citizens Were Out for the Day—An Enjoyable Outing at Burleigh—The Band Music a Feature.

The annual Olympic orchestra excursion took place yesterday, and another enjoyable and pleasant outing was added to the long list of successful days that have been held under this auspices in the past few years. It is the business men's holiday, and the different business interests of the town were represented in the hundred or more who took in the day. The rain in the early morning may have caused some to remain at home, but a little thing like that would not deter many from attending this annual fixture, which goes rain or shine. With the local business men were eight or ten officials of the Grand Trunk, C.P.R., and some of the American railroads, who had either been on the trip in other years or had heard of it and came as guests of the uptown agent of the G.T.R. These outsiders went in for fun and frolic from the start, and enjoyed every minute of the time, as well as the grand scenery along the route. Mr. Gliddon and the 57th Regimental band accompanied the excursion, and their excellent music was a great factor in the day's enjoyment. It was a successful, jolly, good-natured, holiday crowd, and the outing was thoroughly enjoyed by all who went.

The excursionists left here at 8.15 and arrived in Lakefield without incident. There the Majestic, with scow attached, was in waiting, and no time was lost in getting aboard and throwing off the lines and beginning the water trip to Burleigh. The band enlivened the sail with selections after leaving Lakefield and on arrival at Young's Point. The sail from the Point through Clear and Stony lakes was grand. The sun did not come out with blistering heat, but was shaded all day by the light clouds, which made things pleasant. The lake is looking grand at the present time. The bright green of spring is yet visible on all sides, and the rocky islands, with caps of green, and the bright, gay colored cottages, made a most picturesque scene. Those who saw the lakes for the first time were loud in their praises of their beauty. Burleigh was reached about 12.30, and dinner was the first on the programme. Mr. Gratton, the proprietor, had flags flying and everything arranged for the reception of his guests. The dining room was gaily decorated and an elaborate spread awaited the hungry excursionists. After dinner the band gave a concert, and the music was never heard to better advantage than when heard amid the picturesque surroundings of Burleigh. Mr. Gliddon and his musicians were not miserly with their music, and a two hour programme was rendered. Then about five o'clock came a rain storm that was a perfect deluge for about an hour. The rain drove in all those who had been exploring the country in the neighborhood but otherwise did not interfere with the general good time. Then tea was served, followed by another short programme by the band, and about 7.30 the Star Spangled Banner and God Save the Queen were played and three cheers given for Her Majesty. Then the steamer was boarded, and the sail to Lakefield began. Songs and music kept things lively during the run to Young's Point, while fire works from the front of the scow and steamer warned the countryside that the Olympics were coming. On the sail down the moon came out, and it was a grand night on the water. Young's Point was out in a body when the excursionists passed though, but the stop was short, and Lakefield was reached about eleven o'clock. The train was waiting and soon boarded, and the excursionists arrived home about 11.30, tired with the day's doings but one and all voting it a grand outing.

A FEW NOTES.

On the return trip some speeches were made on the scow in which one and all expressed the pleasure they had enjoyed in the outing, and paid tribute to Mr. Gliddon and his band, and to Mr. W. E. Lech, who arranges the excursion each year. A vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Lech, and three cheers and a tiger given for him, Mr. Gliddon and the band. The visitors who were present and who spoke were loud in their praises of the lakes and the band and of the day they had enjoyed.

Capt. Scollard and his crew, as usual, were alive to every interest of their excursionists. The Captain expects a busy season.

Considerable building is in progress at the lake. Mr. E. B. Edwards is building and remodelling at his place on Juniper Island. Mr. Wm. Graham is building two more cottages at Viamede, and Mr. D. Breeze is adding to his place at Glenwood. Mr. H. P. Lindsay is building a cottage on Eagle Mount on the point between Ald. Sawers' and Mr. Griffins' cottages.

Several large drives of logs are going through the lakes now. Rathbun's drive of some 137,000 pieces is just above Young's Point. The Dickson Co's. drive of 60,000 pieces, under Charlie Stone, is running over at Lovesick now.

Mr. Halpenny, of the band, proved a whole host in himself as an entertainer, and gave several recitations and songs in capital style.

It was a great temptation to many to try their luck with hook and line, but no one succumbed to the temptation and the law was not broken.

Mr. Mills, of London, Eng., who was in town on business, took in the excursion. He was the guest of Mr. T. F. Matthews. Mr. Mills was delighted with the picturesque scenery of the lakes and with the outing. He is an admirer of Canada and Canadians, and the more he sees of the country and its people the more favorably is he impressed with both.

Mr. Chas. Stanley was one of the excursionists who took his first trip to Stony lake yesterday with the excursion, and he was delighted with the beauty of the lake of islands, and with the outing generally.

OBITUARY

Death of Mrs. Rivington an Old Resident of the County.

One of the old residents of the county has passed away in the person of Mrs. George Rivington, who expired last evening at 8 o'clock, at the family residence, North Monaghan, about two miles south of town. Mrs. Rivington had the misfortune to break her arm about three months ago, and the accident at her advanced age, injured her health and she has been failing since.

Mrs. Rivington was seventy-seven years of age and was born in County Cavan, Ireland. Her maiden name was Anne Cunningham. She married Mr. Rivington in Cavan, Ontario, and they lived for some years in Ennismore, removing about twenty years ago to Monaghan, where they have since resided. Mrs. Rivington was well known to many of our older people and highly esteemed by all.

Besides her husband three children mourn her demise. They are Richard Rivington, on the homestead, Mrs. W. A. Tully, of Dakota, and Mrs. Howden, of Fort Wayne, Ind., who was with her mother the last couple of months.

Funeral on Sunday afternoon at two o'clock to the Little Lake cemetery.

HORSE THIEF ARRESTED

An Indian Rustler who was Driving on with another Stolen Horse.

A half breed Indian of apparently between fifty and sixty years of age was in the prisoner's box at the police court this morning on the charge of being the men who stole a horse belonging to Mr. Hugh Fife, of Otonabee. He was the man who was arrested at Lorneville but escaped from custody there. He was overtaken by High County Constable Cochrane about 8 miles north of Brechin with another stolen horse in his possession. He seemed to be making a long distance relay race of it.

At the court this morning when asked his name he replied Isaac Rogers. When asked why he gave his name as Josiah Hill he only blinked. He was remanded till Tuesday.

BAY OF QUINTE CONFEENCE

BUSINESS TRANSACTED AT YESTERDAY'S SESSION AT PORT HOPE

Nominating Committee Appointed—Report of Albert College—Address by Rev. Dr. Shaw—Evening Session.

The Conference organized at 10 o'clock Thursday morning, the President, Rev. W. R. Young, D.D., in the chair.

After singing a hymn the Secretary, Rev. J. J. Rae, Bowmanville, was called upon to read the Scriptures.

The President asked Rev. S. J. Shorey, Peterborough, and Rev. Wm. Johnson, of Belleville, to lead in prayer.

The roll of clerical and lay members was called, when two hundred responded to their names.

The first business then before the Conference was the choosing of a President, which resulted in the election of the Rev. W. J. Crothers, M.A., D.D., of Napanee. Rev. J. N. McCamus was elected Secretary on the first ballot also.

The Conference then adjourned at 12 o'clock.

On motion the hours of meeting were appointed for morning session from 9.30 to 12 o'clock. Afternoon session from 2 to 5.30 o'clock.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The President, Rev. Dr. Crothers, in the chair.

The Secretary appointed Rev. B. Greatrix and Mr. Thos. Wickett as his assistants, and the Rev. N. D. Drew as Journal Secretary.

An adjournment was then made for the Districts to appoint one minister and one layman as Nominating Committee, when the following gentlemen were appointed:—

The Revs. Jas. Anderson, David Wilson and Robert Johnston have died during the year, and the Conference appointed Friday afternoon to record the unqualified esteem in which they were held. It was thought that some deliverance ought to be made touching the stirring events now transpiring. A committee was appointed to draft a document anent these matters to be forwarded to the Queen. It consists of his Honor Judge Dean, Revs. E. A. Sanderson, and C. Parker.

A striking report of Albert College, Belleville, was given by Principal Dyer. Its entire number of students has reached 268. This is 25 per cent. higher than any previous enrolment. It is double that of fifteen years ago. The examinations in music are to be conducted by the Toronto Conservatory of Music. New departments of domestic science and missionary study are being established. Dr. Dyer was most heartily thanked for his work.

Revs. Dr. Young, F. B. Stratton, W. J. Jolliffe, B.C.L., and Messrs. W. Johnston and Uriah Wilson, M.P., were appointed a committee to devise a plan for the selection of three members of the

CUSTOM HOUSE APPOINTMENTS

MR. ROBT. HALL IS COLLECTOR AND MR. A. R. KIDD SUCCEEDS HIM

Mr. Hall's Appointment Was Expected, but Mr. Kidd's Name Had Not Been Mentioned and Came as a Surprise.

The Globe to-day in its Ottawa news announces that Mr. Robert Hall has been appointed Collector of Customs at Peterborough, vice Rufus Stevenson, and that Mr. A. R. Kidd, of Dummer, has been appointed to fill the vacancy caused by Mr. Hall's promotion.

This announcement ends a race which has been keen among local Liberals since the vacancy occurred. Mr. Hall's promotion to the collectorship was expected and will not cause any surprise. The vacancy being caused, Mr. Hall's promotion gives general satisfaction. Mr. Kidd's appointment, however, came as a surprise even to those pretty well informed as to what was going on. It was understood that Mr. Richard Hall, who has the Dominion patronage in West Peterborough, Hon. Mr. Stratton and other leading Liberals had recommended another applicant, whose appointment was assured until Mr. Lang and his supporters stepped in and claimed the right as member for East Peterborough to have a share in the patronage. The East Peterborough pull succeeded evidently, as the appointment of Mr. Kidd indicates.

Mr. Kidd is a farmer living in Dummer. He was an independent candidate in the provincial election of 1890 against Mr. Thos. Blezard, the Liberal member, and narrowly missed defeating that gentleman. Mr. Kidd was also prominent in County Council affairs some years ago. In county affairs he was not always friendly to the Liberal leaders in the riding. But this trouble blew over, and Mr. Kidd has now got his reward, and the question will be whether it is for the opposition he gave his party in East Peterborough or for his failure to continue his opposition to leaders of that party in the riding.

Liberals in West Peterborough will hardly be pleased with the turn things have taken in making these appointments, and they must acknowledge that the influence used from the East Riding has been too much for them this time.

No announcement is made regarding any appointment to the vacant Deputy Collectorship of Inland Revenue, but it is understood that Mr. Wm. Rudkins will be the appointee to this position.

THE AFTERMATH

A Fight on the Night of Pretoria Celebration Discussed in Court.

At this morning's session of the police court the case of the two belligerents who enjoyed a gory fight on Chambers-st. on Pretoria night was brough up after being adjourned for over a week. Mr. R. S. Davidson, J. P., was on the bench, and there was an air of good humor pervading the court room. Mr. Dennistoun represented one contestant and Mr. Stone acted for the other.

Mr. Dennistoun addressed the court first, and in touching vein. He pointed out that the scrap in question was but an allegorical and theatrical representation of the battles in South Africa, performed for the entertainment of the public, and due to the elevation and likewise consumption of spirits. Perhaps the occasion was such as to warrant more obstreperousness than would be otherwise allowed.

Mr. Stone followed on behalf of his client. He agreed that it was the day of Pretorious, happy and glorious. His man was a Britisher and undertook to capture the Boer, but let the Boer escape with cannon, ammunition and all, for which he was very sorry. However, they were willing to let bye-gones be bye-gones, especially as the whole trouble was but a celebration of the triumph of British arms.

The case would have been dismissed there, but that each pugilist maintained that he was in the right, and they could not agree to pay the costs. So evidence was taken and they were discharged on condition of paying the costs.

They Struck It Rich.

It was a grand thing for this community that such an enterprising firm as J. Lynch, secured the Agency for Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, the wonderful remedy that has startled the world by its marvellous cures. The furor of enthusiasm over it has boomed their business, as the demand for it is immense. They give free trial bottles to sufferers, and positively guarantee a cure in Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma, Croup, and all Throat and Lung troubles. A trial proves its merit. Price 50c. and $1.00.

OLD TIMES, OLD FRIENDS, OLD LOVE.

There are no days like the good old days—
 The days when we were youthful;
When humankind were pure of mind
 And speech and deeds were truthful;
Before a love for sordid gold
 Became man's ruling passion
And before each dame and maid became
 Slaves to the tyrant fashion.

There are no girls like the good old girls—
 Against the world I'd stake 'em—
As buxom and smart and clean of heart
 As the Lord knew how to make 'em.
They were rich in spirit and common sense,
 A piety all supportin;
They could bake and brew and had taught school, too,
 And they made the likeliest courtin.

There are no boys like the good old boys
 When we were boys together,
When the grass was sweet to the brown bare feet
 That dimpled the laughing heather,
When the pewee sung to the summer dawn
 Of the bee in the billowy clover,
Or down by the mill the whippoorwill
 Echoed his night song over.

There is no love like the good old love—
 The love that mother gave us.
We are old, old men, yet we pine again
 For that precious grace—God save us.
So we dream and dream of the good old times,
 And our hearts grow tenderer, fonder,
As those dear old dreams bring soothing gleams
 Of heaven away off yonder.

—Eugene Field.

WELLINGTON'S DECISION

When the Moment to Strike Had Come, He Did Not Hesitate.

Badajos lies in Spain five miles from the Portuguese frontier. It was the key of a situation. Wellington's chance was to strike at Badajos before the French marshals could combine and crush him. His task was both in front of him and behind him. He lacked transport; he lacked food for the men; the soldiers were eating cassava root instead of bread; the bullocks were weak and emaciated. All this was the doing of the parliament at home.

But Wellington knew that the moment to strike had come, and he seems to have hesitated very little. Placing no faith in the tongues of the Portuguese, he made his plans with all possible secrecy. The guns for the siege were loaded on board the transport at Lisbon and consigned to a fictitious address. But in the river Sadhao they were placed upon smaller vessels, and finally they were again landed and drawn by bullocks to Elcas, a post in the possession of the allies. Having stationed two-thirds of his force under General Graham and General Hill to prevent a most probable interference by Soult and Marmont, Wellington advanced, reaching Elcas on the 11th of March, 1812. He had made the most incredible exertions.

The stupidity of the Portuguese had vied with the stupidity of the government at home. Wellington had been carrying the preparation for the campaign upon his own shoulders. If he was to win Badajos, he was to win it with no help save that from gallant and trustworthy subordinates. He was ill withal. Even his strangely steel-like nature had bent beneath the trouble of preparation amid such indifference. But on March 16 Beresford, with three divisions, crossed the Guardiana on pontoons and flying bridges, drove the enemy's outposts and invested Badajos.—Stephen Crane in New Lippincott's.

THE DRESSY WOMAN.

Among the dainty things in the shops are offered Japanese striped silks, said to be easy to wash and difficult to crush.

Venise lierre and other handsome all over nets, copying rich lace designs, are this season made into waists of many different varieties.

Silk warp gypsy cloth and silk warp eolienne are new and fashionable dress fabrics that appear in all the beautiful pastel colorings of the season.

Thus far among the French models shown there are more gowns made with shirred, plaited or trimmed skirts than with short or long overdresses.

Besides being greatly en evidence everywhere else, bolero and Eton jackets will be used for cycling, mountain climbing, golf and mornings on the beach.

Notwithstanding the rage for tulle, net, chiffon and taffeta silk, manipulated in countless ways, ribbons, either plain or patterned, are popular decorations for both gowns and hats.

Shirred skirts are close rivals of the plaited styles, and some of the models in this fashion have pointed hip yokes made of all over embroidery wrought variously on china silk, taffeta, grenadine, drap de chine and cashmere.

Summer textiles will again be made up without lining, giving the wearer an opportunity to make any number of effective changes in the low cut underwaist and skirt or closely fitting princess slip of silk, lawn or mercerized batiste.

The new piques are attractive both in quality and coloring, and in the shades of blue, old rose, brown, tan and pink are notably fine. They are shown in dots, stripes and checks, in bright colors or in black and white.—New York Post.

TAKING THE REINS.

The demand for saddle horses has not been so brisk for years as it has this spring.

John Kinney is going to train the Penn Valley stud campaigning string at the Belmont tracks, Philadelphia, this spring.

A sister to Nico, 2:08¼, was recently foaled on J. Malcolm Forbes' farm, and those who have seen her say she is a good one in every way.

The trotter Fitz Royal, 2:18¼, is being worked at a pace over the Jewettville covered track and shows great speed. He was formerly in the Hamlin stable.

Green Morris of New York, who has made numerous entries in English races, says he will take a small stable over next fall, provided his stable races up to expectations.

The pacer Ethel A, whose record of 2:10¼ was made when she was a 3-year-old several seasons ago, is to be out this season with the hobbles added to her equipment.

Hatty Bell, 2:25¼, by Brown Wilkes, has a filly of much promise at the Phœnix stock farm, sired by William Penn, 2:07¼. The young things at the farm are now being jogged into form.

The British undersecretary of war informed the house of commons recently that the standard price paid by the government for cavalry horses ranged from £45 to £50, and in many cases as high as £65 has been paid.

W. C. Whitney, after spending three days looking over his thoroughbreds at La Belle farm, Lexington, Ky., recently returned to New York. His horses are in splendid condition, but he says he will bring them nearer home during the summer.

RECENT INVENTIONS.

For cutting cheese a new device has a circular table on which the cheese revolves, with a horizontal bar supported on two posts secured to the counter to carry the cutting bar, which is mounted on a lever to descend and cut the cheese.

There has been patented by a woman the combination of a chair and table, the back of the chair being pivoted on two arms attached to the front of the seat, with adjustable legs to support the back when it is swung into a horizontal position.

There has been designed a rotary blacking brush which can be held in one hand to black the shoes without moving the arm, the handle consisting of two pivoted members, on one of which is mounted a revolving shaft carrying the brush, while the other has a toothed head to revolve the brush as the handles are gripped together.

SCRAPS OF SCIENCE.

The prime of life in a man of regular habits and sound constitution is from 30 to 35 years of age; of a woman, from 24 or 25 to about 40 years of age.

One of the most fascinating results of the use of the microscope was the discovery of Professor Ehrenberg that a certain earth or rock in the Barbados is literally composed of minute and beautiful "skeletons."

Du Bounier, a French physician, recently described before the Paris Academy of Medicine a new method of testing deafness—namely, by applying a tuning fork to the knee or some other part of the bony structure. He said that a sound ear could not hear the note of the fork, but an ear in which disease had already made inroads could perceive it distinctly.

Dutch Streets.

Commend us to the ever tranquil Dutch streets, with their mellow antique houses. These mostly follow circles, as is to be expected in a fortified place, but the typical Dutch street, found everywhere, is the line of houses by the canal, a range of old trees in front shading the Indian red brick behind, with its bright white window sashes, as bright as much polished brass. Nothing is more suggestive of tranquil repose and old fashion. They stretch along the broad canal before them, where bridges cross and barges lie together alongside.

Even in very populous capitals we come in the suburbs on some delightful, retired bits of canal, leaving much the same effect as does Church row at Hampstead. Old fashioned well to do folk live here in retirement. There is one such at the entrance of The Hague on the Scheveningen side, where the charming woods begin. Anything more old world and solemnly attractive cannot be imagined. We might well fancy ourselves back to the days of Sir William Temple and of William of Orange, who may have strolled along them banks.—[illegible] Magazine.

THE DRUG STORE MAN

HE GETS SOME RATHER PECULIAR REQUESTS AT TIMES.

The Queer and Laughable Names Under Which Popular Remedies Are Called For by Customers—Other Riddles Which He Has to Solve.

"What is it you want, my little man?" inquired the druggist of the boy at the counter.

"Me mudder wants 5 cents of bitter Alice," sniffed the urchin, unloading the coin from his mouth.

The druggist went into the mysterious place behind and presently came back back with an article which he wrapped in paper. As the lad went out of the door the druggist turned to his three wondering friends at the counter.

"What did that boy ask for?" inquired one of them.

"Well, he asked for bitter Alice," replied the druggist. "I don't keep bitter Alice in stock, so I gave him bitter aloes. That's what his mother sent him for, I imagine."

There was a laugh, and one of the three inquired:

"Do you have many curious mistakes like that?"

"They are legion," was the reply of the compounder of drugs. "I used to think that some of them were quite laughable, but really I have become so accustomed to them that I am more or less indifferent. A man takes great chances now and then filling some of the cart before the horse orders that are presented, but the majority are easy. Last night a servant girl from the heights came in here and asked me to give her 'something to take a man's breath away.' I gave her cardamom seed, which she evidently recognized, for she sampled them on the spot.

"I have had any number of calls for 'Paddy Garrick' and even 'parry garic' and 'penny garlic,' which, of course, produced paregoric in each case. Here is a written order for 'a bottle of the smelling stuff that goes to your brain.' This, of course, meant ammonia. I have had a call for 'high stirrups' when hive sirup was really required. Gum arabic seems to mix them up a great deal, for the demands for it has resolved themselves into 'gum mare back,' 'comearaback,' 'garmariback' and 'ramback.'

"You see," continued the druggist, finding that his listeners were highly interested in his statements, "a great many residents of this neighborhood are of most ordinary means and, in addition, have not a superior education. All are anxious to save physicians' charges and think that a druggist is fully competent to treat their ailments with success. Some of their diagnoses of cases are really pen pictures. Here is a request for 'something for an old woman who has a bad cough and cannot cough.' Then I find a graphic appeal 'for a plaster for a man kilt with stitches.' That is not quite as notable an epic as the one which calls for 'enough flackseed to make a pudding for a sore toe.' It was a little more expressive than the order which asked for 'something for a heavy pain in the bones that is coming out through the eyes.'

"We have here a rather amazing request for 'enuf eppy cack to throw up a baby 4 years old.' This youngster must have been in pretty bad shape, for here I have a demand from its mother that I furnish her with something for her 5-year-old child, who has 'an impression on his heart and a cough that is choking him in the neck.'

"To fill the next order may seem difficult, but it really isn't. It states, 'Send me some of the essence you put people to sleep with when you cut their fingers off.' It evidently meant ether. At all events, that is what it was filled with. The man who wrote this order wanted 'something to take tobacco out of my mouth.' I suppose it was the scent of the thing that he objected to. The good housewife who wrote to me requesting 'something to rub my old man with' got a liniment, of course. It must have been her twin sister who wrote for 'something to knock a cold out of an old man.' Another peculiar demand is for 'enough aniseed to take the twist out of a dose of senna.'

"These odd orders I might read until daylight. 'Send me a baby's top to a nurse bottle' meant, no doubt, a nursing bottle top, and 'something for a sore baby's eye' is not easy to mistake. I have also appeals for remedies for a 'swelled woman's foot' and 'a man with a dry spit on him.'

"The phonetic sounding is, however, the most odd feature of the whole business. Cardamom seed I have had described as 'colored man seed' and 'McCordon seeds.' Orders for unguentum have been couched in requests for 'honey quintom,' 'Annie Quintom' and 'Anne Grintum.' Orders for 'bug mint' and 'barneget' I have filled with bergamot, and to a man who asked for 'campfire' I gave camphor. Arrowroot is frequently written 'air root,' and on one occasion I had a written request for 'raving bald Sam' when Arabian balsam was intended.

"Some of the other mistakes that I have noticed in the last ten years at this stand have been 'Cupid' for cubeb, 'glory farm' for chloroform, 'ox sled acid' for oxalic acid, 'lord worm' for laudanum, 'paint killer' for pain killer, 'sirrip of swill' for sirup of squills, 'gross of supplements' for corrosive sublimate and 'Mary attic acid' for muriatic acid.

"But I do not mind all these. It is the woman who wants '5 cents' worth of cologne to smell a trunk' and the chap who asks for 'a mixture of two-thirds alcohol and two-thirds castor oil' that puzzle the average druggist. They are what we call blind writers, but we manage to guess what they want. It keeps us thinking at times, though."—New York Mail and Express.

THE HONEY MAKERS.

The best kind of bees to buy are Italian.

The less swarming the more surplus honey you will have.

Drones draw so heavily on the stores of honey that many contrivances are now used to kill them.

If two or more swarms cluster together, don't put them all in one hive, or valuable queens may be lost.

If hives become daubed up with propolis, lift out the frames, place them in a new hive and clean up the old one.

Hives should be made so that they can be opened without jarring them. Nothing is more irritating to bees than sudden jars.

Arrange the apiary so that everything may be kept neat and tidy, and do not compel the bees to thread their way through weeds and grass to get to their hives.

Bees moved in the spring seldom go back to their old quarters, for they generally mark their location when they take their first flight, whether they have been moved or not.

Propolis is a gum or varnish that bees collect for varnishing over the inside of their hives, filling cracks and crevices, cementing loose pieces of the hive together and making things fast.—St. Louis Republic.

FRIDAY, JUNE 8, 1900.

THE MARKET REPORTS.

Peterborough Markets

Friday, June 8.

The market this week has been very good, there seemingly being a heavy movement of all kinds of produce. The market all through has shown a decided firmness, and it would appear that the farmers will shortly have a good chance to market their holdings at much better prices than at present quoted.

The following are the prices current for the past week:—

Wheat—Quite a number of loads came in and sold at last week's quotations, 60 cents. The market for this grain will be better.

Oats—There was an exceptionally large number of loads offered and sold readily at the prices quoted last week, 26 to 28 cents.

Peas—There is no change in this grain, and apparently not any likelihood of a betterment, although there should be when the price of pork is away the average. Prices remain the same as last week, namely 60 cents.

There were no other grains offered and the buyers are not enquiring for any.

Hay—Despite the low price prevailing for hay there has been an unusually large quantity offered and sold. Some days there was a steady sale and other days there was a slump, and holders were compelled to sell at extremely low prices. Quotations, $7 to $7.50.

Straw—There is a good demand for straw, with very few loads offering. Prices, $3 to $3 per load.

Eggs and Butter—There is a good supply of butter and eggs being offered and prices are steady, although eggs have a firmness, and it would not be surprising to see them go up apoint shortly. Quotations, eggs, 9 and 10 cents; butter, 15 to 18c.

Potatoes—There is a good demand for potatoes for local consumption. Prices, 40 to 45 cents.

Live stock—If the farmers of the county who are good hog raisers don't make money now, they never will. Just think, on Feb. 6th hogs were selling in Toronto for $4.87 1-2. To-day the quotations are $6.87 1-2, the highest price in years, and those who know expect that it will reach the $7 mark before many days. It is out of the question for sellers to expect to market light hogs and realize this price. The light hogs are not wanted and the price will be lowered if there are too many light hogs brought in.

The local quotations are $6.25 for selects, with the chances of them being $6.50 next week.

The demand for stockers is still good and prices are a little lower if anything, owing to these having been on grass, making them bad for shipping. Messrs. Robt. Howden and W. Morris are buying regularly and will ship Thursdays and Saturdays in future.

The new scales will be installed on the market next week. The Council are assisting the market clerk in every possible way in order to make the Peterborough market the best one in the county.

Any farmers having sheep to sell will do well to leave their names with the market clerk, who is in touch with the buyers. Prices, $3 to $3.50 per 100 lbs.

What a Difference it Makes When Peterborough Residents Testify.

It is pretty hard to prove the testimony of some stranger in far away parts of the country.

The Pitcher Tablet success is so great and so general that every town contributes its own testimony, and that of a Peterborough citizen shou'd convince the most sceptical.

Miss Irene Grouelle, Water-st., Peterborough, says:—"Since last May trouble with my back and side has been persistent, and the side very sore. I got a bottle of Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets from Ormond & Walsh, and soon felt a big change for the better. The soreness is all gone, and I can't say too much in praise of the medicine as it succeeded when others had failed."

If you have the slightest symptom of Kidney or Bladder trouble, you can test this great medicine free. Arrangements have been made whereby every reader of this paper can obtain a trial package of Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets absolutely free by enclosing two cent stamp for postage to The Pitcher Tablet Co., Toronto, Ont. When giving address mention this paper.

If you are convinced Pitcher's Tablets are what you want, you can purchase regular size for 50 cents per bottle. If not obtainable at druggist's, mailed free of postage on receipt of price.

CLINGS TO ALGOMA SEE.

Rev. Dr. Thornloe Declines Coadjutor Bishopric of Eastern Ontario.

Kingston, Ont., June 8. — The clergy and laity of the Diocese of Ontario went into separate conference at eleven o'clock yesterday morning to consider whom to select as Bishop, the nominee of Wednesday night, Bishop Thornloe, of Algoma, having declined the office. His Lordship said the Canadian church had called him, and could alone release him. Dean Williams, Quebec, was eventually chosen bishop. The elections to the Provincial Synod and the Mission Board then took place.

WHOLESOME ADVICE

For People Whose Stomachs are Weak and Digestion Poor.

Dr. Harlandson, whose opinion in diseases is worthy of attention, says when a man or woman comes to me complaining of indigestion, loss of appetite, sour stomach, belching, sour watery rising, headaches, sleeplessness, lack of ambition and a general run down nervous condition, I advise them to take after each meal one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, allowing the tablet to dissolve in the mouth, and thus mingle with the food eaten. The result is that the food is speedily digested before it has time to sour and ferment. These tablets will digest the food anyway whether the stomach wants to or not, because they contain harmless digestive principles, vegetable essences, pepsin and Golden Seal, which supply just what the weak stomach lacks.

I have advised the tablets with great success, both in curing indigestion and to build up the tissues, increasing flesh in thin, nervous patients, whose real trouble was dyspepsia, and as soon as the stomach was put to rights, they did not know what sickness was.

A fifty cent package of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets can be bought at any drug store, and as they are not a secret patent medicine, they can be used as often as desired with full assurance that they contain nothing harmful in the slightest degree; on the contrary, any one whose stomach is at all deranged will find great benefit from the use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. They will cure any form of stomach weakness or disease except cancer of the stomach.

C. P. R. Roadmaster Killed.

Winnipeg, June 8. — An accident occurred on Wednesday on the M. & N. W. Railway, about 40 miles this side of Yorkton. R. Watters, roadmaster of the C. P. R., accompanied by the superintendent, was making a tour of inspection on the latter's gasoline motor car. Mr. Watters was sitting in the front seat and got up to adjust some part of the machine. In doing so he lost his balance and fell forward in front of the car, which passed over him, killing him almost instantly.

William H. Sims, a London, Ont., carpenter, was so terribly injured on Wednesday morning just after beginning to work, that he remained unconscious until the afternoon, when his death occurred. A 10 x 12 inch beam 20 or 30 feet long fell on him.

Summer Colds

No cold is so hard to cure as the summer cold. It hangs on in spite of all ordinary treatments and frequently develops into consumption. It matters not what means have failed you can rely absolutely on Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine to promptly and thoroughly cure every kind of cough and cold. It is universally used in the best families all over this great continent. 25 cents a bottle. Family size 60 cents.

These Words Express Present Situation in China.

No Fear for Foreign Legations at Pekin, But Europeans Are Leaving—Communication With Tien-Tsin Cut—Boxers Continue Raiding and Pillaging—A Bloody Fight With Boxers—Great Britain's Firm Policy.

London, June 8. — The situation in China, as measured by abundant unofficial telegrams, continues full of interesting possibilities, but apparently it has not grown worse during the last 24 hours, although the favorite adjectives of London and continental commentators are "Perilous," "Grave" and "Dangerous."

The naval commanders in Chinese waters have received identical instructions as to procedure, the question of an emergency being left to their discretion. No fear is entertained for the safety of the legations at Pekin. European residents, however, are escaping from the capital to the coast. Pekin is still under control, according to a despatch to The Morning Post, dated yesterday, but in a vvery excited state. A thousand foreign guards were garrisoning the legation houses.

International Troops at Tien Tsin.

Six hundred international troops are at Tien Tsin, with six guns.

Communications Cut.

There has been no communication between Pekin and Tien Tsin since Tuesday, although one miserable half-hearted attempt was made by Chinese soldiers to reach the capital. The troops were fired on, and the train had to come back. Another station has been burned on the line. A news agency despatch from Tien Tsin dated yesterday, says the Boxers are still raiding and pillaging over a wide area. They have wrecked and burned the stations at Long Fong and Lango.

Three More Murders.

It has been definitely ascertained that Mme. Astier and Messrs. Ossent and Cades have been murdered.

Gen. Nich claims to have defeated the Boxers, killing 500.

Another Evasive Decree.

The Pekin correspondent of The Times, telegraphing yesterday, says: "An imperial decree has been issued, but it is on the same evasive character as the preceding one. Throughout it is apologetic in tone, and virtually gives justification to the Boxers for their recent anti-foreign and anti-Christian outbreaks. The edict repeats the accusation against native Christians who joined the church for their own base ends. It blames the officials, orders that the lawless shall be punished, and condemns the Chi Li soldiers for assisting the disturbers." The Tsung Li Yamen undertakes that railway communication shall be restored by Saturday. They have protested against the arrival of more British guns.

A Bloody Fight Took Place.

A despatch from Shanghai says the Dowager-Empress has ordered Gen. Nich Si Chong, with 8,000 men, to protect the railway at Pekin. A severe fight, it is added, has occurred with the Boxers, whose ranks include many soldiers from other generals' commands. When the battle ended 200 dead were left on the field.

Britain's Force Greatest.

The despatch goes on to say: "One hundred and eight British marines, with a machine gun, are about to force a passage from Tien Tsin to Pekin. Altogether, about 900 British have been landed from the fleet, a greater number than have landed from the combined vessels of the other powers. This evidence of Great Britain's intention to assert her position strongly, gives great satisfaction here."

Corea and Japan Not Friendly.

Yokohama, June 8. — Reports from Seoul state that the action of the Japanese Minister to Corea with reference to the alleged case of torture of prisoners has awakened the resentment of the Government, which declines to grant an audience with the King, and also addressed a telegram on the subject to the Japanese Government.

BANK OF MONTREAL,
MONTREAL, 30th April, 1900.

E. S. CLOUSTON,
General Manager.

THE GENERAL MANAGER.

Mr. Clouston then said:—

In the statement submitted to you to-day the principal changes which have taken place during the past year are: the liabilities column shows an increase in circulation of $[illegible], and increase of $[illegible] in deposits bearing interest; while on the other side there is a decrease of $[illegible] in the reserves held in Great Britain, and an increase of $[illegible] in loans. A considerable percentage of the latter increase represents a legitimate demand from commercial customers for advances, arising from the more active and expanding conditions of trade. The remainder is employed in special operations of a temporary character which will probably be closed out in the next few months.

Canada has good reason to be well satisfied with the results of business for the last twelve months. From every province of the Dominion, with the exception of British Columbia, come reports of universal prosperity, active trade, good crops, and generally speaking satisfactory prices. The lumber trade never was in better condition; while the dairy exports have only been limited by the extent of the cold storage accommodation, which is still insufficient for the growing wants of the trade. Railroad earnings were the largest in the history of Canada, and the year ends in a blaze of universal self-congratulation.

For the coming year there are some indications of over production. Stocks in the merchants' hands are too large, and in some districts collections are disappointing. In fact, at the moment, there is something of a check, which, however, may prove high salutary, if the commercial community will only proceed with caution till the new crop is secured and matters have adjusted themselves on a more satisfactory basis.

British Columbia has not shared in the general prosperity to the same extent as her sister provinces, owing to the effect of injudicious and ill-considered legislation. This has created a feeling of distrust abroad, and the in-flow of foreign capital, so necessary to the development of her immense natural resources, has been seriously checked.

The Finance Minister of Canada has introduced a number of amendments to the Bank Act, which are now before the House. They are the outcome of ten years' experience of the working of the present Bank Act, and will no doubt materially strengthen it, and make it a more workable measure. Full details of these amendments have appeared in the papers, and it is not necessary for me to refer to them here.

If there are any questions respecting the business of the bank I shall be pleased to answer them.

THE VICE-PRESIDENT.

Hon. George A. Drummond said:

I do not doubt you will receive with satisfaction the statements now laid before you and the explanations of the General Manager.

The profits have enabled the Directors to add one million of dollars to the rest, and pay the usual dividend of ten per cent. for the year. This rate of dividend has continued unbroken for twenty years, supplemented, however, in four of these years by a bonus. The addition to the Rest is fully justified, I think, by the changed conditions since the year 1884, when capital and rest first attained the proportions so long maintained of 12 and 6 millions respectively. In 1884 the combined Capital, Rest and Profit and Loss account aggregated $18,306,000; in 1900 they were, $19,-130,000. But the total liabilities to the public, which in 1884 were $25,941,000 had risen in 1900 to $58,822,000. I by no means desire to convey the impression that the ability of the Bank to meet its engagements depends on the size of its Rest, but obviously an increase of the Rest is quite in order, and no doubt will meet with your approval as an increased Rest not only gives additional stability but helps to steady the dividend.

A further comparison of our condition in the year 1884 with the present time, is interesting and instructive. As already said, the liabilities of the Bank had risen from 26 millions of dollars in 1884 to 59 millions in 1900. The number of Agencies or Branches had risen from 31 to 53. The number of the staff had increased from 299 to 562. The deposits had increased from $22,588,000, to $68,445,000, and the loans in Canada had increased from 30 millions to 53 1-2 millions. So that to earn approximately equal profits, double the business must be done and the cost of doing it proportionately increased. The public therefore, is getting its banking business done for about half the prices ruling in 1884. No doubt this is a substantial benefit to all commercial and manufacturing business.

The melancholy collapse of La Banque Ville Marie in this city does not reflect on our banking system, which could not provide for a series of gross frauds, revealed in the trials of the unhappy officers; its failure had no commercial effect, but caused much distress among its depositors, many of whom could ill bear their losses, and whose cause rightly excited much public sympathy.

The Board has had occasion during the year to lament the sudden and unexpected death of two of its members, Mr. Hugh McLennan and Mr. W. W. Ogilvie, and has recorded its deep sense of the loss which the Bank has experienced in being deprived of their prudent counsels. The Board considers itself fortunate in having been enabled to fill these vacancies by the election of Mr. James Ross and Mr. R. G. Reid.

In the general trade and commerce of the country we find evidences of the period of prosperity into which we have entered. Good harvests and good prices, especially for dairy produce, have passed prosperity throughout the country. Immigration has been less rapid than can be wished, but with the activity in all branches of trade and manufacture in the Mother country, nothing else could be anticipated. The lumber industry has been prosperous and prices much above the average; the great destruction of sawed stuff at Ottawa, has no doubt affected prices. The consumption of a special class of timber for the manufacture of paper pulp promises to have important effects on some districts. It appears to me that enormous waste is going on in this matter, and that some process of recovery whereby this indispensable material can be used more than once is looming in the future. Enormous strides are being taken in this country towards the production of iron and steel, and when the developments now in progress reach completion, we may hope that Canada will not only supply her own wants, but become a factor in the supply of foreign markets.

Fuel has advanced materially in price, though to a smaller extent in this country that in Great Britain. This is due to a considerable rise in wages and materials and supplies of all kinds, and like the other advances already noted, has an important influence in checking expansion of business. It appears to me, that the fact that steam coal of similar quality to Nova Scotian is costing more in Glasgow, Scotland, than in Montreal, may very well be recorded to the credit of our protective duty on the article, the Montreal coal having been carried nearly one thousand miles. At the pit head, Canadian coal is very much cheaper than at any point in Great Britain.

No better evidence of business activity can be had than the work done by our great carrying companies. Taking the returns of the Grand Trunk and the Canadian Pacific Railways together, we get these figures:

The gross earnings for the years 1895 and 1899, under the following heads, compare as follows:—Passenger traffic, 1895, $10,-132,000; 1899, $12,826,000; an advance of 26 per cent. Freight, 1895, $23,129,000; 1899, $32,809,000; an advance of 42 per cent. Mail and express, 1895, $1,804,000; 1899, $2,268,-000; an advance of 25 per cent. Miscellaneous, 1895, $1,570,000; 1899, $2,764,000; an advance of 76 per cent. The totals of the foregoing in these years are $36,636,000, and $50,677,000 respectively; on an advance of 38 per cent.

The North American steamship companies have had a fairly prosperous year; many of their vessels have found profitable employment in the various transport services connected with the South African war, and the decreased tonnage thus available for their regular trade has tended to enhance freight rates, more especially on export cargoes. The volume of imports carried by the Canadian lines was somewhat less than during the previous twelve months, the freight rates were somewhat dearer and the number of vessels fewer. The volume of exports was smaller, and the average of freight rates, more especially on grain and provisions, was higher. The current season has opened favourably and the volume of export traffic is likely to be fully equal to the available tonnage during the next two or three months. The passenger traffic was moderately satisfactory and the companies anticipate a free movement, both east-bound and west-bound during the year. They complain of the large advance in the price of coal and of the enhanced wages, but their profits are, nevertheless, said to be adequate.

As regards the port of Montreal, the last two years compare as follows: The total value of merchandise entered for consumption in the year ending 30th April, 1899, was $54,282,149; and for the year ending 30th April, 1900, $59,987,767; an increase of 10 1-2 per cent. On the other hand, the value of goods produced and otherwise exported in the former year was $62,170,354; and last year, $65,107,222, or an increase of 4.7 per cent.

The aggregate trade of Canada by years is as follows:

	Entered for Consumption.	Exported.
1895	$105,252,500	$113,638,800
1898	130,698,006	164,152,700
1899	154,051,000	158,896,000

In the last five years, therefore, the excess in value of total exports over total imports has been $44,153,300, and this excess of exports over imports has happened only once before in the history of Canada, i. e., in 1880.

One important evidence of better times is to be found in the comparative immunity from losses by business failures which in the respective years are as follows:—1896, $17,300,000; 1898, $10,000,000; 1899, $10,-727,000. If we except the reigning stagnation on the Stock Exchange, due to a general pause in speculation and dearer money the indications are of a continuation of good times. It is probable that some revival will be consequent on a decline in the cost of staple raw materials which appears probable. It is impossible to follow the progress of all branches of trade, but the general result, with some special exceptions is the same, full employment, press of business, good prices, advanced wages. In the middle of all this we are apt to forget that bad times will recur; there are evidences already, however slight, of a reaction. The high prices of lumber and labour are causing a cessation of building, and iron and steel are getting cheaper.

One important factor, which may affect our manufacturing industries, is the evidence of a spirit of aggression in outside markets by the great American combinations and trusts; this may develop into proportions which will produce consequences now unforseen.

Nothing in recent times has excited so intense an interest in this country as the war in South Africa, now happily drawing to an end. Its progress day by day, indeed hour by hour, has been watched with feverish anxiety. The successive relief of the heroic beleaguered garrisons of Ladysmith, Kimberley and Mafeking, and the capture of the Boer centres have given occasion for general rejoicings. That a considerable body of Canadian volunteer soldiers sent out by the Dominion, have, for the first time in our history, been fighting on another continent, side by side with the best soldiers of the Empire, and proving themselves by courage and soldierly qualities, equal to the honour, has intensified our interest. To ourselves it is a source of pride that among them is a corps of mounted infantry, consisting of [illegible] men, equipped, armed and carried to the seat of war through the princely liberality of the President of this Bank. Heavy as is the price exacted in war for any benefits—not in treasure alone, for that is secondary—but in blood, Canadians now occupy a place among the nations not hitherto accorded them, and can realize as never before that their country is part and parcel of the Empire, while the most distant shore where our flag flies is but a portion of our heritage.

No one who has made himself acquainted with the facts can doubt that the war was not only a just and most righteous but also an unavoidable one, or only to be escaped by Great Britain confessing herself unable to protect her citizens, and abandon all pretensions to Imperial power. I hail the resolve that the territories now conquered at such a heavy price shall be held under the British flag, with the security to life, liberty and property which it everywhere guarantees.

This Bank, departing in some measure from precedent, has contributed liberally to Imperial and home organizations having the care of our soldiers and their dependants for their object; for this I do not doubt you will give your approval. Our duty would not be done if we fail to recognize to the full how much this little force has accomplished for the credit and best interests of Canada, and prove our gratitude by deeds.

I will move: "That the report of the Directors now read be adopted and printed for distribution among the shareholders."

The motion was seconded by Mr. A. T. Paterson.

THE DISCUSSION.

After a few remarks by Mr. John Morrison, Mr. John Crawford touched on the question of parallel columns in the annual financial statement, so that the business of each year could be compared with its immediate predecessor, and he likewise expressed the opinion that a Rest Fund of of 50 per cent. was sufficient, and that when that had been reached, the Shareholders should benefit from the profits in the shape of a bonus. In connection with the Banking Act, he asked that the Vice-President, when attending to his senatorial duties at Ottawa, would, if he saw eye to eye with him (Mr. Crawford) use his efforts to have the words "gross proceeds and gross expenses," substituted for the words, "net proceeds." This would be in accordance with what was the constitutional practice of every bank in England and Scotland. The financial statement of these banks showed the gross proceeds and expenses, and gave the Shareholders some data on which to form an opinion as to the management of the Bank. The Vice-President had referred to the South African war, and he (Mr. Crawford) would like to say that there was not a shareholder in the Bank who would not hold up both hands in congratulating the Directors on having subscribed to the Patriotic Fund. He trusted that they might long live to act upon the same principle. They also subscribed towards the relief of the sufferers by the great conflagration at Ottawa. They did not wait to convene a meeting of the Shareholders, but responded not only for the Bank by liberal donations, but also very generously for themselves. At the same time, he did not wish any banking institution to consider itself a benevolent institution, and though under similar circumstances to those which had occurred he would have done the same thing, he thought it would be well to have some indemnity clause inserted in the Banking Act. As to the proxy system, he urged that an effort be made to get it to conform to the English system—one year. Reverting to the question of the Rest, he said that several of the best banks in England, were satisfied with less than 50 per cent., although one had 60. If the Directors of the Bank of Montral did not think that 50 per cent was sufficient they had only to improve the character of their assets. He thought that the Shareholders were perfectly satisfied with the magnificent financial statement that had been presented.

The chairman, in replying to Mr. Crawford, said: No one has a greater respect for Mr. Crawford than I have, and we should miss him very much if he forbore even for one year his criticisms of our administration. I devoted a portion of the few remarks I made to dealing with the question of Rest, and showed that the Bank had more than doubled its responsibilities since the date at which $6,000,000 was considered a sufficient rest. It appears to me to be a perfectly obvious proposition either that $6,000,000 were too much in 1884, when the responsibilities were about 25,000,000, or they are too little now, when the responsibilities were more than doubled. Consequently, I do not agree with him about the Rest; and if he will cast his memory back to the last meeting, he will remember he asked my opinion about the Rest, whether it should exceed 50 per cent. or not, and I, carefully guarding myself against committing the Board, which I could not do, expressed my own opinion that it was insufficient, and ought to be added to. I am still of that opinion, and I think the addition to the Rest is a wise and conservative measure, which will increase the public confidence in the Bank. With regard to the publication of the gross profits, an item Mr. Crawford referred to, it is an old story, comparatively. Some ten years ago, when the Banking Act was being revised, Mr. Crawford brought up the question, and, as the incident is likely to be forgotten now, I may say that he persuaded the House of Commons to pass, unanimously, a clause calling for a declaration of the gross profits. I had the honour of opposing it in the Senate, and I also was the only speaker on that occasion, and the Senate unanimously threw it out, so that it was carried unanimously in the Commons and was discarded unanimously in the Senate. I am still of the opinion that for a bank to disclose its gross profits is an improper disclosure to the public, and likely to do a good deal of harm. I need not take up your time with a lengthy argument on that point. While it is true railways and other institutions disclose their gross profits in many cases, there is a special feature about credit which is a very delicate thing, and which makes it improper in a bank to have to declare how much is written off for bad debts or anticipated bad debts in any one year. If, for example, a very considerable sum were written off by this Bank for bad debts or anticipated bad debts, the first effect produced on the mind of every critic would be, "Who is likely to fail? What in the world are they expecting? What is going to happen?" The whole fabric of credit would be shaken from the very foundation. That is my view of the result which would legitimately and logically follow the stating of how much we wrote off each year for bad and doubtful debts, and providing for them. As for yearly proxies I don't object to them at all. Referring to the percentage of Rest, Mr. Crawford expressed the opinion that 50 per cent. was above the average. There is nothing in the nature of finality about the percentage of a Rest for a bank; it is what the Shareholders and Directors think right in their own eyes. The Bank of Toronto has a Rest of 90 per cent.; Molsons Bank, 60 per cent.; Standard Bank, 60 per cent.; Imperial Bank, 65 per cent.; Merchants Bank of Halifax, 55 per cent.; Bank of Nova Scotia, 102 1-4 per cent.; Bank of Montreal (with this addition of $1,000,000) 58 1-3 per cent. In England and Scotland things come out pretty much the same. The Commercial Bank of Scotland has a Rest of 33 1-3 per cent.; the London City & Midland, 100 per cent., and so on to the Manchester and County Bank, which has 108 and a fraction per cent. Carefully guarding my late brother directors from any responsibility in this matter, for they have never expressed an opinion on the subject, I have once more to record my opinion that the addition to the Rest is not excessive; in fact I would rather see it increased than diminished. Mr. Crawford and others who think with him, get in the additional price of their stock, a certain equivalent for the bonus they desire.

Mr. John Crawford explained that he had not alluded to gross losses at all; only gross profits and gross expenses. He could quite understand that if a bank published a large amount of loss, it might affect credit.

The Chairman then put the motion for the adoption of the report, and it was carried unanimously.

VOTES OF THANKS

Mr. Donald McMaster moved,—

"That the thanks of the meeting be presented to the President, Vice-President, and Directors for their attention to the interests of the Bank."

This was seconded by Mr. F. T. Judah, Q.C., and adopted, and was briefly acknowledged by the Chairman.

Mr. John Crawford moved:

"That by-law No. 9 be amended by striking out the word 'fifteen' in the second line of the by-law as printed, and inserting in its place the words 'twenty-five.'"

He explained that it was simply adding $10,000 to the remuneration given to the Directors under the by-law. He made the motion with a great deal of pleasure, and spoke a few kindly words of the President of the Bank.

The motion was seconded by Mr. B. A. Boas, and was carried.

Mr. James Ross moved:

"That the thanks of the meeting be given to the General Manager, the Inspector, the Managers, and other officers of the Bank for their services during the past year."

The motion was seconded by Mr. R. G. Reid, and having been unanimously concurred in, was acknowledged by the General Manager.

Mr. E. Rawlings moved:

"That the ballot now open for the election of Directors be kept open until three o'clock, unless fifteen minutes elapse without a vote being cast, when it shall be closed, and until that time and for that purpose only, this meeting be continued."

This was seconded by Mr. Angus W. Hooper, and unanimously agreed to.

On the motion of Mr. John Morrison, seconded by Mr. John Crawford, a hearty vote of thanks was accorded to the Chairman for his conduct of the business of the meeting, and he acknowledged the same.

THE DIRECTORS.

The ballot resulted in the election of the following Directors:

Heat and Cold

Are never-failing causes of disease. At this season of the year neuralgia, toothache, and a host of similar diseases are rampant. The great question then, is to find the quickest, surest, and most economical remedy. Polson's Nerviline exactly fills these requirements. It is prompt, efficient and most economical, for it exceeds in power every known remedy, and is as cheap as inferior articles. A 10 cent sample bottle will give every person a chance to test it. Large bottles only 25 cents.

great Methodist Ecumenical Conference to be held in London in 1901. A document relating to the reading of Scripture in public schools emanating from a joint meeting of members of the committees of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church and the Provincial Synod of the Anglican Church was referred to the Committee on Memorials.

Rev. W. L. Shaw, late Principal of Wesleyan Theological College, and still its chief lecturer, addressed the Conference. His able and earnest words and his work received recognition in a resolution by Dr. Young, heartily endorsed by the whole Conference.

EVENING SESSION.

In the evening the annual missionary meeting was held. It was largely attended. Rev. W. J. Jolliffe, B.C.L., delivered a most earnest and effective address. He claimed that liberality, faith and love would master the missionary problem. As the speaker came to the opening up of Africa and said "they cannot coerce Anglo-Saxons who are free on the basis of the Bible," he was greeted afresh with tremendous applause. He was followed by Rev. Dr. Cade, of Millbrook, who traced the development of the former dark places of the earth. The choir furnished most excellent music during the service.

E. S. CLOUSTON,
General Manager.

Bank of Montreal,
Montreal, 30th April, 1900.

THE GENERAL MANAGER.

Mr. Clouston then said:—

In the statement submitted to you to-day the principal changes which have taken place during the past year are: the liabilities account shows an increase in circulation of [illegible], and increase of [illegible] in deposits bearing interest; while on the other side there is a decrease of [illegible] in the reserves held in Great Britain, and an increase of $10,000,000 in loans. A considerable percentage of the latter increase represents a legitimate demand from commercial customers for advances, arising from the more active and expanding conditions of trade. The remainder is employed in special operations of a temporary character which will probably be closed out in the next few months.

Canada has good reason to be well satisfied with the results of business for the last twelve months. From every province of the Dominion, with the exception of British Columbia, come reports of universal prosperity, active trade, good crops, and generally speaking satisfactory prices. The lumber trade never was in better condition; while the dairy exports have only been limited by the extent of the cold storage accommodation, which is still insufficient for the growing wants of the trade. Railroad earnings were the largest in the history of Canada, and the year ends in a blaze of universal self-congratulation.

For the coming year there are some indications of over production. Stocks in the merchants' hands are too large, and in some districts collections are disappointing. In fact, at the moment, there is something of a check, which, however, may prove high salutary, if the commercial community will only proceed with caution till the new crop is assured and matters have adjusted themselves on a more satisfactory basis.

British Columbia has not shared in the general prosperity to the same extent as her sister provinces, owing to the effect of injudicious and ill-considered legislation. This has created a feeling of distrust abroad, and the in-flow of foreign capital, so necessary to the development of her immense natural resources, has been seriously checked.

The Finance Minister of Canada has introduced a number of amendments to the Bank Act, which are now before the House. They are the outcome of ten years' experience of the working of the present Bank Act, and will no doubt materially strengthen it, and make it a more workable measure. Full details of these amendments have appeared in the papers, and it is not necessary for me to refer to them here.

If there are any questions respecting the business of the bank I shall be pleased to answer them.

THE VICE-PRESIDENT.

Hon. George A. Drummond said:

I do not doubt you will receive with satisfaction the statements now laid before you and the explanations of the General Manager.

The profits have enabled the Directors to add one million of dollars to the rest, and pay the usual dividend of ten per cent. for the year. This rate of dividend has continued unbroken for twenty years, supplemented, however, in four of these years by a bonus. The addition to the Rest is fully justified, I think, by the changed conditions since the year 1884, when capital and rest first attained the proportions so long maintained of 12 and 6 millions respectively. In 1884 the combined Capital, Rest and Profit and Loss account aggregated $18,306,000; in 1900 they were, $19,-180,000. But the total liabilities to the public, which in 1884 were $25,941,000 had risen in 1900 to $58,822,000. I by no means desire to convey the impression that the ability of the Bank to meet its engagements depends on the size of its Rest, but obviously an increase of the Rest is quite in order, and no doubt will meet with your approval as an increased Rest not only gives additional stability but helps to steady the dividend.

A further comparison of our condition in the year 1884 with the present time, is interesting and instructive. As already said, the liabilities of the Bank had risen from 26 millions of dollars in 1884 to 59 millions in 1900. The number of Agencies or Branches had risen from 31 to 53. The number of the staff had increased from 299 to 663. The deposits had increased from $22,583,000, to $58,445,000, and the loans in Canada had increased from 30 millions to 53 1-2 millions. So that to earn approximately equal profits, double the business must be done and the cost of doing it proportionately increased. The public therefore, is getting its banking business done for about half the prices ruling in 1884. No doubt this is a substantial benefit to all commercial and manufacturing business.

The melancholy collapse of La Banque Ville Marie in this city does not reflect on our banking system, which could not provide for a series of gross frauds, revealed in the trials of the unhappy officers; its failure had no commercial effect, but caused much distress among its depositors, many of whom could ill bear their losses, and whose cause rightly excited much public sympathy.

The Board has had occasion during the year to lament the sudden and unexpected death of two of its members, Mr. Hugh McLennan and Mr. W. W. Ogilvie, and has recorded its deep sense of the loss which the Bank has experienced in being deprived of their prudent counsels. The Board considers itself fortunate in having been enabled to fill these vacancies by the election of Mr. James Ross and Mr. R. G. Reid.

In the general trade and commerce of the country we find evidences of the period of prosperity into which we have entered. Good harvests and good prices, especially for dairy produce, have caused prosperity throughout the country. Immigration has been less rapid than can be wished, but with the activity in all branches of trade and manufactures in the Mother country, nothing else could be anticipated. The lumber industry has been prosperous and prices much above the average; the great destruction of [illegible] at Ottawa, [illegible] prices. The consumption of a special class of timber for the manufacture of paper pulp promises to have important effects on some districts. It appears to me that enormous waste is going on in this matter, and that some process of recovery whereby this indispensable material can be used more than once is looming in the future. Enormous strides are being taken in this country towards the production of iron and steel, and when the developments now in progress reach completion, we may hope that Canada will not only supply her own wants, but become a factor in the supply of foreign markets.

Fuel has advanced materially in price, though to a smaller extent in this country that in Great Britain. This is due to a considerable rise in wages and materials and supplies of all kinds, and like the other advances already noted, has an important influence in checking expansion of business. It appears to me, that the fact that steam coal of similar quality to Nova Scotian is costing more in Glasgow, Scotland, than in Montreal, may very well be recorded to the credit of our protective duty on the article, the Montreal coal having been carried nearly one thousand miles. At the pit head, Canadian coal is very much cheaper than at any point in Great Britain.

No better evidence of business activity can be had than the work done by our great carrying companies. Taking the returns of the Grand Trunk and the Canadian Pacific Railways together, we get these figures:

The gross earnings for the years 1896 and 1899, under the following heads, compare as follows:—Passenger traffic, 1896, $10,-133,000; 1899, $12,836,000; an advance of 26 per cent. Freight, 1896, $23,129,000; 1899, $32,800,000; an advance of 42 per cent. Mail and express, 1896, $1,804,000; 1899, $2,268,-000; an advance of 25 per cent. Miscellaneous, 1896, $1,570,000; 1899, $2,764,000; an advance of 70 per cent. The totals of the foregoing in these years are $36,636,000, and $50,677,000 respectively; or an advance of 38 per cent.

The North American steamship companies have had a fairly prosperous year; many of their vessels have found profitable employment in the various transport services connected with the South African war, and the decreased tonnage thus available for their regular trade has tended to enhance freight rates, more especially on export cargoes. The volume of imports carried by the Canadian lines was somewhat less than during the previous twelve months, the freight rates were somewhat dearer and the number of vessels fewer. The volume of exports was smaller, and the average of freight rates, more especially on grain and provisions, was higher. The current season has opened favourably and the volume of export traffic is likely to be fully equal to the available tonnage during the next two or three months. The passenger traffic was moderately satisfactory and the companies anticipate a free movement, both east-bound and west-bound during the year. They complain of the large advance in the price of coal and of the enhanced wages, but their profits are, nevertheless, said to be adequate.

As regards the port of Montreal, the last two years compare as follows: The total value of merchandise entered for consumption in the year ending 30th April, 1899, was $54,282,140; and for the year ending 30th April, 1900, $59,997,767; an increase of 10 1-2 per cent. On the other hand, the value of goods produced and otherwise exported in the former year was $62,170,354; and last year, $65,107,222, or an increase of 4.7 per cent.

The aggregate trade of Canada by years is as follows:

	Entered for Consumption.	Exported.
1896	$105,232,500	$113,638,800
1898	130,698,000	164,152,700
1899	154,051,000	158,896,000

In the last five years, therefore, the excess in value of total exports over total imports has been $44,153,300, and this excess of exports over imports has happened only once before in the history of Canada, i.e., in 1880.

One important evidence of better times is to be found in the comparative immunity from losses by business failures which in the respective years are as follows:—1896, $17,300,000; 1898, $10,000,000; 1899, $10,-727,000. If we except the reigning stagnation on the Stock Exchange, due to a general pause in speculation and dearer money the indications are of a continuation of good times. It is probable that some revival will be consequent on a decline in the cost of staple raw materials which appears probable. It is impossible to follow the progress of all branches of trade, but the general result, with some special exceptions is the same, full employment, press of business, good prices, advanced wages. In the middle of all this we are apt to forget that bad times will recur; there are evidences already, however slight, of a reaction. The high prices of lumber and labour are causing a cessation of building, and iron and steel are getting cheaper.

One important factor, which may affect our manufacturing industries, is the evidence of a spirit of aggression in outside markets by the great American combinations and trusts; this may develop into proportions which will produce consequences now unforeseen.

Nothing in recent times has excited so intense an interest in this country as the war in South Africa, now happily drawing to an end. Its progress day by day, indeed hour by hour, has been watched with feverish anxiety. The successive relief of the heroic beleaguered garrisons of Ladysmith, Kimberley and Mafeking, and the capture of the Boer centres have given occasion for general rejoicings. That a considerable body of Canadian volunteer soldiers sent out by the Dominion, have, for the first time in our history, been fighting on another continent, side by side with the best soldiers of the Empire, and proving themselves by courage and soldierly qualities, equal to the honour, has intensified our interest. To ourselves it is a source of pride that among them is a corps of mounted infantry, consisting of [illegible] men, equipped, armed and carried to the seat of war through the princely liberality of the President of this Bank. Heavy as is the price exacted in war for any benefits—not in treasure alone, for that is secondary—but in blood, Canadians now occupy a place among the nations not hitherto accorded them, and can realize as never before that their country is part and parcel of the Empire, while the most distant shore where our flag flies is but a portion of our heritage.

No one who has made himself acquainted with the facts can doubt that the war was not only a just and most righteous but also an unavoidable one, or only to be escaped by Great Britain confessing herself unable to protect her citizens, and abandon all pretensions to Imperial power. I hail the resolve that the territories now conquered at such a heavy price shall be held under the British flag, with the security to life, liberty and property which it everywhere guarantees.

This Bank, departing in some measure from precedent, has contributed liberally to Imperial and home organizations having the care of our soldiers and their dependents for their object; for this I do not doubt you will give your approval. Our duty would not be done if we fail to recognize to the full how much this little force has accomplished for the credit and best interests of Canada, and prove our gratitude by deeds.

I will move: "That the report of the Directors now read be adopted and printed for distribution among the shareholders."

The motion was seconded by Mr. A. T. Paterson.

THE DISCUSSION.

After a few remarks by Mr. John Morrison, Mr. John Crawford touched on the question of parallel columns in the annual financial statement so that the business of each year could be compared with its immediate predecessor, and he likewise expressed the opinion that a Rest Fund of of 50 per cent. was sufficient, and that when that had been reached, the Shareholders should benefit from the profits in the shape of a bonus. In connection with the Banking Act, he asked that the Vice-President, when attending to his senatorial duties at Ottawa, would, if he saw eye to eye with him (Mr. Crawford) use his efforts to have the words "gross proceeds and gross expenses," substituted for the words, "net proceeds." This would be in accordance with what was the constitutional practice of every bank in England and Scotland. The financial statement of these banks showed the gross proceeds and expenses, and gave the Shareholders some data on which to form an opinion as to the management of the Bank. The Vice-President had referred to the South African war, and he (Mr. Crawford) would like to say that there was not a shareholder in the Bank who would not hold up both hands in congratulating the Directors on having subscribed to the Patriotic Fund. He trusted that they might long live to act upon the same principle. They also subscribed towards the relief of the sufferers by the great conflagration at Ottawa. They did not wait to convene a meeting of the Shareholders, but responded not only for the Bank by liberal donations, but also very generously for themselves. At the same time, he did not wish any banking institution to consider itself a benevolent institution, and though under similar circumstances to those which had occurred he would have done the same thing, he thought it would be well to have some indemnity clause inserted in the Banking Act. As to the proxy system, he urged that an effort be made to get it to conform to the English system—one year. Reverting to the question of the Rest, he said that several of the best banks in England, were satisfied with less than 50 per cent., although one had 60. If the Directors of the Bank of Montral did not think that 50 per cent was sufficient they had only to improve the character of their assets. He thought that the Shareholders were perfectly satisfied with the magnificent financial statement that had been presented.

The chairman, in replying to Mr. Crawford, said: No one has a greater respect for Mr. Crawford than I have, and we should miss him very much if he forbore even for one year his criticisms of our administration. I devoted a portion of the few remarks I made to dealing with the question of Rest, and showed that the Bank had more than doubled its responsibilities since the date at which $6,000,000 was considered a sufficient rest. It appears to me to be a perfectly obvious proposition either that $6,000,000 were too much in 1884, when the responsibilities were about 25,000,000, or they are too little now, when the responsibilities were more than doubled. Consequently, I do not agree with him about the Rest; and if he will cast his memory back to the last meeting, he will remember he asked my opinion about the Rest, whether it should exceed 50 per cent. or not, and I, carefully guarding myself against committing the Board, which I could not do, expressed my own opinion that it was insufficient, and ought to be added to. I am still of that opinion, and I think the addition to the Rest is a wise and conservative measure, which will increase the public confidence in the Bank. With regard to the publication of the gross profits, an item Mr. Crawford referred to, it is an old story, comparatively. Some ten years ago, when the Banking Act was being revised, Mr. Crawford brought up the question, and, as the incident is likely to be forgotten now, I may say that he persuaded the House of Commons to pass, unanimously, a clause calling for a declaration of the gross profits. I had the honour of opposing it in the Senate, and I also was the only speaker on that occasion, and the Senate unanimously threw it out, so that it was carried unanimously in the Commons and was discarded unanimously in the Senate. I am still of the opinion that for a bank to disclose its gross profits is an improper disclosure to the public, and likely to do a good deal of harm. I need not take up your time with a lengthy argument on that point. While it is true railways and other institutions disclose their gross profits in many cases, there is a special feature about credit which is a very delicate thing, and which makes it improper in a bank to have to declare how much is written off for bad debts or anticipated bad debts in any one year. If, for example, a very considerable sum were written off by this Bank for bad debts or anticipated bad debts, the first effect produced on the mind of every critic would be, "Who is likely to fail? What in the world are they expecting? What is going to happen?" The whole fabric of credit would be shaken from the very foundation. That is my view of the result which would legitimately and logically follow the stating of how much we wrote off each year for bad and doubtful debts, and providing for them. As for yearly proxies I don't object to them at all. Referring to the percentage of Rest, Mr. Crawford expressed the opinion that 50 per cent. was above the average. There is nothing in the nature of finality about the percentage of a Rest for a bank; it is what the Shareholders and Directors think right in their own eyes. The Bank of Toronto has a Rest of 90 per cent.; Molsons Bank, 60 per cent.; Standard Bank, 60 per cent.; Imperial Bank, 65 per cent.; Merchants Bank of Halifax, 85 per cent.; Bank of Nova Scotia, 102 1-4 per cent.; Bank of Montreal (with this addition of $1,000,000) 58 1-3 per cent. In England and Scotland things come out pretty much the same. The Commercial Bank of Scotland has a Rest of 83 1-3 per cent.; the London City & Midland, 100 per cent., and so on to the Manchester and County Bank, which has 103 and a fraction per cent. Carefully guarding my late brother directors from any responsibility in this matter, for they have never expressed an opinion on the subject, I have once more to record my opinion that the addition to the Rest is not excessive; in fact I would rather see it increased than diminished. Mr. Crawford and others who think with him, get in the additional price of their stock, a certain equivalent for the bonus they desire.

Mr. John Crawford explained that he had not alluded to gross losses at all; only gross profits and gross expenses. He could quite understand that if a bank published a large amount of loss, it might affect credit.

The Chairman then put the motion for the adoption of the report, and it was carried unanimously.

VOTES OF THANKS

Mr. Donald McMaster moved,—

"That the thanks of the meeting be presented to the President, Vice-President, and Directors for their attention to the interests of the Bank."

This was seconded by Mr. F. T. Judah, Q.C., and adopted, and was briefly acknowledged by the Chairman.

Mr. John Crawford moved:

"That by-law No. 9 be amended by striking out the word 'fifteen' in the second line of the by-law as printed, and inserting in its place the words 'twenty-five.'"

He explained that it was simply adding $10,000 to the remuneration given to the Directors under the by-law. He made the motion with a great deal of pleasure, and spoke a few kindly words of the President of the Bank.

The motion was seconded by Mr. B. A. Boas, and was carried.

Mr. James Ross moved:

"That the thanks of the meeting be given to the General Manager, the Inspector, the Managers, and other officers of the Bank for their services during the past year."

The motion was seconded by Mr. R. G. Reid, and having been unanimously concurred in, was acknowledged by the General Manager.

Mr. E. Rawlings moved:

"That the ballot now open for the election of Directors be kept open until three o'clock, unless fifteen minutes elapse without a vote being cast, when it shall be closed, and until that time and for that purpose only, this meeting be continued."

This was seconded by Mr. Angus W. Hooper, and unanimously agreed to.

On the motion of Mr. John Morrison, seconded by Mr. John Crawford, a hearty vote of thanks was accorded to the Chairman for his conduct of the business of the meeting, and he acknowledged the same.

THE DIRECTORS.

The ballot resulted in the election of the following Directors:

R. B. ANGUS, ESQ.
HON. G. A. DRUMMOND.
A. F. GAULT, ESQ.
E. B. GREENSHIELDS, ESQ.
SIR WILLIAM C. MACDONALD.
A. T. PATERSON, ESQ.
R. G. REID, ESQ.
JAS. ROSS, ESQ.
RT. HON. LORD STRATHCONA AND MOUNT ROYAL, G. C. M. G.

The President and Vice-President will, in the ordinary course of business, be elected at to-day's meeting of the Directors.

great Methodist Ecumenical Conference to be held in London in 1901. A document relating to the reading of Scripture in public schools emanating from a joint meeting of members of the committees of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church and the Provincial Synod of the Anglican Church was referred to the Committee on Memorials.

Rev. W. L. Shaw, late Principal of Wesleyan Theological College, and still its chief lecturer, addressed the Conference. His able and earnest words and his work received recognition in a resolution by Dr. Young, heartily endorsed by the whole Conference.

EVENING SESSION.

In the evening the annual missionary meeting was held. It was largely attended. Rev. W. J. Jolliffe, B.C.L., delivered a most earnest and effective address. He claimed that Christianity, faith and love would master the missionary problem. As the speaker came to the opening up of Africa and said "they cannot coerce Anglo-Saxons who are free on the basis of the Bible," he was greeted afresh with tremendous applause. He was followed by Rev. Dr. Cade, of Millbrook, who traced the development of the former dark places of the earth. The choir furnished most excellent music during the service.

ADVERTISE IN THE REVIEW

BAD REPORT FROM ACCRA.

Sir Frederick Mitchell Hodgson Said to Have Been Compelled to Surrendered.

London, June 9. — According to a despatch to The Daily Mail from Accra, dated June 8, a native rumor is in circulation there that Sir Frederick Mitchell Hodgson, Governor of Gold Coast Colony, made a sortie from Coomassie, where he had been besieged by the Ashantees, but was forced to retire and ultimately to surrender.

SIR F. M. HODGSON.

Mail advices from Accra dated May 17, says: "Fifty thousand Ashantees are in arms and the insurrection is spreading. It is impossible for white men to go into the interior successfully during the rainy season."

FOUR MEN DEAD, 200 ENTOMBED.

Explosion of Gas in a Colliery at Gloucester—175 Men Rescued.

Gloucester, Ohio, June 9. — By an explosion of gas yesterday in mine No. 2, a colliery near this city, four men are reported to have lost their lives. Two hundred miners were imprisoned. One hundred and seventy-five have been rescued.

The following are reported dead: Evan Joseph, fire boss; John McLelland, Aaron Swanson and John Evans, miners.

Shortly after 7 o'clock, when the mine was filling up with workers who had descended by means of the cage of No. 2 shaft, an explosion of gas occurred, which broke the timbers of the mine in every direction.

The air fans were disarranged, and it was some time before any progress was made toward opening the way for the rescue of the imprisoned men.

It is supposed the explosion was caused by an electric spark from one of the ventilating fans touching off a pocket of gas which had gathered during the night.

Grant's Wish.

General Grant was popularly supposed to be habitually grave, reserved and taciturn, but on occasion was very vivacious in conversation, with a keen sense of dry, quiet humor.

One evening after a stag dinner at the White House the company assembled in the library to smoke. Talk fell upon the happiest period of life—childhood, youth, manhood, age.

Grant listened, but said nothing till asked for his opinion.

"Well," he replied after a pause, "I believe I would like to be born again," which indicated that he found existence enjoyable all the way through.—John J. Ingalls in Saturday Evening Post.

He Wanted to Know.

The young reporter had had it impressed upon him that when he was sent to see a man he must see him. Some hours of waiting on various occasions had developed in him the stereotyped phrase, "Can you tell me how long I'll have to wait?" One night he was sent to inquire about a prominent man who was reported to be ill. Arriving at the house, he was informed that Mr. Blank was extremely ill, in fact it was feared that he was dying.

"Can you tell me how long I'll have to wait?" he asked

Trading Stamps Illegal

Trading stamps are henceforth illegal in New York State, the Governor having signed the bill last week. The law now says that anyone is guilty of a misdemeanor who shall "issue trading stamps or other devices to any person engaged in any trade, business or profession, with the promise, express or implied, that he will give to the person presenting to him such stamps or other devices, money or anything of value, without receiving from that person the value thereof, or make any concession or preference in any way on account of the presentation of such trading stamps.—Monetary Times.

GEN. BULLER AGAIN AT WORK

He Is Now Shaping His Forces to Seize Laing's Nek.

No News Has Been Received From Lord Roberts at Pretoria for Three Days—One Thousand British Prisoners Were Told They Were Being Sent to Lord Roberts, But They Were Conveyed to Nootigedacht—Canadians Who Kicked

London, June 9. — (3.15 a.m.) — Gen. Buller has at length taken the offensive, and by manoeuvring he has secured a position west of Laing's Nek, by which he believes he can make the Boer positions untenable. Presumably he will immediately follow up his success.

No News From Roberts.

Lord Roberts has communicated nothing for three days, nor permitted the correspondents to wire what is going on. London's inference is that he is resting, although he is possibly disposing his army for a reach after Commandant-General Botha.

A Blockade of the Wires.

A blockade of the wires, owing to the rush of official correspondence, may account for the scanty press despatches. Some telegrams filed a week ago are only now arriving. Among these are spirited descriptions of the fighting at Elandsfontein. According to one of them the streets were filled with women and children. Rifle shots could be heard everywhere. The British soldiers would stop firing and join the chase after chickens. The burghers surrendered to any one; kaffirs went about looting the Jewish stores, and mounted infantry galloped hither and thither.

Lied to the Prisoners.

The Daily Express has the following from Pretoria, dated Wednesday: "The one thousand prisoners who were deported from Waterval were told that they were about to be given up to Lord Roberts. They entrained cheerfully and were conveyed to Nooitgedacht, instead of Pretoria.

"Gen. Louis Botha, with a rear guard of 2,000, left Pretoria during the night. The British advance guard entering on the very heels of the retiring Boers. Botha has sworn to carry on the war in the mountains."

Crowd Waited for Kruger.

At Lorenzo Marquez Station a crowd waited all Thursday night to see President Kruger, as it was reported he would arrive by special train to gain an asylum on board the Netherlands' cruiser Friesland.

Middleburg is said to be full of Boer refugees and wounded. The railway still delivers goods at Bronkhorst Spruit, 40 miles east of Pretoria.

A British column is at Bremersdorp Swaziland. Eleven British prisoners have been taken to Middleburg. The British at Beira are moving into the interior in detachments of 200 daily.

The Boers in the western part of the Transvaal are giving up their rifles to Gen. Hunter.

Kick From Canadians.

Mr. Harold G. Parsons, federation delegate from West Australia, writes to the morning papers to protest against the treatment giving wounded Canadians: He says:

"The invalids at Shorncliffe camp returned from the front complain that they are badly fed, unhealthily crowded and refused a furlough. This seems a curious return to make for their conspicuous services, voluntarily rendered. I have it on indisputable authority, that it is the practice of the War Office to administer the British volunteer, and, for all I know, the regular army by means of regulations drafted and issued in great part on no better authority than that of its promoted second-class clerks, a body of gentlemen, no doubt, of irreproachable character, but men by no means adapted by their intelligence or education to be entrusted with so great a responsibility.

"Such a delegation of authority, which is unconstitutional, as well as unbusiness-like, is in itself enough to show that the whole War Office, from top to bottom, must be reformed, if not re-constituted after the war."

Strathcona Settled It.

The Daily Chronicle, referring to the protest of Mr. Harold G. Parsons against the treatment given the wounded Canadians, says: "That Strathcona has investigated the complaint of the men and that the matter has been settled satisfactorily, furlough being granted.

To Arrange Annexation Details.

Mr. G. W. Fiddes, Imperial Secretary of the High Commissioner, with a part of Sir Alfrid Milner's staff, left Cape Town Tuesday evening for Pretoria possibly, as the Cape correspondent of The Daily News thinks, to arrange the annexation details.

CABLE FROM BULLER.

A Dashing Assault Planned and Carried Out by Gen. Hildyard.

London, June 9. — The War Office has received the following despatch from Gen. Buller:

"Yellow Boom Farm, June 8.—On June 6, Gen. Talbot Coke, with the 10th Brigade and the South African Light Horse seized Van Wyke Hill. The enemy made some resistance and a good deal of sniping occurred. Our casualties were about four killed and 18 wounded.

"During that day and the following we got two 4.7 and two 12-pounder naval guns on Van Wyke Hill and two five-inch guns on to the southwestern spur of Inkewelo.

Hildyard's Dashing Assault.

"Under cover of their fire, General Hildyard to-day assaulted all the spurs of the Berg between Botha's Pass and Inkewelo. The attack, which was planned by Hildyard and carried out with immense dash by the troops, for whom no mountains were too steep, outflanked the enemy, who were forced to retire from their very strong position. I think we did not have any casualties: and I hope I have obtained a position from which I can render Laing's Nek untenable."

Visit to Kruger's Home.

London, June 9. — A belated special despatch from Pretoria describes the visit made by officers of Lord

LIFE..

A question of great interest for intending insurers is which Canadian Life Company is in highest favor with the insuring Canadian public? The following table is a good indicator:

Name of Company.	Commenced Business.	Canadian Business Written in 1899
North American	1881	$4,834 505
Sun Life	1871	3,996,865

The above are the five leading Canadian Companies and although the North American is much the youngest in years, she is outstripping all her rivals in the Canadian field.

Itching Piles

A Fearfully Bad Case—Much Pain and Acute Misery From the Terrible Itching—Cured by Dr. Chase's Ointment.

It is doubtful if any remedy ever received so much grateful, unsolicited testimony as Dr. Chase's Ointment. The reason is not far to seek, for it is the only preparation known to man which never fails to cure piles.

Mr. F. G. Harding, a retired farmer, living at Nilestown, Middlesex county, Ont., writes as follows:—"I have been troubled with bleeding and itching piles for four or five years, and suffered intense agony at times. I had tried almost everything, but could get nothing that would give relief. On hearing of Dr. Chase's Ointment I procured a box, and it only required part of it to completely cure me. I am recommending it to all afflicted as I was."

Such incontrovertible evidence from responsible persons cannot, for a moment, be doubted. A few applications of Dr. Chase's Ointment will convince the most [illegible] of its wonderful healing and soothing influence. SATURDAY, JUNE 9, 1900.

CANADIANS WILL NOT TOLERATE IT.

What do the Canadian people think of Tarte's friend, Mr. Bourassa, Liberal M. P., after his speech in the House against the message congratulating Her Majesty on the success of the war in South Africa? Does it not strike all true Canadians that it is high time that the Government should send from among its members a man who has such friends and uses them at such a time and in such a way. Tarte with his "Vive la France" speeches and pro-Boer interviews and his friend Bourassa with his anti-British speeches in the Canadian Parliament should not be tolerated by a Canadian Government for a moment. The Government that keeps such a man as Minister and assists the other in his elections as a supporter should be driven from office by the truly loyal, the truly patriotic Canadian people, who are not called upon to be misrepresented by such dangerous and fire brand politicians, even though they be elevated to Cabinet rank because of their ability as campaigners among their compatriots at election time. Canada cannot have such men in high office just for the sake of giving the Liberals a crafty and a cunning campaign manager. The whole Government will go.

THAT OIL LEGISLATION.

The Mail and Empire brings home to the Government the responsibility for the legislation which made the Standard Oil monopoly possible in Canada. Mr. Fielding does not desire to accept responsibility for the legislation which allowed oil to be brought into the country in tanks and would blame it on the members of Parliament.

The Mail and Empire says the legislation which made the monopoly and raised prices of oil is curiously accounted for by the Minister who denied it. He says:—

"No one urged the Government to bring in the legislation except members of Parliament anxious to give the people cheap oil. The legislation was largely the result of an agitation in the Lower Provinces, which were interested in water transportation, and thought they had a right to tank steamers."

This statement is queer, says our contemporary, because the only member of Parliament who spoke upon the subject was Mr. Lister, and he stated that the legislation would create a monopoly and make oil much dearer.

It is queer again because, instead of there having been a demand from the Lower Provinces for tank steamers, there was a petition a few years ago against them; the petitioners, who were business men, pointed out that the Standard Oil Company's steamers would deprive Canadian vessels of a great deal of trade.

The statement is queerer still for the reason that Mr. Fielding's budget speech contradicts it. Mr. Fielding said in that speech (Hansard, 1897, page 1,114):—

"We propose to make another change, which is especially sought by the trade, to abolish the restrictions which now exist in regard to oil from tank steamers. If the trade desire to use tank vessels there is no reason why dealers should not be permitted to do so."

It was "the trade," not the members of Parliament and not the Lower Provinces, that wanted this privilege. What trade? The trade that could use tank steamers; and the only "trade" that could use these steamers was the Standard Oil Company, which alone owns them.

Read the information regarding the [illegible] case in another column, and see if you do not think corruption has become worse than a disease with the present Liberal leaders.

Laurier is with his friend Tarte on all occasions; Tarte is with his friend Bourassa. Canadians are not compelled to have such men to the front as Bourassa and Tarte, and Sir Wilfrid will have to take the consequence of the company he keeps. Disloyal Bourassa and his friend Tarte are not desired by Canadians among their representative men.

It is now [illegible] that Mr. Sifton's hearing is improved and he will return to Canada shortly. He will probably still have a deaf ear for the demands for an investigation into his shameful administration of the Yukon, but though his hearing was worse than it has ever been he will be able to hear the people when they speak at the general elections in the fall.

The Liberals once in power seem to have taken to corruption on a wholesale plan in the endeavor to keep the reins. But it is one way that does not commend itself to the people, and once exposed on such a general scale as in the case of the Liberals at present, there are a sufficient number of independent voters ready to mark their ballots against such methods to defeat and send from office the men who were to profit by it.

Probably Mr. Bourassa will demand that he be given one of Mr. Borden's farce Colonelcies, so that his pro-Boer and anti-British speeches may gain even wider notice because of the added importance "Colonel" would give to his name. If he wants to be colonel his friend Tarte will get it for him, and Canadians would be further humiliated by having a Canadian M. P. and a colonel, as well, quoted by our foreign foes as being hostile to Britain. This Bourassa-Tarte combination on this Boer war question has been worked beyond the limits, and, if the Laurier Government is truly Canadian and has any real strength, it will sit most effectively on Mr. Bourassa and his friend, "Hon." Mr. Tarte.

The patronage distributors in East Peterborough have had their own way pretty well on the Trent Canal, where under Liberal rule there are sand inspectors, cement inspectors, timber inspectors, stone inspectors, and so on over a long list of officials who have been largely chosen by the Liberal member for East Peterborough or his right supporter. And now the same influence wins in the Custom House appointment!

It pays to oppose your party some times and denounce them and get after some of the local leaders. This is the conclusion some of the faithful among the Liberals will reach when they read of the appointment to the deputy collectorship at the custom house.

THE WHEELS OF LIFE

Made to Run Smoothly and Pleasantly by Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

There is no other Cure for Dyspepsia, Indigestion and all other Stomach Troubles—Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets Never Fail.

Wheels! Wheels! All the world on wheels! Everyone, men, women and children, are talking "wheel talk." These paragraphs are a short talk on wheels also—but on the most important kind—the Wheels of Life.

The wheels of life must run smoothly, if we are to live as it was intended we should. There must be no breaks, no snapping of chains, no worn belts, no weak spots. If there are, we pay the penalty in pain.

The wheels of life cannot run smoothly if you have Dyspepsia. It's like trying to ride a bicycle with a punctured tire, or broken bearings. If your tire has been punctured, you may mend it. In many cases, if you have Dyspepsia or Indigestion, you don't heed it. As time goes on, it grows worse and worse, until, at last, it wrecks your health completely. Then you spend hundreds of dollars in trying to cure it, when you might, if you had taken it in time, have cured it quickly and easily, for a dollar or two.

The only way you can cure Dyspepsia, satisfactorily and permanently, no matter what stage it may be in, is by using Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets cure all Stomach Diseases. This is a simple statement of an incontrovertible fact. It cannot be disproved. But it can be easily and quickly proved by the use of the Tablets. If you have Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Biliousness, Heartburn, or any other stomach trouble, buy a box of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, and use them according to directions. They'll cure you.

Resolution of Condolence.

Resolution of sympathy from Court Asphodel, No. 660, to Bro. Jno. Speer, Peterborough:—

Dear Bro.—Whereas it has pleased Divine Providence to remove from your home a kind and loving father, we you brethren desire to extend our deepest sympathy to you and the other members of your family in the great loss you have sustained and would commend you to the protection of our Heavenly Father who has promised to be a Father to the fatherless.

Signed on behalf of the Court:—

JNO. PATTERSON, C.R.,
W. D. STEVINSON, Sec.
WM. KNOX, Fin-Sec.

Where are the Skeptics?

In spite of all the evidence published in the daily press and even in spite of the testimony of your best friends you may still be skeptical regarding the unusual virtues of Dr. Chase's Ointment. Nothing short of an actual trial will prove to you beyond the possibility of doubt that Dr. Chase's Ointment is an absolute cure for piles. A single box will be sufficient to make you as enthusiastic as your neighbor in praising Dr. Chase's Ointment, for it is certain to cure you.

Dodd's Kidney Pills are the only medicine that will cure Diabetes. Like Bright's Disease this disease was incurable until Dodd's Kidney Pills cured it. Doctors themselves confess that without Dodd's Kidney Pills they are powerless against Diabetes. Dodd's Kidney Pills are the first medicine that ever cured Diabetes. Imitations—box, name and pill, are advertised to do so, but the medicine that does cure is Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's Kidney Pills are fifty cents a box at all druggists.

Diabetes

GEN. BULLER AGAIN AT WORK

Roberts' staff to the presidency on Tuesday, June 5. It says:

We were received by a Dutch pastor, and shortly were joined by Mrs. Kruger. The latter wore a black silk dress and a white cap. She composedly exchanged greetings with her visitors, who notified her of their intention to replace the burgher guards by a guard of British troops. The burghers thereupon laid down their arms on the asphalted porch of the building near the lions guarding the entrance.

The British Closing In.

Cape Town, June 8. — Gen. Warren, with a strong force, including the Canadian artillery, is reaching north through Griqualand West. He encamped at Campbell yesterday, no opposition being offered. Numbers of the rebels are handing in their arms to the British commander.

Plumer Occupied Zeerust.

Mafeking, Tuesday, May 29. — Col. Plumer occupied Zeerust yesterday without opposition. This district is regaining its normal condition. Supplies are arriving daily.

Feeling the Enemy.

Hammonia, Orange River Colony, June 8. — Gen. Rundle made a strong demonstration against the Boer positions, employing 500 of Gen. Brabant's Queenstown Mounted Rifles, two guns and the Cape Mounted Infantry, under Col. Dalgetty. The Boer outposts were driven back and their laager was located, but the troops returned without a battle.

Advising Kruger to Settle.

Lorenzo Marquez, June 8. — United States Consul Hollis, who returned here yesterday from the Transvaal by special train, had a two hours' interview in close conference with President Kruger at Machadorp. It is stated that Mr. Hollis was the bearer of friendly despatches from the United States Government, urging Mr. Kruger to treat for peace.

British Prisoners as Hostages.

London, June 9. — The driblets of news filtering from Transvaal fail to throw much light on the situation in and around Pretoria. Public interest centres largely in the fate of the British prisoners, but it seems probable that about 3,500 have been recovered, including 129 officers. The Federals, therefore, have removed about a thousand as hostages.

Chicago Fenians Anxious.

Chicago, June 9. — Efforts are being made by Chicagoans interested in the welfare of the members of the ambulance corps that left Chicago to serve in South Africa to locate the corps. Col. John F. Finerty, one of the men who helped form the corps, last night despatched a cablegram to Pretoria, asking for the whereabouts of the Chicago Irishmen. There have been all sorts of disquieting rumors in regard to the corps. One is that several members of the corps have been killed or wounded.

LONDON PAPERS ON BOURASSA.

Men of the Same Stamp in the British Parliament.

London, June 9. — The Times, commenting on the scene in the House of Commons at Ottawa Thursday night, when the address to Her Majesty was passed, says that there are no better judges of the results of British rule than Her Majesty's Canadian subjects.

The St. James' Gazette alludes to the speech of Henri Bourassa, M.P. for Labelle, made after the address was moved, and says: "Just as we in England possess our Courtneys and our Clarks, so the Canadian Parliament has its Bourassa."

The Daily Chronicle remarks: "The scene in the Canadian Parliament should be pondered on by our Conciliation Committee."

Capt. Harrison of the Canadian Mounted Rifles is still dangerously ill of enteric fever at Wynberg.

Colonel Herchmer left Cape Town for England on May 31, in charge of the sick and wounded on the transport Montford.

OUR TRADE WITH BRITAIN.

Canadian Cheese Fell Off Somewhat and Butter Enormously.

London, June 9. — During the month of May the imports from Canada to Great Britain consisted of 6,725 head of cattle, valued at £112,680; 267 sheep and lambs, valued at £534; 482,300 cwt. of wheat, valued at £163,572; 51,800 cwt. of wheat meal and flour, valued at £26,675; 43,400 cwt. of peas, valued at £14,091; 52,314 cwt. of bacon, valued at £106,143; 14,788 cwt. of ham, valued at £32,722; 621 cwt. of butter, valued at £2,710; 26,225 cwt. of cheese, valued at £68,672; and 115 horses, valued at £3,450. The total value of imports amounts to £1,036,212. The exports totalled £377,738. Compared with May of 1898 and 1899, an enormous decrease in the import of butter is shown. There is also a slight decrease in the imports of cheese, but a large increase in bacon.

Canada's new G.O.C., Col. O'Grady Haly, will arrive in Canada about the middle of July.

What You Pay For Medicine

Is no Test of Its Curative Value—Prescriptions Versus Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are just as much a doctor's prescription as any formula your family physician can give you. The difference is that Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills were perfected after the formula had proven itself of inestimable value in scores of hundreds of cases.

Dr. Chase won almost as much popularity from his ability to cure kidney disease, liver complaint, and backache, with this formula, as he did from the publication of his great recipe book.

The idea of one treatment reaching the kidneys and liver at the same time was original with Dr. Chase. It accounts for the success of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills in curing the most complicated ailments of the filtering organs, and every form of backache.

As a family medicine Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are unapproached. They keep the [illegible] er, and bowels [illegible] rder, and [illegible] of the [illegible] subject. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Heat and Cold

Are never-failing causes of disease. At this season of the year neuralgia, toothache, and a host of similar diseases are rampant. The great question then, is to find the quickest, surest, and most economical remedy. Polson's Nerviline exactly fills these requirements. It is prompt, efficient and most economical, for it exceeds in power every known remedy, and is as cheap as inferior articles. A 10 cent sample bottle will give every person a chance to test it. Large bottles only 25 cents.

THE ROYAL BOX.

The Duke of Connaught is today, next to the queen, the most popular member of the royal family. His popularity among the soldiers is only equaled by that of Lord Roberts.

Queen Victoria appears to have passed through the excitement and grief caused by the early reverses of the South African war in excellent shape. She is now reported in good health.

Archduchess Stephanie of Austria, now the Countess Lonyay, and the Empress Frederick of Germany are the only royal patronesses of yacht clubs. The former is the head of the Egyit Balaton Fured, while the dowager empress is the august chief of the Nordeutscher Regatta Verein.

Queen Wilhelmina has an appetite that would do credit to any peasant in her domain, and no dainty things find favor with her. She will have roast beef, mutton and fillet of beef and rump steak as her regular diet and at her feasts on great occasions also if she can have her own way.

ELECTRIC SPARKS.

In Indiana there are 14,902 miles of telephone and telegraph wires, valued for taxation at $4,605,690.

Some time next year a person will be able to speak from the Atlantic seaboard to Pacific coast towns by telephone.

The Electrical Review says that, so far as is known, no person ever committed suicide by voluntary contact with an electric current.

Almost all the towns in Siberia are having arc lights for street use and incandescent lights for houses, and the larger proportion of the people of Siberia have never seen gas, which they regard as an illuminant of a past age.

Take Your Choice.

Some discussion has arisen in London as to the proper way of pronouncing the historic Huguenot name Bosanquet. At a recent meeting of lawyers a slip was passed around for suggestions. One clever little man wrote at once:

> Take a B, two O's and K;
> Sealed—you have your Bosanquet.

Another, a sporting man, wrote:

> Lively only at a banquet
> Is the barrister Bosanquet.

Sir Frank Lockwood, who had a turn at the sheet, wrote:

> You will get no hanky panky
> From the barrister Bosanquet.

The bearer of the name must be in a good deal of doubt how to call himself.

Dyspepsia's Victims.

THE CAUSE OF THE TROUBLE AND HOW TO OVERCOME IT.

It Frequently Produces Headache, Heartburn, Dizziness and Other Distressing Symptoms—A Victim Tells of Her Release.

From the Telegraph, Quebec.

The primary cause of indigestion or dyspepsia is lack of vitality; the absence of nerve force; the loss of the life-sustaining elements in the blood. No organ can properly perform its functions when the source of nutriment fails. When the stomach is robbed of the nutriment demanded by nature, assimilation ceases, unnatural gases are generated and the entire system responds to the discord.

A practical illustration of the symptoms and torture of dyspepsia is furnished by the case of Mrs. A. Labonte, who lives in the village of Stadacona, Que. When interviewed by a reporter of the Quebec Telegraph, Mrs. Labonte looked the picture of vigorous health, showing no traces of the malady that had made her life for the time miserable. Speaking of her illness, Mrs. Labonte said: "For about two years I suffered dreadfully. My digestive organs were impaired, and the food I ate did not assimilate, and left me with a feeling of flatulency, pain and acidity of the stomach, and frequently heartburn. The condition of affairs soon told on my system in other ways, with the result that I had frequent headaches, dizziness, and at times a dimness of vision with spots apparently dancing before my eyes. I became so much run down that it was with difficulty I could do my household work, and at all times I felt weak, depressed and nervous. While I was at my worst, one of my friends, seeing that the doctor was not helping me, urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. My husband then got me half a dozen boxes and I began taking them. After I had used two boxes I began to enjoy my meals and the various symptoms of my trouble began to disappear. I continued the pills until I had used the half dozen boxes, when I again felt perfectly well. My stomach was as healthy as ever it had been. I could sleep well and my head was clear and free from the dizziness and aches that so long helped to make me miserable. It is more than a year since I stopped taking the pills, and health has continued better than it was for years before." Mrs. Labonte added that she will always feel grateful to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for the misery they have released her from, and she always advises friends who are calling to use them.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure by going to the root of the disease. They renew and build up the blood and strengthen the nerves, thus driving disease from the system. Avoid imitations by insisting that every box you purchase is enclosed in a wrapper bearing the full trade mark, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. If your dealer does not keep them they will be sent postpaid at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

SOCIAL IN OTONABEE

A very Enjoyable Evening with the Congregation of St. Mark's

The social held under the auspices of the Women's Auxiliary of St. Mark's, Otonabee, in the Forester's hall at Zion last evening, proved a great success. A large number drove down from town and the programme was furnished almost entirely by town talent.

The Rector, Rev. H. Symonds, was in the chair, and made a short introductory speech and then the following programme was given:—

Mandolin Solo......	Mr. Swan
Recitation...	Mrs. H. E. Bradley
Vocal Solo......	Miss McDonald
Vocal Solo......	Mr. Gilbert Scott
Recitation......	Miss Deyell
Instrumental Solo...	Mr. L. Scott
Baton Swinging......	Mr. Andrews
Recitation......	Mrs. H. E. Bradley
Mandolin Solo......	Mrs. Swan
Vocal Solo......	Miss McDonald
Song......	Mr. Gilbert Scott
Violin Solo......	Mr. Wilson

The numbers were all greatly enjoyed and encores demanded from nearly all taking part. After the programme was over, refreshments were served in the basement of the hall.

Summer Colds

No cold is so hard to cure as the summer cold. It hangs on in spite of all ordinary treatments and frequently develops into consumption. It matters not what means have failed you can rely absolutely on Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine to promptly and thoroughly cure every kind of cough and cold. It is universally used in the best families all over this great continent. 25 cents a bottle. Family size 60 cents.

A Petrified Corpse.

Orillia Times:—A most remarkable discovery was made the other day in the North River, just below Oakley's Falls. Two young lads named Oakley and Spence were in bathing at the bottom of the rapids, and were amusing themselves gathering shells and colored stones from the river bed. While thus engaged, young Spence noticed what appeared to be a human form, embedded in the sand about two feet below the surface of the water. Their curiosity now being aroused to a point calling for an investigation, they set to work, and with some difficulty succeeded in landing what turned out to be a petrified human corpse. The arms and legs were missing, having evidently been broken off. The nose also was lacking. It is the most wonderful petrified specimen ever found in these parts. The owner has already refused some handsome offers for his curiosity, but positively refuses to sell.

When you need medicine you should get the best that money can buy, and experience proves this to be Hood's Sarsaparilla.

A Master of Craft.

That delightful humorist, Mr. W. W. Jacobs, surrounded himself with a host of admirers when he sent out "Many Cargoes," followed by "More Cargoes," and now comes "A Master of Craft" to add to his reputation as a story writer. The title of this new book has more in it then appears before the story is read, for the first conclusion is that it is a sea yarn only; but the main significance of the name works out in the crafty nature of Captain Flower, who combines the unusual blending of hero and villain, though a harmless proportion of each. This burlesque upon villainy consists chiefly in Captain Flower's faculty for becoming engaged to several women at the same time; and the enormous amount of tact required to steer three various courses at once with his single, unsteady land-craft, taxes his ingenuity to the utmost, ending finally in a smash of his mental compass. The book is full of purest fun, and will be hailed from afar by lovers of a good yarn. It has just come from The Copp, Clark Publishing House, Toronto. REVIEWS.

"From the Cab Window," in the Recreation Number of The Outlook, is a spirited and entertaining account of a mountain ride through Colorado, as seen from the locomotive engineer's point of view. The author, Mr. Frank H. Spearman, in "Foley'd Nerve" and other stories, has lately given the reading public the best volume of short stories, dealing with railway life, ever published. William Gillette, the well-known actor and dramatic author, tells, in The Outlook's Recreation Number, of house boat life, as he finds it in his own specially constructed boat. $3 a year. The Outlook Company, New York.

McClure's Magazine for June.—The June number of McClure's is particularly strong and varied in its contents, both as regards fiction and special articles. President Kruger, of the South African Republic, is portrayed in an acute character-study by F. Edmund Garrett, who has had the advantage of personal contact with the remarkable Boer leader, and is thoroughly familiar with his past career, and with the political history of the Boers. Excellent portraits of Kruger and his wife are included. J. Lincoln Steffens, of the New York Commercial Advertiser, relates some striking "incidents of conflict" between Governor Roosevelt and the party leaders, and considers whether his first term as Governor has turned out to be a successful experiment. A fully illustrated article on the Cape Nome Gold Fields, by William J. Lambton, describes life in Nome City, which is the "largest of its age in the world," and gives the latest and exactest information available concerning the possibilities of this new gold region, one that is much richer than even the Klondike. "Experiments in Flying," by O. Chanute, is an account of the author's own flying machines, one of which was so constructed as to maintain successfully a speed of seventeen miles an hour. The article is illustrated from photographs.

Street Incident.

"My Dear Sir," exclaimed Lawyer Bartholomew Livingston, meeting the Rev. Dr. Archibald Windham on the village street, "What does this mean? I thought you were laid up with all sorts of bad diseases!"

"And so I was," replied the reverend gentleman, "I had an attack of indigestion and from that time on my whole system has been in a disordered condition until I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla which has put me on my feet and cured all my stomach troubles."

"I don't doubt it," said the lawyer. "This same medicine cured my wife of rheumatism and my little girl of scrofula. When they say it's the best medicine money can buy, they only tell the truth."

"Yes, yes, so they do," replied the minister, and the two passed on.

EVENING SESSION.

In the evening a great congregation greeted the President and the eleven young men to be received into the ranks of the ministry and on Sunday to be ordained. These have served the church at least five years. The young men are Soford F. Dixon, W. Herbert Clarke, Alfred H. Foster, Archibald R. Delve, Arthur W. Coone, S.T.L., Harry E. Curtis, Jos. M. Whyte, Herbert W. Foley, B.A., W. W. Wagg, Chas. H. Sheppard and Wm. Higgs. Four of these young men told their call to the ministry. Following their words Master Charles McLean, nine years of age, sang a beautiful solo.

Rev. Thos. Manning, B.A., moved the reception of the candidates for ordination in a very able speech. He said that the spirit of the times must bow its respects to the spirit and lessons of the past. This age has introduced nothing in the smallest degree that can shake the doctrines of our church and religion. The minister of the times should meddle with all knowledge, but whether he does so or not he should remember that the fundamental doctrines and the great principles of human action have not just now been conceived; they were born long ago; they are non-changeable. We have probably lost as a church, on the whole, by the higher criticism and social science of the day. We can make this loss good.

Rev. T. M. Campbell in eloquently seconding the resolution, said that this was a ministers' meeting. To-night the young men would be given a social, civil and ecclesiastical standing. Methodism makes her own ministers. We grow them in our own home, educate them in our colleges and train them in our Conferences. We want men of the best breed. They must be so deeply spiritual as to be an unqualified power. Culture and organization are inoperative of themselves. They must, too, be shepherds, and not hirelings.

Dr. Crothers, the President, in an earnest and kindly way called upon the young men to remember that they are preachers of the Gospel. With or without degrees they must be true men and loving pastors, remember their predecessors and successors, and be possessed of common sense and a hope that will brighten the early years of the incoming century. This very interesting service was ended by a solo by Mrs. Renwick, and the benediction.

Against Savage Dogs.

To the Editor of the Review.

Dear Sir,—I beg to call the attention of our authorities to an intolerable nuisance and one fraught with danger, on the busiest part of George-st., which has existed for months, if not for years, and of which the police must have cognizance. There is owned or harbored by some one or more parties a kennel of savage fighting dogs, which are let loose in the daytime, then and there to give vent to their ferocious natures and to pounce upon all and sundry everything in the shape of dog flesh that comes along, and worry and tear the same in the most brutal manner.

Not long ago the writer saw a couple of ladies walking down the street with a poodle dog, when one of these brutes made a dash for it, and with a terrific crunch broke its backbone, although the ladies did their best to save the victim.

Yours, etc.,

The afternoon session at 2.30 opened with devotional exercises led by Rev. J. G. Potter, Mr. J. H. Taylor, President of the Association, presiding as chairman. The Secretary-Treasurer presented a comprehensive report of the work of the association and gave some interesting items compiled from the school reports.

The Home Class Secretary, Miss Nettie Shearer, reported progress in her department of the work. Excellent reports were read by representatives of the different schools. All the reports were of an encouraging nature and indicated that the work was progressing. Rev. J. G. Potter, B.A., conducted a conference on the above reports.

Rev. J. C. Tibb, of Toronto, gave an excellent address on "What a Model Sunday School Must Be."

1.—It must draw our children. 2.—It must hold them. 3.—It must educate them in Bible practices and principles. 4.—It must convert them.

An intensely interesting and instructive address was given by Mrs. Duncan, of Toronto, the subject was "A Peck of R's," and was as follows:—

1.—A prayerful teacher. 2.—A prepared teacher. 3.—A prompt teacher. 4.—Planned work. 5.—A picturing teacher. 6.—A plain teacher. 7.—A patient teacher. 8.—A progressive teacher. 9.—A patterned teacher.

The evening session opened with a bright song service led by Dr. Harrison.

The report of the Nominating Committee was read and adopted.

The officers for the ensuing year are:—

President—Miss Ida Howson.

Vice-President—Mr. C. Hanbidge.

Secretary-Treasurer—Miss Laura Bennett.

Normal Secretary—Mrs. W. D. Sargent.

Primary Secretary—Mrs. Harrison.

Home Class Sec.—Miss Nettie Shearer.

Rep. to County Council—Mr. Andrew Shearer.

All superintendents and co-operating pastors are members of the Executive.

The new President, Miss Ida Howson, was introduced and presided for the remainder of the session.

Splendid addresses were given by Mrs. Duncan and Rev. J. Campbell Tibb, of Toronto.

The convention closed with an impressive consecration service, conducted by Mrs. Duncan.

The interval between the sessions was pleasantly spent in social intercourse, tea being served in a tent adjoining the school house.

There was a good representative attendance at both sessions.

The Association decided to contribute $35 to county and provincial work.

They Struck It Rich.

It was a grand thing for this community that such an enterprising firm as J. Lynch, secured the Agency for Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, the wonderful remedy that has startled the world by its marvellous cures. The furor of enthusiasm over it has boomed their business, as the demand for it is immense. They give free trial bottles to sufferers, and positively guarantee a cure in Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma, Croup, and all Throat and Lung troubles. A trial proves its merit. Price 50c. and $1.00.

How Whitman Helped Childs.

Here is a pleasant story which is known to be true, says The Youth's Companion. The poet Walt Whitman was, as is well known, dependent during most of his life upon the kindness of his friends and admirers for a support. A few years before his death one of these friends called upon him in his little house in Camden, a suburban town of Philadelphia.

"Well, Walt," he said, "how goes it this winter? Any subscription needed for Christmas?"

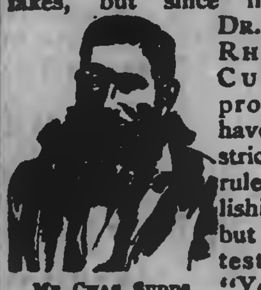
"No," said Whitman. "No, I'm at work now. I'm in the employ of George Childs. He pays me $50 a month."

"You at work! May I ask what is your occupation?"

"Why, I ride in the street cars. I fall into talk with the drivers and conductors and find out which of them have no overcoats and guess at their size and notify Childs, and then he sends the overcoats. It's not hard work," said the poet thoughtfully. "And then, you know, it helps Childs along."

FACTS.

It is a well known fact that most patent medicine "ads" are fakes, but since introducing DR. HALL'S RHEUMATIC CURE the proprietors have adhered strictly to the rule of publishing none but genuine testimonials.



MR. CHAS. SUDDS.

"You are at perfect liberty to use my name if it will be of any benefit to rheumatic sufferers," writes Mr. Charles Sudds (farmer), Simcoe Island. Mr. Sudds says that he suffered untold agony with rheumatism for eight years. The disease affected him in the back, hip, and down the sciatic nerve. The pain and loss of sleep he experienced made life not worth the living He might as well have taken so much water as the various other rheumatic remedies he tried. The truthful aspect of the testimonials in favor of DR. HALL'S RHEUMATIC CURE induced him to try a bottle, and he felt the effects of the first dose. He used half a bottle, and has not had a pain or ache since, although he had been a sufferer for eight years.

Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure is put up in 50 cent bottles containing ten days' treatment. For sale by all druggists and dealers in medicine. The Dr. Hall Medicine Co., Kingston, Ont.

SENATORS ARE ALL LOYAL.

Cheered When the Address to the Queen Was Passed.

Several Government Bills Moved Up a Stage in the House of Commons—A Discussion on the Pacific Cable—The Government Still Working to Secure This Inter-British-Colonial Aid to Trade and Commerce.

Ottawa, June 9. — In the Senate yesterday, the supply bill to pay sessional clerks was read three times and passed.

Senator Perley wanted the indemnity of Senators increased.

The Address to the Queen.

Then the address to the Queen passed by the Commons Thursday was taken up.

Hon. David Mills thought there would be no discordant note. He declared the war had not been begun in a jingo spirit, but in order to preserve the prestige of the Empire. He in detail traced the history of the war. He could not understand how any man or any number of men could sympathize with the Boer system of government. He was pleased that the British were in possession of the capital of the Transvaal. He would further rejoice on the conclusion of peace. He concluded with a tribute to the Queen.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell seconded the address. He left the historical side to Mr. Mills. He anticipated a time of guerilla warfare in the Transvaal but the end would be the predominancy of British power. He wanted a settlement to be effected that would preclude the possibility of the recurrence of war. He believed the result would be a benefit to civilization. It would knit the Empire together. He referred to the part of the Canadians in the surrender of Cronje.

The address passed, and Lord Minto was instructed to forward it to the Queen.

Several bills were passed.

THE PACIFIC CABLE

Discussed in the House on Friday—Sir Wilfrid Promises a Chinese Immigration Bill.

Ottawa, June 9. — In the House yesterday the Pilotage Act was given a stage; and the bill relating to the safety of ships a third reading.

When Mr. Fielding's bill to amend the Civil Service Act came up, it occupied the House all afternoon.

The bill was strongly opposed.

At 9 o'clock the committee arose, reported progress, and got leave to sit again.

The Pacific Cable.

On a motion to go into supply, Mr. Belcourt, representing the Board of Trade of Ottawa read several resolutions relating to the Pacific cable. The resolutions declared it was of inestimable value to have the Pacific cable begun as a State undertaking at once.

Mr. Casey said he was glad the matter had been brought up. He strongly opposed any concessions to the Eastern Telegraph Company. He reminded the House that the proposed Pacific cable was not to be in any sense a private speculation, but was to be a trust, representing the different parts of the Empire.

A Fatal Agreement.

Sir Charles Tupper drew attention to Sir Charles Dilke's statement in the British Commons on May 22, than an agreement was being completed with the Eastern Extension Company. This would be fatal to the Pacific cable, and prove a rational calamity. He did not doubt the Government were alive to this, and would take precaution.

No Further Information.

Mr. Mulock had no further official information than what the House was in possession of. He had seen newspaper reports. The pacific Cable Commission was negotiating for a contract, and he could not believe that they would be doing this if such an agreement as Dilke referred to was in existence, nor could he believe that Canada would not have been informed of it in that case. He looked to a speedy completion of the Pacific cable. He agreed that the failure of the scheme would be a national calamity. The Government would not relax in their efforts until the scheme was carried out.

Chinese Immigration.

Col. Prior brought up the question of Chinese immigration, urging legislation to suppress it.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said a bill would be placed on the order paper on Monday, dealing with the subject.

The House went into supply, taking up Dominion lands estimates.

The Yukon Police.

Mr. Foster allowed the estimates to go through. On a vote of $500,000 for the Mounted Police for the Yukon, Mr. Foster asked for an explanation on Col. Steele's recall.

The Prime Minister could not tell him, as the police were under Mr. Sifton's control.

Mr. Foster made a severe criticism. That was what he wanted to know. He would rather the police were under Sir Wilfrid than Sifton.

The House rose at 12.45.

World's Temperance Congress.

London, June 9. — The World's Temperance Congress will open in London next Monday under the presidency of the Most Rev. Frederick Temple, Archbishop of Canterbury, who will deliver an address, and who, on the following Thursday, will entertain the members of the congress at a garden party at Lambeth Palace. The Lord Mayor, Mr. A. J. Newton, will give a reception to the delegates next Friday.

Major Drummond is again acting as secretary to Lord Minto.

Through Children's Eyes.

Elizabeth Harrison, in her "Study of Child Nature," says that children begin to learn the intellectual value of words as soon as they are familiar with them in their material relations. "Sweet," "sour," "rough," "crooked," as applied to character, mean something to them when they have investigated them first through the senses.

Occasionally they translate the new meaning rashly and make laughable mistakes. One morning we had hyacinth bulbs; we examined them and then compared them with the blossoming hyacinths on the window sill.

A day or two later an onion was brought in to us by a child, as another fat, round flower baby for us to plant. I had some difficulty in making the children see the difference, but finally, cutting the onion open, I blinded their eyes and let them smell first the flower bulb and then the onion bulb. An hour or two later one of the little girls spoke in an irritated, petulant voice to her neighbor, who had accidentally knocked over her blocks.

"Look out," said the little one on the other side of her, "or you'll have an onion voice soon!"

The Force of Heredity.

A college professor in Maine tells how he convinced a friend who did not believe that beavers could build dams. He bought a baby beaver of a hunter and sent it to his skeptical friend.

The creature became a great pet in the house, but showed no signs of wanting to build a dam until one Monday morning a leaky pail full of water was put on the floor of the back kitchen. The beaver was there. He was only a baby, to be sure, but the moment he saw the water oozing out of a crack in the pail he scampered into the yard, brought in a chip and began his work.

His owner was called and watched the little fellow, very much astonished at what he saw. He gave orders to have the pail left where it was, and the industrious beaver kept at his work four weeks, when he had built a solid dam all around the pail.

Feminine Curiosity.

"Mr. Dolley, won't you let me look at your watch a little while?"

"Certainly, Miss Flypp. Do you want to consult the time?"

"No," repplied the girl, as she opened it and examined its case and works. "I was curious to see if water tarnished gold or had any effect on the watch's delicate mechanism."

"Water? What do you mean?"

"Well, Mr. Hunker told me you were in the habit of soaking your watch. What is the object of such treatment, Mr. Dolley?"—Harlem Life.

Deceptive Appearances.

The One—Now, you wouldn't think that shabby old fellow coming across the street was worth $1,000,000, would you?

The Other—No; I would not. I should say about $100,000. He doesn't look poverty stricken enough for a millionaire.—Indianapolis Press.

The whole of the celebrated forests of Vallombrosa in Italy was planted by the patient and industrious monks of St. Benedict during the dark ages.

"A prudent man," says a witty Frenchman, "is like a pin. His head prevents him from going too far."

THE PERPLEXING INITIALS

To the Uninitiated They Are Apt to Be Somewhat Confusing.

"I just arrived in Washington today. In fact, I am a stranger in the capital," he said to a citizen on Pennsylvania avenue.

"Yes?" answered the citizen interrogatively, at the same time putting his hand on his watch chain and conjuring up pictures of piles of gold bricks and wads of the imitation "long green" lying around loose on the asphalt.

"Yes. I never saw such tall buildings before," he continued, with a wave of the hand toward the postoffice and The Star building. "I come down from the mountains," he added explanatorily. "You don't mind my asking you a few questions about something which has worried me mightily?"

"Not a bit of it, my friend. We are only too glad to be of service to strangers. Drive ahead."

"Well, it's these perplexing Virginia rail fence initials. I suppose you people who live here understand 'em, but I'll be goldarned if the stranger within your gates comprehends what they mean. Is it a fair assumption that 'U. S. A.' and 'U. S. N.' mean, or stand for, the United States army and navy respectively?"

"It is."

"Well, does 'U. S. M. C.' stand for United States member of congress or United States metallic carriage?"

"United States marine corps."

"Oh, the marines of ancient equine affiliations and Boston food, eh? Well, well! I just passed two young officers in uniform who had the letters 'U. S. N. R. D. C.' and 'U. S. N. G. D. C.' in gilt letters on their cut off coat collars. I don't dare to even think what those young chaps represent. What is it?"

"Oh, they were officers in the naval reserve and the national guard of the District of Columbia."

"Well, does that wagon there with the letters 'U. S. S. H.' painted on its side belong to the government hospital for sailors?"

"Not much. That floors every new man that comes to town. Those letters stand for the United States Soldiers' home."

"And there is another wagon, Mr. Hanna's private carriage, for it has 'G. O. P.' painted on its sides. They say up my way he is the head and front of the 'grand old party.'"

"'Grand old party' nothing!" cried the citizen pityingly. "That wagon belongs to the government printing office."

"I suppose 'P. O. D.' means pay on delivery' and 'B. E. and P.' stands for Boston, Engleside and Potomac railroad?"

"Not on your life. Those wagons are attached to the postoffice department and to the bureau of engraving and printing."

"Does 'C. L.' mean that that wagon carries the patients of the commissioner of lunacy around town?"

"We haven't any such official. That combination represents the Congressional library, and the wagon totes books."

"Well, my accommodating friend, I'll floor you now. Coming down Pennsylvania avenue, the one following the other, were two delivery wagons with this text on each respectively: 'U. S. S. D. R.' and 'H. R. D. R.' What sort of a policy play can you make out of those letters?"

"Oh, that's easy—just United States senate document room and house of representatives document room."

"Well, if I hadn't been told I'd said those letters stood for United States steamship Daughter Rose' and the other for 'Humble Roger's Daughter Ruth.' Many thanks for your information."

"Don't mention it."

A VALUABLE WILD BEAST.

The Gorilla Is Hard to Capture and Always In Demand.

"At the present time there is no wild animal in such great demand for exhibition purposes as the gorilla," said a dealer in all kinds of wild beasts in New York to the writer the other day. "A full grown gorilla stands about 4 feet 6 inches high and is worth from $1,200 to $1,500. They sell easily for such prices, owing to the fact that they are rare and very difficult to capture. Chiefs in the interior of Africa have been offered large sums if they would succeed in catching one of these beasts. Numbers of little gorillas have been captured at various times, but they have always pined away and died in a short time. The chief difficulty about the capture of the gorilla is that he lives in very unhealthy districts, where fevers prevail.

"A white man has to fight the climate as well as the animals. In addition to the well known ferocity of the gorilla, he is regarded with a superstitious awe by the natives, who have a legend to the effect that this terrible beast carries away the women to the jungles. They also regard the gorilla as endowed with supernatural powers. Two men sent out last year by a well known German firm that deals in wild beasts perished in the wilds of Africa while seeking gorillas.

"It may seem surprising to an American, equipped with all the appliances of science for the subjugation of the animal kingdom, that it is almost impossible to capture and cage a gorilla. But if his fearful strength is considered and his wonderful shyness it will prove to be not so much a matter of surprise at all. All kinds of suggestions have been made to hunters with regard to the devices to be used, such as traps, pitfalls and like appliances, but none of these has proved to be successful.

"One of the largest gorillas ever captured belongs to the zoological gardens in London. The animal stands 4 feet 9 inches high. It is so valuable that offers of $1,800 and $2,000 have been made without acceptance."

One Whale With Teeth.

Speaking of whales, an old whaler says there are 27 kinds, but one of which has teeth. The others are provided with long layers of bone in the jaws [illegible] are baleen [illegible] from the [illegible] wheat [illegible]. This is the only food on which the huge animal lives. He says that the throat of a whale is but the size of a man's fist. The mouth, however, will hold 25 people, and it is on this account that many think the whale takes in hundreds of barrels of water. Although the ear of a whale is but the size of a finger tip, he says he has known them to distinguish sounds at a distance of 15 miles.—Denver Republican.

MANY BOXERS SLAUGHTERED

The Chinese Troops and the Rebels Encounter Each Other.

London Morning Papers Are Printing Long Editorials About the Situation—Concerted Action of the Powers Would Soon Settle It—Refugees Continually Seeking an Asylum—To Kill Without Mercy All Foreign Soldiers.

London, June 9. — The morning papers linger over the Chinese situation, publishing long editorials, reviews and conjectures.

United States Should Act.

The Daily Mail reasserts its position of yesterday, that the United States, as the friend of Russia and Great Britain, would be able to impose order without alliances or jealousies.

Sir Halliday Macortney, English secretary of the Chinese Legation in London, says that the concerted action of the powers will save the situation in China, adding that the end of the disturbance is in sight, and that soon all will be over.

Powers Acting Together.

The representatives of the powers are still acting in perfect concert, which appears for the present to give the Chinese Government ample chance to put down the disturbers alone. The Tien Tsin correspondent of The Daily Mail, telegraphing June 7, says:

"For the last three days the whole community of Tien Tsin has been preparing to defend itself against an expected attack by the Boxers. There is a continual influx of refugees from the surrounding country, who are now crowding the city. This increases the excitement. Nearly all the villages surrounding Tien Tsin are joining the Boxers' movement, which is taking more and more a fanatical character.

Foreigners Are Driven Back.

"Parties of foreigners, when approaching the villages, are driven back by armed bands. Yesterday the Chinese troops were ordered to Machang, on the Grand Canal, within 20 miles of which a large body of Boxers is reporyted to be collecting. Attempts to re-establish the regular working of the Pekin-Tien Tsin railway havs hitherto proved futile. Every night the Boxers set fire to the sleepers and the woodwork of the bridges.

"Gen. Neih seems bent upon acting with energy, and dealing out heavy blows to the rebels, recognizing the necessity of destroying the prestige of the Boxers, which has begun to demoralize his army.

Secret Orders From Pekin.

"Secret orders from Pekin, the protector of the rebels, has paralyzed military action and raised the status of the Boxers in the eyes of the ignorant masses. Although the Boxers declare their first object to be the annihilation of Catholic converts, the wire pullers evidently wish to propagate hatred among the country people against foreigners and things foreign in general. The movement on the surface has a patriotic character, but it may turn ultimately against the dynasty. This seems to be the reason why it has thus far been treated with a gentle hand."

The legations at Pekin have wired for reinforcements.

No Definite Returns.

Definite returns regarding the severe fighting between the Chinese troops and the Boxers that was going on on Thursday between Tien Tsin and Pekin had not been received at Tien Tsin when the latest telegrams to reach London were filed. The Chinese troops, however, had killed many Boxers, according to some reports, while another account had the Government soldiery defeated in an engagement near Pao Ting Fu.

Foreigners Have Not Fought.

Apparently the legation guards have not yet taken a hand in the fighting, but they are ready to do so at a moment's notice. The Boxer movement affects some hundreds of square miles. Official despatches to Vienna from Pekin aver that the sect is more powerful than any political party in China, embracing no less than 4,000,000 people, and manipulated by zealous and adroit men.

Slaughter of Boxers.

Tien Tsin, June 8. — It is reported from Chinese official sources that 4,000 Boxers surrounded 1,500 Chinese troops between Iofa and Yong Tson yesterday, and, according to the latest news, fighting is still going on this morning. Officials say that 500 Boxers were killed, but give no account of the Chinese casualties. Thirty of Gen. Nieh's troops encountered a body of Boxers three miles from here on the Taku road and killed 21 of them.

Orders to Kill Without Mercy.

Moscow, June 8. — A despatch from Pekin says the chief commander of the Boxers, Shun Hung Chang, a notorious ex-bandit, has issued a proclamation commanding his followers to kill foreign soldiers without quarter. The Chinese soldiery and peasantry in large numbers are joining the ranks of the Boxers.

Killed in Lindsay Power House.

Lindsay, Ont., June 9. — A fatal accident happened here yesterday forenoon in the power house of the Light, Heat and Power Company. Mr. J. Poole, engineer, was engaged near the switchboard, when, it appears, his back came in contact with a switch, and instant death resulted. He was unmarried, and about 30 years of age. His relatives live at Dunsford, Ont.

Two Men Fell a Hundred Feet.

Hawkesbury, Ont., June 9.—While working on the new Great Northern Railway bridge across the Ottawa about 5 o'clock yesterday, two men fell 100 feet into the rapids. An eddy brought one of the men to shore uninjured, but his companion, Michael Focoult, was carried down the river. The body has not been found.

ST. LOUIS CAR RIOTS.

A Photographer Shot and Fatally Wounded While Riding on the Rear Platform of a Street Car.

St. Louis, Mo., June 9. — While standing on the rear platform of a north bound Union Line car Thursday night, John Goettling, a photographer, 20 years old, was shot and fatally wounded.

But four cars were operated on the Union Line yesterday. The riot commenced in earnest about 8 o'clock, when the cars began to move.

At this time the crowd was augmented by 2,000 persons. When the cars started, the shooting began. The mounted police fired in the air and those in the crowd commenced shooting into and stoning the cars.

How Goettling Was Shot.

Goettling was standing on the rear platform of a car when struck by a bullet. The mounted officers finally dispersed the crowd and the cars were run into the sheds.

A stray bullet, evidently fired at a car on the southern electric division of the Transit Company, while it was passing near Klausman's Grove, struck Miss Emma Enda. Her injury is slight.

A car on the Lindell division ran over a stick of dynamite about 11.30 last night. The loud explosion aroused the neighborhood, but the car was not damaged.

Three police officers were shot in various parts of the city during riots.

Two Years for Each.

Annie Swez, Annie Klafsek and Mary Tritina, three girls, who, on May 30, participated in the assault on Miss Pauline Hensel and tore her clothing off because she had ridden on a street car, were sentenced to two years imprisonment in the Reform School by Judge Clark of the Court of Criminal Correction yesterday.

A warrant has been issued for the saloonkeeper who put Miss Hensel out when she rushed into his place. Warrants have been issued for the arrest of Thomas Reynolds, Albert Nicholas, Frank Worth, George Hill, Joseph Ette and William Francis, charging them with conspiracy to interfere with United States mails.

DISORDER IN P. E. I. ASSEMBLY.

Members Charged Each Other With Stealing, Lying and Cheating.

Charlottetown, P.E.I., June 9. — Yesterday afternoon's session of the Legislature eclipsed all previous records for scenes of disorder. While the House was in committee Mr. Cummisky, while discussing road grants, was charged by Mr. Shaw with misappropriation of the poor fund of his district. He dared Mr. Cummisky to submit a statement. Mr. Cummisky denied the charge. A hot argument ensued, and the Government, being unable to maintain order, the leader called upon the Speaker to take the chair and quell the disturbance. Several members were on the floor of the House ordering each other to sit down. Spectators arose from their seats in wild excitement. Members charged each other with stealing, lying and cheating. The matter of Pineau's letter again came up. He denied ever writing it.

What Mr. Tarte Shouted.

Paris, June 9.—President Loubet paid a visit to the Canadian Pavilion at the Exposition yesterday.

Hon. J. I. Tarte, the Canadian Commissioner, would not confirm the reception arranged by Col. Jekyll, the British Commissioner, Mr. Tarte insisting that the reception to the French President should take place in his section, otherwise he would close the Canadian exhibit. Colonel Jekyll, owing to the Canadian Minister's attitude, retreated. When President Loubet was departing Mr. Tarte shouted, "Vive La France."

CROSSING EUROPE ON HIS WHEEL

LETTER FROM F. D ROXBURGH WHO IS SIGHT SEEING IN EUROPE

Impressions Formed in Naples and Southern Italy—Northern Italy Up to Date—Venice and Milan.

The following letter from Rev. F. D. Roxburgh, son of Mr. W. E. Roxburgh, of Norwood, who is on a trip through Europe, will be read with interest by friends in Peterborough and vicinity:—

Cologne, Germany, May 18, 1900.

Dear "Register."—In a former letter I spoke of the pleasure it gave my American friend and I to associate with the Italian people. I wish to make a qualifying statement, now that we have also had some experience with the Italians of the south. Southern Italy is well described as the poor portion of that sunny land. The country is poor and the inhabitants are poor. The splendour of a former day seems to have exhausted both the strength of the soil and the ambition of the people. We rode 27 miles out of Rome and only saw about a dozen houses of any description, nothing but barren land and an occasional flock of sheep. The Roman Campagna, as the country around Rome is called, is almost a wilderness. The poverty of the land does not however make the tourist's existence so miserable as the poverty of the people. Naples is really disappointing to the traveller because the people will not leave him alone for five minutes at a time. In the restaurants and cafes as many as half a dozen hucksters push their useless wares on the corner of the table, during the half hour in which one is engaged at a meal. On the street crossings the cabmen drive in the way and cannot be discouraged with a single "No." In the parks and public places, girls push bouquets into the button holes and pockets and follow until they receive their pay. Some lavish with kisses the coat sleeves in order to tempt one to buy. And the poor blind men are numberless, with their jingling tin cups and heart-breaking appeals. On one occasion as we were nearing a church I asked my companion, if he thought we could make the 100 yards which separated us from our destination unmolested. There was no appearance of a solicitous person in sight, and he felt safe in saying "Yes," but we actually did not manage to cross the apparently safe territory without twice being made the object of an appeal. We were really pleased to take our departure from Naples and Southern Italy and we find many other tourists tell of a similar experience.

From Rome we started northward, beginning our long journey by wheel across the continent. It was Easter time when we were making this stage of our journey, and as we passed through the little villages on our way we were deeply impressed with the devotion which the Roman Catholic people display for their religion. In the churches we found large congregations of people singing with great heartiness the Easter praise. But what we found most remarkable was an immense Easter procession at a little town which was itself only about 200 yards long by 50 wide. There was a band which could teach some Ontario village bands how to play, and a procession of men, women and children, arrayed in white robes, and carrying images, crucifixes, and other sacred things which occupied at least 15 minutes to pass. There were even more people looking on and as the more sacred emblems were carried past they reverently kneeled, all the time joining in singing with the priests, and the choir. Although of a different faith we could recognize and appreciate some elements in the Catholic worship which could not fail to be of a helpful kind.

It would be in vain to try to describe the art of Florence, a city which has perhaps the richest art collection in the world. There are two galleries, the Pitti and the Ufizzi on opposite sides of the river Arno, connected by a long gallery over the Ponte Vecchio, which it took us two days to only half see. Although by no means capable of appreciating the fine things of the painter or sculptor, there were some of the paintings and some of the statues, that held us spell-bound and left a lasting impression. We could see that the mediocre pieces were painted and carved, but the master-pieces appeared so real and life-like that the tendency was to altogether forgot the paint and marble and realise only what seemed to be real life.

We crossed the Apennine Mountains, but in comparison with the Alps they were scarcely worthy of consideration. When we were over them we felt that we had merely crossed some foot-hills.

Three or four days riding brought us to Venice, or at least to the end of the road that leads in Venice direction. We left our wheels and crossed two miles of water to the city and canals and gondolas. No city can make a more unique impression on the traveller than Venice. No horses, no wheels, no way of getting from place to place except by taking a ferry or gondola or by walking through a labyrinth of lane-like streets.

The gondolier stands in the stern of his craft sculling away in an all day style while his passenger lolls in a cushioned seat and leisurely gazes about him. We tried the gondolas and found them all right, but they must be exasperating things for business men who have only five minutes in which to catch a train.

We also tried walking across the city to our hotel one night, but found the labyrinth too much for us. The narrow passages along which we went brought us too frequently up to a canal or the solid wall of a building. Without [illegible] a stranger [illegible] wander all night in Venice [illegible] ignorant of where he came from or whither he was going.

Although Venice has devoted such an insignificant proportion of her terra firma to street purposes, no one can take exception to the grand promenade and square which she boasts of along the side of the city towards the sea. St. Marco square is a delightful place and the citizens are well aware of it. On Sunday afternoon a military band discourses most beautiful music and the city pours forth her thousands to promenade and drink in the fresh air from the sea.

From Venice we journeyed westward across northern Italy towards Milan, with the Alpine snow-capped peaks always in view on our right. We passed through a number of smaller cities, each one having something of its own about which to boast, and all exhibiting that life and throb which makes one feel that Italy is still a nation which the other powers must take into account.

Milan we found especially to be a live and busy modern city. Electric cars, fine buildings, busy people, are sufficient to indicate that Northern Italy is up to date.

But the glory of Milan is her cathedral. We have seen more cathedrals and churches than we remember the names of, but none of them made us so suddenly stand still and gaze as the one at Milan. Built of marble in the gothic style, with over 2,000 marble figures in the niches and around the turrets, it is simply dazzling in its magnificence. This great pile of architectural beauty has been hundreds of years in building, and the Milanese people consider it well worthy of being called the eighth wonder of the world.

From Milan we journeyed northward towards the borders of Switzerland and 30 miles were sufficient to bring us to the point where we had to say good-bye to sunny Italy and her smiling people. Four weeks we wandered in that delightful land, learning of its history, its art, its religion, its life; four weeks full of pleasure, profit and privilege. We are now in Germany on the banks of the Rhine, having crossed the Alpine barrier. We will leave next letter to tell of the change that comes when one leaves the people of Latin type to mix with the hardier Teutons.

WAS IT A PUT UP GAME

Was Sir Wilfred in Collusion With Bourassa When he Made His Anti-British Speech.

The World has an Ottawa special today which says:—"Many strange things are talked of about the corridors, but perhaps the strangest is that Mr. Bourassa's inopportune expression of opinion was due to a collusion between the Prime Minister and Bourassa. No one denies that Bourassa does not stand alone in holding his views. The speeches of Tarte and Monet traveled close to the speeches of Bourassa on the address from the throne. What good could the Prime Minister expect to derive from Bourassa's utterances of yesterday and from the scene that they created? He hoped to pander to a section of the population in Quebec, represented by Bourassa, Tarte and Monet, while at the same time he could go into Quebec during the campaign and tell the people that the Conservatives had called Bourassa a traitor and wanted to stifle free speech in a free country. He could say with an oratorical flourish that the dissentients in Quebec had nothing to hope for from the Conservatives, while his own rebuke to Bourassa was mild enough to carry no roorback.

SAYS IT WAS A GAME.

"A French-Canadian ex-M.P., expressed his opinion to the World to-night that the whole affair was a put-up game, played on the eve of an election to catch votes in Quebec. Bourassa is a member of the Liberal party. He is a pet of Sir Wilfrid's. Any day can find the two with heads close together laughing and chatting. He is admitted to counsel. If Sir Wilfrid did not look with favor upon the young man he could have read him out of the fold when he moved his amendment to Dr. Russell's resolution re preferential trade. But he didn't. But then again, being his confidant, guide, philosopher and friend, Sir Wilfrid could have administered his rebuke in private to Bourassa, before yesterday's speech, but, again he didn't. There is only one conclusion—the matter was a put-up game."

TO DESTROY THE CODLING MOTH

Regulations Issued to Destroy This Pest.

At the last session of the Ontario Legislature an act for the prevention and destruction of certain noxious insects, was adopted providing that upon the recommendation of the Minister of Agriculture, the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council may make such regulations for the purpose as may be deemed advisable which are to have the force of law in all municipalities adopting the act by by-law. An Order in Council has just been issued making regulations for the prevention and destruction of the codling moth.

It is ordered that every occupier of a lot, or the owner in case the land be unoccupied, shall within one week after receiving notice, place bands upon orchard trees as follows:—

"Upon all bearing apple and pear trees, and upon all orchard trees of bearing age within forty feet of such bearing trees. The bands are to be of "burlap" or "sacking" or similar suitable material, not less than four inches in width and of three thicknesses, and shall be securely fastened at a convenient point between the crotch of the tree and the ground. The occupant or owner must have the bands removed and inspected, all larvae destroyed and the bands replaced at intervals of not more than two weeks during June, July and August."

The act requires the appointment of inspectors by the municipalities adopting its provisions whose duty it is to inspect all orchards and enforce the regulations. In case of non-compliance the inspector may cause the work to be done and report the cost to the Council who was empowered to enter the sum on the collector's roll against the owner, and collect the same in the same manner as other taxes.

The occupant or owner of every lot affected is to be furnished by the municipality with a printed copy of the act, and the regulations made under it, and also with a copy of the by-law and the name and the address of the Inspector.

In view of the extent of the ravages committed by the codling moth and other injurious insects, it is to hoped that rural municipalities, more especially the fruit producing districts, will see the desirability of adopting the act and taking prompt measures for the enforcement of its provisions.

COL. SAM. HUGHES WRITES THE GLOBE

HE DEALS WITH THE "UNMANLY CRITICISMS FROM PENS OF PAID DETRACTORS"

Claims to Have Assisted in Smashing a Dangerous Plot—He Refers to the Hutton Correspondence.

The Toronto Globe yesterday published the following letter from Col. Sam. Hughes:—

A clipping from your Ottawa reporter has been sent me and just arrived today. I have received other unmanly criticisms from the pens of paid detractors, but, as is generally well known, censure or praise from any source does not affect me much. Long ago I learned to please myself first, and in writing chatty letters home to my comrades, Major Sylvester, Captain Williamson and Major Hopkins, who have been with me in military matters for nearly a third of a century, I do not write for the general public. However, let it be distinctly understood I write nothing I would ask the public not to know. There is, however, this difference; were I writing for a Toronto or a general Canadian public, as may be supposed, the data would be more general. As it is I know what interests them, and am not losing sleep whether or not I please jealous critics, tyrants or paid detractors. I have left no one in my pay either to slander others or write me up. My letters give my old friends pleasant moments, and I care not for my enemies. I do not believe in conciliation as a policy. It has never done much for the upbuilding of manhood or of principles. Therefore I frankly admit not the slightest pretence is made by me to please my enemies, and I am glad to say there exist a few such.

CHARLIE ROSS' COMISSION.

What I wish to correct in your Ottawa despatch is this:—A cheap attempt is made to run me foul of his Excellency Lord Minto, by making it appear I was depriving him of credit in stating that I got Charley Ross a commission in Roberts' Horse. I have not drawn his Excellency into this or any other matter, but the facts are:—Ross, with Wasson, Jackson and a lot of Australians, came to Cape Town. Ross had letters to Gen. Walker and Sir Alfred Milner here from Lord Minto—I saw none from Gen. Hutton. He also had letters from Col. Otter and myself. Ross tried to get attached to the Canadian Regiment under Col. Otter, but could not except by authority from Ottawa. He then wanted to come with me as my personal man, but I had formed the plan of getting him a commission. There was a corps of yeomanry scouts being formed here, but the pay was not colonial, so I gave that up for him. I at once, however, met Gen. Brabant, then here, and he was anxious to take Ross and the (19) men with him to East London and Queenstown, to join Major Merritt's Squadron—Major Merritt, of Toronto, I mean—and Gen. Brabant said Ross would get a commission. But Lord Kitchener would not sanction transporting men around so long as there were corps being enrolled here, and the Kitchener Horse was being formed. However, I had previously met Capt. Gordon, transport officer of Roberts' Horse, and also the Adjutant and other officers. A Cape Times reporter was given a notice from me, re Ross and his comrades, previously. Capt. Gordon and the Adjutant both promised me that Ross should have a commission if he brought in the men. They were satisfied with Col. Otter's report of his qualifications, and they did not see any other letters, save my own. The rule here, I may explain, was generally this: —Any person with any sufficient qualification who raised 25 men could get a commission. The result was that Ross took more than the necessary number of men (I think he had over 40), for they were coming in from all over the world, and he got his commission. Let me hope Lord Minto's letter may also have helped. I know, and Ross, Gordon and the Adjutant of Roberts' Horse also know, who did the work—Col. Broadwood—and each of the foregoing three personally thanked me.

REFERENCE TO HIS EXCELLENCY.

Your reporter, in order to attack me, adduced some things now in history. He says Ross and Lord Minto (then Lord Melgund) became intimate in 1885 in the Northwest rebellion. Of course His Excellency will have had that error corrected if brought under his notice. Lord Melgund was with Middleton's column and Ross was with Otter's, hundreds of miles apart. Lord Melgund, too, left Batoche suddenly the first night and never returned. The public will, however, rejoice to find Lord Minto has such confidence in the fighting qualities of Canadians. I ever believe he had, but some having access to the "behind the scenes" have professed to think that there were rumors of bringing Imperial troops from Halifax at that time.

THE HUTTON CORRESPONDENCE.

I may here state my surprise that the House of Commons should have allowed my private letters to General Hutton to be brought down in the well known quarrel without my private data against him also being asked for. What was the object in giving only General Hutton's brief against me? He was on trial as well as I. I have, however, on hearing of his plans some weeks ago from up country sent a few data to Dr. Borden showing the causes leading up to the writing of those private letters. I am very glad they have appeared, and when my side appears, and when the paid critics have been discovered, the public will at once blame [illegible] for not dealing more sternly with such a man.

I have assisted in smashing up one of the most dangerous plots against free government that has been devised for years. But defeats in South Africa for British arms have done infinitely more than any one man could do. As I said a few days ago in writing to a friend, just as the overbearing tyrannical conduct of General Braddock and other Imperial officers towards colonials from 1755 to 1763 sowed the seeds which ripened into rebellion in 1775 to 1783, and lost Britain her vast American colonies, so the conduct of General Hutton and others like him unchecked would again result in alienating the affection for the motherland of the best men in the colonies today.

A FIG FOR CRITICS.

Critics may laugh and seek to belittle my chatty letters to old and tried friends, but I want a man to show where every act and every word of mine, here or elsewhere, has not been for the helping of Canadians and for the honor of our common country. Ask the fellows of any Canadian corps here, and although we military men as a rule are jealous of speaking well of each other, they will be forced to say every word and act of mine has been to help on, to heal over breaches, to get united national action, and to assist where possible the individual and the country. It only takes an occasional hour. If I choose to spend my spare time trying to help on Canadians, and thus the upbuilding of the Empire, no one is injured. I am better employed at that than in sleeping, loafing or drinking.

Please be good enough—for I value seeing truth in the columns of such a paper as the Globe—to insert this in justice to me.

TO THE FRONT AGAIN.

I go to the front again in a few days as soon as rested. But I must not inform you of my success and the thanks given me in my small sphere, or some of your readers will have a fit of the blues. But it may be whispered that there are just and progressive and sensible officers in thousands in Her Majesty's service who are also gentlemen. Some of these have been deceived into thinking I have some good qualities.

MANY OFFICERS AND MEN KILLED AT ROODEVAL

A Battalion of the Derbyshire's Annihilated Before the Boers Cut the Lines of Communication -- Methune is Fighting near Heilbron.

BULLER AGAIN HEARD FROM

London, June 11.—The following despatch under to-day's date has been received from Gen. Buller's headquarters in Natal:—" Our forces concentrated at the junction of Klip river and Gans Vlei last night. We anticipated finding 3,000 Boers there, but they retired as soon as our heavy guns opened fire." Buller is evidently pushing his offensive operations and is apparently almost through the Drakensberg mountains. His object is to turn the Boers' right. According to the dispatch of Friday he had then reached a point which he hoped would render Laing's Nek untenable. It is believed his turning operations which failed on the east will on the west be crowned with success.

CUTTING COMMUNICATIONS

London, June 11—Lt. Gen. Sir Frederick Forestier-Walker in command of the lines of communication in South Africa reports that in the disaster to the British troops on June 7, at Roodeval, where the Boers cut Lord Roberts' line of communication the fourth battalion of the Derbyshire Regiment were all killed, wounded or made prisoners except six enlisted men. Two officers and 15 men were killed, and five officers and 72 men were wounded many of them severely. The Boers returned the wounded to the British. The officers killed were Lt. Col. Bacid-Douglas and Lt. Hawley. The wounded include Col. Wilkinson and Lt. Blanchard, of the Canadian Infantry. General Forestier-Walker's despatch in full is as follows: " Stonham reports that many were severely wounded and the remaining men of the South Derbyshire and details of prisoners, except of the rank and file are in his camp. All the wounded are in his camp lately occupied by the 4th Derbyshire. Enquiries are being made as to the names." It is inferred that the Boers captured over 500 men and as late as June 8, held positions cutting off the British forces north of Kroonstad from reinforcements. Another despatch from Gen. Forestier Walker says Gen. Methuen was fighting within 10 miles of Heilbron on June 8. It follows; " Cape Town, June 10—Sunday—Kelly-Kenny reports from Bloemfontein this morning that Methuen with the greater part of his division was fighting early in the morning of June 8, ten miles south of Heilbron, where Colville was reported to be with the Highland Brigade, Methuen left Lindely June 5, with ample supplies for himself and Colville, leaving Paget to hold Lindley with a sufficient force and supplies. Kelly-Kenny has ordered Knox to press in the enemy's outposts, believing the enemy's strength to be exaggerated. All is quiet and there is no anxiety as regards the district to the south. Communications north of Kroonstad have been cut since June 6th.

Sly Joking In the Pulpit.

"Before I went to college," said a minister of this city, "I did supply work on a certain charge one summer. In the Methodist church we had service morning and evening. There was a Presbyterian church in the village, and the pastor from another village supplied it, preaching there once a Sunday in the afternoon. I went to hear him one afternoon. He was a college bred man and was supposed to be away up. When he spied me in the congregation, he came down and asked me to assist in the opening exercises. When we were seated, he asked me to read the first lesson and at the same time announced that it was a certain chapter in the book of Numbers. Just before I was to read I reached up to the desk and took down the Bible and opened at the place. I glanced down over the chapter and saw that it was a mass of unpronounceable names. I knew that he was working a joke on me. He knew that I could not get away with those names. I said nothing, but when the time came I stood up and announced the chapter following and read it.

"When I sat down, he gave me a look, and he got one back. I whispered honestly, 'I guess not.' Those were the only words spoken on this subject."—Utica Observer.

TEAR UP 21 MILES OF RAILWAY

Boer Raiders Interrupt Lord Roberts' Communications.

This Bold Stroke on Their Part Is Vexatious, But Gen. Kelly-Kenny Is Expected to Restore Things—Will Necessarily Delay the Forward Movement—Gen. Buller Chasing the Enemy in His Own Territory.

London, June 11.—(8.30 a. m.)—The Boers have torn up 21 miles of Lord Roberts' vital line of railway between America Siding and Roodeval. It is a bold raid, and vexatious, but does not disquiet the military authorities as yet, for they expect General Kelly-Kenny to drive off the marauders and to reopen the line.

The rapidity of the advance of Lord Roberts cannot have permitted him to accumulate large reserves of stores. Therefore, the interruption of the railway, even for a week, must embarrass the army, and may bring the forward operations to a standstill.

The War Is Not Yet Over.

Nothing has been heard from Lord Roberts for three days. This raid on the railway, the strenuous opposition to Gen. Rundle, and the nimble escape of Commandant Gen. Botha's division, forced the War Office observers to the reluctant conclusion that the war is not yet over, although even the occasional civilian Boer sympathizer cannot see how the Boers will be able to do anything to change the result.

Buller on a Chase Now.

Gen. Buller is in Boer territory. Despatches of correspondents with him, filed yesterday at sunset, describe the corps as camping at Gansolei, close to the point where the frontiers of the Free State, the Transvall and Natal meet.

"The British marched eight miles yesterday," says a Reuter correspondent, "before encountering any opposition. The Boers, who had one gun, withdrew under heavy ordnance fire to a ridge just ahead of the camp."

The long range, running skirmish will doubtless be resumed this morning. General Buller is expected to make rapid progress now, and to throw the weight of 20,000 men into Lord Roberts' Transvaal combination.

Cape Dutch Have Split.

The Dutch in Cape Colony appear to have split, a majority of the Afrikander Bund being displeased by the unwillingness of Mr. Schreiner, the Cape Premier, to go the full length of the proposed opposition to the British.

Koomatipoort Taken After Fighting.

Roberts Imprisons All Males.

London, June 11.—It is reported in London this morning that Lord Roberts has imprisoned on the race course all male residents at Pretoria.

BOERS HAVE RETIRED.

They Have Gone 26 Miles Northwest—Two Men Killed.

London, June 11.—The War Office has received the following despatch from Sir Redvers Buller.

"Headquarters in Natal, June 10.—With reference to my telegram of June 8, we halted yesterday to get our trains up the pass, which is very steep. I find the enemy were about 2,000 strong in a very carefully prepared position which they must have been very disheartened not to have held longer than they did. They have all retired about 26 miles to the northwest.

"I find our casualties were more than I first thought. They were one officer wounded and two men killed and 13 wounded."

The Boers in Three Columns.

London, June 11.—Gen. Sir Forestier Walker wires to the War Office from Cape Town under yesterday's date as follows: "Information received from natives early yesterday (Saturday) reports the enemy in three columns near Honing Spruit. The railway has been almost completely destroyed between America and Roodeval."

Hunter at Ventersdorp.

Lichtenburg, June 7. — Gen. Hunter's advance column occupied Ventersdorp to-day, the Boers quietly surrendering in small bodies. Considerable looting had been done. Gen. Mahon's column has rejoined Hunter.

Captain Bell Returning.

Ottawa, June 11.—Capt. Bell, late A.D.C. to the Governor-General, who was in charge of the Maxim guns with the first Canadian contingent, is expected to arrive in Ottawa in a few days. He is convalescing, after a severe attack of enteric fever. He will resume his position as A.D.C. to Lord Minto.

HONOR (?) FOR MR. BOURASSA.

It Is Said He Is to Be Invited to Join the Boer Delegates' Show.

Montreal, June 11.—Mr. Bourassa, M. P. for Labelle, has, it is said, been highly honored, but fortunately for Canada, the honor does not come from this country. A gentleman from the other side of the line said yesterday that Mr. Bourassa is to be invited to join the three Boer delegates who are now visiting the leading cities of the United States. The same gentleman says that the Boer trio has turned out to be a poor show, but with Mr. Bourassa tacked on, he believes that the interest in the late republics will be greatly enhanced over the border. He says that the member for Labelle will receive a rousing welcome from all the Fenian head centres of the republic.

Having a direct action on the liver, Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are invariably successful in curing liver complaint, torpid liver, and the headaches and stomach troubles resulting therefrom.

Mrs. Faulkner, 3 Gildersleeve place, Toronto, says:—"After doctoring without success for biliousness, liver complaint, and sick headache for over three years, I am glad to testify to my appreciation of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. At first they seemed a little strong, but being both searching and thorough in their action, amply repay any inconvenience by after results. NOT CREDITABLE TACTICS.

The Toronto Telegram published a letter from Colonel Sam Hughes, which had been received by Hon. Dr. Borden, Minister of Militia. The Globe re-published the letter on Saturday. It is dated March 21st, and so must have been received by Dr. Borden some time ago. In it Colonel Hughes simply discusses his quarrel with General Hutton and his own success in South Africa, pointing to the latter as evidence of General Hutton's failure to have him turned down. Col. Hughes uses strong words in denouncing Gen. Hutton, whom he accuses of deception, untruthfulness, duplicity, etc. Why Dr. Borden gave the letter out for publication at the present time is best known to himself, but it is hardly creditable to any of those concerned. True, Dr. Borden could not have his own way altogether when General Hutton was in Canada in charge of the Militia, and succeeded in having him resign. But the fact that General Hutton was sent to South Africa and there given the command of a brigade, and has shown that he is an officer of no ordinary ability should have been sufficient to have caused Dr. Borden to at least drop attacks such as that made in this letter. General Hutton may have faults, but that he knew more about the management of the militia in a minute than Dr. Borden will know in a life time is a certainty. As for his quarrel with Col. Sam. Hughes, that is another matter which is not furthered by such a letter as that gentleman has written or by the action of Dr. Borden in giving it to the public. The whole treatment of this question and the management of militia affairs at present have not been and are not particularly elevating to Canada's reputation at home or abroad.

THE REIGN OF CORRUPTION.

"Pineau, who was elected to oppose the Government of Prince Edward Island, is keeping it in office by a majority of one. By his vote alone Liberalism holds office in Prince Edward Island.

"Martin is Premier in British Columbia, having been named as such while the overwhelming majority of the Legislature was opposed to him. In violation of the constitution he has been kept in office by the agent of the Laurier Government.

"Greenway, who went from one end of Manitoba to the other solemnly declaring that he was opposed to railway subsidies, has since his defeat been convicted of secret deals with the railways, directly contrary to his professions before the public.

"Two Liberals at Ottawa sit in the House of Commons in seats that were stolen by the most criminal methods. Violation of the code of political honor, contempt of the constitution, transparent deception, and, finally, criminal tampering with the ballot box, have blackened this country. Is it not time that honest men called a halt to the reign of rotten politics?"—Quebec Chronicle.

East Peterborough is a great field for political kickers. Mr. Quinn threatened to run against Mr. Blezard as a Patron candidate, and he forthwith became a Government employee in the office of the local Crown Timber agent and enjoys ease and comfort at the public expense. Mr. Kidd opposed Mr. Blezard in an election and now he steps into the Peterborough customs house. If ambitions for public office exist threaten to become an independent candidate, and the bird will come down.

The charge has been made that a Government contractor supplied inferior and impure food stuff for the second Canadian contingent. Explanations or excuses will not do in such cases. A searching investigation is the only thing that will satisfy the people. Any such crime should be ferreted out and the guilty ones punished as a warning to all others in all time to come. But this Government at Ottawa are not favorable to investigations that threaten to expose their friends and their own carelessness. However, this is a serious matter and surely an investigation will be made.

FOUR BALLS.

Imposing fines on impudent players on the ballfield has begun early, but not too early to meet the impudence, apparently.—Boston Herald.

One thing can be said in favor of the St. Louis Baseball club—it usually manages to occupy first place at least once during the season.—St. Louis Republic.

It is to be hoped that the separation of Washington from the League will not create the impression among baseball enthusiasts elsewhere that the District of Columbia has been taken off the map.—Washington Star.

MURDERED FOUR OF A FAMILY.

Awful Crime of a Hired Man at Welwyn Assa.

Moosomin, Assa., June 11. — The police returned from the scene of the murder at Welwyn, 12 miles north of here, last evening, bringing with them John Morrison, aged 27, the man who did the awful deed. The murder was committed about 12.30 on Saturday morning. The following are the dead:

Mrs. A. McArthur, Demsey McArthur, aged 12; Charles McArthur, aged 8; A. McArthur, the father.

Russell McArthur, aged 4 years; Mamie McArthur, aged 6; Henry McArthur, aged 2; and Baby McArthur, 8 weeks old, are badly wounded. Henry and the baby cannot recover.

Miss McArthur, aged 15, was awakened by the murderer taking her little brother, Russell, who was sleeping with her, out of bed, when he was killed in the same room. After killing little Russell, Morrison told Miss McArthur that he had killed all the family, but would spare her, and said he was going to shoot himself. He then left the house, and attempted to take his own life in the stable by shooting himself through the right lung. He, however, is likely to recover, and is now lodged in jail here. No motive has been found for the crime, which was all done with an ax.

James Green Was Killed.

Hamilton, June 11.—James Green died at the City Hospital yesterday morning from injuries received at the East End Incline Railway Saturday morning. Mr. Green was the second engineer, and went half way down the incline to make some repairs. While he was between the retaining wall and the car the engineer at the top set the car in motion, and Green was rolled the length of the car. His thigh and palvis were broken, and he was injured internally.

WHOLESOME ADVICE

For People Whose Stomachs are Weak and Digestion Poor.

Dr. Harlandson, whose opinion in diseases is worthy of attention, says when a man or woman comes to me complaining of indigestion, loss of appetite, sour stomach, belching, sour watery rising, headaches, sleeplessness, lack of ambition and a general run down nervous condition, I advise them to take after each meal one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, allowing the tablet to dissolve in the mouth, and thus mingle with the food eaten. The result is that the food is speedily digested before it has time to sour and ferment. These tablets will digest the food anyway whether the stomach wants to or not, because they contain harmless digestive principles, vegetable essences, pepsin and Golden Seal, which supply just what the weak stomach lacks.

I have advised the tablets with great success, both in curing indigestion and to build up the tissues, increasing flesh in thin, nervous patients, whose real trouble was dyspepsia, and as soon as the stomach was put to rights, they did not know what sickness was.

A fifty cent package of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets can be bought at any drug store, and as they are not a secret patent medicine, they can be used as often as desired with full assurance that they contain nothing harmful in the slightest degree; on the contrary, any one whose stomach is at all deranged will find great benefit from the use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. They will cure any form of stomach weakness or disease except cancer of the stomach.

FOUR KILLED, 25 INJURED.

Disastrous Collision of Trains on a Providence Line on Sunday.

Providence, June 11.—A collision took place in Warwick, on the Suburban line of the Union Railway Company, yesterday. Two regular cars struck end on. Four were killed and about 25 injured, of whom three are probably fatally hurt. Lieut. L. C. Kemball is among those who were not expected to live.

The Dead—Arthur Liscomb, George W. Baker, 15 months; Lewis C. Sanborn, Providence; Ed. D. Boroughs, motorman.

The Injured — Lieutenant-Governor O. O. Kimball, Providence; C. N. Kingsley, Pawtucket; Mrs. Kingsley, Pawtucket; William Mallist, H. A. Palmer, H. T. Palmer, S. G. Bragg, Mary Teurtillot, William J. Bogerdy, Mrs. Bogerdy and son; Owen J. Hurley, Mansfield; D. Ballcock, George Baker, Mrs. Baker, Florence Baker, Thomas Jackson and Mrs. Jackson, E. J. Fleming, Mrs. Fleming and two children, unknown woman, 32 years old, J. E. Brown, F. B. Manchester, Oakland Beach; Henry Banlon, car motorman; Claude E. Harris, conductor.

Worst Catastrophe on Record.

The catastrophe is the worst on record hereabouts and additions to the death list are hourly expected, as quite a number of the injured are at the hospital in a precarious condition. The scenes that followed the collision were heart-rending.

Where are the Skeptics?

In spite of all the evidence published in the daily press and even in spite of the testimony of your best friends you may still be skeptical regarding the unusual virtues of Dr. Chase's Ointment. Nothing short of an actual trial will prove to you beyond the possibility of doubt that Dr. Chase's Ointment is an absolute cure for piles. A single box will be sufficient to make you an enthusiastic as your neighbor in praising Dr. Chase's Ointment, for it is certain to cure you.

JOE MARTIN SWAMPED IN B.C.

Voters Returned Only Seven Government Candidates.

Saturday's Elections Were an Opposition Sweep—They Carried 18 Seats—Two Ministers Lost Their Deposits—Wilson and Carter Cotton Both Fell—Labor Party Elects Its Leader—Does It Mean Governor McInnes' Resignation.

Victoria, B. C., June 11.—British Columbia declared in no uncertain voice against Hon. Joseph Martin and at the same time against Governor McInnes, for it believed that Martin's defeat means also his resignation. At Saturday's elections, but seven of Martin's 30 or more candidates were elected, his two Cabinet Ministers, Yates and Boebe, being among the defeated. They lost deposits. It was an Opposition sweep. They carried 18 seats. The straight conservatives elected four, Provincial party three, Independent two and Labor one. The heads of both parties, Charles Wilson and Carter Cotton, were defeated in Vancouver, where two Conservatives and two Martinites were returned. Victoria went solid for the Opposition, downing Martin, who, however, was one of those returned in Victoria, where he also ran. Vancouver Island elected but one Martinite, young McInnes, who defeated Bryden in Wellington. The remaining 13 constituencies on the island went to 12 Opposition and one Labor candidate, Ralph Smith. It was on the lower mainland that Martin elected most of his followers. He and Gilmour carried Vancouver. His Financial Minister, "Winchester" Brown, carried New Westminster, Oliver, Delta, E. E. Smith, Southeast Kootenay and Smith Curtis defeated Chas. Macintosh at Rossland. Of the Cotton party all the chiefs went down, Cotton, Forester, Deane, all being rejected. The Labor party only elected its leader, Ralph Smith. It was a thorough defeat for Martin and his fosterer, Governor McInnes.

THE AUSTRALIAN TARIFF.

Radical Changes Will Be Made to Encourage Home Industries.

London, June 11. — The Australian colonies, in view of federation, and following in the wake of Canada, are about to adopt an elaborate tariff system to encourage home industries, especially in iron, steel, cotton, flax and silk.

No excise duties, unless essential for revenue purposes, are to be levied on any internal productions excepting narcotics, beer and spirits, and where excise duties are levied the import duties are to be increased by a similar amount.

Ships ordered elsewhere than in the colonies are prohibited from carrying goods or passengers from port to port in the commonwealth.

The importation of prison-made goods is absolutely prohibited, and equal wages are decreed for men and women employed in the same trade.

Canada at the Paris Fair.

Ottawa, June 11. — Prof. Robertson, Dominion Dairy Commissioner, returned on Saturday to Ottawa, after two months' absence in Europe on business connected with cold storage. At Paris, Prof. Robertson has made arrangements for an adequate system of cold storage for Canadian products at the Exposition during the summer months. A special feature is being made of Canadian fruit of all kinds, which will be sent over from Canada every few days during the summer. The first shipment arrived at Paris Friday last in good condition. Before leaving the continent, Prof. Robertson picked up some valuable pointers with reference to cold storage in Denmark, Sweden and Belgium.

EARTHQUAKE IN VENEZUELA.

Serious Seismic Disturbance Which Lasted an Hour.

Caracas, Venezuela, June 11. — A series of earthquakes, lasting one hour, yesterday shook Cumana, Cumanacoa and Cariaco. These three towns are in the State of Bermudez, Venezuela. Cariaco was terribly damaged. The three town are in the Maritime Andes, which accounts for frequent earthquake shocks. Cariaco has 7,000, Cumana has 10,000 and Cumanacoa has nearly 3,000 population.

"Quick Lunches."

It is the habit of the modern time saving young man, says Eliot Gregory in The Atlantic, upon entering a quick lunch establishment to dash for the bill of fare and give an order (if he is adroit enough to catch one of the maids on the fly) before removing either coat or hat. At least 15 seconds may be economized in this way. Once seated, the luncher falls to on anything at hand — bread, cold slaw, crackers or catchup. When the dish ordered arrives, he gets his fork into it as it appears over his shoulder and cleans the plate before the sauce makes its appearance, so that is eaten by itself or with bread.

Cups of coffee or tea go down in two swallows. Little piles of cake are cut in quarters and disappear in four mouthfuls, much after the fashion of children down the ogre's throat in the mechanical toy, mastication being either a lost art or considered a foolish waste of energy.

A really accomplished luncher can assimilate his last "quarter" of cakes, wiggle into his coat and pay his check at the desk at the same moment. The next he is down the block in pursuit of a receding trolley.

THE ICEMAN.

It is too bad that ice does not grow in summer, when it is most needed.—Ridgewood (N. J.) News.

Paradoxical as it may sound, the burning question of the hour in New York is ice.—New York World.

In Chicago ice must be weighed in the presence of the customer. But the iceman is not unhappy. He may use his own scales.—Kansas City Journal.

"Pull up!" That's the counsel very often given by a well meaning person to a friend who is slipping down the road of alcoholism. And when the answer comes "I can't stop," the man is perhaps reproached for the cowardice of that phrase, "I can't."

But intemperance is only a form of disease, and there may come a time in the progress of any disease when it can't be stopped. That's what we mean when we talk of "galloping consumption." It's like a horse running away with us. We can't stop it.

Strength will stop the wildest horse. Strength is the great necessity in the stopping of disease. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has cured thousands who had obstinate cough, bronchitis, weak lungs, spitting of blood, emaciation, and similar ailments which if neglected or unskilfully treated lead to consumption. It cures by strengthening the lungs and giving them power to throw off disease.

"I had been troubled with bronchitis and catarrh of the head for eight years; had severe cough and at times great difficulty in breathing," writes J. W. [illegible], Esq., of [illegible], [illegible] Co., Tenn. "A portion of the time my appetite was poor and part of the time I was unable to do anything. I had been treated by my best country physicians for several years but with little benefit. I had been reading about your medicine for several years but hadn't much faith in it. Last spring I concluded that I would try it and before I had taken one-third of a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and 'Pleasant Pellets' I began to mend. I continued taking it until I had taken seven bottles. Now I feel like a new man and can do as hard a day's work as any man. I advise all of my friends who are diseased to take Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery."

Nervous Debility.

A Sufferer from Weak Blood and Exhausted Nerves Tells of His Cure by Using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Mr. A. T. P. Lalame, railway agent at Clarenceville, Que., writes:—"For twelve years I have been run down with nervous debility. I suffered much, and consulted doctors, and used medicines in vain. Some months ago I heard of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, used two boxes, and my health improved so rapidly that I ordered twelve more.

"I can say, frankly, that this treatment has no equal in the medical world. While using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I could feel my system being built up until now I am strong and healthy. I cannot recommend it too highly for weak, nervous people."

THE BABY WAS SUFFOCATED.

Serious Results of a Sunday Morning Fire in London.

London, Ont., June 11.—A fire with fatal results broke out on the premises of James Ward, retail grocer and liquor merchant, here about 1 o'clock Sunday morning. Mrs. Ward awakened the family. Mr. Ward dropped two of his three young children out of the window and succeeded in saving them, although one of them was badly injured by the fall. The third child, however, a baby boy of three years, ran out of the father's room, and before found, had been suffocated. Miss McFee, a domestic from Guelph, in the meantime, had jumped from the upper window and was seriously injured by the fall. Mr. Ward also jumped, but in doing so unfortunately struck some telephone wires near the house and was thrown heavily, breaking his thigh and causing serious internal injuries. The injured members of the family are all at the hospital, but no further fatal results are feared.

IN THE BEAUTIFUL MORNING.

For all that we sing or we say,
There's this, in the thorniest way:
A hope that the light
Will come after the night
And the wide world will blossom and roll to the bright;
The haven—the haven is ever in sight,
In the beautiful smile of the morning!

For all that we sing or we say,
For the tears, for the prayers that we pray,
There is ever the gleam
Of the realized dream
Where the bright stars of faith in their brilliancy beam—
Where the sunlight of glory above us shall stream—
The beautiful light of the morning!

—Frank L. Stanton in Atlanta Constitution.

JOKE ON THE RAILROAD.

Experience of a Swede Who Had a Ticket to South Dakota.

The duties of the claim agent's department would be reduced to a minimum if all cases were like one recently related by a railway employee. One evening a short time ago the engineer of one of the trains running west from Chicago, which was clipping along at good speed over the prairie, became suddenly conscious of the presence of a man on the track immediately in front of him. He had hardly time to take in this impression before he felt a slight shock and a dark mass vaguely outlined by the headlight described a large semicircle in the air to the right and disappeared in the darkness. Shocked and sickened by the event, but conscious of blamelessness on his own part, the engineer pulled the train up at the next station and wired to division headquarters:

"Struck a man mile back from Cedar Grove. Shall we go back and pick up? Waiting instructions."

There was some delay over the wiring, and a little group gathered around the engineer listening to his story and conversing in low tones over his bad luck. "I only got a glimpse of him," he said, "before we struck him. He went into the air so high that I saw him by the light of the headlight, and he must have struck some ways from the track. I suppose his clothes must have held him together." Then after a pause: "That's the worst I ever had. I hope it's the last."

This called up some reminiscences of the experience of others of the group. They were interrupted by a panting voice coming out of the darkness behind the group:

"Des train go to Dakota?"

The speaker being informed that that was the Dakota train, breathed a sigh of relief.

"Vall," he continued, "Ay tank Ay run 'bout fas' 's relrode train. Ay bot teeket to Sout' Dakota, en teeket man hay tak ma sax tollar feefty cents en tole may Ay skal go tran tonight. Ay meet tran back here haleways en ben run lak yackrabbit."

Just then the reply came from headquarters. "You're to go on, Jim," said the bearer of the order, "and we're to get out a freight engine and send back from here for the man you struck." The Swede became interested.

"Vat fur dees enyine go back?" he asked, and then some of those standing near looked at him for the first time. His hat was gone, his clothing was in strings, and what there was of it, as well as the exposed portions of his husky person, was covered with thick mud. Some one explained in a few words. The train was just moving.

"Ay tank Ay get gude yoke on relrode tran," he chuckled as he climbed the steps of the smoking car. And then as he moved away into the darkness he yelled back to the little group:

"Ay got yoke on relrode tran! Ay bane that fallar mesalf!"—St. Paul Pioneer-Press.

Henry Irving's profits for his present tour of this country are being variously reckoned all the way from $25,000 to $100,000.

Holger Drachmann, the Danish dramatist, poet and painter, has arrived in Chicago. He intends to study the conditions of the laboring classes of America.

Mrs. Patrick Campbell, the English actress, is considering an offer by Liebler & Co. to make an American tour next season. Mrs. Campbell has never appeared in this country.

Florence Rockwell has been engaged to play the chief female part in "Mr. Van Bibber," a dramatization of Richard Harding Davis' stories, in which Robert Hilliard will appear next season.

The Broadway theater, New York, it is said, will clean up over $100,000 profit for its owner, Jacob Litt, this season, which will probably be the largest profit ever made in any one year by an American theater.

Efforts are being made to establish a permanent "matinee theater" in London. A company has just been registered for the purpose. The idea has been tried before, but never on very energetic or enterprising lines.

Sims Reeves, the superannuated British tenor, who insists on giving concerts, although he can't be heard across the footlights, is to receive a pension of $500 a year from the queen for the remainder of his life. Reeves is 81 years old.

No discovery in medicine has ever created one quarter of the excitement that has been caused by Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. Its severest tests have been on hopeless victims of Consumption, Pneumonia, Hemorrhage, Pleurisy and Bronchitis, thousands of whom it has restored to perfect health. For Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Croup, Hay Fever, Hoarseness and Whooping Cough it is the quickest, surest cure in the world. It is sold by J. Lynch, who guarantees satisfaction or refund money. Trapped the Trapper

In "Sketches of Life In the Golden State," Colonel Albert S. Evans narrates the rash exploit of an oversanguine bear hunter:

A venturesome Yankee came to Santa Barbara some years ago and soon became an adept at throwing the lasso. Hearing the Mexican cowboys talk of lassoing the grizzly bear, he decided to show them what he could do in that line if he ever got a chance.

One day he came upon a grizzly in a favorable locality. He threw the lasso with skillful aim and reined back his trembling horse to give the bear an astonisher, when the reata—which is always attached to the pommel of the saddle—came up taut.

Judge of the man's astonishment when that bear quietly assumed a sitting posture, took hold of the lasso and began to draw it in hand over hand!

The hapless descendant of the pilgrim fathers stuck to the horse and saddle until he saw the slack all drawn in and the bear and the horse coming rapidly together. Then, in a panic, he descended and ran for a tree, abandoning the horse to its fate.

Two skillful men, operating from opposite sides, can master a bear and choke him between them, but with only one man, one horse and one bear, it is another story.

When you need medicine you should get the best that money can buy, and experience proves this to be Hood's Sarsaparilla.

PETERBOROUGHS WIN THE MATCH

DEFEAT LINDSAY TEAM IN A MIDLAND LEAGUE BASEBALL MATCH

A Fairly Large Crowd Witnesses a Pleasing Match—The Home Team Playing Winning Ball:

The Peterborough baseball club won its second home match in the Midland league on Saturday afternoon, defeating the Lindsay team by 6 runs to 3 and an innings to spare. The match was a very satisfactory one in every way. There was a large crowd present and all enjoyed the sport.

The Peterborough men showed considerable improvement over their form in the match against Port Hope a week before. They played with more confidence and had the snap and life necessary to win matches. There were fewer errors, a very satisfactory feature, and if they continue to improve they have excellent prospects of taking the top place in the league standing.

The Lindsay team put up an excellent game in many respects but in other points of the game they were decidedly weak, and through these they lost the benefits of nearly every good play they made. Their most glaring fault was the throwing to bases, both by the catcher and among the basemen themselves. Several times a tap that should have been but a base hit put a Peterborough man around to third. Had their play not been marked by this fault they might have given the Peterboroughs a very close run. The pitching was good and there was nothing the matter with the outfield work, that of the right fielder being notably all right.

Dan McCabe pitched a winning game for Peterborough in that his most brilliant work was done at critical points. Several times the Lindsay batters filled up the bases after two men had been put out only to have the side retired without the runners being able to reach home. This happened in several innings, either McCabe striking the man out or Parnell's assists to first base doing the trick.

The batting was fairly lively and the teams came out about even in this respect. Only one base on balls was given by each pitcher and only one man was hit.

Peterborough jumped into the game right at the drop of the hat, determined to win. The best feature of the game came in the first innings, Earle batting the ball over centre field fence and about a hundred yards into the field beyond. It would have gone over were the fence twice as high. It gave him a home run. After that Peterborough had the lead throughout and had a pretty sure thing of the game.

All the boys on the team played good baseball. Parnell's work was especially good both with the bat and in his position. All the bases were played well and the work of the battery was very effective. Mulhall on second base made a great catch in the 7th innings, having to become contortionist for the time, but managed to hold the ball. Grady made a difficult catch in the 5th.

Some of the Lindsay players are great coachers and tried to keep each other up to the mark with noisy and pleasant encouragement which made the game more entertaining. At times a couple of them showed a disposition to interfare with the umpires but these were the imported players who had to make a bluff for fear of losing their jobs. Good feeling existed between the teams.

The match was viewed by many from the barn roofs, lookouts and fences round. The Lindsay players wore a very serviceable uniforms of gray, described by the small boys as gray flannel shirts. The visitors left on the 5.30 train. They predict a victory for themselves in the return match. Messrs. Kenner and Riley acted as umpires. The next league game in town is a week from next Saturday, when Oshawa plays here. Tuttle, the Lindsay pitcher, was with Kingston last year.

FAREWELL PRESENTATION

Made on Anniversary Night at the Mark-St. League.

Last Monday evening was the anniversary of Mark-st Epworth League and it was celebrated by spending "An Evening with Longfellow." A sketch of the poet's life, recitations from his works, readings, songs, anecdotes, aphorisms, all connected with the great American, and singing formed a very pleasant evening's entertainment.

Advantage was taken of the occasion to make a presentation to Miss Maud Finnemore, who is removing from Mark-st, where she has been a very faithful worker. Miss A. M. Smith made the presentation, and Miss M. Hamilton read the following address:—

Miss Maud Finnemore:-

Dear Sister in Christ,—We, the members of Mark-st Sabbath school, feel deep regret in learning that you are so soon to depart from amongst us. In looking over the past we could not fail to be impressed with the cheerful manner and earnest Christian activity you have always shown in whatever department of work you have been placed, and we are sure you will be missed, not only from the Sunday school, but from the many spheres of Christian usefulness in which you have always taken an active part and we trust that wherever you may be in the future, your faith and works will indicate your loyalty to Christ.

As a slight tangible token of the esteem in which you are held, we would ask you to accept the accompanying volumes, and hope you will always remember the many friends you have won at Mark-st.

We trust that He who has begun the good work in you may continue it through all eternity, and that the seed sown by you may in due season yield a bountiful harvest to His honor and glory.

Signed on behalf of the school.
SARA HAMILTON,
ANNIE M. SMITH,

CHILL TURNER TELLS OF THE MOVEMENTS OF THE CANADIAN MOUNNTED RIFLES

Onward Progress of the Troops—Lots of Loot to be Picked up—Brushes With the Enemy.

letter from Chil Turner

The following interesting letter has been received from Pte. Chil Turner, of the Canadian Mounted Rifles:—

Welgelegen Siding,
May 8, 1900.

Dear Parents,—It is some weeks since my last letter, but you must not mind this as we are now following the enemy in close quarters, and therefore the line of communication is in their possession. Since my last letter we marched to Bloemfontein, stayed there only long enough to feed and then went to Springfontein for the night. The next morning we marched to Seeuw Kop, where we had our first engagement, our loss consisting only of one officer's horse. It was in this engagement that the Warwicks lost so many men. However, during the night the Boers cleared, and the next morning we had about ten thousand troops after them with about

TWENTY MILES OF TRANSPORTS

following—such a sight, from fourteen to twenty oxen to a cart. We marched on for a few days guarding the transports, while our Canadian infantry and others succeeded in gaining possession of the waterworks. We received orders then to return to Bloemfontein, and on our way back

WE LOOTED THE COUNTRY.

It was great sport; chickens, ducks, frying pans and everything we could tie to our saddles were taken. I was in charge of the officers' mess during this outing and we captured a fine cart and harness, so I can ride or drive as I wish. We all make a bee line for the houses, and as the men are away fighting on the Boer side, we just help ourselves. We capture sheep, cattle and horses and, after filling our waggons with supplies, we burn the houses. It is very sad as the women and children cry sadly. Of course they cannot speak English. I could get plenty of everything, but I am unable to carry much.

I arrived back in Bloemfontein on the 1st, where we joined the rest of the C. M. R. troops. We camped at Fisher's Farm and then started on our

MARCH TO PRETORIA.

After two days we engaged the enemy, and I came very nearly seeing my finish, as a 12-pound shell lit about 30 feet in front of me. My horse shot back and I thought it was shot from under me. In fact the shells came all round me for awhile and I felt quite uncomfortable. Brandfort was easily taken and the next day we marched stronger than ever. The Boer loss numbered about 16, while our loss was one horse. Their position was very strong, but we flanked them and camped on the kopje that night. Here I got a fine haul, dishes, pillows and Boer rugs. We started again the next morn-

COUNCIL SHOULD INVESTIGATE

Trouble Between Drivers at the Fire Hall Comes up in Police Court—The Magistrate Leaves it to the Council.

The trouble between the two drivers at the fire hall, Montgomery and Macfarlane, which has been discussed in Council more than once, took another phase this morning when Montgomery charged Macfarlane in police court with using grossly insulting language on Saturday morning and at noon of that day. Macfarlane admitted the statements complained of at noon but denied the other. Montgomery alleged that Macfarlane was under the influence of liquor. The Magistrate dismissed the charge, saying:—

"I find that the evidence of Montgomery as to the language used by Macfarlane at noon was proved by outside witnesses and I am strongly of the impression that his statement as to what was said in the morning was correct but this ill-language arises from a state of feeling between the men which should not exist. Each is standing on his rights as to the performance of stable duties to such an extent that it is impossible that the two men can work effectively in the same stable, and as Montgomery charges Macfarlane with being drunk on Friday night and under the influence of liquor on Saturday morning, I think the matter is one to be investigated by the town authorities, for no man who has the responsible duty of driving the fire horses through the public streets is capable of doing it with safety who is to any extent addicted to liquor. Whilst I find that there was evidently a fault in the defendant it arises out of a condition of things that I will not assume to investigate, leaving it to the Council, and I think it best this charge should be dismissed."

Aldermen Oke and Sawers were in court while the case was being heard. The Council, with the Magistrate's statement before them, will likely take prompt action to improve things at the fire hall.

DEATH OF JOHN M. ARMSTRONG

A Well Known Former Resident Dies in Toronto After a Short Illness.

The announcement of the death of Mr. John M. Armstrong in Toronto was a sad shock to his relatives and friends here. His serious illness was mentioned a day or two ago, and he did not rally, but the end came on Saturday evening. The deceased, who left here to reside in Toronto in September last, was in excellent health until a week ago, when he was taken ill with inflammation of the lungs. Hemorrhage of the bowels supervened, and death resulted.

John M. Armstrong was a native of Peterborough, having been born here 43 years ago. He resided here all his life until eight months ago, when he went to Toronto and accepted a position in a wholesale house. In Peterborough he was engaged in the grocery business, and as a business man was widely known throughout this district. He was married to Miss Maggie Hunter, who with three children, Hazel, Florence and Oswald, is left to mourn his untimely death. They will have the deepest sympathy in their sudden bereavement. The deceased was an Oddfellow, but was not in active connection with the Order at the time of his death.

The remains were brought to Peterborough last night and conveyed to the family residence, 635 Water-st., from which place the funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon at three o'clock.

CLEVER FORGERIES.

A CASE WHERE A MAN COULD NOT TELL HIS OWN SIGNATURE.

Some Tales That Have Been Told by Handwriting—Why a Clergyman Was Allowed to Accept a Call—A Story That Reads Like Romance.

Occasionally we see in public prints that certain forgeries are so skillfully executed that even the owner of the name cannot tell whether his signature is forged or genuine. This is considered by some as indicating extraordinary skill on the part of the forger and also that an expert's opinion in such a case must be of no value, since the owner of the name doesn't know his own handwriting. But there is nothing unusual about either the skill displayed or the occurrence. Writers themselves are usually unacquainted with those telltale minor characteristics which form the basis of an expert's opinion.

The writer was a witness in a case some years ago in which some bankers and others were testifying as experts on the other side. As they claimed to be able to identify offhand the signature of the plaintiff the writer had the plaintiff write his own name several times, leaving spaces between. In these spaces the writer forged the plaintiff's name. In less than ten minutes the attorney asked the plaintiff which were his and which were forged—so that the opposing experts might be properly cross examined—and the plaintiff, who but a few minutes before had watched the writer forge his name, was unable to pick out his own signatures, with the ink on them scarcely dry.

So much for knowing one's own handwriting.

The stories of many cases in the solving of which handwriting has played a prominent part read like romances.

A few years ago a committee from a church brought to the office of the writer several letters written and mailed on different dates from various cities calling the pastor of their church to fields of greater usefulness—at larger salaries—each letter offering a few hundred dollars more than the preceding one. Upon the receipt of each call a committee meeting was held and the pastor's salary raised to meet the offer of the call. The fourth call within a year caused the committee to decide that they had reached their limit and also aroused suspicion. When the documents were brought to the writer's office, two questions were asked—first, are or are not the four letters in one handwriting, and, second, are they in the handwriting of the person who wrote the standards (afterward admitted to be the pastor)? It was decided that all four "calls" were written by the same person and he the pastor. It was decided to let him take the last call.

Billy Woodward, alias "Big Hawley," the prince of gamblers and blackmailers, who boasted on the witness stand that he was "37 years old and had been arrested 37 times, but never convicted once," was convicted that time—the thirty-eighth—and by his handwriting. This conviction was for blackmail in endeavoring to frighten a wealthy and honorable gentleman into paying $100,000. Woodward always "played for large stakes," as he expressed it. He admitted that in three months he cheated his victims of over $1,000,000. Arrested time and time again, he wriggled out of the clutches of the law by various means—once on an alibi, proving that he was in jail in one town on the day he was charged with a robbery in another city.

Several years ago the New York courts brought to light a story which equaled in interest the tales of Dumas, Scott and Stevenson. A Boston newspaper writer and art critic of prominence and family, owing to the alleged discovery that he was using his paper to bull and bear the stocks in which he himself was speculating at the same time, left Boston in 1854. He took with him $70,000 which another man claimed and quietly established himself in New York.

By investment and speculation this snug fortune grew to $1,000,000 or more. Yet no one in New York knew that the "Miser," as he was called, possessed enough to buy even the cheapest Bowery meal. He would hang around restaurants and eat scraps and leavings. Clothes he never bought and was always clad in filthy rags. His one absorbing passion was music, and it was the one thing for which he would spend money. He would beg admission and try to induce well dressed auditors to pay his way in, but if these schemes failed, as a last resort, he would pay for the cheapest seat in the house.

One cold day in the middle of December, 1885, the "Miser" was run over by a cab. When he was taken to the hospital, it was found that he had no underwear, no shirt, no vest, only the ragged coat that he had worn for 20 years. He begged to be taken "home." And such a home—a squalid garret! Here he died a few days later.

A lawyer produced an old power of attorney given him by the "Miser." It was a document which gave absolute power to the attorney. This attorney claimed that the deceased had promised to leave all of his property to his "dearest friend," naming the lawyer. He had witnesses to prove this, and claimed that the old miser's trunk had been rifled and a will leaving the property to him (the lawyer) stolen.

A friend of the deceased remembered the "Miser" had left a bundle of papers, tied up in a large red bandanna handkerchief, in his care nearly 20 years before. The package was taken from the safe, opened and found to contain nearly $400,000. The Metropolitan bank informed the authorities that it held $40,000 more in the same name which had been idle nearly 20 years. A large amount in ready cash was found in the hair covered trunk in the attic. It is not too much to suppose that he was worth from $1,000,000 to $2,000,000 when he died.

Upon this discovery the lawyer redoubled his efforts, and the power of attorney was mainly relied on to prove his contentions. An expert examination of the document brought to light that several lines had been added to it after it had been signed, and those added lines made it limited instead of unlimited, as it read originally. The handwriting and ink in the added lines were different from the originals, and in some places the added writing overlapped the signature, thus proving that this writing was made after the signature. The expert proof was so clear that the claimant lost his case, and the property went to the heirs.—William J. Kinsley in Saturday Evening Post.

You Make A Mistake

If you have Pale, Greenish, or Sallow Complexion, Cold Hands and Feet, Loss of Appetite, Dyspepsia, Lack of Energy or Stomach Troubles,

You Make A Mistake

When you do not use Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills to counteract these conditions. Why? Because they contain all the natural elements necessary to build up the human system. The way to a cure lies along the road from the stomach to the blood and nerves. All food is acted on by the stomach and prepared for absorption into the system.

Dr. Ward's Pills give just the proper help to a tired system, and diffuse a glow of health through the whole human frame.

MAN'S FIRST DISOBEDIENCE.

Of man's first disobedience and the fruit
Of that forbidden tree, whose mortal taste
Brought death into the world, and all our woe,
With loss of Eden, till one greater Man
Restore us and regain the blissful seat,
Sing, heavenly muse, that on the secret top
Of Oreb or of Sinai didst inspire
That shepherd, who first taught the chosen seed,
In the beginning how the heavens and earth
Rose out of chaos; or, if Sion hill
Delight thee more and Siloa's brook that flowed
Fast by the oracle of God, I thence Invoke thy aid to my adventurous song,
That with no middle flight intends to soar
Above the Aonian mount, while it pursues
Things unattempted yet in prose or rhyme.
And chiefly thou, O Spirit, that dost prefer
Before all temples the upright heart and pure,
Instruct me, for thou know'st, thou from the first
Was present, and, with mighty wings outspread,
Dovelike, sat'st brooding on the vast abyss
And made it pregnant; what in me is dark,
Illumine; what is low, raise and support,
That to the height of this great argument
I may assert eternal providence
And justify the ways of God to men.

INTERVIEWING TOM REED.

A Reporter's Account of How He Didn't Succeed In Doing It.

Did you ever have a newspaper reporter tell you of attempts to interview Tom Reed? Every reporter has a different story. One of the first assignments I got years ago on The Journal was to go down to Portland and ask Thomas B. Reed a few questions about a matter on which it was thought he would be willing to talk. I had heard so many yarns about Reed's gruffness with the gentle scribe that when I walked up his front steps in Portland I could better than ever before understand some of the trepidation of Jack the Giant Killer.

Mr. Reed came down into the reception room from up stairs some place. He had on a dressing gown that made him loom like a rosebush tied up on a frosty night in fall. He carried a book in his hands, the volume shut on a finger, and he was beaming. I was awfully surprised to see the radiance of the good nature on his face.

"Harr-d'ye do-o-o," says he. "Hario! Sit down!"

So I sat, and, inspired by the bland benignancy of that round face, I unfolded my errand.

He listened placidly. When I had finished, a smile started from under his chin and spread itself over his features. There was no negative shake of his head. There was no frown of refusal. I could see that he was going to talk. I could feel that he was going to be good for a column at least. A part of his rosy glow diffused my being. I felt like sticking my thumb in the armhole of my waistcoat. Mr. Reed leaned forward confidentially.

"Frankly," said he with great heartiness, "frankly, my dear sir"— and he paused impressively and then repeated, "Frankly I must tell you that I will not state my opinions for the ear of the Lewiston Journal, for—and I think you will agree with me in this—the Lewiston Journal will go right off and tell somebody else, and that wouldn't be a nice thing to do."

And then he sat down and beamed at a greatly embarrassed young man.

But somehow I couldn't return even the dimmest reflection of the smile. I basked there a moment in the genial glow, and then I took my [illegible] from the [illegible] on the [illegible] of the big desk.—Lewiston Journal.

WHEN I AM DEAD.

"When I am dead," she said, "I pray you, dear,
Think of me not as far away, but here
Beside you; ever in the sweet, old place,
Where we sat hand in hand and face to face;
Not as a homesick soul in some far sphere.

"Through all the days and nights shall I be near,
In summer twilights or when earth is sere;
Lo! I shall beg of death for this one grace,
When I am dead.

"Not as a sad eyed ghost will I appear;
I shall bring all of comfort, naught of fear.
Only the woman that you love will come;
No death is strong enough to hold me dumb
Or helpless, summoned by your lightest tear,
When I am dead."

—Theodosia Garrison in Truth.

A POUND OF COAL.

The Great Power It Can Exert In Mechanical Work.

Let us take a pound of what we will call average coal, containing, say, 10,000 heat units. This would be somewhat smaller in size than a man's fist. A pound of this coal, if expended in mechanical work, would give us 236 horsepower. Imagine at the time of the pharaohs two long lines of men, extending over half a mile, all pulling steadily, at the command of the taskmaster, at a great rope to raise some huge obelisk, and as you see them sweating, tugging and training think again of this small lump of coal in which nature has placed an equal amount of power. In some countries men who have been specially trained as porters to carry heavy loads on their backs will as a full day's work carry a total of from 350 to 600 pounds a distance of one mile. And yet each has expended but one-third of the power stored up in this pound of coal.

An exceptionally strong man has been known to do one-half horsepower of work as his mightiest effort, but in two and a half minutes work at this rate exhausts his muscular force. Let us suppose 100 such men putting forth such extreme effort at rope, or crank, or crowbar. As they fall back, red faced and puffing, to catch their breaths, we might imagine this little black lump saying to them: "I can do as much as your whole company and then can stand it for fully two minutes longer before I am exhausted!"

Let us now turn to another portion of the human race. From the earliest times spinning has been a much prized accomplishment of the fair sex. We need look back only to our own grandmothers. We can picture them, from their own stories, told us when we were children, as rosy cheeked damsels sitting around the open fireplace and spinning from early candlelight till bedtime, let us say possibly two hours. Let us then suppose for a moment the thousands of spindles rattling and whirling in a modern cotton factory, impelled by the power locked up in coal. One pound of this coal carries the potential energy to do the work of 3,000 such spinsters.

In sawing wood a man may work at the rate of about 60 strokes a minute and consider himself a "top sawyer," and his saw blade may have progressed five feet a minute, but a circular saw driven by machinery may be put through 70 times that distance and saw 70 times as much wood. And yet this one little pound of coal contains power enough for 180 such saws.—E. D. Meier in Cassier's Magazine.

Glue All Around You.

"Glue greets you in your cradle and bids you adieu in your coffin," remarked a dealer in the article. "I don't suppose a tenth of the people stop to think how variously glue serves them. It's in their hats and shoes, their carpets and furniture, their pencils, paper, pastry, confectionery and medicine, on their walls, in the stiffening of their apparel and practically in or on some dozen or more articles with which they have daily dealings. Sixty million pounds of it are used a year, the cheapest at 9 cents and the dearest, which is used in pharmacy and the confectionery trade, about 90 cents.

"In the industries it is used almost universally. Alcohol, turpentine and coal oil barrels have to be sized with it, and wooden boxes for merchandise made of small pieces are joined with it, while of course it is used throughout the furniture trade. Only newspaper printing paper is made without some glue, and any paper that is to be written on with ink or present a smooth finish has to be treated with it at some stage in the manufacture."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Doomed Anyhow.

During a terrific storm on Lake Michigan the Amanda Jane, a trading schooner, began to leak badly. The pump broke, and conditions seemed as bad as possible when the crew noticed the absence of their skipper. The mate and one of the sailors climbed painfully to the hatch and descended into the cabin. The swinging lamp was lit, and there, comfortably housed in a stationary armchair, sat the Dutch skipper, reading a book and calmly smoking his long pipe.

"Great heavens, cap!" yelled the mate. "Don't you know the ship's sinking?"

The skipper took the pipe out of his mouth and said calmly: "My friendts, I don't care von cent. I hev got a cancer on my livers, and I die in six veeks anyvay!"

A Parisian Day.

"The day of the perfect young Parisian of fashion," says Richard Whiteing in The Century, "includes some practice with the pistol at one of the private galleries. Sometimes he has a shooting gallery in his garden and fires a few shots on rising as a substitute for morning prayer. Then he usually takes a turn on horseback in the Bois. I speak by the card. After breakfast he fires more shots at some [illegible] in town. He discusses the day's shooting with his friends, and when this weighty business is over, I am assured, he has cleared his conscience of more than half of its burden of duties. A few visits, the theater and the club complete the day."

[illegible]

"A woman is as old as she looks, Mr. Gilley," said Miss Smirk.

"Oh, Miss Smirk," replied Mr. Gilley, who generally makes a muss of it when he tries to pay a compliment, "surely you are an exception to the rule."—Detroit Free Press.

Spanish Proverb.

Ask your friends for advice, women for pity, strangers for charity and your relatives for nothing.

The Tugela river has been known to rise 40 feet in a single night owing to thunderstorms on the mountains.

A fluent speaker utters between 7,000 and 8,000 words in the course of an hour's uninterrupted speaking.

PEN, PENCIL AND BRUSH.

Carolus Durer always smokes while painting on a portrait, except, of course, when a lady is the sitter. He says that he finds the greatest inspiration in a pipe.

James M. Barrie, the novelist, in consenting to stand for parliament, shows a decided change of opinion in such matters, since only five years ago he said that he would rather be flogged than have to go into politics.

South Africa seems the magnet for authors these days, and J. M. Barrie is the latest to join the writers' colony at the front, which included, up to recently, Conan Doyle, Kipling, Richard Harding Davis, Julian Ralph and several others.

As a Memento.

The Natal Witness publishes a letter from a Ladysmith young lady, which says: "Just after breakfast another shell came from Long Tom. It landed just over on the other side of he paddock. . . I said I would run over and get a piece of the shell as a momento. No sooner said than done. Off I scampered. Spoke to the first soldier I came to. He said, 'Come with me; I can warn you in time to clear before another shell comes. So I went gaily on, talking away. Another soldier said. 'Here comes another,' and before we had time to think the awful booming and shrieking came. . . I shut my eyes tight and clung to a barbed wire fence. It exploded about twenty feet away, perhaps not so much, and the earth shook under me, and my legs felt shot all over. The last thing I saw as I shut my eyes was men rolling on the ground and running away in all directions (fear lent them wings, but was not so kind to me), and a mule rushing by me. After it was over I wanted to get a piece of the shell, and then fled home with three lumps. . When I got back I got such a wigging."

A Story About Buller.

Here is a new Buller story and a Canadian one at that. During Red River expedition in 1869-70 a soldier in the King's Royal Rifles, who is now a messenger in the Bank of England, was much in need of a pipeful of tobacco. He approached his brother Tommies for what he required, but without success. A figure that seemed familiar, marched steadily ahead, and the soldier, in desperation, slapped the individual on the back, saying, "Got a pipeful of baccy, mate?" The figure turned, revealing Buller, then a captain in the same regiment. The soldier was overwhelmed with confusion. 'Very sorry I can't oblige," said Buller. "but I haven't a pipeful for myself!" showing at the same time an empty pipe.

A Bundle of Nerves

Nerve force is the very life of man and every organ of the human body is dependent upon it. Just as soon as the blood gets thin and watery and fails to supply nourishment to the nerves there comes a train of nervous disorders, nervous prostration, paralysis, epilepsy, insanity and death. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food rebuilds and revitalizes the nerve cells wasted by disease, overwork and worry. It is beyond doubt the world's greatest restorative. Recommended by your family physician. All Druggists recommend and sell it.

A SHAME TO CIVILIZATION.

St. Louis Strike Mobs Strip Women Naked in the Streets.

Nine Persons Have Been Killed Already in the Strike—Four Were Shot on Sunday, and Twenty-One Persons Were Captured by the Police—Amazing Condition of Affairs in the Anarchy-Stricken City.

St. Louis, June 11.—Four in a party of 100 or more striking employes of the Transit Company, who were returning from a labor parade, were shot shortly after 6 o'clock last evening by a sheriff's posse in front of the temporary barracks on Washington avenue, between Broadway and Sixth streets. One is dead, two others wounded in the head and abdomen, will die, and the fourth will lose a hand.

Twenty-One Prisoners Captured.

Just in front of the barracks occupied by the posse the paraders attempted to assault the crew of a passing street car. A brick was thrown and several shots were fired by the street car men, when members of the posse appeared on the street with their shot guns and attempted to rescue the street car men. In the melee at least ten shots were fired by the posse, who surrounded the mob, and there were four casualties as far as now known. Twenty-one prisoners were captured by the posse and taken into the barracks.

Another Man Killed.

One other shooting by a deputy sheriff is reported at the sheds of the Bellefontain line. Fred Beel, 65 years old, was killed. This makes nine killed.

ST. LOUIS ANARCHY.

Nine People Killed—Human Beings Who Have Become Fiends—Women Stripped Naked in the Streets.

The great street car strike, which was begun on May 8, has thus far cost the city in loss of business, it is estimated, more than $20,000,000. There is no immediate prospect of a settlement of the trouble, despite the efforts of business men to bring about arbitration. The strikers stand firm in their demand for reinstatement and recognition of their union, while the railway company says it will not discharge the men who have taken the place of the strikers nor force any one of its employes to join the union. Despite all efforts, the deadlock remains unbroken.

A Rein of Terror.

A reign of terror has been started, and, although police protection has been furnished, the railway company has been unable to operate its lines. The regular police force has been increased by a posse comitatus of 2,500, summoned by the sheriff, but working solely under the orders of the chief of police. Strong pressure is being brought to bear upon the Governor to induce him to call out the State militia, which would make the available force fully 6,000 in addition to the regular police of the city. Politics enter largely into the question. Since the beginning of the strike nine have been killed outright, five others are in the hospital believed to be mortally wounded, 75 men have received bullet wounds, 150 have been injured with missiles of various kinds, while five distinct attempts have been made to blow up cars of the Transit Company and a bomb was thrown into a power house, blowing out windows and shattering the walls. On Thursday night the first car after 6 o'clock was run since the strike began. Very few passengers were carried. People are afraid to ride on the cars. From the inception of the strike to the present time scarce a day has elapsed without violence.

A Girl's Frightful Experience.

The first one of the assaults upon women was committed upon Miss Pauline Hesser on Decoration Day, who was beaten, kicked and stripped of her clothing at Tenth street and Geyer avenue, for having ridden upon a Transit car. Miss Hesser is only 19, and her experience was frightful. The mob that attacked her was composed almost entirely of women, girls and half-grown young men, while an approving crowd of adults stood on the sidewalks and encouraged them in their work. She was stripped naked.

Kicked as She Fell.

On last Saturday a woman, who refused to give her name, dreading the publicity, was struck in the face the moment she alighted from a car on Fourth street and Choteau avenue, knocked to the ground and kicked as she lay prostrate by a two-legged brute, a strike sympathizer, a laborer, with a wife and family. His name is Joseph Fanger, living at 2419 Dekalb street, whence he was taken by two men Friday at midnight, driven to a secluded part of the city and there beaten into insensibility.

Women Led the Assault.

Sunday afternoon, June 3, the mob grew more daring, emboldened by impunity. At 5 o'clock in the afternoon Miss [illegible] Hensel of 1416 Union avenue was assaulted at the corner of Broadway and [illegible] street. She was on her way to visit her father, who lives at [illegible] South Tenth [illegible], and had just alighted from a car. As she went west on Shenandoah street, a crowd of men, women and boys attacked her. They were seemingly led by a woman. She was knocked down, and, while lying on the ground, everyone who could reach her gave her a kick, all the time denouncing her as a scab.

Drawn Nearly Naked Into the Street.

Miss Hensel says: "The crowd closed around me, began hitting and kicking me. Then they began tearing my garments into ribbons. I clambered to my feet and started to run—where I did not know nor care, only to get away from my tormenters—somewhere to hide my shame, for by this time I was nearly naked. I tried to enter several places, but I was shoved back. As I was passing one place two little girls pulled at what was left of my clothing and took me into the house. I went into what was the parlor, and crouched down in a corner. The children left me. Soon the two men who had first assaulted me entered the house and, discovering me, one of them knocked me down. A third man came in. He was evidently the man of the house, for he ordered me out. I besought him to give me some clothing, but his only answer was to drive me out into the street. I found refuge in a house near by, where a woman gave me a skirt, and where I was permitted to remain until the police came, and I was taken home."

A Brave Woman This.

Miss Stella Broadwick was the next victim. She was assaulted as she left a Cherokee car at 1900 South Twelfth street, Sunday afternoon. Her shirtwaist was torn off; her skirts soon followed, and her underclothing was torn into ribbons. She ran into an alley. The crowd thought she had taken refuge in the house of Willaim Westerman, 1916 South Twelfth street, and, surrounding the place, demanded that she be given up to them. A grey-haired woman responded to their cries by hoisting a two-story window and firing two shots from a revolver, which she was evidently accustomed to handling. The crowd broke and fled.

Another Woman Unclothed.

About the same hour at Twelfth street and Geyer avenue a woman who gave her name as Christine Theirc, at the same time admitting that it was assumed, was brutally beaten and divested of every article of clothing save her stockings and shoes. In her pocket was her pocket book, which contained $15. This was taken. Blinded and bleeding, the girl staggered to her feet and fled, the crowd pursuing her. She besought the women standing in their doorways to give her a place of refuge, but was derided and scoffed at by those wretches who had forgotten all the gentleness of their sex. Seeing a cellar window open in a house on Allen avenue, she crawled into it like a hunted beast. Here she remained until the police appeared and dispersed the crowd. Even then she would not desert the darkened cellar for daylight until she was provided with a skirt and an old shawl to cover her nakedness. Miss Theire was on her way to visit her aged mother at the time of the attack.

School Teachers Assaulted.

On Monday noon a young woman was assaulted when she alighted from a car of the Cherokee division, at Eleventh and Calhoun streets. She was pelted with missies, but took refuge in a grocery, where she was permitted to remain until police came and escorted her out of the disturbed district. That same afternoon, between 4.30 and 5 o'clock, three school teachers alighted from a southern electric car on South Broadway and were immediately seized by a crowd of women, their skirts thrown over their heads and their bodies pulled forward and down while an amazon vigorously applied a piece of stout board to them.

The first arrest was that of Mrs. Emma Thompson, charged with leading mob who assaulted and stripped Miss Hensel of her clothing. Then followed arrests of Anna Swese, Anna Klasek and Mary Trantize, who pleaded guilty of having assaulted Miss Pauline Hessler on Friday and were sentenced to two years each in the Girls' Industrial Home at Chillicothe, Mo. The girls are of the worst type and have no idea of the enormity of their offence. In addition to the women arrested, a score of men have been locked up, but as yet sufficient evidence has not been obtained to convict them of any overt act.

Eventful and Bloody Sunday.

The day just ended has been one of the most eventful and bloody since the great strike on the St. Louis Transit lines began. There were numerous encounters between strikers and other individuals and the constituted authorities, resulting in three deaths and the wounding of five or more persons, mostly strikers. One of the latter will die.

The dead—C. Edward Thomas, striking conductor, shot in the breast by deputy-sheriff, died on the way to hospital; George Rine, striking motorman on Delmar avenue line, shot in abdomen by deputy-sheriff, died at hospital; Fred. Boehm, aged citizen, shot and instantly killed while standing in his front yard by deputy-sheriff.

Mr. Richardron delivered a short address on the political issues of the day.

A Bachelor Farmer Killed.

Wiarton, Ont., June 11. — While John Driscoll was driving near the Hill chair factory railway crossing on Saturday, his team became frightened at the steam from the factory, and ran into an up-bound train, which was not in sight from the factory. Driscoll was instantly killed, both horses mangled to death and the wagon demolished. Driscoll was a bachelor farmer from Keppel Township and well-to-do.

ALUMINIUM.

Music is being printed in one-half the time on aluminium plates as against stones.

A new fashion is coming in of coating stoves with aluminium. The material is practically indestructible.

Dr. Mach of Berlin has made a new alloy of magnesium and aluminium, producing a compound like brass, white as silver, which can be turned and bored.

Aluminium, which had no commercial existence a few years ago, was produced in the United States last year to the extent of 5,200,000 pounds, valued at $1,750,000, which is one-tenth of the cost of ten years ago.

CANOEISTS CAPSIZED

A Couple of Canoes Turned Over Below the Locks—A Warning to All.

There was quite a number down the river in canoes yesterday, and, as usual, at the opening of the season there were some narrow escapes from drowning.

A couple of well known bank clerks were paddling up and were just making for the portage at the locks when the current at the end of the breakwater caught their canoe and over they went. The wetting was the only result.

Another young man who ran into the same current had a narrow escape, as also did a young man with a young lady in the canoe with him.

In high water this is a dangerous spot, where an experienced canoeist will will be careful, but the green one will rush in and meet trouble. The rush of the current around the entrance pier to the lock is strong, and a canoe has to be headed in close to the side and with a strong paddle or the current will turn it over or force it down stream. An inexperienced man with a lady in a canoe has no business attempting to paddle to the portage. Get out and walk around or let the lady walk over the locks any way.

Another canoe containing three young men was capsized at the C.P.R. bridge, and the occupants had an involuntary bath, but were able to look after themselves. The current is swift and dangerous in many places at present.

If you feel a little dizzy and have a dull pain in the head you may rest assured that it is your liver that is causing the trouble. A couple of small doses of Dalley's Family and Liver Pills will cure you. You can get them from your druggist or from the manufacturers.

AMONG THE CHURCHES.

Items of Interest Gathered From the Different Congregations.

ST. PETER'S.

St. Peter's cathedral was crowded yesterday morning at 9 o'clock mass, when a class of about one hundred and twenty-five boys and girls received their First Communion at the hands of His Lordship Bishop O'Connor. It was an interesting and impressive ceremony. The children assembled at the convent, the girls looking radiant in white dresses with long white veils and the boys all neatly dressed and wearing white ribbons on the arm, and marched in procession across to the church. During the mass there was special music appropriate to the occasion.

After the sacrament had been administered Bishop O'Connor briefly addressed the children, pointing out to them that it was one of the most memorable days of their lives and should be one of the happiest, explaining the nature of the sacrament, commending them for the diligence they had displayed in preparation and exhorting them to continue in piety.

ST. JOHN'S.

Considerable attention has been paid to St. John's church during the past few weeks, and a general re-organization has taken place. This has been evidenced strikingly in the music of the past two Sundays, which has been superior to that given for a considerable period, and further improvements are expected in the future. Several powerful voices have been added to the choir with noticeable effect. In the morning the beautiful rendering of the hymn, "Holy, holy, holy," with effective accompaniment by Mr. Rogers was especially noticeable. Mrs. Seward sang beautifully an appropriate solo during the offertory. In the evening the offertory solo was given with excellent effect by Mr. Mulligan.

In his sermon in the evening Rev. J. C. Davidson alluded to and expressed appreciation of this marked advance in the musical portion of the service. He went on to point out, however, that the helpful work of the choir should always be supplemented by that of the congregation. It was the function of the choir not to sing for the congregation, but to lead it as effectively as possible in the worship of God.

Dealing with the subject of worship, he went on to point out that there was much more in it than was often supposed by those who merely regarded it as an external performance. It was often objected, "What is the need of worship as long as men live honest, kindly lives and do their duty," but was it in any sense a complete type of duty which did not include worship? Would any earthly father be content to have his children so self-contained as to coldly and philosophically attend to other duties and dispense with personal spiritual contact with him? Worship is the active expression of the soul's relation to God. If this be not realized in action we must gradually lose our proper attitude of dependent and reverent love for God. In worship, moreover, we meet to acknowledge in an act or series of acts God's omnipotence and goodness, to thankfully glorify Him as God and by any act of our wills to throw in the direction of our lives with the plans of Divine Providence. In the Revelation we read that the harmonious life of heaven found constant expression in the harmonies of worship, which were represented as musical, congregational, reverent and responsive.

The Rector finished by appealing to the congregation to make the worship of the church more like this heavenly worship and to this end that every member and adherent should not only come to the church, but, surrendering themselves to the influences around, take a hearty and affectionate part.

MURRAY-ST. BAPTIST.

At the Murray-st Baptist church yesterday morning, Dr. and Mrs. Scott sang a duet "Some day the silver cord will break," in highly pleasing style.

CHARLOTTE-ST.

Rev. Dr. Marvin preached excellent sermons at Charlotte-st church yesterday. The music at both services was highly pleasing. The anthem for the morning was "How long wilt thou forget me O Lord," with recitative by Mr. A. L. Davis and contralto solo by Mrs. Pearce. The offertory selection was "Cast thy burden on the Lord." The evening anthem "Rock of Ages," with solo by Mr. A. L. Davis, was splendidly sung. As an offertory number a duet "I need Thee" was sweetly sung by Miss Hall and Mr. S. Mitchell.

GEORGE-ST.

Rev. Mr. Anderson, of Grafton, occupied the pulpit very acceptably at the George-st. church yesterday. The morning anthem was entitled "Sing of His Mercies," with solo obligato. The evening anthem was "Hear us, O Father," with mezzo soprano solo by Miss Clara Belleghem, and baritone solo by Mr. Frank Turner. The anthem was nicely sung. A very beautiful selection was rendered during the offertory by Miss Pascoe and Mr. Walden.

ST. PAUL'S.

Large congregations attended at St. Paul's church yesterday. In the morning the choir sang Tray's "A Dream of Paradise," in excellent style and at the evening service the anthem "Hosanna," (Granier) was rendered most effectively.

THE FIELD OF GENERAL SPORT

FOOTBALL.

The Y.M.C.A. football team journeyed down to Havelock Saturday on the 11.37 C.P.R. express to play the team of that village. The game started at 2.30, playing for one hour. At the finish the score stood 3 to 2 in favor of the Y.M.C.A. This is the second victory for the team this year, having played two games and won both. The game was a good one. The Havelock men at times indulged in some very rough play, and being big men had some advantage over the light weights of their opponents. The game was witnessed by a good crowd. The "Y" boys returned on the 4.10 local. The return match will be played on Saturday night at East Nicholls park.

Christian Science.

The annual communion of the first Church of Christ Scientist, the mother Church of Christian Science, Boston, Mass., was celebrated on June 3rd. The gathering was the largest of any former occasion. The church has a seating capacity of eleven hundred, and five services were held in order to meet the demands of the multitude. Twenty-three hundred new members were added making the total membership, eighteen thousand three hundred. The communion service, of the local branch, 373 Aylmer-st., was held yesterday, the service was simple and impressive.

"Hunger is the Best Sauce."

Yet some people are never hungry. Whatever they eat has to be "forced down." There is, of course, something wrong with these people. By taking Hood's Sarsaparilla a short time they are given an appetite and then they enjoy eating and food nourishes them. If you find your appetite failing, just try a bottle of Hood's. It is a true stomach tonic and every dose does good.

The best family cathartic is Hood's Pills.

and had to retire. One man was wounded by a shell from their gun. We are hot after Kroonstadt. We expect a big battle there. We are now waiting for infantry. Than we shall fix them. I corralled a fine horse for the Captain yesterday. I can do just as I like. I fight when I like and stay with the transports when I don't want to fight. As a rule I eat better when I don't as I loot every place steal lambs, butter, eggs, wood and tea. Pick oranges and lemons, etc., from the trees. I have a fine collection such as a smoking cap for Mr. Bab, two dandy bridles for our horses and a fine Boer rug, Mauser cartridges and shells; more things than I know what to do with. I was very much pleased when I returned from my first engagement to find such a parcel from the ladies of Peterborough. It was the best package that has ever reached Africa, and I do thank them very much for we do not get much chance to get such luxuries here. Also the parcel of cake, such a treat and the candies, oh! As it is impossible for me to write in this locality to Mr. Bab and all other friends, I wish you would thank them all for their kindness. I am very sorry that I asked for money as I find that I do not require it here at all; as soon as we captured a small town the other day I went in and just carried off six tins of jam; not so bad. I received the watch and it is just what I wanted; it is all O.K. The boys wonder how I feed so well and yet keep B squad officers so well supplied, but I have them living like lords, but you know what I move to do it. I have got to be an awful rogue. I have a lot of Kruger money, half sovereigns etc., but it is impossible to send them from here. We can hear the enemy blowing up the bridges from here. They are getting afraid of us. I am very sorry that one of our boys committed suicide a few days ago. It is only by chance that I can get this mailed to-day so you must excuse such writing. I am sending some post cards for Webber and Boer letters that I took from the houses. I am also sending father the address of the Military Equipment Stores at Cape Town, a very large firm, that has made its fortune during this war. I left our card and wish you would write them. They charge enormous prices, such as 3 pound 10 shillings for a saddle bag of brown duck. We could make them for about 10 shillings. Address all letters care of Capt. Greenwood, Bloemfontein, as the railway is not open any further. We are now [illegible] miles from Bloemfontein, which is a very fine city and a strong position.

Good bye. May God bless you all.

HYPNOTIZED AFFECTIONS.

The Story of a Young Couple Who Thought They Were In Love.

"Talk about your hypnotic love stories," said a well informed Bradford man, "I have the facts in a case that would make a novel. A couple whom I knew well met accidentally. The fellow was a strong, magnetic guy, one of those persons whom other people cannot help liking. He naturally impressed that girl with the idea that he was the whole thing. She, on the other hand, was so constructed that she attracted people to her too.

"Well, the man thought that he loved her. They became sweethearts. For a long time they continued to go with one another, and then they both came to the conclusion that they were not really and truly in love. They tried to break away. The fellow acted as boorishly as he could so that the girl would quit him. She trifled and all that sort of thing and regarded her magnetic friend as one whom she would like to lose. She left town and intended to stay away. But she couldn't. He then quarreled with her and vowed that he would never speak to her again. But he was nearly sick over it and had to make up. Then they compared notes. Both being mentally bright, they admitted that it was not love that bound them together, so they concluded that they had mutually and unintentionally hypnotized themselves.

"This was their opinion when they went to Buffalo and consulted a professional man well up in occult affairs. He asked them all sorts of questions and found that they actually desired to sever friendly relations through some influence that was stronger than their will power. The occult chap put them both under a hypnotic spell and suggested to them in that test that they should shun each other ever after. This thought he impressed with great emphasis.

"When they were restored to full consciousness, the couple did as they had been hypnotized to do. They had a perfect horror of meeting one another again and took different trains back to their homes in the Pennsylvania town where they lived. From that day to this they have not spoken to or associated with each other. Their entanglement is ended forever and they both are married happily to other people."

KELLY-KENNY DEFEATS BOERS AT ROODEVAL

He was Sent to Re-Open the Line of Communication--Buller Reports that the 2nd Dorset Regiment Carried Almond's Nek at the Bayonet's Point.

A Discredited Boer Report That Bloemfontein Had Been Re-Occupied.

A PASS FORCED AT THE BAYONETS POINT

London, June 12, 10:10 a.m.—The War Office posts the following despatch from Gen. Buller: "Headquarters in Natal, June 11—We forced Almonds Nek to-day. It is not marked on the map, but is the last defile to Charlestown Flats. The enemy were in considerable force with several guns in position. The brunt of the fighting fell upon the 2nd Dorsets, who carried the position at the point of the bayonet, and the 3rd Cavalry brigade, who were heavily attacked on our right from very broken country round Iketini Mountain. I hope our casualties are less than 100, which considering the extreme length of the position is much less than I expected. The whole attack was directed by Hilyard, whose dispositions were extremely good. The artillery, 11th Brigade and 3rd Cavalry Brigade did most of the work."

BOER REPORTS GIVEN OUT

Lorenzo Marques, June 12—The Consul for the Transvaal officially announces that the Boers have retaken Bloemfontein. President Steyn of the Orange Free State has just returned to the capital and reports that the British have sustained a severe defeat at Elandsfontein, where there was heavy fighting before Roberts left Johannesburg.

FRED VANORMAN DEAD

Ottawa, Ont, June 12.—Sir Alfred Milner cables Lord Minto that Lance Corp. A. F. Vanorman, of the 1st Canadian Contingent, died of enteric fever in the hospital at Bloemfontein on Friday last, that it was trooper C. Owen, not trooper Cowan, as at first reported, who shot himself at Karee on April 30th. That Capt. Harrison, ill of enteric fever at Wynburg, is not expected to recover, that Gunner John Neild, Royal Canadian Field Artillery, was severely wounded by accident by a colt gun at Campbell (Griquiland West) on June 4, and that Pte. A. Robson, and W. Glover, Royal Canadian Regiment, and P. E. Mullens, First Canadian Mounted Rifles, are dangerously ill at Kroonstadt.

BOER REPORTS FALSE

London, June 12.—There is nothing to confirm the Boer report that they have taken Bloemfontein, where President Steyn again occupies the presidency, and that the British have sustained a severe defeat at Elandsfontein. The Boer report that the British have lost 750 killed and wounded at Vredefort is believed to be the enemy's version of the disaster to the militia battalion of the Derbyshire Regiment at Roodeval. A despatch from Maseru, Basutoland, dated Monday, June 11, says President Steyn was then at Verde, 200 miles from Bloemfontein. A despatch from Litchburg, says 60 Johannesburg Mounted Policemen with a maxim gun have surrendered to Gen. Hunter.

KELLY-KENNY DEFEATS THE BOERS

London, June 12—The War Office reports that Kelly-Kenny has defeated the Boers at Roodeval.

GOLF.

The draw in the third round of the President's handicap is:—

Miss D. Hamilton scratch, vs. Mrs. Matthews.
Miss A. Hamilton 12, vs. Miss Archer.
Miss N. Hall 6, vs. Miss H. Rogers 12.
Mrs. Campbell 8, vs. Mrs. Dennistoun 8.
Mrs. [illegible] 12, vs. Mrs. R. R. Hall.

This round is to be played off by Saturday, June 16th.

The tea this week will be on Friday, when the Toronto team will be here.

POLICE COURT

A Vagrant Sent up to the Central for Six Months.

At the police court this morning Wm. Ryan, a vag, who was arrested a week ago, was sentenced to six months in the Central Prison. There was also a charge against him of stealing a pair of socks, but this was not pressed. Ryan claims to be a sailor from Buffalo.

David [illegible] was charged with being drunk and disorderly, and was fined $1 and costs, $3.15 in all, ten days imprisonment in default.

A CRISIS IN SIGHT IN CHINA

Marines From Foreign Fleets on the Move Towards Pekin.

They Are All Acting Under the British Admiral—Foreigners Are Repairing the Railroad From Tien Tsin to Pekin—Telegraph Lines Cut—Empress-Dowager Seeks Russian Protection—A Reform Manifesto.

London, June 12.—(3 a.m.) — The last message out of Pekin to reach London left there yesterday morning at 11 o'clock, by way of Russian telegraph, through Manchuria, the Tien Tsin line being cut. It is as follows: "Gen. Tung, a Mohametan, extremely hostile to foreigners, arrived this morning and had a long conference with Prince Tuan, father of the heir-apparent, who is seemingly friendly to the Boxers. Prince Tuan has been appointed chief of the Foreign Office over Prince Ching, who is more friendly towards the foreigners.

"The despatch of more marines was in response to a telegram from the Ministers to the consuls at Tien Tsin for additional troops. Conveyances have left Pekin to meet the troops coming by the first train.

"The arrival of the Empress-Dowager has rendered the city somewhat more quiet than it had been recently.

"At Tien Tsin the Viceroy finally consented to furnish transports for a relief force of 400 under an American commander. The partial restoration of the railway is expected to be effected by to-morrow. More massacres of Christians are reported."

Shanghai, under yesterday's date, cables that there has been strong street fighting in Pekin since early Sunday afternoon.

A Crisis Imminent.

The Shanghai correspondent of the Daily Telegraph, in a despatch dated yesterday at 1.40 p. m., says: Reports from the Yun Nan Fu district say that the French Minister has telegraphed that a crisis is imminent, and that he is advising all foreigners to evacuate Yun Nan.

All the telegrams indicate that the situation has not in the least improved. On the contrary, the disorder has spread from the neighborhood of Pekin to the capital itself, which is growing turbulent in anti-foreign dominions. In addition to the burning of the Pekin Club, the secretary of the Belgian Legation has been roughly handled in the streets. Hostile crowds continue to demonstrate against the legations. Two thousand international troops are approaching the city, and the advance guard is due to arrive to-day (Tuesday).

BRITAIN TAKING THE LEAD.

Russian and French Marines Are Acting Under British Officers.

Tien Tsin, June 11.—The captain in charge of the British defences here commandeered a third special train yesterday, and a fourth to-day, for the transport of 218 Russians and two guns and 62 French marines, with stores, and one gun for the British. The international forces are near Lang Fong, 40 miles from Pekin, but it is doubtful if they reach the capital before Tuesday.

Russia Will Act Independently.

New York, June 12. — A despatch from London from The Mail's correspondent at St. Petersburg, says there is not the least doubt that Russia's intentions are to act independently of other powers, even if momentarily seeming to be in accord with them.

Present a United Front.

Paris, June 12.—In the Chamber of Deputies yesterday afternoon the Minister of Foreign Affairs, M. Delcasse, said regarding the Chinese insurrection:

"A community of danger dictates to the powers their resolutions. I wish to set aside all questions of divergent views among them. What I affirm is that the surest guarantee of safety for each is a united front. If the Chinese Government does not seek to repress the insurrection, of which it appears neither alarmed nor even surprised, it must expect new and grave misfortunes. I have placed at the disposition of the French Minister all our naval forces in Chinese waters, and have instructed him to keep in constant communication with his diplomatic colleagues, among whom the most complete accord has not ceased to reign. The legations have just notified the Government of China and the Dowager-Empress that an end must be put to this peril which menaces the empire and European interests, otherwise the powers will act for themselves."

A Complete Understanding.

In response to another inquiry, M. Delcasse laid stress on the fact that the most complete understanding existed between the powers for the defence of Europeans and the legations.

All in Except Russia.

London, June 12.—A special despatch from Shanghai says: All the naval forces, except the Russians, are acting under the orders of the British admiral.

SIR CLAUDE MACDONALD.

British Minister in Pekin Gives Particulars of Recent Events.

London, June 12.—Sir Claude Macdonald, the British Minister at Pekin, sent the following telegram to Shanghai on June 7:

"The movement against the foreigners which has been allowed to grow to such an extent has resulted in the burning of railway stations and in the interruption of railway communication for five days. Two British missionaries and several foreign missionaries have been murdered in the district near Pekin. In the country round numbers of converts have been murdered, and chapels have been pillaged and destroyed, while in the capital itself the British missionaries have been obliged to leave their houses and take refuge at the legation, which is defended by
